sign which yet embodies a protective feature, as it is agreed that it is impossible for the forger to catch the exact expression of the face on the genuine stamp. A simple design wears best when it is used day after day, and may be deemed fittest for the regular issue; but for temporary and celebratory issues, the unusual or striking design that carries a message is welcome. Indeed, the commemorative issue that does not depart from the beaten track in its designs does not meet the expectations of the public, not to mention the stamp collectors. Here, we may say that at this writing there is reason to believe that the Pilgrims' anniversary will not pass unmarked in a philatelic sense.

Ideas—There is no reason why the public should not submit suggestions for designs, so long as they are made sensibly and sincerely but it would seem as though philatelists through their study of the stamp theme are in a position to give the best thought to the subject. We believe that the postal authorities of different countries would welcome assistance from trained minds, let us say, and we know that it has been recorded that ideas conveyed by collectors have been worked out on the stamps. For instance, Mr. A. C. Roessler in sending us a set of the new peace stamps of Bahamas says: "This was first suggested by a reader of the News. His idea was to have a combination of King George and coat-of-arms,—a la St. Helena. You can see how closely the idea was followed out."

Boyd—Some time ago, Mr. Maitland Milliken, Denver, Colorado, sent us a cover that enclosed recent circulars from Boyd's City Despatch, New York City, with the remark: "I was surprised to see that the company still exists. Do you know how many of the old timers are still on deck and who they are? You might make up an item of passing interest and thereby revive old recollections." Some years ago, the Boyd company, "oldest, largest and most successful agency for circular advertising in the world," used a letter head on which one of the genuine locals of the 1878 issue was pasted, with a short description of the origin and operations of this post. It is not necessary to vouch for the age of Boyd's City Despatch but we have the first Boyd stamp, the large eagle of 1844, that was used on a printed circular, dated New York, July, 1844, advertising a "Private retreat for the insane at Bloomingdale." The doctors in charge had taken over a mansion, "situated upon the banks of the Hudson, near the Bloomingdale road, about five miles from the City Hall," enclosed in grounds, "consisting of thirty-five acres, handsomely ornamented with fruit and shade trees." That the institution was easy of access is shown by the note that "stages pass every half hour." Here, we must take the opportunity to say that Mr. Needham's excellent story of the local stamps is running in the American Philatelist, the official journal of the American Philatelic Society.

Translated—Speaking of censorship, or the "black cabinet," our industrious student of postal affairs, Mr. Lowell J. Ragatz, writes: "The enclosed paragraph is from the instructions given by the nobility of the bailliage of Blois, France, to the Viscount of Beaucharnois and the Cavalier de Phelines, deputies of the order to the States General of France, meeting in 1789 for the first time since 1614, and to M. Lavoisier, their supplementary deputy. The cahier from which this paragraph is taken was given to the deputies under date of March 28, 1789, just on the eve of the Revolution. The document (in French) is in Archives Parlementaires, II, pp. 378-385." Translation: "The violation of the secrecy of letters is still an infringement upon the liberty of citizens; and since the sovereign has assumed the exclusive right of transporting letters throughout the kingdom and this has become a source of public revenue, such carriage ought to be made under the seal of confidence."

Question—"Speaking of price changes," writes an old subscriber, "recalls an incident observed in a local stamp shop, a few days ago. The dealer, before giving a price on any stamp a purchaser desired, invariably consulted his advance sheets. A middle-aged woman entered with about a dozen old Trinidad and Tobago covers (here I was guilty of peeling, and saw that they

No Fishing Here!

Good fellows who are fishing around for quotations are invited to try some other pond. It is quite useless for me to quote prices on goods that would most likely be sold before I received a confirmation of the order. Don't waste your time and mine asking for prices but ask for the stamps you want and I will submit them on approval if I have them provided you give first class bank or commercial references; otherwise, nothing doing!

A few nice foreign are in stock but my selections consist mostly of high grade early U. S. postage, revenues and M. & M. If you happen to have anything you wish to dispose of at a rattling good price and the value is there this is a good place to send it first.

WHOLESALE SELECTIONS ON REQUEST.

D. TAUSSIG, 10 West 28th Street, NEW YORK

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

Two U. S. Novelties.

Just as we go to press word reaches us from H. F. Colman that new 2c surface printed stamps were placed on sale at the Washington Post Office March 15 at 9.30 A. M.

In addition to submitting a specimen of the above variety, Mr. Colman also sends us a new surcharging of the 3c envelope. It consists of a large figure 2 in outline at the left of the stamp with the word CENTS horizontally across the stamp. W. P. Colman and A. Atlas Leve have also shown us specimens of these 2c envelopes.

These matters will doubtless be covered in detail by Mr. Ward next week. THE MANAGING EDITOR.

UNITED STATES.—Every mail brings to hand new and interesting varieties of the 2c on 3c circular die envelopes. Indianapolis has issued them, and we wish to thank Messrs. F. R. Demmerly and LeGrand Payne for sending us some of the first. Dr. L. A. Thompson sends us more from Boston where they have issued them on white, blue, amber and buff. Mr. H. W. Porter sends us a new variety from Washington with vertical lines instead of the horizontal lines found on the early supplies. Mr. Wm. A. Sisson is keeping us well posted in the case of St. Louis varieties and we must say that that city seemed to have had more varieties of the 3c on hand for surcharging than any other, judging from the colors, dies and sizes issued. These envelopes are creating a considerable interest among collectors and I receive many letters asking me for a list of those found. Please remember that I am publishing this information just as fast as it comes to hand and on the day of writing this chronicle (March 17th) we have located over fifty varieties without counting the numerous doubles, inverts, albinos and other oddities.

The surcharges from each city may be distinguished on very close examination but so far they may be readily made to fall into four general classifications, that is, the Washington type with short horizontal bars; the St. Louis type with long horizontal bars; the Cleveland type with vertical lines, the figure "2" having a pear shaped lobe; and the New York type similar to Cleveland with a round lobe to the "2". Boston, Indianapolis and the second Washington surcharge resemble the New York varieties but there are minute differences in the general shape of the figure, etc. We will classify them for the time being by cities but will probably depend upon the envelope specialists to tell us finally which types they will simply call minor varieties and bring them under some general heading.

Messrs. Albert H. Hall, Horace Freeman, F. D. Collins, H. S. Wintermute and others have sent us copies. Since our last list we have received:

Boston Overprint.
 2c on 3c, Die A on white, Sizes 7, 8 and 13.

New York Overprint.
 2c on 3c, Die F on white, Size 8.
 2c on 3c, Die H on white, Size 13.

Indianapolis Overprint.
 2c on 3c, Die A on white, Sizes 9 and 14.
 Die A on buff, Size 7.
 Die F on white.
 Die H on white, Sizes 5 and 8.
 Die H on amber, Size 5.

Washington Overprint—Second Type
 2c on 3c, Die A on white, Size 8.

We greatly appreciate the co-operation of our readers and trust they will continue to send the new varieties just as soon as issued. Please send one of each size, color and die and other varieties will be sent you if you desire. It is only through the efforts of the collector that we can finally present a complete list. We know of no other publication or agency in a position to compile this information and with your aid M. W. S. N. will as usual be the first with the news.

Through the kindness of Mr. Walter Hartman we have been shown another copy of the Die A 3c red circular die error envelope. In our last issue we mention some unused copies that had been found and here we have from another source a used copy, Size 14, postmarked "New York-Hudson Terminal Station, March 4, 1920, 7 P. M." The envelope bears the imprint of a very well known banking institution of New York City. Watch your mail, for these errors have just been coming out again, this time in Die A, while the early window type were in Die E.

Through the courtesy of Hon. James L. Wilmeth, Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing we are able to continue our list of plate numbers from the point where we recently left off.

It will be recalled that flat plate presses take four plates at a time and presses take four plates at a time and as a result these plates are usually made in groups of four. The rotary presses take two plates, consequently these are made in pairs. At times a plate in a group may be spoiled or may become broken and an odd plate made, but this is unusual. It will be noted in the list

NODROG SAYS

You know this Sudden Service stuff means a lot more than most stamp bugs think. The "Sudden" means, of course, that you'll get an R. S. V. P., P. D. Q.

And the "Service"! Oh, Theomistocles, can you imagine a stamp company which keeps a card index of every little want of each one of its customers? And Theo, Old Scout, if one of those 1012 cards doesn't bear your name, you're losing out on the Service that supplies "good stuff"—just as it comes on the market.

Well, Theo, Mars has communicated; if the spirit so moves you, get in touch with the Fennell Stamp Company, Inc. If you can't remember Fullerton Bldg., just St. Louis will satisfy Mr. Burleson.

AUSTRIA.—Mr. Maxwell Krause shows us the following values of the new Deutsch osterreich type recently issued: 60h brown, imperforate and 1k light blue, perforated.

BAVARIA.—We are indebted to William Shafer and C. C. Donaldson for sending us copies of the new set of stamps recently issued in this country. Three values have so far appeared and the values and colors are as follows:—15pf red, 20pf purple and 40pf brown. The first value shows a farmer plowing and has the value at the top and "Bayern" at bottom. The other two values show a different picture, a man using electric current, and values and name at the bottom. All are on watermarked paper.

BELGIUM.—It is officially stated that there is to be a commemorative issue on the occasion of the Olympic Games, to be held at Antwerp in August next.

The expected provisionals for Eupen and Malmédy have now materialized. They consist of the current 5, 10, 15, 20, 50 centimes and 1 franc Belgian adhesives, surcharged with the names of the occupied places and new values in pfennige—5, 10, 15, 20, 30, 75 pfennig and 1 mark 25pf respectively. They will only be valid for use on correspondence posted in the district of Eupen and Malmédy.—Stamp Collecting.

CEYLON.—A 9 cents denomination is to be issued here shortly, this being rendered necessary by the existing postal rate of that amount, which can only be made up at present by the use of two or three stamps on each letter to England and British Dominions.—Stamp Collecting.

COLOMBIA.—The Stamp Lover chronicles the appearance of an aerial post stamp for this country. It is the current 2c stamp overprinted "Ier. Servicio Postal Aereo 6-18-19" in five lines. The stamp was used to frank the correspondence carried on the first attempted aerial post between Barranquilla and Port Colombia.

EAST SILESIA.—We are indebted to Willy Borger for the following:—"East Silesia is the eastern part of the former Austria Silesia, and has been occupied partly by the Czechs and partly by the Poles. Being very rich in coal and with its iron and textile industries, both made pretensions to us. The Peace Council sent a commission to Teschen, the capital of East Silesia, to be in authority during the progress of a Plebiscite. This commission has announced an overprinting of both the current Polish and Czech stamps with the surcharge 'S. O. 1920' (Silesie Orientale). These stamps will be used only during the time the voting is going on and the issue will not be a large one."

GAMBIA.—Mr. J. E. Guest submits the following values of this colony in somewhat different shades than previously:—1/2d blue green, 1d very bright red and 3d and 4d yellow backs with greenish tinge.

GERMAN EAST AFRICA (Mafia Island).—The Stamp Lover chronicles the appearance of 4 values of this colony overprinted "G. R. Mafia" in two lines in black. They also add "a metal handstamp appears to have been used for the overprinting." The stamps were received through a Lieut. and we have reason to believe that his father was in charge of the island when it was captured from the Germans.

GERMANY (Surcharged Sarre).—In addition to the values chronicled last week Mr. Pierre Bernard has shown us the 15, 20 and 35pf surcharged in the

HOW TO DEAL IN STAMPS

THE THIRD EDITION OF THIS BOOK WILL APPEAR SHORTLY.

1st, 1000 — 2d, 2000 — 3d, 2000

A TOTAL OF 5000 ATTESTS ITS ADVERTISING VALUE.

The type form of each page measures 4 1/2
by 7 1/2 ins., while a quarter page is the same as 3 1/2 ins. single column in the WEEKLY. How much space can you use?

No agency has been more potent in stimulating trade activities than this dealer book by Washington Grant, Willard O. Wylie and Thorn Smith. It goes direct to the new dealer and you should profit by the business it produces. Send adv. copy and bill will arrive with the book.

same manner—"Sarre" with a heavy bar at the bottom.

Otto E. Staehr also submits for our inspection a German cover on which the "Deutsch Reich" is barred out on the 10 and 15pf values.

GIBRALTAR.—The 2d is now of a much softer shade of grey than previously issued. The color is very nearly the same as that of Malta. Mr. J. E. Guest shows us a copy.

LATVIA.—Last week we chronicled and described yet another stamp for the Republic of Lettland. Soon after going to press with that number we received from our Libau correspondent,
Mr. Georges H. Jaeger, two further values in the same design—viz., 35 kap., blue and black-brown, and 1 rouble,
brown and blue. According to Mr.
Jaeger's communiqué there is also a 25 kap. value in this series, the object of which was to commemorate the relief of Courland (presumably from the Bolsheviks, though it might be from more new postage stamps!).

The design of these stamps is a very striking one, (figuratively and literally),
and the work of the eminent engraver, Sarrin (formerly of the Petrograd Bureau, the designer of the Romanoff series), is patent.—Stamp Collecting.

MALTA.—Mr. J. E. Guest advises us that the 2d, current stamp, is appearing in a soft shade of grey.

MOROCCO (British P. O.).—The Stamp Lover announces that Mr. R. Roberts has shown them the Georgian 2s 6d of Great Britain (De La Rue printing)
in a grey brown shade, overprinted MOROCCO AGENCIES in two lines
in black at top of the stamp.

ST. KITTS.—Mr. J. E. Guest calls our attention to the recently issued 1/2d stamp. The color is distinctly a blue green. The 1d is also of a much brighter red than heretofore.

TURKS ISLANDS.—Mr. J. E. Guest submits to us the 1d and 3d values in much brighter shades than formerly.

NEW ISSUE NOTES.

By J. E. GUEST.

In late importations from British Colonies some distinct shades have come to my attention that I think worthy of mention.

The St. Kitts latest printing of the 1/2d is really a blue green, while the printing of the one penny is a bright red.
This is also true of the latest Gambia 1/2d and 1d.

Also from Gambia we have the 3d and 4d in distinct shades, the main difference appearing in the backs which have rather a greenish tinge to the yellow back.

From Turks Islands come the 1d and 3d in brighter shades, while the 2d gray
Malta and the same stamp of Gibraltar are coming in a clearer gray, which might be called a dove gray.

There seems to be an unending supply of Ceylon War stamps, and about every new consignment has a different shade.
The 3c ordinary came out last in a duller
green.

In my opinion, about the most commercialized postoffice department is that of Jamaica. Last fall they came out with a supply of war stamps overprinted in red. It was said only a limited supply was on hand and the prices were away up. My order was filed then and now they have filled it. To the onlooker it looks as if when the orders piled up the officials hated to pass up a good thing so got out a new lot to fill the dealers' orders.

From Neuroppe they continue to come.
Just now German Austria is doing her share. The issues are all coming out in different shades and colors, and then,
too, you can have them imperforate,
also. The higher values, 2, 3, 4kr, came out recently and now there has been added a 2 1/2kr. Postage due sets have also been issued. My correspondent advises, though, that it is almost impossible to secure more than one or two copies at the Post Office. Larger quantities have to be bought from the Postoffice clerks after hours at a premium of 1/2 to 100% over face.

Of course some of the stamps will prove valuable; which ones it's hard to tell. For instance, Scott has the Hungary set, which was surcharged by the Bolsheviks, catalogued at $27.00 mint,
while it is being offered by consignors
at as low a price as $1.50.

The British Colonials shades may prove of value in some instances, for we all remember the white backs, and what they turned out to be. So may some of these brighter shades of the 1d issues and the blue greens of the 1/2d.

FERRARY COLLECTION AT AUCTION.

(We have received the below clipping from various sources and it carries with it news of considerable importance to philatelists. The rumor for a long time current that France would sell the Ferrary collection seems to have been well founded. It is an event of great importance to the trade.—W. O. W.)

LONDON, March 13.—Stamp collectors
the world over will be keenly interested in the announcement that the world-famous Ferrary collection of postage stamps is to be offered for public sale
in Paris by the French government.

The sale will attract leading stamp buyers to Paris from all parts of the world. It will be held, in all probability, at the Hotel Drouot, and extend over several days. It is expected that the offer of $1,875,000
already received by the French government trustees of alien property will be greatly exceeded, since nearly $2,500,- 000 was spent on the formation of the collection.

Speculation as to the fate of this wonderful collection has been rife since the death, at Lausanne, in 1917, of its owner, Baron Philipp von Ferrary, a wealthy Austrian nobleman.

The stamps were bequeathed by his will to the Berlin Postal Museum, which already possesses one of the finest stamp collections in the world, but the French government confiscated the collection as alien property.

The Ferrary collection was begun
about the year 1864, while its owner was a youth, and by amalgamation with several notable collections of the period rapidly attained first rank.

Among those acquired were the collections of Sir Daniel Cooper in 1878
for $15,000, of Judge Philbrick in 1882 for $40,000, the general collection of Baron Rothschild, the Thornhill collections of Australians and a number others of lesser importance. The makets of the world were ransacked

new specimens and every stamp deal-was his agent.

Nearly all of the great rarities
the early classical postage stamps are evidence—among them the unique 1c British Guinea, 1856, which, although a poor specimen, is generally regarded as the rarest "stamp in the world" al-valued today at between $10,000 and $15,000. There is a superb pair of the rare circular 2 cents rose of the same colony, issued in 1850, probably worth well over $5,000, and three single copies of the same stamp, as well as about 100 examples of the other values.

3c GREEN CANCELLATIONS.

By WM. F. PALMER.

It might be of interest to members of the Detroit Philatelic Society to know at what P. O. some of the cancellations illustrated in the WEEKLY
March 6th came from:—No. 32, Chester, Ct.; No. 38, Waterbury, Ct.; No. 39, Hadlyme, Ct. Had(d)lyme is a village part in the town of East Haddam all part in the town of Lyme, hence Had-lyme. In connection with the Wat-bury cancellations, of which much has been said, I recall an incident that happened years ago. I think it was the fall of 1871 at the Charter Oak Park fair at Hartford, Ct., I was walking across the grounds with a gentleman who formerly lived in Waterbur-
y. We met a man who spoke to the de-I was with. What made me notice him was because he had a stick that he had cut for a cane. It had a natural crook on the end for the handle and on the end he was carving with a penknife bust of U. S. Grant. It was so natural and perfect that it drew my attention
him. I thought he might be an engraver or sculptor. After he had passed by I asked where the man worked and was much surprised when I was told
"In a Post Office." Giving expression to my thoughts I was met with a reply: "No! He is cancelling clerks at the Waterbury Post Office and he is the time whittling."

Over-set—Ol' Ross-ler's Stamp News (East Orange, N. ADDITIONAL NOTES.

I have picked up copies of the "Vale dos centavos" on the 50c official showing an italic "s" in centavos. I also have copies of the same surcharge with a large "s" in centavos. Another minor variety is found on this same surcharge, showing a dropped "s" in "dos".

The "un centavo" on the 25c official shows several errors. I have seen "uu" and "nn" for "un". I also have copies showing a small "u" and also a small "n" in "un".

Another find was a copy of the "dos centavos" on the 50c official with an italic "o" in centavos.

The surcharge "dos centavos" on the 25c which was quite commonly used, contains a great many errors and minor varieties. I have found a copy surcharged "contavos" instead of "centavos".

On the "vale dos centavos" on the 6c, I have copies showing "de cordobas" instead of "de cordoba".

I have copies of the "medio centavo" on the 15c showing minor varieties. These include a small "i" in medio, a dropped "i" in medio and still another copy showing the "i" raised above the rest of the surcharge.

John L. Stroub, sales manager of the New York Philatelic Society, and an enthusiastic collector of Nicaragua, has shown me the following varieties:—

"vale dos centavos" on the 50c official; a single and a fine vertical pair, showing the double surcharge; a horizontal pair of the "medio centavo" on the 15c, showing a double surcharge; two minor varieties of the "cinco centavos" on the 15c. The first shows the "c" in "cinco" dropped below the rest of the type. The second variety shows the second "c" in "cinco" to be larger than the rest of the type; "dos centavos" on the 20c, red surcharge, a copy showing an italic "s" in "centavos".

"WREATH AND E" ON 3c GREEN.

By E. J. LINSON.

I note article written by C. A. Nast in which he states that No. 11 (Wreath and E) cancellation on the 3c green is in red on the cover and has put Ellenville, Ill., on the map. Wish to state that I sold that cancellation on cover to Detroit parties, and instead of Ellenville, Ill., it should have put Ellenville, N. Y., on the map. If Mr. Nast will refer to the ones sent him he will see I am right. Further regarding this cancellation, I purchased a large lot of odds and ends which were in a bank that was about to be overhauled and found among other cancellations 24 copies of this Wreath and E on the 3c green, several on the 2c red, and three strips of the 1c blue. The red and blue were also sold to Detroit parties. Furthermore, I have been unable to find out in any atlas in my possession that there is such a place as Ellenville, Ill.

PAYMENT OF RETURN POSTAGE.

It may seem to be a trifle, but in the course of a day's mail it means much to those who are engaged in a mail-order business. We speak not only for ourselves, but on general principles, believing that unintentionally many correspondents are neglecting what should be an ordinary courtesy. When writing, seeking information, which calls for a reply by mail, it is only right to expect that a stamped and addressed envelope should be enclosed. We do this in our own correspondence and feel that it is in accord with the ethics of business.

POSTAGE STAMPS OF BRITISH COLUMBIA AND VANCOUVER ISLAND.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER III.—Dr. Helmcken's Reminiscences.

In our last chapter we mentioned that Mr. King's enquiries into British Columbia's postal matters were indirectly the inspiration of a wonderfully interesting letter from the pen of Dr. J. S. Helmcken, which was published in the Colonist for March 19th, 1895. Dr. Helmcken was the Speaker of the first Parliament of Vancouver Island and was generally accepted as a well informed authority on all matters appertaining to the Colony. His letter is of such interest that we give it almost in full, viz:—

"Victoria existed as a Hudson's Bay post in 1844, then called Fort Camouson. In 1849 a lease of Vancouver Island was granted to the Hudson's Bay Company for colonization purposes, the company to bear the expense attendant thereon. The Mainland had been leased to the company previously for trading purposes.

"In compliance with the charter, the Norman Morrison arrived at Esquimalt in March, 1850, having eighty immigrants on board. Although called immigrants, they were really under engagement to serve the Hudson's Bay Company for five years, receiving £25 per annum, with food and lodging. Many are now the agriculturists of Vancouver Island.

"The Morrison consumed five months and a half (the usual time) on the journey; but she brought the mail—not a bulky article, there being at this time only the Hudson's Bay people in the country, save, perhaps, the Muirs, and coal miners at Fort Rupert, and Captain Grant and his servants at Sooke—these having come out a few months previous. The Morrison, after a few months' sojourn, took the homeward mail. This has given rise to the idea that there was but one mail per annum, and such indeed was the case for a year or two; but after this the Colony no longer depended entirely on the Hudson's Bay ships.

"It must be bourne in mind that in 1849 the California gold fever raged; a mule train existed across the Isthmus of Panama, and within a year steamers were running from Panama to San Francisco, carrying hundreds of passengers going or returning—the hopeful and the disappointed.

"As usual, the United States government made haste to have a mail route to San Francisco via Panama, and subsequently to Oregon, and later to Puget Sound. Mail arrangements, of course, existed between the British government and the United States, so it will be apparent that Victoria had facilities for communicating other than the annual Hudson's Bay ship. Governor Blanchard came across Panama, but was brought here on H. M. S. Dover in March, 1850. J. D. Pemberton came soon after by the same route, but found his way to Vancouver and Victoria without the aid of H. M. ships—but with considerable rough travelling. It may as well be stated now that British Columbia depended almost entirely on the postal service of the United States for letters (but, at the same time postal agreements existed between the United States and the British governments) until confederation in 1870 and the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

"It is unnecessary to take into account the Hudson's Bay brigade, that annually crossed the continent from Hudson's Bay to Fort Vancouver on the Columbia. True, it carried dispatches and letters; but most of these referred to the company's business, or were private communications between friends in the service.

"Of course Camouson (now Victoria) held communication with the headquarters, viz., Vancouver. After 1850 these communications naturally became more and more frequent. J. W. McKay having charge of this service. A canoe would leave Victoria, with or without a Hudson's Bay officer in charge of the Indians, carrying dispatches for Nesqually, where Dr. Tolmie had charge. Tolmie sent the dispatch box or bag on horseback to the Hudson's Bay post at Cowlitz river; the gentleman in charge there would forward it to Fort Vancouver, and thence the letters were sent by any suitable conveyance occurring to their destination. Now, bearing in mind what has been written above, it will be seen that no long time elapsed before United States steamers were running to the Columbia from San Francisco, and vice versa; from San Francisco the route existed to New York, and so to Europe. My earliest letters from England bear the dates of 1853 and 1854, marked via New York and Panama. Probably the government and others long preceded mine. On the one are two one shilling stamps, and two penny ones; on the other a one shilling stamp and two penny ones. The letters are written on very thin paper, and the writing beautiful and small, the lines close together to save postage. Such writing one does not see often in these days. These letters were about six weeks or two months on the journey. Here, then, we have a through mail. Of course, later on Victoria became connected with the mail route on Puget Sound. In early days

English letters either were post-paid or stamped.

"The above system went on for some time. In April, 1857, the House of Assembly, on report of a committee, say to the governor, 'that the General Post-Office is conducted within a public building, and letters are exposed under conditions which the committee do not deem safe. They also desire to learn how it is supported.' (The letters were kept in Mr. Finlayson's, the Hudson Bay Company's accountant, office until called for.) Governor Douglas replied, April 21, 1857, 'that means should be provided for initiating a postal service, viz., £500—£100 for Postmaster, £100 for Post-office, and £300 for carrying mails.'

"As usual the Legislative Assembly returned the stereotyped answer, 'no funds', and 'further that the letters were so few that they would not pay one-tenth part of the contemplated outlay'. At this period the Colony consisted of, say, five or six hundred people, few of whom corresponded. The answer goes on to state 'that the Assembly acknowledge the Colony to be under great obligations to the Hudson Bay Company, for the kind and liberal manner in which they have carried gratuitously the letters from the American shores to this island'.

"Notwithstanding this reply, Governor Douglas appointed the first postmaster, namely, Captain Sangster, very soon after; the office, a small house in the fort yard, built by Mr. Yates, and which is now my surgery, having the identical folding window panes through which the letters were delivered to the applicants, often with a very shaky hand. At this time the canoe service had been supplemented by a schooner or more; anyhow, Jimmy Jones' Wild Pigeon, and subsequently the American steamer Major Tomkins, which soon came to grief and left her bones at the entrance of the harbor. The Fraser River gold excitement occurred in 1858. Steamers brought passengers by thousands from San Francisco and the Sound. Many acres of ground were occupied by the tents of miners. After this there was no trouble about mail communication. It must, however, be remembered that from the very foundation of the Colony, sloops, ships, and what not, went to Puget Sound for piles and spars to build wharves in San Francisco. Such vessels often called at Victoria, and would carry letters. Her Majesty's ships would do so likewise. It will be seen, then, that the exaggerated report of one mail per annum did not long apply to the Colony, although previous to its existence as a Colony it did so more or less. In all these cases letters had to pay American postage, generally in money.

"At the time of the Fraser River excitement, Wells, Fargo & Co. established an express—virtually in part a Post-office. They sent or carried letters to all parts of the United States. Envelopes were sold with the Company's title on them, but the price is not remembered; anyhow, this service was monstrously convenient, and at this time

YES — THEY SHOULD

We agree with the "Number One Fans" that the 5c 1847 of U. S. ought to be No. 1, and also that the one penny black of Great Britain ought to be No. 1. Both of these, and other Number Ones, such as Denmark, Norway, etc., will be found in our next sale, No. 227 date of which will be announced later. If you have any desirable rarities to offer in fine condition, now is the time to secure top notch prices at our auction sales. Act quickly if you want to get in on this season's sales.

they did most of the post-office business. Postage stamps of the Colony had no existence, but soon after a supply came, and then Wells Fargo's envelopes had to bear a local stamp—I think of five cents. American stamps could be obtained at their office. When a steamer arrived, Wells Fargo wrote the first to deliver, and their office was crowded. The names on the letters were called out, and anyone responding the letter was pretty accurately hurled at him. Of course most men were known.

"Colonial postage stamps came into existence in Vancouver Island about the year 1861, a twopence halfpenny one. Who ordered them seems obscure, but they were made in England—so, perhaps, an examination of the Governor's correspondence would shed light on the matter.

"In 1862 Attorney-General Cary had a Stamp Act passed through and by the Vancouver Island Legislature; but this had reference to stamps of various values to be put on deeds, conveyances, etc. Apparently this had nothing to do with postage, although probably the five cents Vancouver Island postage stamp may have been used for this purpose when the value suited.

"The first postage stamp bore the Queen's profile, super and subscribed 'British Columbia and Vancouver Island. Two pence half penny.' Sir James Douglas was at this time Governor of the Mainland and Vancouver Island Colonies, so these stamps seem to have been current in both, for local purposes, and was issued about 1861.

"In 1865 there were two stamps—viz., of five and ten cents—superscribed 'Vancouver Island' only. Until 1862 the accounts of the Colony were kept in pounds, shillings and pence, but in 1862 Attorney-General Cary had an act passed by the Legislative Assembly of Vancouver Island, allowing, or ordering, the public accounts to be kept in decimal currency—dollars and cents. Hence the change in the stamps of 1865 to cents instead of pence.

"In 1865 British Columbia, that is to say the Mainland Colony, had stamps superscribed 'British Columbia' (only), the value marked in pence. When the currency law was altered there I do not know, but subsequently these stamps had printed on them in large type their value in cents, to obviate and avoid the cost of new engraving plates. The British Columbia stamp had a central V surmounted by a crown, i. e., Victoria Regina. The Vancouver Island stamps had the Queen's profile.

"Each colony now had its own separate postage stamps, those of the Mainland being more numerous in number and value. This continued until the union of the Colonies occurred in 1863, after which only British Columbia stamps were used. Those of Vancouver being burned according to order, many thousands went up in smoke. The British Columbia stamps continued in use until she entered the confederation, and became part of Canada, after which, of course, Canadian stamps were used, and the postal arrangements were those of Canada.

"After 1860 the United States mail steamer came to Victoria once, and subsequently twice a week. The San Francisco boat every month, or oftener, but by this time she received a subsidy from the Colonial Government. Of so great importance was this that the continuance of the service became one of the terms of confederation, which terms still exist and will continue. These boats were considered of more importance, because they brought passengers and merchandise—in fact, immigration boats."

Chile.—By Wilfrid B. Haworth. This book is an outline not only of the postal issues from the earliest period to 1919, but also covers the stationery, postal fiscals and war issues. The book is published by Stamp Collecting and edited by Derek Ingram. A cursory examination of the book reveals a publication of more than ordinary interest. The country itself is popular and we can heartily commend the book to those who collect its stamps. All kinds of illustrations are sprinkled through the pages of the work, the chapter dealing with the issues of the war between Chile, Bolivia and Peru being particularly rich in this respect. Mr. Haworth speaks of Chile as "one of the most stable and enlightened of the republics of South America." These characteristics are reflected in the postal issues of the country and is the reason why Chile is so popular with the general collector. Price 60c.

Auction Prices of British Postage Stamps.—By Alexander R. Simpson. Anyone who is interested in British stamps will take a keen delight in perusing the pages of this book. No fewer than seven of the leading London auction dealers are quoted, and the author is not content with merely standard issues, but enters into varieties to such an extent as to make the book of interest to the specialist. The prices quoted were realized at the sales held during the season of 1918-1919. The book is published by Stamp Collecting, 89 Farringdon St., London, Eng. Price 60c.

British Colonials

We are breaking up a general collection of about 15,000 varieties. It contains a fine selection of medium priced 19th Century British Colonials in splendid condition. If you can use any of these, you will make no mistake in laying in a few, as many of them took quite a jump in price in the new catalogue, and will no doubt continue to rise in value.

References required or a five dollar deposit.

NOTES FROM THE ORIENT.

By FELIX COHEN.

I am now in a position to inform U. S. collectors about the issue of the New Arab State stamps on Turkish. Up to date, the following values have been seen on our market: Turkish stamps overprinted in Arabic HARTUMA EL ARABIE (Arabic Government).

- (1) Turkish stp. view type 1913, 1m on 2 paras (value overpr. in black; "Arabic Government" in lilac).
- (2) Same stp. both in black.
- (3) Turkish Newspaper stp. (Scott's 336) 2m on 5pa value overpr. in black; "Arabic Government" in lilac).
- (4) Turkish stp. view issue 1913, 2m on 5pa.
- (5) Turkish stp. '17-'19, 4m on 10pa.
- (6) Turkish stp. 1905, 20pa carmine.
- (7) Turkish stp. 1916, 20pa blue.
- (8) Turkish stp. 1916, 1p blue-lilac (surch. black).
- (9) Turkish stp. 1916, 1p blue-lilac (surch. lilac).

Besides these, I hear that the 10 and 25 piastres Turkey 1917 have also been so overprinted but have failed to see copies.

The uncertainty about the number of issue prevails. No serious information can be had from correspondents located in the area under Emir Faisal's scepter. They all seem pretty ignorant in matter of stamps. The only thing I can affirm is that prices asked for some varieties are terrific and I just read a letter from this country where a correspondent says "postal employees are paid at the rate of three Egyptian pounds a month (about $12 to $13) and in order to prevent starvation they have to pick up the trade of stamps as a sideline and are selling them dearer than officially allowed."

I already informed you that an issue of French Alexandria stamps will appear surcharged for Cilicia, but, for some unknown reasons, the matter has been postponed or will never come to pass, although French Alexandrian stamps have been sent to Cilicia in order to serve there duly surcharged.

We hope to see the day when a real set of stamps will be created for these countries of former Turkey. It is my personal opinion that before the Paris Peace Conference will have decided the future of this part of the World, we may have monthly some novelties, according to remainders of stamps dis-

Syria! Another surprise parcel! The T. E. O. issue on French Levant stamps is running short and a new issue will appear. Some new values are already at hand. Stamps of France have been once more surcharged "O. M. F." "Syrie" and value in milliemmes and piastres. "O. M. F." means Occupation Militaire Francaise (French Military Occupation). The following came in use up to date:

- 1 millieme on 1 centime.
- 2 millieme on 2 centimes.
- 3 millieme on 3 centimes.
- 20 piastres on 5 francs.

I wrote something recently about Armenian stamps. The set has already been submitted to the Armenian Delegation in Paris and the issue may be expected shortly.

THE OLD TIMER.

By R. H. CLARK.

As you turn the leaves of your album When the glad rites of dinner are o'er And glance at the beauties from Obock On down to be-turbaned Johore.

And your eyes ever wistful and eager See them all, as in beauty they lie In their places, so neat and artistic. Then you say, "I'll collect 'till I die."

The joys of collecting are legion, There's a thrill at each turn of the path; In the rescue from wanton destruction And even in giving the bath.

There is joy in filling those spaces Through packing case, kilo or pound, As you seek for the missing beauties, With the zeal of a pedigreed hound.

You may talk of the wanderlust longing. As one tramps over mountain and plain, 'Till at last worn out with his travel; He returns to the old home again.

Just the same with the stampic collector, He can sell them or shelve them at will, But deep down in his heart they are with him, And in memory they cling to him still.

OUR APRIL OFFER.

To any subscriber who is paid up three months in advance and sends us a new six months' subscriber whose name has never been upon our list, we will give a nice unused copy of the British East Africa provisional 4c on 6c, issued last year. E. MANSFIELD & CO.

(Aetna Match Manufactory)

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

F. Mansfield & Co. succeeded Zisemann, Greisheim & Co. in 1868. In the St. Louis directory for that year Fielding Mansfield is listed as a salesman for the hardware and cutlery firm of Adolphus Meier & Co. The directory for 1869 lists F. Mansfield & Co. at 1304 Park Ave.—the old Zisemann, Greisheim & Co. address—and the office of the new firm was at No. 4 So. Main St., which is the same address as the Rashcoe, Zisemann & Maus hardware firm of 1868. Until and including 1879 F. Mansfield & Co. and Fielding Mansfield appear regularly each year, altho after 1876 the factory address is given as State St., s. w. corner of Park Ave. In 1880 and 1881 F. Mansfield & Co. does not appear in the directory but Fielding Mansfield is listed at the same address. In 1882 and 1883 Mr. Mansfield's residence address only is given but in 1884 he appears as the manager of the Western Match Co., 2431 De-Kalb St. In 1884 and 1885 the firm of F. Mansfield & Co. is again listed and was then composed of Fielding Mansfield and Lloyd G. Harris and was located on the levee near Barton St. For many years afterwards Mr. Mansfield served as a jury commissioner in St. Louis.

Of the Mansfield stamp the Boston Book states:—

Die approved, Oct. 22, 1875.
First issued, Nov., 1875.
Last issued, Nov., 1879.
2,200,000 issued in blue on silk, pink and watermarked paper.

Mansfield's stamp differs only from the Zisemann, Greisheim adhesive in that the firm name is changed and slight ornaments are added in the circular band on either side of the word "Manufactory". The plate was made by the National Bank Note Co. and all the stamps were printed in New York. Those on silk paper and pink paper are National prints. Those on watermarked paper were probably printed also by the National Co. but some of these may be American prints. The plate bore the National imprint in the style used on plates made by that concern from dies and or rolls turned over to them. The plate number occurs only at the top of the sheet over the 10th and 11th stamps and is "No. 7". To the left of the plate number, over the 10th stamp, is an interlaced monogram, "N B N Co" measuring about 5x3 mm. This monogram is also found on other National plates and possibly it was placed on all of them.

F. Mansfield & Co. are not known to have used any stamps in multiple. Pairs, strips and blocks of the stamp on pink paper are occasionally seen and these are believed to be from sheets of remainders.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Deserving—In a recent letter, Mr. A. C. Roessler says: "I am not at all surprised about the amounts of second-class mail in Chicago. I knew about it some time ago. I have letters right here from clerks in that office telling me how they were thrown out of their lunch room so as to make place for the bags of undelivered mail." Chicago is the distributing point for mail for a large section and when the post office force of that city, short-handed at best, was deluged by an ocean of parcel post mail, the congestion was almost indescribable. The express drivers' strike caused an added volume of parcel post mail that greatly overtaxed the facilities for handling it; and confusion and delay resulted. Here we must speak a word for the underpaid post office employees, a class in whom stamp collectors feel something of a personal interest. We should aid them in their efforts to obtain increased salaries by all the means at hand; and first of all, the congressman of your district should be told of your belief. The post office workers certainly are worthy of better things; no slouch could pass the tests for intelligence and industry that the P.O.D. man must.

Inspectors—We may as well have a few words to say about another phase of the post office department in view of these words from the correspondent already quoted: "I suppose that you know about these P. O. inspectors who use the old 'form' letter: 'The P.O.D.

is not a collection agency.' Well, I have found an inspector who has really put through a case." The same conditions prevail in this branch of the service that apply to others. The inspectors have more work than they can do, or in other words, more complaints than they can handle. Doubtlessly, under the circumstances they select what seem to be the most important cases for first attention and so the stamp complaints are left to watch and wait, as a rule. We have had some enlightening remarks on the subject of postal inspectors from one of them, and he has promised to jot down a few particulars that may be helpful to all of us. One point must be admitted and that is when the postal inspector cleans up a stamp case, the philatelic publications should not hesitate to proclaim their praise; this course will attract favorable attention to stamp folks.

Further—Recent remarks about stamps used at Aden and Muscat have elicited some more information. Mr. A. V. Richardson, Lennoxville, Quebec, writes: "The following additional information may be of interest to some of your readers. Indian stamps have been used in Aden and Muscat since the '50's, both towns being in the Bombay postal circle. About 1870, the obliteration type was changed to a rectangle surrounded by bars, the whole being enclosed in a circle. I have never seen the Aden or Muscat cancellation in this type but Bagdad and Bushire are numbered 18 and 26, respectively. For complete identification in this type the date postmark must also be present, as the numbers were used in other Indian cities as well. For instance, 18 was also used in the Madras and Bengal presidencies and 26 at Allahabad. About 1876, the numbers were again changed, with heavy bars above and below. Muscat, Bushire and Bagdad are now K-4, K-5, and K-6, respectively. I do not know the Aden number in this series. I have several modern Indian stamps with the Aden postmark, with date; and also some of the last Victorian issue with the Bushire date-mark. Finally, I have the Great Britain one penny, King Edward used at Aden in 1904, but this was evidently on a steamboat letter, as the cover also bears a 'Pacequebot' mark. For most

Method—We thank Mr. Wm. L. Glenn, Emmorton, Maryland, for giving a final touch to the postmark question under notice: "In regard to your 'casual caller who tarried at a Aden a spell' and 'says that he used Great Britain stamps from there,' it is possible that by a slip of memory he was thinking of letters mailed on steamer and sent ashore at that port. 'A supply of British stamps is kept on board the principal British steamers carrying letter-boxes; any British stamps, however, which the passengers have with them are equally available for postage on the high-seas. The letter-boxes are closed when the ship is about to enter a port of call. The letters are taken ashore and the stamps canceled at the local post office. The number of letters posted on the high seas on the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Co.'s steamers is very considerable and runs into several thousands each voyage.' Aden is one of the ports of call at which the letter-boxes of this company are cleared; and so it must be no uncommon thing to find British stamps with the Aden cancellation. The quotations that I have made are from H. L'Estrange Ewen's Catalogue of Stamps and Postmarks of the United Kingdom, 1896, 5th edition."

Good—We are pleased indeed to have the first number of Scott's Monthly Journal and in a word, it surprises our expectations most agreeably. We thought that this new house organ would cleave to conventional lines and make an excellent showing, of course, with pabulum too concentrated for the popular philatelic palate. However, the publishers recognize the new order of things and have emphasized the human equation in their production. The editor, John N. Luff, enjoys the respect and esteem of all philatelists and for strictly studious application to philately cannot be excelled and of the assistant editor, Kent B. Stiles, too much cannot be said in praise. He is the editor of the American Philatelic Service and has won his philatelic spurs in that position. As may

Entertained—Recently, the Milwaukee Philatelic Society entertained members of the Chicago Philatelic Society and other out-of-town visitors at a celebration and exhibition and last week the Garfield-Perry Stamp Club of Cleveland had anniversary exercises to which numbers of collectors in other cities were invited. From all accounts, the hospitality of the two cities in question was dispensed lavishly and those who attended the affairs return their thanks.
We like this idea of inter-city intimacy and it should be encouraged. Especially should communities that are comparatively near each other fraternize as the benefit to be derived from an exchange of ideas and experiences is not merely a theoretical one. The trend of the day is organization and the get-together thought applies to cities as well as to individuals.

MICHIGAN STAMP CLUB.

The sixth anniversary dinner of the Michigan Stamp Club, Detroit, Mich.,
was held at the Fort Shelby Hotel March 20. There were thirty-two members present and according to Mr. Karl Kosowski everything went off in fine form. The toastmaster was J. E. Scott and he acted his part well. Dr. W. L.
Babcock sent congratulations from Cleveland. There was a fine exhibit in competition by several members of the club. In connection with the auction sale, several items were sent in by the former president, Z. Dworowski, who is now in Warsaw on a special mission representing the United Polish Trade Branch.

The following are the new officers of the Club:—President, J. D. Hubel; Secretary, H. J. Kaufmann, 1541 Brush St., Detroit; Treasurer, A. C. Wood; Vice-President, J. J. Jungwirth; Sales Manager, L. W. O'Rear; Auction Manager, D. Underwood. Our thanks are extended to Mr. Kosowski not only for his report of the meeting, but for a dinner card which was gotten up in an artistic and distinctly philatelic manner.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all
the news from the various philatelic centers.
Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—We have received from Prof. Jas.
Lewis Howe of Washington & Lee University an oddity in the form of a German envelope made from waste paper.
The interior shows part of a cover of the Illustrierte Zeitung issued in Leipzig and dated Nov. 9, 1919. It is an indication of the enforced economy that Germany was compelled to exercise in connection with the use of paper. The envelope bears an advertising postmark,
the inscription reading:—"Leipzig-Museummesse." All in all the cover is an interesting specimen and a good candidate for a collection of oddities.

—G. A. Williams & Co., 291 Autumn Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., send us a copy of their Pricelist No. 77. It is filled with timely offerings and we recommend it for perusal.

—A subscriber who does not sign his name sends us in a letter "Justice for the Collector." He relates two incidents where stamp firms have treated him with scant consideration, to say the least. He wants to know why there is no redress from the standpoint of the collector and suggests that it would be well for us to guarantee paid subscribers against any loss sustained in answering advertisements. In case we should do this, it would also be necessary for us to guarantee advertisers against the theft of stamps from approval selections. Where would we get off?

—C. G.—Your 2c U. S. stamp which has the appearance of being printed on laid paper is without doubt paper of the normal variety. This much mooted question is occasionally presented in the philatelic press, but paper experts claim that the laid effect occurs in the printing and is not found in the paper as fed into the press.

—The Asheville Stamp Club of Asheville, N. C., has been recently organized with eleven members. Prospects are most promising and indications point to a club of not fewer than twenty members, all live wires.

—Canada is to have a stamp paper
in the form of the Canadian Stamp Collector to be published monthly from Brockville, Ontario. The new paper will have as publishers Farrow Bros., and the editor will be Hector M. Mac-Lean. The subscription price will probably be 50c per year.

—Fifteen St. Paul, Minn., boys have organized a stamp club recently at the Museum of the State Historical Building. W. M. Babcock, curator of the Museum, is sponsoring the movement and a large and flourishing organization is anticipated. Two St. Paul philatelists, C. W. Gaskell and Fred Willy, will help the boys in their collecting.

—Edward M. Sweeney informs us that the Memphis, Tenn., post-office still has the 16c aeroplane stamps on sale.

—Robert Behm, 794 E. 160th St., N. Y.
City, gave the State Bank Union Branch, N. Y. City, for reference. A letter brought the following reply:—
"We fail to find the name of Robert Behm among our list of check depositors."

No Fishing Here!

Good fellows who are fishing around for quotations are invited to try some other pond. It is quite useless for me to quote prices on goods that would most likely be sold before I received a confirmation of the order. Don't waste your time and mine asking for prices but ask for the stamps you want and I will submit them on approval if I have them provided you give first class bank or commercial references; otherwise, nothing doing!

A few nice foreign are in stock but my selections consist mostly of high grade early U. S. postage, revenues and M. & M. If you happen to have anything you wish to dispose of at a rattling good price and the value is there this is a good place to send it first.

WHOLESALE SELECTIONS ON REQUEST.

D. TAUSSIG, 10 West 28th Street, NEW YORK

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES—I had occasion to visit Washington during the last week and imagine my surprise on inquiring as to what was new, to be shown a sheet of the 2c current design, surface printed on unwatermarked paper, perforated 11. It will be recalled that the 1c and 3c were issued in the offset type but that the 2c should come at this time, unannounced, caused me to investigate.

It seems that several weeks back some unsatisfactory ink was used on the flat plates and before it was discovered many of the 2c plates had been ruined. In order to keep up with the enormous demand the Bureau could not afford the delay that would be necessary to turn out more of the engraved plates and as a result fell back on the quick offset method. A negative was made from the flat plate Die I, it was not touched up in the least and the plates of 400 subjects were turned out in short order. I called the attention of our readers to this new offset work several months back, for at that time many of the revenue, or rather tax paid, were being printed in this way. On examining these stamps, which are in a very bright shade, one will readily see that the work is vastly superior to the former 1c and 3c.

The first plate made was number 10818, but to date I have seen impressions from 10820 only. The first printing was made on March 6, 1920, and were issued by the Bureau to the Washington Post Office on March 13th, they in turn placed them on sale Monday, March 15th. They are printed in sheets of four hundred, and through the courtesy of Assistant Director Fisher I had the pleasure of examining an imperforate sheet. It seems that they all show the phantom plate numbers on the bottom. The sheet without them is the rare exception rather than the rule. Heretofore the plate numbers have been put on the plate in a regular order. In the case of these offsets each pane has them arranged differently and this peculiarity will prevail throughout all of the offset prints. If there is an exception, it will be an error. In the northwest pane the left plate number is beside the sixth stamp; the top number above the sixth; in the northeast pane the right plate number is beside the sixth stamp, but the top number is above the fifth; in the southwest pane the left number is beside the fifth and the bottom below the sixth, while in the southeast pane the numbers are beside or below the fifth stamp, that is N. W. 6-6, N. E.

5-6, S. W. 6-5 and S. E. 5-5. Millions of these stamps are being printed and they will be distributed throughout the country. As yet they have not been issued imperforated.

I have been told that since the first negative was made another photograph of Die I has been taken and that this negative has been stepped up to a larger size and has been carefully touched up. It was then reduced and this will be used for making a new plate. If this plate finally turns out to be superior to the first one it will be used for making future plates. The Bureau will discontinue the manufacture of these stamps just as soon as they have on hand a sufficient quantity of the engraved plates.

2c red, Surface print. Unwmk. Perf. 11.

Another unusual variety, this time an envelope, happened to be on sale while I was in Washington. Postmaster General Burleson has been taking a great interest in the reclamation work of his department and because of this fact he was called in to witness the surcharging of the first of the 2c on 3c envelopes at the Washington Post Office. The first die placed in the machine for the overprinting was the one reading "2 CENTS". After a very few had been overprinted the Postmaster General inspected one and objected to the figure falling to the left of the stamp. He thought it should appear directly on the stamp. As a result, the use of this die was discontinued but the few overprinted stamps were recently issued in Washington with the result that they were all sold on the first day. Only two sizes were surcharged, namely size 5 and 13 and both are Die A.

Surcharging continues throughout the country. Philadelphia recently started and they are using a die similar to Indianapolis. Scranton has begun the good work so I understand, but as yet I have not seen any. Every city will have its turn and where the offices have too few on hand they will be sent to some center point. As fast as one city finishes with its die it will be sent elsewhere. I have just learned why one set of overprints have the vertical bars while the others have the horizontal. Most of the cancelling machines used by the department are of two types made by two companies, the International and the Universal. When they were called upon to make discs for their machines, the International used the vertical lines such as the New York, Cleveland and Boston types, while the Universal used the horizontal lines which we know as the first Washington and the St. Louis types.

The St. Louis postmaster recently completed his work and reported under date of March 16th that he had overprinted 3,835,750 envelopes. To do this it took a total of 703 hours, for which the workers received $335.14, or a cost to the department of $0.0873 per thousand. It will be realized what the department saved when it is known that some of the prices which the department received on the outside for doing this work ran as high as $1.75 per thousand.

THE MANY ADVANTAGES OF AN

AMERICAN MANAGED NEW ISSUE SERVICE BRITISH COLONIALS NEUROPE

First.—It is as complete as any new issue service in existence. We have distributed such stamps as Mosul, Falkland Island Wars, Iraq, New Zealand Victory and many War Stamps that have advanced many times over face. We are now adding a Neurope Section, and will later add all foreign countries.

Second.—It is as cheap if not cheaper than any foreign service. We have lowered our basis to 10% OVER FACE. If you send money abroad you will have to register your letters or buy money orders, on small amounts this will equal 10% of your remittance so your stamps will cost considerably over our rate.

Third.—Our deposit requirements are reasonable. Compare them with those of others: Up to 6d limit $3.00; to 1s, $5.00; to 2s 6d, $10.00; to 5s, $15.00; to 10s, $22.50; to One pd. $35.00; and for all issues only $45.00. These same deposit requirements apply to our NEUROPE SECTION for which we are now receiving subscriptions. Special deposit requirement for those using 10 or more of a kind.

Fourth.—You know who you are dealing with. Ask any dealer about J. E. Guest, Former sales manager of the S. P. A., at Present Sales Superintendent of the A. P. S. and Agent for Bowies of England.

IT IS TO YOUR ADVANTAGE to get lined up on this service without delay. Sometime our list will be full and you will regret it. REMEMBER: No foreign registration fees to pay, no international Money Order fees. Your personal check is good enough for us.

We represent in this country BOWIES ENGLISH SERVICE, which is a very complete service with a large membership, and as their agent get many of the provisionals.

Monthly Distributions. Reasonable Deposits.
AND GUEST'S PERSONAL SERVICE (ITSELF).

J. E. GUEST, Agent, Commerce Station, Minneapolis, Minn.

While speaking of envelopes it may be of general interest to know that the department is now turning out around eleven millions daily, an increase of over four millions within the last few months. This increased production is in part caused by the fact that the manufacturers no longer put the small manilla bands around packages of 25. The manufacturer is now breaking ground for a new building and forty new presses have been ordered, so it will be seen that everything possible is being done to meet the greatly increased demand.

Messrs. F. R. Demmerly and LeGrand Payne send us more of the Indianapolis overprints. Mr. W. A. Sisson sends another St. Louis, while Dr. L. A. Thompson remembers us with a new Boston. It is only through our friends that we can make this column valuable, so please continue to send me the novelties as fast as issued.

While at the Bureau this time I had the opportunity of going over the proof book showing impressions of all the dies in the Bureau vaults belonging to the Post Office Department and will now be able to give full information, especially in regard to the 2c dies. A new multiple die of ten subjects 2x5 bearing number 667 has been used and this is the variety that I have called Die V and later Die Ia. As I have now seen these proofs I will be able to give full details in my next Chronicle. Only two plates so far have been made from this die Nos. 10208 and 10209, so it may be well to keep your eyes open for these, awaiting more information next week. They were on sale in Washington and Detroit to my knowledge, and no doubt elsewhere.

Thanks are extended to Messrs. Harmon Wendell, G. G. Ryder, Andrew Hertel, F. D. Collins, W. A. Beach, W. A. Sisson, A. H. Wright, C. L. Clay and Rev. C. L. Young for notes of interest.

BAHAMAS.—Frederick Fetterly informs us that he has seen the new peace stamps with picture of King George and seal of the Islands. The stamps bear the inscription "Peace Bahamas."

BAVARIA.—Mr. William Shafer submits to us for chronicle a copy of the 3pf stamp type of Scott's A5 surcharged "20" in blue in each of the four corners.

BELGIUM.—Mr. J. L. Shipley advises us that he has noted the following differences in the 10 and 15c stamps, helmet type. The frame measuring 22½ mm. wide by 26 mm. high, perf. 11½. The other variety being 22 mm. wide by 26½ mm. high, perf. 11. The design, Mr. Shipley adds, on the wider stamp (22½) is also much better and clearer than the other variety and looks more like King Albert (according to photographs per magazines and the like.)

BERMUDA.—We have received from Benedict Prieth a specimen of a new 1d War Tax. The overprint is somewhat smaller than the previous issue and the type is evidently from a different font. With other colonies discontinuing the use of war tax stamps, one may well wonder at Bermuda putting this on the market at this late day.

CZECHOSLOVAKIA.—Mr. George A. Albrecht calls attention to the fact that he has recently seen an envelope from this country on which the postage was paid by a 100h postage due stamp.

ESTHONIA.—Our correspondent at Reval writes us that on account of the danger to navigation of the present ice conditions in the Gulf of Finland, very few ships arrive at Reval, and that in consequence a postal communication by Aeroplane has been established between Reval and Helsingfors. On February 7th three Aeroplanes with British pilots left Reval and arrived at Helsingfors half an hour later, but up to February 11th (the date of our correspondent's letter), the weather had prevented the return journey being made. This Mail Service, however, incurs heavy expenses, about 12,000 marks for each journey, and therefore the postage on letters conveyed by the new Air Service has been fixed at 10 marks, and a new postage stamp of this denomination will be issued. It is also said that new stamps will be issued to commemorate the conclusion of peace with the Bolsheviks.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Monthly List.

EUPEN & MALMEDY.—These are Rhine Provinces in Germany occupied by Belgian troops, and for use in these territories the current Belgian stamps have been overprinted "Eupen & Malmédy" and new values as follows:—5pf on 5c, 10pf on 10c, 15pf on 15c, 20pf on 20c, 30pf on 25c, 75pf on 50c, 1mk 25pf on 1 franc. obtain these direct, as they are not allowed to be sold for German money except for prepayment of postage, and no one is allowed to buy more than five stamps at a time! They can, however, be obtained from Brussels by paying their original face value in Belgian currency.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Monthly List.

GERMANY.—We are advised by Ward R. Chapin that from a correspondent in this country he learns that the 2pf stamp is now obsolete and commencing April 1st German stamps will be used in Bavaria.

Supplementing his previous courtesy in this direction, Otto E. Staehr submits for our inspection sets of the Saare provisionals. One set includes five Bavaria of the 5, 10, 15, 20 and 30pf values, and Germany 5, 10, 15, 20, 35 and 40pf values. Mr. Staehr writes that the stamps were sold out within a few days. The 3pf German was similarly treated, but a specimen could not be submitted.

HUNGARY.—Messrs. Bright & Son chronicle the following stamps overprinted Baranya in fancy type in semi circle, black overprint. Also new value in large figures in red:—

10 on 2 filler Express.
10 on 10 filler Savings Bank.
20 on 2 filler Harvester type.
30 on 6 filler do.
50 on 5 filler do.
100 on 25 filler do.
100 on 40 filler do.
150 on 15 filler Carl type.
200 on 75 filler Parliament type.

MAURITIUS.—The Economist Bulletin reports that the 1r has been issued in black on pale green on chalky paper.

MOZAMBIQUE COMPANY.—The Economist Bulletin chronicles the appearance of the new Postage Due series consisting of 10 values 1/2c to 50c, forming a very attractive series. They are engraved and bear the design of two elephants supporting the coat of arms in the centre.

POLAND.—A set of official stamps for the National Congress has just appeared. There are nine values—viz., 3, 5, 10, 15, 25, 50, 100, 150 and 200 fennig (or halercy); they are small oblong in shape, the design, which is rather crude, consisting of the Polish eagle in a large "U" above figures of value, white on colour, with "Pocza Polska" on a scroll underneath. They are all produced in the one colour—an assertive shade of red!—Stamp Collecting.

Mr. George A. Albrecht advises us that he has seen a registered letter on which the postage was paid by two 50h postage due stamps.

Whitfield King & Co.'s Monthly List reports that "there is now only one series of stamps in use in the whole of Poland, those with values in marks and fennig, all stamps with values in kronen and heller, formerly used in Galicia, having been withdrawn from circulation."

"By the time this letter reaches you the plebiscite stamps for Eastern Silesia will probably have appeared. There will be no special issue, but the ordinary Polish stamps as used in Southern Poland (value in halercy and kronen) will be overprinted. It is hard to say what values will appear, but I rather fancy there will be the 3, 20, 25 and 50 halercy, and most of the kronen values. I will send you a set as soon as they are out. Stamp Collecting.

PORTUGAL.—Messrs. Bright & Son announce the following new values: 6c lilac rose and 12c slate lilac. The Economist Bulletin chronicles the following new values: 4c yellow green and 20c brown on buff.

ST. KITTS-NEVIS.—A complete new issue is in hand. The design consists of two medallions, one containing the portrait of H. M. the King, and the other containing the Arms of St. Kitts and of Nevis, which arms will appear alternately on the following duties: 1/2d, Columbus; 1d, Bath Springs; 1 1/2d, 2d, 2 1/2d, 3d, 6d, 1s, 2s 6d, 5s and 10s. The stamps will be printed in two colours and will follow the Universal Colour Scheme.—Stamp Collecting.

ST. LUCIA.—We are indebted to Frank P. Brown and L. Meister for information concerning the 1sh stamp noted some time ago. The stamp is of brown orange colour, the same as the rare No. 32.

SIAM.—We have received from Nai Teng a specimen of the 5 on 6 satangs, 1912 issue, where the figure 5 is printed at the top, obliterating the original value. Mr. Teng accompanies this stamp with a specimen of a new overprint, 10 on 12 satangs gray and brown, also of the 1912 issue. The surcharge is in Siamese numerals as well as English, and the original value is obliterated with bars of red. The new value is printed upon the lower part of the stamp.

SPAIN.—Messrs. Bright & Son inform us that the 15c current type is now appearing in deep orange instead of yellow.

TURKS ISLANDS.—Mr. H. R. Arnold calls our attention to the fact that in the last War Stamp there are two different spacings of the overprint. One is 10 1/2 mm. and the other 11 1/2 mm.

STAMP COLLECTING IN HEAVEN.

A good man and a good postage stamp are much alike. Note these qualities in the stamp: it should be well-centered never eccentric; well printed, bearing a clear likeness of the king; well gummed, able to stick to its proper work; well perforated, so that the ties which bind it to its fellows shall not interfere with easy detachment for service. There will be no call for stamps in Heaven if what we surmise about free spirit communication is true, but there may be stamp collecting. Like King George, earth's most famous philatelist, the Great King of that unknown country is collecting human specimens.

Many governments use portraits of present or past rulers on their stamps, but Russia never would till recent years because it seemed like lese majesty to deface the czar's picture by necessary cancellation. It is different in Heaven. There the Great Collector is concerned with restoration, cleansing us from all the smudges and defilements we get in our earthly pilgrimage, and bringing out the divine image in us unmistakably again.

He is constantly "surcharging" His stamps, officially raising them to higher values. Sometimes it is in this life, lifting apparently commonplace people to prominence, like Lincoln, and always later when He promotes us from trivial earthly cares to the service of those who see His face.

Years ago the dies for printing stamps were individually hand engraved, so that in a sheet of 100 no two were microscopically duplicates. It is the fascinating game of many collectors to try to "replate" or reassemble those 100 stamps in just their old positions in the sheet. So the Great Collector works with infinite patience and infinite love to replate all His issues, getting us all back into our original relations, no matter how far afield we have gone, and never resting satisfied with 90 and 9 in His plate while there is one missing

PANAMA AND ITS POSTAGE STAMPS.

By FREDERICK E. HEYDON.

CHAPTER XVI.

General Issue, 1905, and Provisional Issue, 1906.

In August, 1904, the philatelic journals announced that a new series of postage, registration, acknowledgment of receipt and too late stamps had been prepared and would be placed in use at once. As a matter of fact, all but the stamps for regular postage were issued; but the latter were withheld, presumably until the stock of surcharged stamps should be exhausted. On December 12th, 1904, the new 1 and 2 centavos stamps appeared with the surcharge CANAL ZONE. It had been stated that Panama was to be placed on a gold basis at that date and it was assumed that the 1 and 2 centavos, if not all the values of the series, were to be placed on sale then. However, the change in the currency did not take place until February 4th, 1905, and the 1 and 2 centavos were then placed on sale, to be followed by the other denominations as the existing supplies of surcharged stamps were used up. The stamps were made by the American Bank Note Co. and finely engraved in taille douce. The colors were to be the same as those used for the corresponding values of the 1892-96 issue. As a matter of fact, however, the only values ever issued were the 1 and 2 centavos, as it was decided to have a set prepared from entirely new designs, and meanwhile utilize all remainders on hand. We have therefore of the 1905 issue

188. 1c green, (24x21 1/2 mm. Perf. 12).

189. 2c rose, (24x21 1/2 mm. Perf. 12).

No varieties of these are known to exist and the colors present no shades meriting attention.

The existing stocks of the 1c, 2c and 5c were exhausted before the new issue arrived, and the old expedient of surcharging was again resorted to, the stamps surcharged being the excess stocks remaining on hand of the 20c, 50c and 1p. The work was done in an extremely careless manner, many errors resulting, and to make it worse, the printing was so bad that it is all but impossible in some instances to be certain whether an error does or does not exist. I gave these stamps careful study in 1906 and now in 1918 have again gone over the ground, using new material furnished me for study by Mr. Luff. The diagrams give the results of my examination of these particular sheets, but there are some errors probably due to defective printing, and these may not be found on other sheets. This explanation seems necessary to prevent any misapprehension, and in the following list notes will be added where required to explain apparent discrepancies. The setting of the surcharge was in each case an arrangement for the entire sheet of one hundred stamps instead of fifty as has been the usual practice in the Panama printing office.

A further word of explanation both as to the diagrams and accompanying check list may be advisable. No two stamps in the sheet are strictly identical and consequently the check list could have been extended indefinitely, but to do so would have been of doubtful utility. I have preferred using combinations in some cases of as many as three letters in the diagrams, the significance of each of which will be determined by a reference to the text.

As an assistance to the study of the provisional 1 centavo on 20 centavos, which is a matter of some difficulty on account of the occurrence of at least four different capital P's, and very defective inking and printing, I submit in addition to reproductions of the surcharge in natural sizes, the same surcharges magnified two diameters, thus bringing out more clearly the characteristics of each.

"APPROVAL WANT LISTS"

Here is the system that I strongly advise. It has been in use with me for many years and has proven of the greatest satisfaction to hundreds of my clients.

It's simple, too. Here it is in a nutshell:

(1) You send your want-list of United States, using Scott's numbers.

(2) Add a bank or philatelic reference, if you have not had an approval account with me within the past two years.

(3) I make your wants in an approval selection with the privilege of returning any or all copies.

2ND NATIONAL BANK BUILDING,

Washington, D. C.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

NOTES FROM THE ORIENT.

By FELIX COHEN.

The transportation conditions with

Syria, New Arab State, Cilicia, etc., are very precarious. Telegrams are sent under cover by steamer and so registered and unregistered letters, when ar-

iving, arrive together with tele-cable—

or marconigrams. All sort of rumours are current about political conditions in these new issuing stamp countries and,

as usual, most are false. Personally, I have some stamp envelopes missing since

two months.

Syria is promising very well for philately. After the two issues of which I already wrote about, there is a third issue which will surely be issued as these lines will reach the U. S. This third issue will be current French stamps overprinted "O. M. F." "Syrie" (Occupation

Militaire Française, Syrie)—(French

Military Occupation, Syria) and value in milliemmes and piastres (Egyptian currency). The values that will be issued are still unknown, but I will inform you

as soon as same will come out.

I am now in a position to give the number of stamps issued of the second

Syria issue, T. E. O. overprint on French

Levant stamps.

1 millieme on 1 centime, 150,000

2 milliemmes on 2 centimes, 150,000

3 milliemmes on 3 centimes, 30,000

4 milliemmes on 15 centimes, 150,000

5 milliemmes on 5 centimes, 450,000

1 piastre on 25 centimes, 900,000

2 piastres on 50 centimes, 75,000

4 piastres on 1 franc, 28,000

8 piastres on 2 francs, 6,000

20 piastres on 5 francs, 2,000

Many of these stamps are no more to be had in Syria and the 20 piastres has been "captured" by a high French Official and only a few copies found the way to others interested in this issue. A high price is already asked for the 20 piastres.

The new Arab State under Emir Faisal

—I very much regret not being able to give to this country an exact geographical name, as same is still unknown here

and we are ignorant if borders will arrive up to Afghanistan (or not) is sending us a variety of Turkish stamps with the arabic inscription, ARABIC GOV-ERNMENT. I have some covers from these countries and stamps seen up to date are: 1 piastre Dardanelles type with Sultan's head, 20 paras and 1 piastre

1916 issue (Turkish post commemoration), and 5 paras 1913 view issues, but

I think some more will complete the set.

Collectors should remember that this country may be in need of money, so the set can be large, and larger will be the hole it will make in the purses of interested collectors. Surely this new issue,

if planned on all varieties of stamps

left back by the Turks, we may have our Ukraine and Poland here too.

There is nearly no possibility of obtaining information nor stamps from this country, as everybody there seems to have their minds in an embryonal

state. I will inform readers of this weekly as soon as information will be at hand, if the Soviet of the mule

postal service will not "down legs".

Cilicia is using now T. E. O. stamps of the second Syrian issue, but envelopes arriving are sometimes bearing stamps of "T. E. O. Cilicie" issue, then

T. E. O. Syrian issue, and ordinary

E. E. F. Palestine stamps. I guess a letter if posted with unused Nicaraguans

may come safely into the hands of addresser without surtax.

There was and still is a huge demand for the stamps of these countries by European dealers. Many cheques crossed the Mediterranean again, as there was an impossibility of serving the extraordinary quantity of demands. And it must be remembered that in this indefinite East every human being is a business man and in a matter of postage stamps even the adventurous Bedouin tribes of the interior are beginning to open eyes like gigantic searchlights.

THE UKRAINE TRIDENTS.

the disparaging remarks published in the Ukraine tridents. Even as we published the matter originally referred to, so are

NEW STAMPS FOR BAVARIA.

We are indebted to Erwin Strasser for information concerning the new Bavaria stamps illustrated above, and it is through his courtesy that we are able to present this illustration of the prize entries in the contest inaugurated some months ago. Behold how low Bavaria has fallen in the presentation of these crude designs. We have also received a letter from A. Koechlin giving us further particulars concerning these stamps, and his information indicates that in the acceptance of these designs the denominations as illustrated were not adhered to. We quote from Mr. Koechlin's letter:—

"A few of the lower values of the new Bavaria have made their appearance. I submit a specimen of the 20pf. I assure you they are certainly no beauties, as you may judge for yourself. (This design is the same as the 5pf illustrated above.—Ed.) The entire set consists of not fewer than seventeen values, and are as follows:—

- 5, 10, 15pf Laborer plowing.
- 20, 30, 40pf Allegory of Industry.
- 50, 60, 75pf Sower, a rustic competitor of the French lady.
- 1, 1½, 1¾, 2½, 3, 5, 10 and 20 marks, design not yet definitely decided upon.

U S. 5c 1847.—THE OTHER SIDE.

I've just been reading the article on "the 5c 1847 U. S." in the WEEKLY for March 20 and it irritates me very much. Mr. F. answers his own question, for why should any stamp of which there are thousands and thousands scattered over the country catalog over $3.00 for good copies? Not "fine", mind you. It is very unfair to the publishers of the Standard catalog to complain because the price for the 5c 1847 did not go up for "good" copies, and offer as evidence of the lowness of the price the fact that fine copies can't be bought for less than five or six dollars. Of course, we all want the stamps we own to go up in price, and naturally Mr. F., having hundreds of the 5c 1847 on hand, thinks they should be boosted. A raise of catalog value from $3 to $4 would mean hundreds of dollars in his pocket. This is so obvious it seems to me in very poor taste for him to make a public wail because he didn't get the raise he wanted, and I regret that the WEEKLY saw fit to air his grievance for him.

Let me add further that because a man does not want to sell a stamp for five dollars is no evidence that it is worth more than that. I have stamps in my collection I wouldn't sell for a hundred dollars each, but I wouldn't have the face to claim they were worth one-fourth of that. As regards the 5c 1847, many dealers hold their fine copies at absurdly high figures merely because they know there are plenty of collectors with more dollars than "sense," who, like Mr. F., have the "5c 1847 bug in dead earnest," and the cash will be forthcoming regardless of price. But that is no reason for booming that silly game by putting the catalog price of "good" copies at more than $3.00. The more criticisms I read and hear of the Standard Catalog" the more profoundly I admire and respect Mr. Luff and his perfectly invaluable work.

RATIO PERFORATION SCALE.

A new perforation scale has been placed upon the market by the Philatelic Institute, 110 Strand, London, England. It is known as the Ratio Perforation Scale and has distinct advantages over the familiar perforation gauge. It may be used with greater rapidity and with absence of strain upon the eyes. Mr. Melville submits a specimen and it will without doubt become very popular.

PAYMENT OF RETURN POSTAGE.

It may seem to be a trifle, but in the course of a day's mail it means much to those who are engaged in a mail-order business. We speak not only for ourselves, but on general principles, believing that unintentionally many correspondents are neglecting what should be an ordinary courtesy. When writing, seeking information, which calls for a reply by mail, it is only right to expect that a stamped and addressed envelope should be enclosed. We do this in our own correspondence and feel that it is in accord with the ethics of business.

JUVENILE EXHIBIT.

By LOWELL J. RAGATZ.

More than fifty entries by nearly as many boy and girl collectors under twelve marked the Juvenile Stamp Exhibit held under the auspices of the Madison Philatelic Society in the Print Room of the Wisconsin State Historical Museum on Sunday, March 28. The Museum was opened to the public during the afternoon, and two thousand visitors were in attendance.

Entries were made as follows:—boys' collections, girls' collections, one country exhibit, war stamps, United States stamps, United States revenues, pretty stamps and precancels. Local collectors served as judges. Philatelic prizes, donated by Max J. Keller of Chicago and Professor Charles E. Brown, Curator of the Museum, were awarded. Packets and hinges were given to all exhibitors. How to handle and mount stamps was discussed by officers of the Madison society.

The entries were surprisingly good, and showed great pains and ingenuity on the part of the young exhibitors. Almost without exception, fine copies were shown, and stamps were carefully arranged. War stamps claimed the attention of all, and recent Central European countries were especially well represented. A splendid collection of Persian stamps, entered by an eleven-year-old girl, and very artistically mounted, was a feature of the exhibit.

The contestants had been preparing for the event for almost a month, and the telephones of the Museum officials and older collectors were kept busy answering questions concerning the display. Large publicity was given through the four local papers and the schools, with the result that the largest attendance at any single stamp exhibit ever held in the Museum was recorded.

At the request of the Chief Librarian for the City, the prize winning exhibits have been placed on display in the Central City Library, where they will remain for a week.

At the next meeting of the society, bird and animal, map, and historical stamps are to be shown by young collectors, and all contestants will be required to give talks on their entries, telling something about the birds and animals, the countries, or the scenes shown. Tweezers, hinges, watermark detectors, and stamps, will be awarded as prizes.

THIRTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF THE GARFIELD-PERRY CLUB OF CLEVELAND.

By W. W. MACLAREN.

This Club celebrated its Thirtieth Anniversary on Saturday, March 20th, in the usual fitting manner. In addition to a general turn-out of local members and collectors, the following out-of-town guests were present: A. C. Stewart, Burt C. Wear, L. J. Flerlage, Geo. W. Linn, O. A. Schenck, R. J. Wagner, Dr. W. L. Babcock, Fred. Michael, J. C. Hoffstetter, D. R. Heath and A. E. LeRoy.

Headquarters for the celebration were at Hotel Cleveland, and an exhibit of new issues of European stamps placed in the lobby attracted much attention. In the afternoon an auction of 211 lots was held in Parlor A, under the auspices of the Cleveland Stamp Company. The attendance at the auction ran in excess of seventy and bidding was very spirited. Prices realized were high, and in many instances in excess of new catalogue quotations.

The crowning event was the banquet at 7.30 P. M., attended by fifty-three members and guests. The tables bore beautiful floral decorations and an abundance of best "smokes" was provided. To enliven the affair, there was a six piece orchestra, also an excellent male quartet. The president of the Club, Louis A. Hanford, presided as toastmaster and the guests of honor were: W. H. Schneider and W. W. MacLaren, two of the four surviving members of the first meeting held thirty years before.

Dr. W. L. Babcock, president of the Detroit Philatelic Society, entertained with an interesting account of his stamp experiences while in France. A. E. LeRoy exhibited his wonderful collection of Cape Triangulars. While the banquet closed about 11.00 P. M., an adjourned meeting was held in the rooms of our worthy president.

ALLIGATOR MATCH CO.
(Aetna Match Factory.)
By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

This concern does not appear in the St. Louis directories at all. As will appear later, in a legal sense there never was an Alligator Match Co. in St. Louis during the period when the stamp which bears its name was in use. But there were Alligator matches and Alligator match stamps! What a pity the stamps did not portray the amphibian whose waterproof characteristics they imitated!

The Boston Book states of the Alligator stamp:

Die approved, December, 1879.
First issued, January, 1880.
Last issued, February 26, 1883.
210 stamps per sheet (14 x 15).
28, 705, 240 issued on watermarked paper.
The design is almost identical with the Mansfield stamp, the chief difference being in the inscriptions, which read
"Alligator" at the top in place of
"Aetna Match", and "Match Company—St. Louis" in the circular band surrounding the central disk. There are other minor differences which indicate either that the die was retouched other than to make the changes noted above, or that a new die was engraved. The writer believes the Alligator plates were made from a new die engraved by the American Bank Note Co. and that this die was probably made by retouching a transfer from the Mansfield die.

Many lines on the Alligator stamp are heavier than on the Mansfield stamp and some of the lines on the Alligator are quite different from those on its predecessor. In particular the reader will note heavy continuous diagonal shade lines beneath the head and tail of the eagle and between the arrows held in his talons, which are not found on the Mansfield stamp. On the latter these shade lines are all horizontal and are mostly broken.

The Alligator stamps were first printed by the American Bank Note Co. from a plate which probably bore the American imprint and plate number—"No. 108".
There may have been two American plates. Later printings were made by the Bureau, which probably used an American plate and also made one or two of their own, as a few copies of the stamp showing the Bureau characteristics have been noted. The rouletted stamps were printed by the Bureau late in 1880 or early in 1881. Often these are in the dull shade in which other rouletted blue match stamps occur. The perforated stamps vary little in shade and it is rarely possible to distinguish the Bureau prints from those of the American Co.

The Alligator stamps were in use during the period when F. Mansfield & Co.
were not in business under that name
and the Aetna factory was being operated by Fielding Mansfield under his own name. The following letter from a high official of the Samuel Cupples woodenware concern of St. Louis explains why it has been so difficult to trace the Alligator Match Co.:

"In response to your inquiry, I can inform you that the Alligator Matches were made by Fielding Mansfield of St.
Louis, and were made on a special order for my firm. We had so many complaints from our customers in the South that the matches we were handling would not stand the humidity and that the heads softened and made them worthless, we got Mansfield to make us some with a specially hard head that would stand the southern climate, and named them the Alligator Match, (as being impervious to water). There was no firm or corporation called the Alligator Match Co., but they were made by Mansfield under that name.

Yours truly,
H. G. BROOKINGS.
Further comment is quite unnecessary.
For stamp collectors there remains only the wish that the clever thought of naming the matches "Alligator" because they were impervious to water might have gone a step further and had a full sized alligator engraved on the stamps.

NEWS GLEANINGS.
Under this heading we desire to publish all
the news from the various philatelic centers.
Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for
services rendered.

—The Cleveland, O., post-office has in stock the 16c and 24c aeroplane stamps.
John H. Freeman of this city, informing us of the fact, states that the office
also has a big supply of the 13c apple-green, but the sheets are poorly centered.

—A. V. Dworak, Siloam Springs, Ark., announces the Hobby-Rider, a monthly magazine devoted to all hobbies exclusive of stamps and postmarks. The first number will be dated May 1 and the subscription price will be 50c per year.
Mr. Dworak's great success in connection with Philatelic Gossip is sufficient assurance that the new venture will also prosper.

—Edwin Paryski informs us that
"Pozsta Polska" means "Polish Post,"
and a translation recently given in the WEEKLY is in error.

—V. S. Kilner sends us a bunch of cancellations now being used in various parts of the United States. We do not make a formal chronicle of these, but will no doubt publish a check list some time in the future.

—Heard in Philadelphia recently at a sub-station:—

Woman having bought a 2c stamp
asks, "Must I stick it on myself?" Clerk, "Not necessarily; it will do more good if you affix it to the letter."

—The Richmond Hill Philatelic Club
of Richmond Hill, a suburb of New and within two weeks the membership has grown to twelve. The officers are

L. A. Merriam, Pres.; J. W. Winters, Sec'y; Philip Allen, Vice Pres., and Adam J. Wagner, Treas.

—We have received from George H.
Bockman, Palmyra, N. Y., a specimen of a new precancel just put in use in that city. It consists of "Palmyra N. Y." in two lines, sans serif capitals. He writes that the full set from 1c to 70c has thus been overprinted, also the 15c parcel post. They are for the use of the Gar-

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

'Rah—The WEEKLY has made the Line, which is conducted by the Column King, B. L. T. In the Chicago Tribune for March 30th, 1920, we see (archaic for "lamp") in "A Line o' Type or Two": "Bright Sayings of the Juveniles. Sir: News note in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS says Sikkim is a new stamp issuing state in India. The family's infant terrible suggests the ruler's name should be Tige. E. C. B." More than ever we are convinced that Bert Leston Taylor is a genius and that in him "a combination of great powers dwell," else it would be "McKeels," etc., beloved of mediocrity, instead of MEKEEL'S, etc. Our devoirs to "E. C. B." and eke, the "infant".

Huh!—When Arthur Train perpetrated his "howler" in the Saturday Evening Post several weeks ago, we forebore to comment upon it as his imaginative foray into philately left us rather cold. We did not relish that sort of foolery at the expense of collecting, and the less said about it the better. We made only scant mention of the curious jumble. Meanwhile, several commentators in the philatelic press have held, in the security of their stamp knowledge, Mr. Train up to scorn for his arrant ignorance,—but perhaps they are right and we have imputed a depth to the lines that does not exist. Still, Train is a clever chap and the thing must have been a fantasy. At any rate, the Post has restored a balance and Kenneth L. Roberts' accounts of philately in Germany are a contribution worth mentioning, to the public annals of the pursuit.

erts' accounts of philately in Germany are a contribution worth mentioning, to the public annals of the pursuit.

Har—First let us quote Mr. Roberts as he describes the joys of a memorable journey from Berlin to the German border. The compartment in the car with seats for seven people was jammed with nine persons with baggage enough for twice the number. Here is a picture of the manner in which "the male passengers" passed the time on the tiresome trip: "Every little while one of the travelers would get out a bottle of wine and a sandwich and allay his hunger pangs. When time hung heavily on their hands they would take things out of their pockets and show them to each other. All of the males in the car had postage stamps secreted on their persons. The fattest man in the compartment, who left the train just before we reached the Polish border, with the evident intention of walking from Germany into Poland to escape the customs authorities had a set of Russian stamps with a Polish superscription. He had paid 3,000 marks for them. When he displayed them to the assemblage of stamp ferrets they were greeted with a volley of 'Achs!' that almost blew out the windows."

Ha!—In Kenneth L. Roberts' "Schieber Land," in the Saturday Evening Post for March 27th, there is a graphic description of the philatelic high-tide in Berlin. There are as many stamp shops in Berlin as there were bicycle repair shops here during cycling days. Every fifth shop, according to Mr. Roberts, "seems to deal exclusively in postage stamps and in every shop there are usually from two to five people engaged in gratifying their mad craving for stamp collecting. He says that "when the Germans with money grow weary of spending it for the ordinary run of articles they blow it in on postage stamps." The writer then proceeds to tell of the enormous number of war stamps that have been issued during the past five years and how fame has descended upon many places, hitherto unsung, through their stamp issues. Prices, way up in marks, are named in connection with different issues and Mr. Roberts ends his account of the philatelic "push": "But the Germans pay the prices. If they've got it, they'll spend it for anything."

Hit—One of the biggest dealers writes: "I suppose you do not care if I write to say that your recent remarks about prices on Neuropo stamps were one of the squarest things that have been said on the subject. As you may imagine, I stocked these issues because there was a call for them by a good many of my customers. I did not buy everything that was sent me, but what I put my money into I sold at a fair advance at retail over what I paid. Come what may, I have nothing to apologize for, as no accusation of profiteering would hit me. Some of the stamps have gone up and others have gone down, but barring a question now and then from a buyer why this or that stamp may have gone down, I find no evidence of irritation." Another dealer who specializes in the new issues says that altogether they will prove a good investment and that for every weak sister in the lot, there are a good number of sturdy brothers Fragment—Mr. Lowell J. Ragatz writes: "Here is an interesting bit on postal conditions in Alexandria in 1875. 'The greatest postal reform that could be achieved here is an amalgamation under one roof and one management (such as has been recently effected at Cairo) of the Egyptian and all the Consular Post Offices. At present the various post offices are scattered all over the city. English letters are to be found in one place, French in another, Austrian in a third, Italian in a fourth, and so on; and for outbound letters, a different stamp is required by every country of Europe. The natural consequence is that all the offices are full of undelivered mail, while letters are delayed every day from ignorance of the amount of postage required by the various countries. Alexandria is a singularly cosmopolitan city. Every language and every coinage pass indifferently. But it is hard that, in addition to the necessity of knowing half a dozen languages and being acquainted with all the coinages of Europe, we should also be called upon for a knowledge of the postal arrange-

By THE MANAGING EDITOR.

REAY ENVELOPES.—U. S. envelopes manufactured by the firm of George H. Reay in 1870 and distinguished from the later issue of 1874 by the superiority and fineness of the engraving.

REGATUL ROMANIEI.—(Kingdom of Roumania.)—Hungarian stamps of the royalist, republican and communist series were overprinted with these two words for use by the troops in Transylvania during the world war.

RELAIS.—This word found upon Persian stamps indicates the special use to which the stamps are put. In the absence of railway communication passengers, goods and mails are transported by wagons drawn by horses in relays of 20 or 30 miles. Passengers in the post wagons pay extra for the privilege and a "relais" stamp is affixed as a tax to the passengers' tickets. They are not postage stamps.

REPUBLICA KORCE SHQIPETARE.—This inscription is found upon the second series of stamps issued by the French forces which occupied Korytza, Albania, during the World War. It means "Republic of Korytza, Albania."

ROSACE.—A term applied to an ornament embossed on the flap of an envelope, where the pattern is formed of interlaced circles, the lines of which are sunk and the intervening portions in relief.

RODI.—One of the Aegean Islands. In 1919 stamps of Italy were surcharged with the name of the island for use as Occupation stamps by the Italian army of occupation.

ROI CASQUE.—A term applied to the set of stamps issued by Belgium in 1919. The design of the stamp shows King Albert with helmet.

R. O. P. T.—These are the initials of the "Russian Company of Navigation and Trade" and they were applied with values in Turkish currency to stamps issued by Russia for use in the Levant.

ROSBACK.—The name given to a printing of the 1c U. S. stamp in 1919 and differentiated from other issues from the fact that the stamps were perforated 12½ on a machine furnished by the F. P. Rosback Co., Benton Harbor, Mich. The machine was not considered a success and was removed shortly after being installed. 6641 sheets of 400 each were delivered to and sold by the Washington, D. C., office.

RUHLEBEN.—A German camp for British prisoners where a set of stamps was issued for a camp postal service. They were in use for only a short time.

RUSSIAN NORTHWEST ARMY.—In 1919 a force of Russian troops known under this title advanced on Petrograd, but the expedition ended in a fiasco. The troops were obliged to retreat into Esthonia, where they were disarmed. The district formerly occupied by the force was taken over by the Bolsheviks. Stamps issued by the Army are described under O. K. C. A.

SERRA RIVERDALE BOND.—A watermark appearing in Argentine Republic stamps issued in June, 1919. These words are four times repeated in sheets of these stamps.

SHANGHAI-CHINA.—This surcharge found on U. S. stamps used in China is accompanied by the new value at double the face value of the stamp. These stamps were used by the U. S. Postal Agency at Shanghai and sold at their surcharged value in local currency, but valid to the amount of their original value for the payment of postage to the U. S. The overprinting was made necessary by the fluctuations in the value of silver.

SHQIPERIE KORCE VETQEVERITARE.—This inscription is found upon the first series of stamps issued by the French forces which occupied Korytza, Albania, during the world war. It means "Albania Korytza Independent."

S. H. S.—This surcharge found on stamps of Hungary stands for SRBSKA, HRVATSKA, SLOVENSKA, meaning "Serbia, Croatia, Slovenia", the title of the so-called Jugo-Slav state.

SIKKIM.—An Indian feudatory state which in 1919 issued its first postage stamps. Its capital city is Tumlong.

SKATIKAS, SKATIKU.—The singular and plural forms of the name of the smallest Lithuanian money, corresponding to the French centime. 100 skatiku make an auksinas (plural auksinai) corresponding to the French franc.

SLAVONIA.—A component part of the former Hungarian province Croatia. The term has been wrongly applied to Jugo-Slavia or Slovenia, of which Ljubljana (Laibach) is the capital city, while Slavonia's capital city is Osijek (Esseg in German). Croatia and Slavonia are one territory, while Slovenia was always separated from Croatia, having belonged to Austria in distinction from Hungary.

What Do YOU Expect?

New customers frequently evince surprise at the high quality of the stamps submitted to them and at the reasonableness of the prices asked.

But old customers are not surprised—they know how carefully my stamps are selected and that most of them are sold on the basis of cost plus a living profit.

Many fine U. S. Postage, Revenues and M. & M. priced at less than I could replace them for are in stock.

UNITED STATES PROVISIONALS 2c on 3c Envelopes. REJECTED DIE "2 CENTS"

The variety will never be common for only a few were issued. If you have not the two varieties send 50c and they will be mailed at once. Those, however, who send $5.00 for 50 different copies of the 2c on 3c envelopes will receive these two in addition to others on white, amber, blue and buff from several cities, in several sizes and dies. Some are sure to be rare—New varieties are arriving daily and those sending $10 will receive one of each kind now on hand and more as fast as they arrive at the rate of 10c each. If I should fail to furnish 100 you will receive a rebate.

My recent ads on compounds, rotaries and Narcotics still hold good. So many are asking me for the new U. S. varieties as fast as they are issued that I intend shortly starting a new issue service. This will enable the collector to receive all the new things as issued and not wake up to the fact months after that certain varieties readily obtained when issued are unobtainable now. More about the service later.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—I mentioned in my notes of last week that since describing the several types of the current design of 2c stamps that I have had the opportunity of visiting the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and going over proof impressions of those dies which the Bureau holds. I find in addition to those known, a multiple die of 10 subjects of the 2c stamp bearing die No. 667. Two plates have been made from this die, namely, No. 10208 and No. 10209. Without doubt they will continue to use this die just as soon as the surface printing has been discontinued.

We now know of three different dies which were used in connection with the rotary press in addition to one sub-type; two dies used in connection with the flat plates, one type of the surface print, and as I mentioned last week, there is a great possibility of a second type. In order that the collector may not be confused, it is my intention, in my future Chronicle, to speak of the several dies as flat plate die I, and II rotary plate die I, II, III and IIIa, and surface print type I and later, type II, provided the second variety is finally issued.

It will be remembered that the same die I was used in both the flat plate and the early coils. All other dies for the 2c stamps were used either for the flat plate or for the coils; but not for both. As a matter of record, it may be of interest to state that what we know as die I bears Bureau number 534. What we know as die II rotary coil bears Bureau number 605. That which we call die III is 611, while the sub-type die IIIa is a variety from the same die. All of the above dies are single subject. What we now call die II flat plate is a 10 subject die and bears Bureau number 667.

We cannot very well call the surface print stamps dies, although the negative used in connection with type I was from die I. When we finally have the type II, this will be a touched up negative from die I.

Die II flat plate differs from die I in the shading of the hair, in the collar and in its general appearance. The stamp seems to be so full of fine shade lines that it looks much darker, and the two varieties may be readily picked out at a glance. Die II so far has been used in Detroit, Washington and New York. I have been able to locate a single copy with the plate number, but have not as yet seen an entire sheet. I found several large blocks.

As a matter of philatelic interest, I can positively state that only the 2c and 3c have been made from more than one die. Of all the other values, but one die exists. The 3c die I carries Bureau number 441, while die II carries Bureau number 657. The last stamp die made by the Bureau is die 669, which is the 3c Victory stamp. Immediately preceding this the Bureau made up a one subject die, number 668, similar to the Victory stamp, with the head of Samuel F. B. Morse, the inventor of the telegraph. It was evidently the Department's intention of commemorating this invention, but for some reason the stamp never passed the proof stage.

It is not generally known that there were three dies of the 2c Panama-Pacific stamp. It was well written up in the philatelic papers at the time that there was an error on the original die in describing the illustration as the "Gatem Lock." It is not generally known that after this die was rejected a second one was made, wherein the words Panama Canal were spaced in such a way the finished proof was not satisfactory, and this, too, was never used. Therefore, a third die was produced, which was finally used.

Provisional 2c on 3c envelopes continue to arrive and there seems to be no end of varieties. Philadelphia has placed on sale a few more sizes and it seems that another month will find the envelopes being distributed by all large cities. To date every die that has come to my notice is different from that issued previously, although the difference at times is minute. We have had quite a few minor varieties submitted for our inspection which include those surcharged in the lower left corner, those surcharged on the back, surcharged double, surcharged on the albino, etc. Mr. F. D. Collins also sends us some interesting St. Louis types, which we have not seen heretofore. Within the next few weeks we will have compiled a list of probably 60 to 75 varieties and we will give this full information in a later issue.

In the meantime we wish to chronicle

 Die F on amber, size 8.
 Die A on white, size 13.

New York Type
 2c on 3c Die H on white, size 13.

St. Louis Type
 2c on 3c Die A on amber, size 3.

 Die H on white, size 13, both watermarked 19 and 20.

Rev. C. L. Young writes to inform us that in the case of the oval die envelope he has found the 2c on buff, size 7, die C. This size of envelope in this die on this paper has not been seen heretofore. In a recent issue we described the small "F" shown opposite the plate numbers on our current stamps, and mentioned that most of them were located near the upper right plate number, but Mr. G. G. Ryder, as well as Mr. Benjamin Cadbury, calls our attention to copies they have obtained wherein this letter appears elsewhere. It seems that on plate 9122 the "F" is on the right side, while on plate 10341 the "F" is imprinted at the bottom. Mr. W. A. Beach

First little money order or draft takes this scarce stamp. Lower left corner has been repaired, but the design of the stamp was not touched. Well centered, lightly cancelled—a beautiful specimen—and the lone star watermark fairly twinkles. "Oh, Theomistocles! Grab me Suddenly."

To our Patrons:

January 17, 1920, we announced in the WEEKLY the closing of our Wholesale Approval Department for two months. We have been unavoidably delayed in reopening this department.

To the hundreds who have written us for lists we beg further kind indulgence. Please be patient. We have something good in store for you.

H. E. HARRIS & CO.,
WHOLESALE DEALERS EXCLUSIVELY

April 3, 1920.

56 Cummings Road, Boston (47), Mass.

has also seen some of these varieties at his post office.

We also wish to thank Dr. William Evans, Mr. Harmon Wendell, Mr. Andrew Hertel, Mr. J. L. Van Avery, Mr. G. B. Newton, Jr., and Mr. Clarence Johnson for notes of interest.

AUSTRIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. has shown us a new set of postage due stamps which have recently been issued. They are imperforate and of bright red color. The following values have come to hand: 15, 20, 30, 40 and 80h. The following high values have appeared and are submitted by the same correspondent as above: 2½k bistre and 4k scarlet and black.

BAHAMAS.—We are indebted to the Economist Stamp Co. for showing us the new Peace stamps of this colony. They are a very attractive set containing 5 values. They measure 33mmx28mm. At the right is a profile picture of the King and in the upper right corner is the coat of arms of the islands. Directly below is the value, and at the bottom of the stamp, "Bahamas Postage." The values and colors are as follows: ½d green, 1d red, 2d grey, 3d sepia brown and 1sh slate.

BARBADOS.—The following is a copy of an official order sent out by the Colonial Postmaster, H. W. Coreymore, under date of March 11. The balance of War Tax stamps on hand, with the repeal of the tax, can be used for ordinary postal purposes:—

"I have the honor to inform you that the Legislature of this Colony has passed an Act abolishing, from the 1st of April next, the additional postage of one penny War Tax on all letters from this Colony to places abroad on which the postage is one penny per ounce or part thereof. This Act also provides that the War Tax stamp may be used in the place of the ordinary penny postage stamp. Any letters reaching your administration with only the penny War Tax stamp affixed, should not be treated as an insufficiently prepaid letter, and should not, therefore, be taxed."

BAVARIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. has shown us the following additional values to the new set chronicled two weeks ago: 5pf green; 10pf orange; 30pf blue; 50pf red; 60pf greenish blue and 75pf rose. The first two values are of the type showing the plow, and the 30pf is of the same type as the 20 and 40pf chronicled previously. The last three values are of the sower type.

COLOMBIAN REPUBLIC.—Mr. Frank C. Davis shows us a copy of the new 3c stamp and adds that it is to replace the numeral that has been in use recently. It is the type of the 10p of 1917 and is of red color on yellow paper.

How Many Stamps Have You?

I have SOME approvals for collectors with under 4000 varieties. Have been giving Jamaica 1½d Commemorative to New applicants with references and have something good for you. Member A.S.D.A.

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. has shown us a copy of the 1h stamp, current type, perforated 13½. They also advise us that the following values are appearing in the same perforation: 5, 10, 20, 25 and 200 heller. The 60h value is now perforated 11½, while the 15h has recently been issued 13½x11.

Mr. Frank Kocher has shown us a copy of the 100h, imperforate, stamp surcharged in black in two lines. "S O 1920".

DANTZIG.—The Free City of Dantzig is shortly to have a provisional set of postage stamps, these consisting of the current "Germania" labels of Germany overprinted with the words: "Freistaat Dantzig"—Stamp Collecting.

DOMINICAN REPUBLIC.—The Economist Stamp Co. submits for chronicle a copy of the new Airplane stamp of this country. The stamp measures 51mm x 25mm and is of 10c value. In the centre is a view of a biplane, while directly above is "Republica Dominicana." In each of the upper corners is "Correos" and the bottom corners, "10c". At the base of the stamp is "Entrega Especial".

ECUADOR.—Mr. Frank C. Davis advises us that the 1c orange is now surcharged in black "Casa de Correos" in three lines and also adds that the same surcharge appears on certain fiscals now being used for postage.

FIJI.—It is stated that two sheets of the ½d War Stamp have been discovered with inverted overprint; twenty copies have been sent from Australia to a leading London firm for expertising.—Stamp Collecting.

GERMANY.—Another value of the "Deutsche National Versammlung" has appeared. This time it is 30pf, same type as the 25pf.

ICELAND.—Mr. W. T. Wilson submits to us for chronicle the 5a green, the first value issued of a new set with the portrait of King Christian X.

JUGO-SLAVIA.—We are indebted to Mr. F. Pupke for the information that there have appeared the 15h and 30h of the chain-breaker type. The 30h is large size like the 25h value. The 15h is of small size like the 3, 5 and 10h values and the color is pale blue.

LATVIA.—The following additional values of the commemorative stamps have been shown us by the Economist Stamp Co.: 25k blue and green on white, 35k blue and green on white and 1r blue and brown on white.

PERU.—Mr. Frank Kocher has shown us the 5c commemorative stamp chronicled in issue No. 1524 in brown and black also.

We have on hand a small stock of odds and ends, short sets, etc., fine for small dealer. If interested write for list. Lack of time forces us to discontinue stamps for the present.

We publish a small monthly paper—"The Dixie Photographer", any collector who likes Photos may receive same free upon request until Oct.

The 1906 surcharges had a decidedly injurious effect on the interest in Panama stamps in general, which up to that time had been steadily increasing. Collectors were repelled by the badly printed and hard-to-recognize surcharges, while dealers, after disposing of a few of the errors, which occur as a rule only once in a sheet, had on their hands sheets still containing a number of interesting errors but which no one had had the patience to study out. Fortunately the later Panama issues have been reasonably free from varieties.

amount of postage in addition. Earliest dated postmark, February 2.

GERMAN AUSTRIA.—Several values of the current set have appeared imperforate, and the colors of several values have been changed. The reasons are as follows: two perforating machines have broken down, it has been impossible to furnish sufficient stamps in perforated condition. They have therefore been sent out to the various offices either perf. or imperf., or both, according to stock, so that some of the small offices have sold imperforates when they were not available in Vienna. The color changes are due to alterations in postal rates, the stamps being printed in new colors in order to conform to postal union regulations. For instance, the foreign letter rate is now 1 Krone, so that the color of this stamp is now blue. With Austrian Kronen worth about 45c a hundred, this is the cheapest foreign-mail rate in the world.

25h violet.	25h violet.
30h brown.	40h wine red.
40h violet.	60h olive.
	1k blue.

The 20h, bright green, has been reported imperf., but has not been seen here.

LIBERIA.—The new triangular registration stamps have appeared, and will greatly delight Liberia specialists. There are five of them, all rouletted, as follows:

10c grey-black and blue, Buchanan.
10c orange and black, Greenville.
10c green and black, Harper.
10c violet and blue, Monrovia.
10c carmine and black, Robertsport.

The name of the town appears above the central design (a marine) in small sans-serif caps. In an undulating label extending around two sides is "Liberia Ten Registered", and at base, "10 Ten Cents 10".

This set is for revenue only, of course, as the stamps with any town name are used indifferently in the various offices, as postally delivered covers prove.

THRACE.—Various Bulgarian stamps have been surcharged THRACE-INTERALLIEE in two lines of tall, fancy Roman caps. The surcharge is either horizontal or vertical, according to the shape of the stamp.

The 5, 10 and 15st are the Boris type, the others pictorials. The stamps were sold out as soon as they appeared, so that we have another case of philatelic dubiousity, especially as the unadorned Bulgarian stamps are again being used!

1 stot. grey-black, parliament building of Serbia.
2 stot. olive-black, same design.
5 stot. green, Boris.
10 stot. rose.
15 stot. violet.
25 stot. blue and black, Ferdinand 1911 issue.
1 leu brown, Ferdinand 1911 issue.
2 leva brown-orange, Demir Kapu.
3 leva claret, Gevgelce.

It may not be out of place here to mention, in connection with these stamps, that the recent typographed series of Bulgarian pictorials show scenes in Serbia, and as a date appears on several, it is safe to assume that these stamps commemorate the entrance of the Bulgarian army into the Serbian town.

OUR APRIL OFFER.

To any subscriber who is paid up three months in advance and sends us a new six months' subscriber whose name has never been upon our list, we will give a nice unused copy of the British East Africa provisional 4c on 6c, issued last year. The same stamp will also be sent to the new subscriber. This premium offer stands by itself. It is not retroactive, nor will it be in force after April 30. No other premium offer can be associated with it. Conditions as stated must be lived up to. Be particular to mention this offer.

NEWS FROM THE FAR EAST.

By HENRY H. HART.

Soon after my last letter was written, I proceeded to Manila. Unfortunately I arrived in the midst of a typhoon, and during my stay of fifteen days we had ten more, one following on the heels of the other, so I was prevented from seeing very much of the country outside of Manila. The city itself is an interesting place, particularly the Intramuros, or old walled city, the Paco Cemetery, where Rizal was buried, etc. But Manila is so well known now to all Americans that I will not enter into any descriptions. Suffice it to say that there I witnessed the most wonderful sunsets and tropical thunderstorms that I ever expect to see. Another beautiful memory which I bore away with me was the playing of the famous Philippine Constabulary Band on the Luneta, near the monument marking the spot where Rizal was shot. The scene is always charming and never wearisome, the Filipino women in their national costume, the carriages and automobiles gathered around the bandstand, the great sweep of Manila Bay before us, and the multi-colored sunset over Mount Mariveles.

As for stamps, I found nothing new. It was the same old story, the trying to find our stamps well-centered, but I found the clerks most courteous, and so was able to get some good specimens after many hours of searching. The great trouble is that the gum sticks to the waxed paper separating the sheets, and makes the majority of the stamps rather messy-looking. Manila contains two dealers of a sort, but I saw nothing of particular interest.

It was impossible to obtain a passage from Manila to Singapore, so, in order to reach the Straits Settlements, it was necessary for me to sign up as supercargo on a British oil-tanker making the trip. However, the captain gave me his cabin, and I had delightful times playing chess, watching the navigation from the bridge, doing a trick at the wheel once in a while, and my fill of storms, lightning and waterspouts, interspersed with lessons in astronomy and tales of the old sea-dogs, all of whom had been through the war. I was contented with my munificent salary of one shilling per month.

I arrived in Singapore on September 15th, and, after the Captain had signed a guaranty that I was not being left behind as a charge on the Colony, I was discharged. Singapore is quite the most charming and interesting city which I have so far visited in the Far East. I never tired of its cosmopolitan life and movement. I have no hesitation in asserting that it is the most cosmopolitan city in the whole world. The streets are thronged with English, Dutch, French and other European races, and rubbing shoulders with them are Arabs, Egyptians, Malabars, Klings, Goanese, fat Bengali bankers, Chetties, Tamils, Javanese, negroes, Chinese, Japanese, Eurasians and Malays, besides many more which I can't recall at the moment, though they were faithfully noted by my 3A Kodak. And all these are in their native costume, or lack of it; for the Tamils wear for the most part but a red G string, and the tall bony forms of these black Indians sweeping the streets, clad almost as Father Adam, is a curious sight of Singapore's daily life. The predominant dress is, of course, the Malay sarong and velvet skull-cap, a number of which, beautifully woven by hand in Kelantan, Trengganu and the other Malay states, I added to my collection of Asiatic objects d'art. As I am not writing to replace Baedeker, I will not go into a description of this delightful island city, with its vistas of islands, capes and bays, with its bathing beach of Tanjong Katong and its Gap Drive to Pasir Panjang. It is one of the cities of the lotus-eaters, and fortunate indeed I consider myself to have had over a month in the "City of Lions."

Malay is a sine qua non in the transaction of business. All merchants here speak it, and it is the daily language of business transacted between Chinese and English, Malay and European. It is perhaps the easiest language in the world to learn, if one is content to leave untouched the Arabic script and the High Malay of the Courts of the Sultans. You may judge of the cosmopolitanism of Singapore, when I tell you that, in making purchases and transacting business in one single day here,

H. F. COLMAN, 2ND NATIONAL BANK BUILDING,
Washington, D. C.

I spoke English, French, Arabic, Japanese, Cantonese, Malay and Italian.

The stamps in use are the Georgian heads, except the $2.00 value, which is the last type of the Edwardian series. It is used very largely for check-books and other fiscal purposes, and, as a very large supply was printed, the Georgian stamp was temporarily retired. The new 2 cent green had just made its appearance. The Red Cross stamps had long been sold out, and had disappeared from the city entirely. I had great difficulty in obtaining a single used pair. The Chinese at the main post-office were very accommodating, and allowed me to do my own cancelling of letters, so I am sure—if they are not removed en route—of having some choice, very lightly cancelled specimens on my return to the "homeside," as the Chinese so picturesquely call one's native land.

Shortly after my arrival in Singapore, I visited Johore Bahru (New Johore) the capital of the State of the same name, across the strait which separates the island of Singapore from the mainland. It is a small town of a few straggling streets, where, as everywhere in East Asia, except in Japan, the bulk of the business, especially retail, is in the hands of the Chinese. There I found the ordinary stamps, but some of them were running low, as the values were commencing to appear on the Crown CA multiple paper.

Later in the month I travelled by steamer through the Straits of Malacca to Port Swettenham, and thence through the State of Selangor to Kuala Lumpur, a pretty little city, with a beautiful mosque and public buildings, and the capital of the Federated Malay States. I found only the current stamps on sale, and the same obliging officials as elsewhere. I returned to Singapore by the excellent F. M. S. Railways, provided with most comfortable sleeping compartments.

On October 14th I sailed for Soerabaja, Java, a beautiful voyage through the Carimato Channel and the Java Sea. Java is the most wonderful of all the countries of the Far East, with its volcanoes, intense cultivation, and Buddhist ruins. I climbed from Tosari, in the Tennger Mountains, to Bromo and Zand Zee, and also, from Garoet, in the heart of the Preanger Regency, to Papandajan. As volcanoes they cannot be compared to our own Kilauea, but the surrounding scenery is unsurpassed anywhere. I have seen mountains 3000 feet high, cultivated to the very summit with tea, etc. The natives are the most interesting of all in East Asia, representing the last of a once proud and powerful race.

Needless to say, I added to my collection of sarongs, krisses, brasses, etc., during my sojourn, particularly of the native batik work, i. e., dyeing with designs by means of wax drawings. As for stamps, the current set was in use, the new 17½ cents and 30 cents value having just appeared. The 17½ cents on 22½ was not obtainable, but I found a few at the Des Indes Hotel, in Weltevreden. The Red Cross stamps had long been out of issue. No stamp dealers, as far as I could discover, exist in Java, except that some of the book-stores sell cheap packets.

In November I returned to Singapore, and thence to Hong Kong. The only new stamp which I discovered there was the latest shipment of 25 cent stamps, with a distinctly different Chinese character in the value. It is the top character in the left-hand panel. I paid another visit to Canton, but found nothing new in stamps.

On January 11th I sailed again across the South China Sea—delightfully rough in the monsoon season, now in full swing—in a small Chinese steamer, where there were but five of us white people, with a crew of 60 Chinese, and over 600 coolies on board. It was not a particularly pleasant voyage, and I was happy when we rounded Cape St. Jacques and sailed up the Donai and Saigon River to Saigon, about 90 miles from the sea, in the midst of fertile rice fields which feed the world. The heat is unspeakable, day and night. Saigon is a tiny, uninteresting provincial city. As Malay was indispensable in Java, so is French here, where remarkably few Frenchmen speak more than a few words of English. I have been here over a month, and I assure you that my mother-tongue will sound sweet to me again, after all this babel of foreign languages. Annamite I am not attempting, as French and Cantonese are all that are necessary here. I have visited Cholom, the great Chinese rice-milling city near Saigon, where one can ride for miles and miles through the famous Plaine des Tombeaux, where are countless graves, for this has been the burying place for countless generations of Chinese and Annamites. Mytho, on the lower Mekong. An Hoa, still farther down, Thudaumot, Bien Hoa and many other towns, I also visited.

In fact, I have pretty well covered all of Cochinchina on the matchless French chaussées militaires by automobile. I have had some splendid night hunting by searchlight in the heart of the jungle, where tigers and elephants, peacocks and egrets are as common as cats and sparrows at home.

Here I found a most bewildering variety of stamps. Some of the unsurcharged values are in circulation, particularly the four cent. The 15 cent is not to be had either surcharged or unsurcharged. The only copies of it which I found were at Banam, a tiny hamlet on the Middle Mekong, on the way to Phnom Penh. The 40 cent unsurcharged is unobtainable. The only copies of the unsurcharged 5 fr. and 10 fr. which I saw were at Phnom Penh. The 2 fr.

DETROIT BEATS CLEVELAND

Not their Base Ball Clubs, but in the length of time it took our Sale Catalog No. 226 to be delivered. Some time ago Cleveland held the record taking 5 weeks for our Auction Catalog to be delivered to Cleveland collectors, or one week after the sale was over. Now the Detroit P. O. required 7 weeks to deliver our last catalog, or 2 weeks after the sale. It may be a "Burleson" joke but we feel sure the Detroit and Cleveland collectors do not relish it any more than we do. Our next sale, No. 227, will be held Wednesday evening, April 28th. Did you receive the catalog "in time" to send bids?

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—Fisher Hills of Saco, Me., has shown us a 3c envelope with a 2c impressed upon it, one striking partly over the other. The 3c is in the usual purple, while the 2c is the regular carmine. This is somewhat of a freak.

—The Saturday Evening Post of March 27 contains an article entitled "Schieber Land", which has in it considerable concerning postage stamps. We are indebted to Charles H. Fowle for this information.

—"Stamp Collecting in Heaven," on page 184 of the WEEKLY, is credited to the Hudson (N.Y.) Register. It was spoken at our 25th anniversary banquet by Rev. H. L. Bailey. The Register must have copied it from the Spr. Rep., where it first appeared in print. Bailey is one of their writers.—W. C. STONE.

—We have received from the Stone Stamp Shop specimens of the new German-Austria stamps. In our issue of Feb. 28 we chronicled several kronen values, but we are now shown the 2½ and 7½ kronen and informed also that a 5kr of the same design (Parliament building at Vienna) has appeared. Our correspondent also informs us that besides the 40h imperf. chronicled March 13, he has received the following imperforates:—5h gray, 10h carmine lake, 10h vermilion, 15h bistre brown, 30h brown and 60h Olive bistre.

—M. Tausig, 1297 Sterling Place, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes us that he is compelled to discontinue his advertising for two or three weeks. He asks correspondents to be patient with him and all items of business will soon be adjusted.

—A correspondent calls our attention to the practice upon the part of certain dealers and collectors of returning registered and insured letters and parcels by ordinary mail. This is certainly a bad business method and entirely contrary to the ethics of the trade. Any person receiving stamps on approval should return those not desired by exactly the same method as they were sent. We cannot emphasize this too strongly.

YOU ARE RIGHT—HELP THE SHUT IN!

Responding to your note in the issue for March 27, I am sending some stamps to Murry Gullows, and want to thank you for the opportunity and privilege I have had in trying to bring a little cheer to him. I am always glad to respond to these requests when they come marked with your bona fides, and while I am not overburdened with wealth, still the few dollars' worth of stamps won't break any of us, and these little turns in themselves alone, in my opinion, justify philately, if any defense were needed, and adds to the joy of the game. Am I not right?—M. A. G.

A LIVE P. O. INSPECTOR.

Post Office Inspector G. L. Daily has had arrested a farmer, C. W. Rumsey, Dushore, Pa., who has been using the mails to defraud stamp dealers all over the United States and Canada. It is alleged that 30 dealers were victimized.

Rumsey was arrested and arraigned March 24 before United States Commissioner Roscoe B. Smith at Wilkes-barre and entered a plea of not guilty. He was held under $500 bail in default of which he was committed to the county jail in Wilkesbarre.

On March 31 he was again brought before the court and entered the same plea. Held on $2000 bail, which he could not furnish. He is now in jail awaiting trial first Monday in May, when the case comes before the United States Grand Jury at Harrisburg, Pa.

A number of the stamp dealers who have been defrauded by this man will be summoned to testify.

PHILATELY AND THE PRESS.

By JOSEPH WARD.

Philately is gaining prominence in U. S., Canadian and English papers; editors are using notes of philatelic interest as "fillers", where they have been using jokes and scientific notes.

The Philadelphia Evening Ledger recently went into detail in answering a query as to the origin and use of the word philately.

The London (Eng.) Sketch carries very timely articles on air mail communication of today and tomorrow.

The March number of Current History contained nearly fifty inches of philatelic interest.

Not only as news items and fact fillers, but fiction honours the royal hobby now and then. "Tutt and Mr. Tutt" in the Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post mentioned the hobby, as did "Darling's Daughter" in the same magazine a few months ago. Generally in fiction the hobby is treated of as an unprofitable, time wasting pastime for hermits, etc.

THE ADAMSON ADVT.

Charles W. Adamson is a very recent patron of our publication, but in a letter just at hand he voices his satisfaction at the returns received from advertising in the WEEKLY. It is the same note of satisfaction that comes from all our advertisers. He is so much pleased with the results thus far that he has decided to take large space in the WEEKLY to move a big volume of cheap stamps. Elsewhere in this issue will be found Mr. Adamson's advertisement and it is bound to attract attention and patronage. It will accommodate the desires of both collector and dealer. The advertisement looks good to us.

To the Trade:--

We wish to announce the return of our Mr. Watson from Europe, with what is undoubtedly one of the finest stocks in America for both wholesale and retail trade. This accumulation contains many items in wholesale lots which have never before been offered in this country; one of our features being Austria, Bosnia and all German Colonies practically complete. In smaller quantities we have almost every number of Old Europe on and off cover, as well as South America, Etc., including many great rarities. These stamps will be listed at a very low price and will not be advertised except at retail. At present our supply is in the customs but upon their release printed lists will be mailed to all dealers. Applications for approval lots should be sent at once as supply will be limited and demand tremendous when grade of goods and prices are once public.

We thank our many patrons for their patience during the absence of our manager and wish to assure the same service as before January 1st with a wealth of fine stamps to select from.

THE ORDER OF PHILATELIC MERIT.

By CAPT. G. L. TINKER, Hon. Sec.

Constitution.

I. The Order of Philatelic Merit was instituted at a meeting of the members of the London Stamp Club on Oct. 30th, 1919, when it was resolved that the Order should be awarded to Philatelists at home and overseas who, in the judgment of the Jury of the Order, had performed devoted and distinguished work for the advancement of Philately.

II. The Diploma of the Order, the outward and visible token of the recognition thus conferred, pays tribute to the work done, often at great self-sacrifice and without hope of reward, in advancing the interests and increasing the knowledge of those who concern themselves with the Royal Hobby of Stamp Collecting.

III. The first Jury of the Order, elected (with power to add to their number) at the meeting referred to above, consisted of:—Percy C. Bishop, Derek Ingram, Fred J. Melville, F. Hugh Vallancey, with Captain G. L. Tinker, M. C., 89 Farringdon Street, London, E. C. 4, acting as Honorary Secretary.

IV. The Jury so constituted, having the power to add to their number, resolved that all recipients of the award of O. P. M. should become ipso facto Members of the Jury on their election to the Order, and should have full power to vote upon all future nominations.

V. It was further resolved that awards of the O. P. M. to the number of not more than fifty should be made forthwith to Philatelists who had already rendered signal services to the hobby, and that thereafter there should be annual awards, not exceeding five in number for any one year, to those who from time to time should become notable for their work for the advancement of Philately and philatelic knowledge.

VI. Nominations for the Order of Philatelic Merit may be made at any time, but only in writing and through a Member of the Jury or the Committee of a recognized Philatelic Society.

The Jury's First Awards.

The Jury of the Order of Philatelic Merit, in pursuance of the duties entrusted to them, met on Wednesday, March 10th, 1920, when there were present Messrs. Bishop, Ingram, Melville and Vallancey, with Capt. G. L. Tinker, M. C., as Hon. Secretary.

Ninety-one names of philatelists nominated by members of the Jury and various Societies, were considered and voted upon, with the result that it was resolved (with absolute unanimity in every instance) to confer the Order of Merit upon twenty-five philatelists whose names appear hereunder, further awards being reserved for a future occasion:—

P. J. Anderson (Great Britain); Dr. Justus Anderson (Norway); Edward D. Bacon (Great Britain); A. T. Bate (New Zealand); W. Dornier Beckton (Great Britain); Dr. Carroll Chase (U. S. A.); A. B. OUR BOOK REVIEW.

Of the making of books on war stamps there appears to be no end and the English writers are particularly prolific in this direction. Two books just received from the office of Stamp Collecting, 89 Farringdon St., London, England, are "War Stamps of the Allies, 1914-1920" and "Postage Stamps of the Ukraine".

"War Stamps of the Allies" is written by Douglas B. Armstrong and Charles H. Greenwood, and it is described as an historical record. Many official documents are scattered throughout the book and a really creditable work has been produced. Illustrations are frequent. The price of this book is 2sh 6d.

The book, "Postage Stamps of the Ukraine", by Armstrong, makes much of the 1918 trident surcharges. It is the first of a series of what will be known as "New Europe Stamp Books". From the activities of the past year it will require rapid action upon the part of a philatelic writer to keep pace with the productions of New Europe postal authorities. A check list accompanies the book, which is sold for 25c.

In a little book, "Aero Stamps", Fred J. Melville covers all the stamps that properly come under this heading. It is up-to-date, including the German flag post and the Japan overprinted with airplane. Illustrations of the 16c and 24c U. S. are noted. The stamps are priced. Issued by the Philatelic Institute, 110 Strand, London, price 12c. Copies may be obtained at the office of the WEEKLY, price 18c.

HAN MOZIAN, 125 W. 42nd Street, NEW YORK

THE U. S. 5c 1847.

By SMALL DEALER.

A very interesting communication "V. F." in your No. 1523 on the 5c 1847, he makes the very pertinent enquiry as to why this stamp has gone up in catalogue value. To the enquiry is replied to by his own words, i. e., that the stamp is not a rare and that large numbers are in existence, and though held more or less tightly, are liable to come on the market any time.

Unless an article that is collected is rare in point of numbers, it cannot permanently acquire an exceptional high price, a fashionable demand is not a stable foundation for real value.

There is nothing that is doing more injury to real stamp collecting than the intensive pursuit of certain stamps that are popular, and from their titles should be accessible to all collectors even of the most modest means; by those who simply hoard them are not for the purposes of study, and nothing has been published that indicates that these collectors have any intimation that they are going to sell. The particular stamp in question is offered freely enough, your paper always has an advertisement to that effect. In a stamp magazine before me is an ad of 106 copies offered from upwards.

Personally I presume that the ordinary proportion of these stamps that every dealer has passes through my hands, perhaps more, as where I live is somewhat exceptionally situated through its trade connections to secure early U. S. issues, but I take care that such as I sell go to bona fide collector customers at the ordinary price, and have repeatedly refused their sale at enhanced price to specialists. This is not altogether disinterested, because I prefer to keep a customer on these terms than sell him a stamp he wants at what is a fictitious value, and when a slump comes find him dissatisfied and possibly lose his custom. So that from the standpoint of the small dealer who wishes to make his business permanent, I consider the Scott Co. deserve every credit and the gratitude of all collectors for keeping the 5c 1847 at its present catalogue value, it is worth no more, and if stocks held for so called collecting purposes are released, it will be worth less.

AD COPY IN ON FRIDAY.

We are through notifying advertisers that copy has reached us too late. Hereafter you will please note that the non-appearance of the advt. will be due to late arrival of copy. We cannot be held responsible for delayed mails.

CARDINAL MATCH CO.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

The data contained in the Boston Book regarding this beautiful little adhesive gives the main facts regarding its issue but tells nothing of its curious and most interesting history, and even when the present writer was unable to find any trace of such a concern in the St. Louis directories he little dreamed of the important part it seems to have borne in the development of the match making industry in the United States. It may well be that this almost valueless bit of engraved paper was largely responsible for the formation of the combination of American match manufacturers known as the Diamond Match Company.

The Boston Book states:—

Die approved, February, 1880.

First issued, March, 1880.

Last issued, May 14, 1881.

210 stamps per sheet (14x15).

13,580,000 issued in lake on watermarked paper.

The stamp is an upright rectangle of the usual 1c size bearing a cherub in a rectangular panel with an arched top. The numeral "1" appears in a circle in each upper corner; "One" and "Cent" in panels at either side of the cherub; "Cardinal" in a straight panel with fancy ends below the cherub; and "Match Co.—St. Louis" in two curved panels at the bottom. Acanthus ornamentation completes the design, which is highly suggestive of the productions of the National Bank Note Co. The Cardinal stamp, however, was engraved and printed by the American Bank Note Co. and the sheets bear the imprint of this company and its plate number—"112".

The only reference to the Cardinal Match Co. found in philatelic periodicals is a note by Robert S. Hatcher in the Philatelic Journal of America for September, 1885, where he states the Cardinal stamp was used by H. K. Brookings of St. Louis. This statement is very nearly true as will be seen from the following letter of Mr. Brookings' written only a few months ago:—

"My only recollection of the Cardinal Match is that I had them made in Hull, Canada, by a manufacturer there named Eddy, and made an arrangement with the U. S. gov't to keep a revenue agent at the factory to supervise the stamping of the matches at the factory to avoid opening the cases and stamping them at the port of entry in this country, which I think was at Port Huron. We called them the Cardinal Match because they were Red Headed and labeled them 'made by the Cardinal Match Co.' This is all I can remember about them."

Mr. Brookings is Harry G. Brookings of St. Louis, for many years closely connected with the Samuel Cupples Woodenware Co. of that city. He was also the father, or at least the step-father, of the famous Alligator Match, and in the matter of selecting appropriate names for his goods he seems to have been in a class by himself.

Referring to the testimony of Mr. Wm. H. Swift of the Diamond Match Co. commented upon in chapters II and III of this work we find Mr. Swift stating that soon after December, 1880, there "came along a little wave of imported matches" which had the effect of lowering the price all over the country and to an extent demoralizing the domestic business; and also that, "the stamp on matches keeps foreign matches out of the market and that is why we do not want to lose it. Importers do not want to take the trouble and risk of opening packages and affixing a stamp to each box." If there is no connection between the Swift statements and the peculiar use of the Cardinal stamp certainly the several facts and the sequence of time during which they occurred present a most remarkable coincidence. The Mr. Eddy named by Mr. Brookings is none other than E. B. Eddy of Canada who was operating a match factory in Ogdensburg, New York, during the time the Cardinal stamp was in use, and in fact was using a private die stamp at his Ogdensburg factory.

LEAFLETS INTERNATIONAL.

We are going to resume publication of a house organ under the above name. We believe that the greatest news for any stamp collector is the correct prices on stamps and lots of them. We will, therefore, confine the paper almost wholly to stamping stamps. We have a good sized mailing list but the paper will be mailed only to live buyers. The subscription price will be 25c per year to all others. We want to enroll your name on the list and the following proposals:

Put your name on the mailing list one year with a dollar purchase from above advertisement. It costs about 3c copy to place a paper in your hands and we want to get only the live ones on list.

SPECIAL SUBSCRIPTION OFFER—CONFEDERATE STATES REPRINTS.

Several years ago a local party secured a session of an original plate of the unused 10c Confederate stamp. This party printed from the plate several thousand reprints of this stamp in many different colors and on many different kinds of paper. We have secured the rights of this entire lot and have made them in sets of a large number of varieties. They will make an interesting and attractive addition to any collection and we offer you a set of these stamps free with a year's subscription at 25c.

The market has been so full of War stamps from Europe for the last year or so that collectors should welcome offers of anything else and we will make it a regular feature of our paper to offer numerous gains in other stamps and at prices that suit you.

George W. LINN Company, Columbus, O.

UKRAINE TRIDENTS

We beg to announce the purchase of a Magnificent Collection of These Stamps Formed by the late Postmaster of Odessa, comprising many Thousand Specimens, including all the great Rarities, and Errors, and several hitherto unchronicled types of trident, many postally used on original covers, etc.

This Collection is now being priced up for sale and will total Several Thousand Pounds and can be seen at our Offices during this month. Collector's want lists can be filled and Selections sent on approval.

These overprinted stamps offer the finest field for research of any modern issues, and there is no possible doubt that they were genuinely issued to cover a real postal want, and their status compares most favourably with that of any other War Stamps.

NEEDED CHANGES IN SCOTT ALBUM.

By PHILIP L. GARRETT.

I understand that a new edition of the International Album will be published some time this fall. I would suggest that it would be a great help to the Collector if the publisher of the Album would insert in each space the standard catalogue number as well as the value and color of the stamp.

I make this suggestion for the following reasons:

First: The International Album is used almost entirely by general collectors, and it is almost impossible for the general collector to carry the catalogue numbers in his head.

Second: A great many advertisements and most all auction catalogues refer to catalogue numbers.

In consequence of the above, the collector, in checking up his collection with either an advertisement or an auction catalogue, is compelled to first refer to his collection, then to the catalogue and lastly to the advertisement or auction catalogue. By having the catalogue numbers in the spaces as above suggested, it would eliminate reference to the standard catalogue except when prices were to be verified and the collector could check up with either an advertisement or an auction catalogue in less than one-half the time. The numbers could be placed in a bracket so that they would not be confused with the values, and if this scheme were followed it would not be necessary to publish so many cuts as are now used.

I would appreciate it if you would give this suggestion some publicity with the idea that if it meets with the approval of collectors in general, that they would communicate with the publishers of the International Album approving this suggestion, as I have no doubt but what the publishers would meet this request if they felt that there was a general demand for same.

C. S. WATSON RETURNS FROM EUROPE

The advertisement elsewhere of the C. S. Watson Co. conveys information that will be real news to many of our readers. Mr. Watson has just returned from a ten weeks' trip to Europe, where he has availed himself of the opportunities that the foreign market offers for the purchase of stamp stock. We have no doubt that the columns of the WEEKLY will soon reflect the results of the enterprise and energy of this new and progressive firm.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Printed—The new edition of the Standard Catalogue has been distributed and hundreds of our readers are experiencing thrills as they follow the price changes and the new material incorporated in the book. The present edition easily is the most striking that has ever been published and we speak advisedly when we say that the contents will be found of absorbing, not to say exciting interest, by the philatelic multitude. The host of newcomers from countries unknown heretofore in the lexicon of philately gives a fascination to the pages and the price advances are really sensational in many cases. The critics of the catalogue are a numerous company and their keen attention to the book is a tribute to it. We suppose that askance will be looked at many of the prices but criticism of a single price here and there does not impair the general value of the book; and in all cases the publishers have their side of the story of this or that price.

Prosy—We like to hear the philatelic equivalent of the "man on the street" air his opinions. His views usually are sound ones if he is inclined to take his stamp collecting at all seriously. The views of a half-dozen thoughtful collectors give the following composite picture. While marked advances were justified in many cases, yet the boost has been too extreme, thereby placing an embargo on the highest climbers, so far as the ordinary collector was con-

The first printing has been received but is entirely sold out. A second printing is now being made and will be ready between May 15th and June 1st.

cerned. A more gradual rise would have been advisable, and while the collector is pleased to find that some of the stamps that already he has in his possession have gone up in value, his satisfaction is tinged to some extent by the thought of the outlay required for those that he has not. Our answer to this finding is that two years have elapsed since the preceding edition was published and that economic and financial displacement made the process of price adjustment a delicate one.

There—One of the most salutary of effects that the catalogue has is the listing and systematizing of the new European issues that have come pell-mell for some time past. Not alone was there need for the classifying of the stamps but also for the pricing of them. An element of danger to the buyer has been removed by the appearance of the book as at least an idea of comparative value is given by the prices in the catalogue. Now we know that collectors have been "stung" in some instances but we can point to cases where the reverse has proved to be the case. A dealer who handles great quantities of the Neuropo stamps says that price variations have been honest insofar as the good faith is concerned of the senders who consigned the goods to this country; and he mentions that almost in the same mail, he has received parcels of the stamps from reputable dealers whose prices showed wide variations. He intimated that even when bringing expert knowledge and calculation on the question of price of these stamps he found himself on the wrong tack. In short, he maintains that barring occasional spurts of the dealer to unload at the high price that he paid, on the collector, there has been no tendency to profiteer and lose the stamp buyer in the dark that has surrounded the Neuropo stamps so far as the modest collector was concerned. Compared with merchants in other lines, the stamp dealers have a clean slate.

Gone—Some time ago a batch of German colonial surcharges and ship type was sent from Germany to be marketed here; and the supposition was that a plenteous supply of these stamps would be forthcoming, with a consequent weakening of price. It now develops from correspondents that the stamps were an isolated lot that was not the fore-runner of others. It is learned that the prices on these stamps in Germany has stiffened and that the home demand is sufficient to absorb at once the odd lot that may be offered.

The inference that is to be drawn is that these colonials are better property than ever before.

Extended—We have just seen a specialist's collection of the two cent, U. S., perforated 10, 1916-17, in blocks of four, in which the major shades number thirteen but the minor shades are strung out to the number of seventy. It must be admitted that it takes a "microscopic eye" to distinguish between the nuances but they do exist and an exhaustive study of this kind is a record of the activities of the printers that will have its value particularly in years to come.

* * *

Question—A correspondent writes "Could you, without too much trouble, answer the following questions? Trying to select the best copy from several of the same stamp, how do the following qualities range in order of importance? Perfect perforations all four sides. Well centered cancellation. Cleanliness. Light cancellation. Is a partly straight-edged stamp preferable to the first variety if it has the other three qualities more marked? Also can you give me any information about the cancellation in the shape of a jack-o'-lantern on the stamps of 1894?" We recollect that some of our mathematically-minded friends have worked out tables of points that disposed of the questions under notice to their own satisfaction, at least. However, the compilations were not received with any enthusiasm and when their novelty wore off, were dismissed from mind. There is no mechanical rule to guide the collector in his choice and the selections would conform to the individual idea of fitness. One experienced collector will say that he wants sharpness of color above slight off-centering and his brother will reject any stamp that is not squarely placed. The other day, a shrewd collector objected to a lightly cancelled stamp because its cancellation while light was not "typical". The collector must work out his own salvation and make his own scale for weighing the qualities that make up the condition of a stamp. We may add that the jack-o'-lantern stamp is rather often seen on the 1890 and earlier issues but it is unusual, we believe, on the 1894 issue. No, doubt, Mr. Ritchie will have something to say about this distinctive marking.

Asked—A reader says: "I was much interested in the answers to the query of a correspondent as to what stamps

50 Varieties for $5.00.
 I advertised some weeks back the Washington, red overprint Die F at 10c and I now learn that my small supply is about all that existed. I know of but one dealer that has these and he obtained them from me. Several dealers are writing around trying to buy them but they cannot be had for even Wash. collectors are writing me for copies. No more to sell at 10c, I will pay double that myself but I will include one with each of my 50 varieties entire at $5. For sale separately at 50c each. Also include in this lot the two scarce rejected dies, the scarce Die A Phila. on amber and others on blue, white, buff and amber in all dies.

Now is the time to buy. Some that I had at the start for 15c are now bringing a dollar. No one knows which will be rare so risk a $5 bill. Do not write and ask for them on approval nor do not ask me to price them separately. Also remember that I do not guarantee to give you 50 that you do not at present have but I will give you 50 different varieties.

Those sending $10 will receive above and others as fast as they arrive making 100 in all. To date have distributed 60 varieties and have seen 88.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—The provisional 2c on 3c envelopes continue in unbroken procession. It seems that the cities surcharge their much needed white envelopes first and then follow with the colored papers. Philadelphia had a few of the size 8 on amber and these were soon used up. Some of them happened to be Die H in both the 19 and 20 watermark, while some few of Die A were overprinted, the latter being decidedly the scarcer. Mr. W. A. Langdon very kindly favors us with some Cleveland varieties that we have not listed heretofore, and incidentally sends us quite a few errors for review. Among them are the double overprints, those surcharged in the lower left corner, some with surcharge on the back and a few albinos in different sizes. Some of the latter, by the way, had double overprints. I have seen these errors from Cleveland, Boston and Indianapolis but have as yet failed to find any from the two large cities of New York and Philadelphia. I do not believe a single error exists of the rejected die "2 CENTS" overprinted in Washington, for I looked over most of them and it appeared that they had been overprinted most carefully.

Mr. E. A. Bauer sends us some new varieties from St. Louis which we have not seen before. I now understand that St. Louis has mailed their die for overprinting to Chicago, so we may shortly look for more varieties of this type. Mr. W. W. Randall calls our attention to the fact that New York has about thirteen million envelopes in all to surcharge but that as yet only the white ones have been overprinted.

We have seen the following since our last list:—

St. Louis overprint.

2c on 3c Die A, Size 2 on white.

Die E, Size 5 on blue.

Die A, Size 5 on buff.

Cleveland overprint.

2c on 3c Die E, Size 5 on white.

Die H, Size 8 on white.

Die H, Size 5 on amber.

Die H, Size 8 on amber.

Philadelphia overprint.

2c on 3c Die A, Size 7 on white.

Die A, Size 8 on amber.

Die H, Size 8 on amber, both watermarks.

Many of the 2c unsurcharged circular die envelopes are now being found with badly broken letters or with entire letters missing. We thank Mr. F. R. Gellerman for sending us a copy of Die A with the "EN" broken and the

"T" missing; Mr. N. E. Carter for sending one from the same die with the "E" so broken that it resembles an "F". Mr. Edw. Wintermute has located some with the "E" in "POSTAGE" entirely gone.

We note from the Vermont Philatelist that certain collectors in that state are the owners of the 3c circular die in green and the 2c in purple. The owner of the latter is also the owner of the 5c adhesive printed on the back. We would state that we doubt very much the existence of any of these varieties and would have to have the unqualified statement of some one in a position to recognize such varieties when they see them before we would give much weight to the information. We have seen several of the 3c in a greenish color which were nothing more than chemical changelings but have as yet to see the first copy in the real rich green of the 1c value.

Mr. Percy M. Mann has shown us a copy of the 1c red Lincoln, library size, 125x77 mm. postal card, issue of 1911 with a distinct double print, in fact, the card was without a doubt run through the press twice. This was recently picked up in one of the local Philadelphia branch offices.

The New England Philatelist mentioned editorially a couple months back that they had been shown some of our current stamps rouletted instead of perforated, but we did not mention it, as we considered the remark nothing more than a joke. We now understand that it was written with the understanding that such varieties really did exist and only this week I have received a letter from a middle western collector stating that he has the booklet leaves, coils, adhesives of several denominations, including the surface print, the postage dues, etc. He seemed to be under the impression that I was holding back the information until such a time when this very rare issue would be cornered. I have written this party telling him that if he purchased these I would suggest that he send them back and ask the vendor to return his money, for they are nothing but fakes with every other perforation cut off. The Bureau has not rouletted any postage stamps and our readers can just rest assured that several of us who follow the Bureau most carefully would indeed all have to be asleep to have such a thing happen two months back without our having received any information on the subject. We are out of the primary class of philately, and if anybody feels that he can put such a thing across during these days of research he is indeed optimistic.

For the benefit of our readers Mr. W. W. Randall calls our attention to the fact that the New York Post Office still has in its vaults ten thousand sheets of the 24c aeroplane stamp, so it looks as if we will have enough to go around for some time to come. There are still quite a few in the Bureau, also, if I am not mistaken.

We wish to thank Messrs. Chas. Huscher, Benj. Cadbury, F. P. Thompson, F. H. Parnell, H. R. Buck, H. W. Porter, Harmon Wendell, Arthur W.

EVIDENCE vs. PROMISES

The Service That Serves at 10% Over Face

Not merely promises that I will deliver all stamps received, but real evidence that I have done so and am doing so each month.

My New Issue Service is not an experiment but a going business that has rendered service.

My main connection is with Bowies English Service one of the most complete and most successful services in the world.

Distributions have included: New Zealand War, Mosul, Iraq, Kedah, Ceylon, Jamaica, Dominica, Turks, Falkland and other Wars and a number of other British Colonial stamps that are now selling many times over face.

Why deal with strangers or a service operated under a firm name? Know who handles your money. Let one who has never failed to give American Philately the best service possible supply you with your new issues.

overprinted horizontally. Each surcharge contains the "1919" in addition. The Economist Stamp Co. has submitted to us for chronicle a set of three values of a new Charity stamp. The 40f is red and pictures a man with his staff in hand making his way through a snow-covered country. The 60f is of dull brown hue and portrays a scene in a prison camp behind the barbed wire fence. The last value is the 1k and shows the soldier united with his wife and children. The color of the latter is blue.

JAPAN.—We are informed by R. Yokohori that the current 6, 8, 30 and 50 sen issued last August have been put on sale at the post office of Tsingtau. The word CHINA is surcharged on these stamps in Japanese characters in black. The stamps in question are not on sale at any other post office in China except the one mentioned.

SARRE.—C. G. Dietrich has shown us the 35 and 75pf current German stamps surcharged "Sarre" with the heavy bar at the bottom.

SILESIA (Polish Plebiscite).—The "Plebiscite" stamps for Upper Silesia are now on issue and comprise the following:—Surface-printed. Perf. 14. Figure of value in colour on white in an oval. Inscriptions in French, German, and Polish.

2 1/2 pf grey. 20 pf blue.
3 pf brown. 50 pf lilac brown.
5 pf orange. 1 mark lilac.
10 pf red-brown. 5 mark orange-red.
15 pf violet.

(Czecho Slovak Plebiscite).—The Czecho-Slovak stamps overprinted "S O 1920," for use in the plebiscite area, are apparently not to have a long existence. We are informed on good authority that a new series will appear in a day or two, differing from the preceding in the fact that stops are to be inserted after "S" and "O".—Stamp Collecting.

THRACE.—Mr. Jean Planus has shown us a complete set of the Inter-Allied provisionals, already chronicled. We are glad to say that the overprint is identical with the four values—25st, 1, 2, 3l—and there are no type varieties. There is reason to believe that these stamps are already obsolete.—Stamp Collecting.

TONGA.—A "Specimen" distribution has been made of the new 2d stamp foreshadowed in our issues for September 27th and February 21st. It is a handsome stamp, of large size, and with the portrait of the Queen of Tonga in an oval; at the top, on a scroll, is TOTOGI TOGA GTOHI, and at foot 2D PENI-E-UA. The new-comer is printed in violet and brown, on paper watermarked Multiple Turtle; perf. 14.—Stamp Collecting.

By CHAS. S. THOMPSON.

ALBANIA.—Is to have a new set of stamps, both dues and postage. The postage set will be of the values 2, 5, 10, 50 centimes and 1fr and will picture Skanderberg, the national hero. The design of the dues will be a representation of the Scutari fortifications. It is to be expected that this set will soon be surcharged in quint and grosh, following the usual canny Albanian practice!

BAVARIA.—Two values of a new issue, unsurcharged, and let us hope reasonably permanent, have just arrived on cover. These are the 15pf red, depicting a ploughman, and the 20pf red-lilac, which pictures a peculiar-looking female figure, holding aloft in one hand a thunderbolt, in the other something which resembles a mirror reflecting the rays of the sun! There are some other features present in the design, one of which appears to be a wheel, but perspective and all other rules of drawing have been thrown to the fifty-seven corners of the earth in the production of these stamps.

Owing to lack of stamps, the 5pf arms type A5, has again been placed in use. It is said that many millions of these stamps are still in stock, so that the only mitigating circumstance is that they have not been surcharged. There seems to have been little reason for any of the surcharges, as stamps without overprint are used indifferently with those bearing the Freistaat, Volksstaat, or both, surcharges. It is rumored that the 10 and 20pf of the arms type will also be again placed in use. Of the most recent issue, there are ghman type. This design is by Val-n Zietara, which explains why they "comics". The 20, 30 and 40 will the female figure above mentioned.

 ch design is by Franz Paul Glass, ch explains the mirror. The 50, 60 70pf will show a sower. Design these is by Glass, also. If they are thing like the other productions, they look very seedy.

AVARIA.—Three new provisionals appeared, due to increased postage
 s. These are the M.125 green, orange, and 2.50 dark grey. All surcharged on special printings of 1 mark. In addition to the new at top, the stamps are surcharged staats Bayern.

ELGIUM.—The 10fr, "three kings"
 exists in two very distinct shades.
 earlier printings are deep, warm
 a brown; the latter are a bright er which is strikingly different.
 earliest postmark I have found on second shade is Sept. 27, 1919, so likely was issued about that time.
 blue of the 5 frank issue is also ceably different from that of the 5
 rken.

CUADOR.—In addition to the previous SA DE CORREOS stamp, the writer received covers bearing a second up of this character. The surcharge, ch is in small Roman caps, is applied
 the "Timbre patriótico" revenue up, 1c blue and red, Scott's type R4
 g very similar in design. Champion onicles an additional stamp, of the nue type, 20c grey-green, with SA DE CORREOS and three aster-arranged in four lines, the asterisks ve the words. The use of these ps is obligatory, as the following translation of a postal circular states:

The first article of the decree of 1, 1919, provides for the construc-of a post-office building, first in to, and later in the other principal s of the republic. This article pros that all letters, papers, or pack-passing through the mails, whether the interior, or foreign, shall bear, addition to the regular postage, a dial stamp bearing the surcharge
 a de Correos, of the value of 1c.

articles which do not bear this stamp taxed double, but this does not ex-
 the purpose of the 20c stamp above
 ed.

erman Austria.—Several new values
 be added to the "Parliament" set, Kr. 2.50, 5.00, 7.50 and 20.00. The first have arrived, the 2.50 being e brown, the 5.00 grey. High values
 he set are almost impossible to ob-
 as the facilities for the production
 these engraved stamps on special ar are limited. The number sold to a purchaser is strictly limited, and most of them are in the hands of speculators.

 The 3kr, blue and brown, is particularly hard to obtain.

SARRE.—The German stamps found in the post offices in the Sarre Basin have been surcharged with the word "Sarre"
 in ordinary type (upper and lower case)
 and a thick bar, which obliterates the inscription "Deutsches Reich". The following values have been so treated:
 2, 2½, 3, 5, 7½, 10, 15, 20, 25, 30, 35,
 40, 50, 60, 75, 80pf, and Mk 1. The sale of these stamps is rigorously controlled, and they are hard to obtain, especially the 2½, 25, 30, 60, 80 and 1 mark. Bayarian stamps found in the few Bavarian offices included in the district were not overprinted.

TESCHEN.—A former duchy of Austria, is to have a series of plebiscite stamps. Meanwhile, the current series of Czecho-Slovakia, from 3h to 5kr, and the current series of Poland from 3h to 5kr, have been surcharged S. O.
 (Silesie Orientale—Eastern Silesia—Ost Schlesien) for use in the district.

UPPER SILESIA.—In addition to the Teschen issues, a series of plebiscite stamps for Upper Silesia has been prepared in Paris. These have values of 2½pf to 5mk. The design consists of numeral of value in an oval, which is surrounded by the inscriptions COM-MISSION DE GOUVERNEMENT (above) and HAUTE-SILESIE (below); beneath the oval are two scrolls bearing the inscriptions OBER SCHLE-
 (right). The background consists of vertical lines, and the stamps measure 18.5x22.5 mm.—2½d dark grey; 3d
 brown-violet; 5d deep green; 10d brownish red; 15d violet; 20d blue; 50d brown-violet; 1mk red-violet and 5mk vermilion.

WALLIS ISLANDS.—This group, north of Fiji, and having a population of about 5,000, is to be provided with a set of stamps in the new future. As it is a French possession, picture-stamp pilgrims please give thanks.

THE U. S. 5c 1847.

By STANLEY B. ASHBROOK.

There is so much misinformation on stamps handed about by the lay press and the uninformed that it becomes especially important that a strictly stamp publication be unusually accurate in its stamp articles. Your recent notes by "W. F." on the 5c 1847 are so out of line that I believe it your duty to correct such part of his remarks as are apt to mislead the non-specializing collectors.

I do not want to pick a quarrel with such an enthusiastic collector as "W. F." probably is, but though he no doubt has a very nice collection of the 47's, he should read up Dr. Chase's wonderful articles of the 5c '47 and get acquainted with what kind of a collection of this stamp is required before it becomes "one of the finest, if not the finest, in the U. S."

Ninety-one covers and 199 singles and pairs off covers is a nice collection, but there are a great number in excess of that. The writer had the bug for a time and had 1600 copies, and now, after carefully selecting only the very finest prices, covers, shades, etc., still had about 800 copies which he by no means considers the finest in the U. S. Dr. Chase probably has the finest collection, as he has exhaustively studied and gathered this stamp for many years and is the real authority on them together with quite a few other U. S. stamps.

W. F. wonders why this stamp has not advanced in catalog value; my answer would be that average copies are not worth more than that and the fact that dealers and collectors are offering more for fine copies is no true criterion as to their worth. I, too, will gladly pay $5.00 for fine copies, in fact, many times that amount for "fine" copies that I particularly want. Fine stamps with a character of their own by reason of shade, cancellation, etc., are like certain blue diamonds, worth just what the individual collector will pay. The great trouble with the collectors in this country is that they don't understand their own stamps. We are way behind foreign collectors in specializing, and it is high time that we follow some of the great leaders in this work and give the beautiful issues of the U. S. the attention they deserve.

I believe Dr. Chase's work on the 3c 1851 to be the greatest single achievement on one stamp that has ever been accomplished in philatelic research and as I am making a feeble effort to follow in his footsteps, I feel like making a protest whenever I see misleading items concerning stamps he has done so much work on. I trust W. F. will not take offense at my remarks, but will only redouble his energies to aid in the philatelic work that is so necessary to advance our knowledge of the early issues of U. S.

PRECANCEL PARAGRAPHS.

Chico, Calif., is a new addition to the list of California towns using precancels. They precancel in a type similar to U-8, but larger than the 1c, 2c, 7c, 9c and 13c and the 16c and 24c airplane. All perforated 11.

Mr. C. A. Price furnishes the following list of precancels from Huntington, W. Va. They use the 1c, 2c, 3c, 4c, 5c, 6c, 7c, 8c, 9c, 10c, 11c, 12c, 15c, 20c and 50c, all normal. The 3c, 5c, 7c, 9c and 10c comes inverted. All are perforated 11.

Mr. A. R. Bardsley reports the following from Altoona, Pa., in red ink, all perforated 11. The 2c reading up and down, 15c reading up and down, 30c and $1.00 reading up. He has been informed that the 50c was also used, but he has not obtained a copy.

The story is going around that only seven copies of the 24c airplane precancelled Philadelphia, Pa., are known. My information is that a large stock of these stamps were precancelled and used by the Philadelphia office in mailing out the government food supplies during the recent sale of these goods by the different postoffices.—Bushnell's Magazine.

MARKET NOTES.

The present period is an important one in the annals of philately, inasmuch as two of the world's largest collections are upon the market.

It is not so many years ago when the "Breitfuss" collection was bought by a firm of dealers for £50,000. This figure caused quite a sensation at the time. I now learn that the most famous collection in the world, the "Ferrary" collection, is to be disposed of by the French authorities. Many and wild estimates have been made as to the possible value of this great collection. It is apparently the decision of the French authorities to put the collection "under the hammer." I am given to understand that it is confidently expected to realize about £500,000. A syndicate in Paris tried to purchase the collection outright, and rumour has it that £375,000 was offered and refused!

Some of our Colonial confrères have been busy talking about the Duvyen collection. Some of the figures given and statements made are very wide of the mark, and it would be interesting to know where all these stories are originating from. A well known English dealer went to America, and I think I am cutting no ice in saying that his valuation of the collection was roughly £165,000. In the meantime, I hear this collection has been sold in America for a million dollars. This is stated in an American paper dated November, 1919. I presume it is correct.

An American journal quotes some interesting prices for stamps sold by auction in Berlin some time ago. Bavaria 1kr black, 360 mks.; Saxony 3pf red, 2,700 mks.; Lubeck Error 2½ (2), 3,250 mks.; Zurich 4 rappen, 3,200 mks.; Double Geneva on letter, 7,800 mks.; Spain 1852, 2 reales, 4,750 mks.

Leaving out the question of the exchange altogether, the prices seem extraordinarily high—so high, in fact, that one is led to believe that the prices are altogether fictitious. The growing habit of putting stamps in auctions and getting them run up far beyond their value is to be regretted, as it deceives no one excepting novices.

Lettland seems to have gone stamp mad. I have received a circular from a "Lettone" dealer which states: "It came to appear news stamps of 3 and 5 Rbl. of Latwija . . . as they are issued in a very small quantity . . ." All Continental dealers must have a cliché of this last phrase! In addition to the above "rarities," there is another set, the designs and colours of which are truly amazing. They are described "Remembrance-Stamps of the Relief of Curland, warrior lette fighting with a dragon." These four stamps are not described as being rare!

The new overprinted French stamps for Syria do not seem to have reached London yet, but I have seen a wholesale quotation from Egypt for sets of three values, 3, 5 and 1 piastre, 25s per set.

The 24c U. S. A. air mail stamp seems quite difficult to buy now either mint or used.

I have read the article entitled "Doubtful G. R. I.'s" with much interest, and I will make a few observations upon certain points—the facts of which I know. The 2d and 2½d on 10pf se tenant pairs belonged to an Australian soldier who was at Rabaul when the "G. R. I.'s" were issued. He bought them at the post office (together with a lot of other G. R. I.'s) at face value, and when he was in this country he sold his stamps by auction. The auctioneers who sold the stamps can confirm this statement if the Australian Stamp Journal cares to go into the matter.

Regarding the 1d on 2d on 20pf, nothing is known over here. All the copies that have been on the market have come from Australian stamp dealers to our dealers here. If these "are not entitled to catalogue rank at all," the reputation of the Australian trade is not exactly covered with glory.

Is the whole thing a case of "sour grapes"? I have heard of dealers before who are apt to discredit a stamp or issue because they have not got it—and their rivals have!—Stamp Collecting.

A CANADIAN POSTAL ANNIVERSARY.

By JOSEPH WARD.

Canadian philatelists were celebrating yesterday, for it was the sixty-ninth anniversary of the Canadian postage stamp, which was first placed on sale, for the benefit of the letter writing public, April 23rd, 1851.

This first issue of Canada consisted of three values, viz., three, six, and twelve pence. The first and most typical of Canada was designed by Sir Sanford Fleming, civil engineer and draughtsman. The central figure is a representation of the beaver, in its native haunts, over which is the royal crown of England, resting on the thistle, rose, and shamrock, with the letters "V. R." (Victoria Regina) on either side. It is perfectly right for this animal to be first on the stamps of a country which as a colony depended upon its fur as a never failing source of revenue. The color is red.

The six pence is of the usual upright size and bears a portrait of Albert, the Prince Consort. The artist of the original painting from which this design was taken is unknown, tho several unsuccessful attempts have been made by art critics to disclose his identity. The color is slate violet.

The twelve pence is of the same general shape and design as the six pence, tho it bears the head of Queen Victoria. This beautiful head, seen so often upon the early British colonial stamps, was taken from a full length painting by Alfred Edward Chalon, R. A. The color is black.

In a country where the cumbersome English currency was then in use it would seem more natural for a stamp of this value to read "one shilling", but there were reasons for the use of "twelve pence". One reason was the depreciated state of Canadian currency which required fifteen pence to make the standard shilling. Add to this the fact that in New York the shilling was worth 12½ cents, while in Boston it passed for 16½c. The French in Lower Canada used the fifteen pence shilling, while the English of Upper Canada used the standard or York shilling.

The stamps were ordered from and engraved on steel by Messrs. Rawdon, Wright, Hatch, and Edson of New York, the firm which had been awarded the contract for printing our first issue, a fact that without doubt had an influence upon the Canadian Postal Officials of that day. The stamps were printed in sheets of one hundred, ten rows of ten each.

The first supply, numbering 100,000 of the three pence value, was received from the printers April 5, 1851. Two weeks later a second supply of 150,200 of the same value was received. The six pence was delivered May 2nd., and the number consisted of 100,400 copies.

The first and only supply of the twelve pence ever received arrived May 4th. This shipment numbered 51,000. This stamp has become rather rare in later years. Of the 51,000 that was received by the Department only 1,510 were supplied to postmasters to resell to the public. The remainder, 49,510, was destroyed by the government.

The actual issuing of the stamps began on April 23rd, when the three pence was placed on sale. The six pence was put in circulation May 15th, but it was another month, to the day, before the twelve pence made its appearance.

When we say that Canada first used stamps in 1851 that statement is not meant to convey the idea that they had no postal services prior to that year, for they did. The history of the Canadian Post Office Department can be traced back to the days of Queen Anne when courier routes were the means of inland communication.

It is a curious fact that the first

"BARGAIN APPROVALS"

With the advent of new and much higher prices with the coming of the 1920 Scott's catalogue, many collectors will have to satisfy themselves with slightly defective copies of the more expensive stamps.

My "Bargain Approvals," a department of many years standing, will fill the bill. All stamps that have any defects whatever, however slight, go to this department—that is, stamps that catalogue over 25 cents. I also fill want-lists in this grade of stamps.

As usual, reference is required from all not having had approval dealings with me within the past two years. Two stamp dealers preferred as reference, although your bank will do.

postmaster general of Canada was later the first postmaster general of the United States. In 1753 Benjamin Franklin received the appointment of "Deputy Postmaster General for his Majesty's Colonies in America", and the work as well. No other man in all America was more fit for the job. From the year 1737 he had served the people of Philadelphia as their postmaster. When in 1773 Canada was passed over to the English his jurisdiction was extended to cover the newly acquired territory.

As American history tells us, Franklin had become obnoxious to the British and was removed from office in 1774. After our Declaration of Independence, which severed us completely from England and the other British colonies in North America, Hugh Finlay, former postmaster of the city of Quebec, was appointed "Deputy Postmaster-General for His Majesty's Province of Canada".

In 1791 there were 11 post offices in Canada, and by the time 1800 came around they had 15 more. In 1837 there were 101 offices in operation, 2,368 miles of established post route with the number of mail traveled miles 455,000. The number of letters and newspapers handled that year was estimated to be 340,000 and 400,000 respectively.

Like Sir Roland Hill of England, Postmaster-General Thomas A. Stayner believed in uniformity when postal reorganization was being considered. He advocated a one shilling, two pence rate for all letters weighing less than one half ounce, addressed for delivery in the United Kingdom. Later, when this was made a part of the postal schedule resulted in the establishment of the Cunard Line's steam communication between Halifax and Liverpool.

During this period of Canada's history the letter carrying business was a very profitable one. In 1824 there was sent across the seas $21,000 to swell the Imperial Treasury, and seven years later, 1831, $47,000 more was sent across "the pond".

The postage rates were high. It cost 18 cents to send a letter from Toronto to Kingston and thirty to Montreal.

Like our own early postage rates, Canada's was arranged by the distance schedule. This was noticeable in the Inland Mail rates. From one to sixty miles, four pence was required; sixty to one hundred miles, six pence; one to two hundred miles, eight pence; and for greater distances than this two pence for each hundred miles or fraction thereof.

The rates to this country was six pence, except to California and Oregon, and to these "exceptions" nine pence was required. There was a three pence rate in effect between Canada and New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia and Cape Breton. The Newfoundland correspondence needed seven and a half pence. The same amount was necessary for mail addressed for delivery in the British West Indies, sent via Halifax, and Bermuda. Three pence covered the inland charges, while the other four and a half paid the sea-packet costs.

It was also specified that soldiers, sailors and non-commissioned officers could send and receive while on Her Majesty's Service, letters weighing less than one half ounce at the rate of one penny for each letter.

For one hundred and forty years Great Britain had controlled, or at least directed, the colonial postal activities, when on July 28, 1849, was passed an "Act for the Enabling the Colonial Legislatures to Establish Inland Posts". This was the signal for the voluntary withdrawal of most of the colonial postal system then under imperial supervision.

Canada lost no time in taking advantage of the above act, for the next year passed the required ordinances for the transfer of its domestic postal control to its own government. But while waiting for the project of transfer to take shape they did not lose any time in making preparation for obtaining postage stamps. The government seemed to take a special interest in this department when they found that it was soon to be their own. The 10th of August, the Canadian Parliament passed what is briefly known as the "Post Office Act", which in a few words was a schedule of rules, regulations, and restrictions by which the new post office department was to be governed.

The passage of the "Act of 1849" and its approval by the Queen in Council gave opportunities for making preparation for carrying out its provisions. The date set for the transfer was April 6, 1851. Postmasters were notified three weeks previous to the stated time by a letter sent them under date of March 14th.

Four years later a system of Registration was adopted, whereas the sender of a letter or packet could have a record of its travel from the time that it was posted until it was delivered for the small sum of three pence additional to the regular charges. It was twenty years, tho, before the Department considered it necessary to have special stamps for this fast growing branch.

Nine years after the first adhesive stamps had been put in circulation stamped envelopes were put on sale. They were of two values:—Five cents (the decimal system of currency having come into use by this time) bright red, and ten cents black brown.

The Canadians admit that the United States issued stamps and stamped envelopes before them, but when it comes to the issuing of post cards, they claim that they issued them two years before us. That claim is correct! To explain their existence, note the following, taken from the Postmaster-General's Report for June 30, 1870:—

"The introduction of what are known as 'post cards' in the United Kingdom and the convenience that is said to have accompanied their use, have induced the Department to make preparation for the manufacture of similar cards for the use of the people of Canada. These cards will be sold for one cent each, and may be addressed for delivery for any place in the Dominion—and will be conveyed and delivered in the same manner as letters—the one cent covering the cost of manufacture and postage.

"They may be used for any communication that can be written and sent by such a medium and must it would seem unquestionably in Canada as in England prove extremely convenient for many objects and purposes."

The next year's report stated that they had been issued July, 1871, and for the five months following their date of issue 1,470,000 had been sold. The cards were cut to a size about 4 3/8 by three (116 x 75 mm.)

About this time the Postmaster-General's Report for 1858 was made public and it is of interest to us, for it gives a table showing the increase in postal activities before and after postage stamps had been issued and provincial control had been exercised. It is as follows:

Years.	Post	Gross postage	Letters	Newspapers
Offices.	in Sterling.	handled.	handled.
1828	101	2,369	340,000	400,000
1838	380	5,486	1,000,000	1,280,000
1848	559	6,985	2,800,000	3,000,000
1858	1,566	13,600	9,750,000	13,500,000

And still another thing of interest to the average collector, and even some specialists, is the early cancellations. An old report states that "Office seals and stamps were supplied from England in July, 1851". The first one used consisted of seven rings, one inside the other, with the diameter of the outer ring 18 mm. The second canceller, put into use about 1855, carried a number in the center. The number, as might be suspected, referred to the station where the letter was mailed. Number 21 represented Montreal; 42, Toronto; 48, Sherbrooke; 38, Saint Catharines, etc. There were as many as fifty-two distinct numbers. To-day the cancellations on Canadian mail is put there by machinery, which in the course of time replaced the hand stamps. Some of these carry an after-the-war message, a news item, an announcement of a hospital drive, or an exhibition opening.

The Canadian Special Delivery service was not inaugurated until 1898.

This brings to a close this short sketch of Canada's early postal history, and it is pleasing to look back and note that the Canadian people have always tried to do their share in aiding postal development in their country. As far back as 1858 their efforts were appreciated, for the department report for that year stated that "It is gratifying to note how the Canadian people took to the use of postage stamps, and we hope that this form of prepayment will remain in use".

CASPER, WYO., MAN JAILED.

We have received from Maitland Milliken clippings from two Denver papers giving the particulars of the arrest of one Richard J. Gealt, alias H. A. Lamont, alias E. O. Winberg of Casper, Wyo. The cause of the arrest was complaints made by eastern stamp firms, the United Stamp Co. of Chicago being named as one of the complainants. Gealt was arrested on the charge of using the mails to defraud.

A DEALER ABROAD.

By C. S. WATSON.

(Mr. Watson of the C. S. Watson Co. Inc. has just returned from a trip through Europe. He has written us a letter dealing with some of his experiences and we are taking the liberty of printing it for the perusal of our subscribers. There is no doubt but what the columns of the WEEKLY will at once reflect the activities of Mr. Watson in connection with the European stamp market.—W. O. W.)

Once again I am able to write to you from a real up-to-date country and it is with a great pleasure I am able to return to the stamp business and continue advertising in a real way once again. I do not write this letter for publication especially, because I think my trip has advertised me sufficiently.

I do wish you would publish a short piece appealing to the patience of my customers. It has been a trying time to me to leave the tremendous business which I have had for such a length of time and of course business has been like a ship without its captain. My employees have been very faithful and have done what they could, but in the stamp trade there are always a few who refuse to be pleased no matter how much time and patience is spent in making them feel satisfied.

It is for these few that I write to you and ask that they consider what I have been through and how things had to be left here in America, because I intended to repay them in the future. I appreciate very much that even in my absence the majority of my customers have remained as steady buyers and sent many testimonials of appreciation. I only wish that some of those fault finding people could visit Germany and pay the retail prices that are asked there and I am sure there would never be another complaint in America.

I trust for the dealers in this country, they will not look on my trip as a cut and dried money making proposition, for it has not been. I have been to Europe under a tremendous expense and brought back stamps purely and simply for advertising purposes, and I think I have succeeded.

Without exception I have now the finest stock of stamps, wholesale and retail, in America, and I except absolutely no concern when I make this statement. Further, I have bought these stamps so that I can sell them at a price within the bounds of reason, and when they are once gone there will never be more, except under the colors of reprints and counterfeits. This I also know to be an absolute fact. I only wish you could visit me and see my stock and what it consists of. Then you would know after seeing the money expended whether or not I speak the truth.

I don't want to go into details of my trip except to say we feel a little proud that we are the first American dealers to attempt touring the whole of Europe

WHAT IS A BARGAIN?

It doesn't mean a "fall in price," a "come-down" from a former charge, or something cheap.

You cannot be too careful these days as there are lots of "just as good," which are not ABSOLUTELY WORTHLESS, but are mighty low in Quality and Value. PRICE in itself constitutes NOTHING—the finest Quality in the kind of postage stamps the discriminating collector will place in his albums along with the MOST VALUE for each dollar that really spells a BARGAIN.

You cannot buy a "variety packet" from a dealer who not only supplies his own, but also the wholesale trade at 50% of his retail prices and get a BARGAIN. means only that such lots are assembled at a price and so must contain anything.

POWELL has been assembling lots for FIFTY YEARS and sells direct to buyers COST plus one reasonable profit. The dealer pays the same as the collector—customers are all treated alike and that's a SQUARE DEAL.

READ WHAT OTHERS SAY!

"1000 Br. Col. promptly received and more than satisfied."—Paul Urff, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"G. Capron, M. D., of national renown, N. Y. writes: "1500 Br. Col. at hand surpasses belief—you certainly are the able to do business with."

"The 1000 Br. Col. is the best I ever saw of the money and I can honestly recommend same and you to the stamp collecting field."—CHARLES LATHROP PACK, Wood, New Jersey.

"H. Robertson, Banker, Chase City, Va., writes: "Rec'd 1500 Br. Col. and thank you for the fine value in finest quality stamps—straight-through I ever saw."

"R. Burns, Broker, Des Moines, Iowa, writes: "Br. Col. is certainly GOOD in EVERY respect."

"Our 500 'B. C.'s' @ $6.00 arrived Saturday and by Sunday night I had placed new stamps in my albums. I want to say that this packet more than pleased me, every stamp was in grand condition. The 124 duplicates of ones already in my collection. I invariably exchanged my stamps for the ones I already had, as they were in better condition. And to think that I own were purchased from 25% and approval sheets! NO ONE should buy approvals until they have bought the best series of Powell's assemblings—largest of each being the cheapest. contain the very utmost in both quality and Value for each dollar of the price."—Sherman G. Layton, Boston.

Every day of the year we get from several to hundreds of actual UNSOLICITED testimonials. We do not solicit testimonials. We have no right to ask our customers for, or expect testimonials. Every customer has a right to receive the utmost service, courteous treatment and prompt service, and need not say a word about it to us. However, to those customers who kindly and courteously took it themselves to voluntarily express good opinion, we feel thankful. We are equally as well pleased to know that we are satisfied.

There are many new collectors who, perhaps, have had no dealings with us, therefore in doubt as to our ability to carry out our representations and for their benefit have reproduced the above FEW testimonial letters out of over a HUNDRED THOUSAND on file.

TAKE NO CHANCES. Anything you buy from POWELL must please you utterly in every respect, or your money gladly without quibble or argument. Our collections are ready to forward to you by sealed, postpaid and registered mail. Do yourself a GOOD TURN and order the largest of the above series you can afford.

in the interests of philately under the trying conditions of war times. No one will ever know what we have been through and suffered in going from Italy into Austria and remaining there for an entire month under the present deplorable conditions. If they did they would never consider any price that we might offer a stamp for too high, but would say our money had been well earned.

The market in Austria and Germany today is absolutely a joke. It seems funny to return here and find people complaining of Scott's Catalogue. In Europe today everybody is postage stamp crazy in every sense of the word. The money has absolutely no value to them, it is merely paper, and even the boys and girls on the streets are dicker and dicker and exchanging their paper money for postage stamps, considering it a better collateral. Under these conditions it is very difficult to buy with the idea of selling again.

The good stamps have been taken already by foreign dealers and being sold over at exorbitant prices, and we firmly believe now that the stock that we succeeded in obtaining in Austria is practically the entire remaining lot of pre-war stamps which are worth while.

Our trip to Germany was even worse from every standpoint than Austria. Prices were absolutely out of reason, dealers would not sell and what few stamps we have purchased have been purchased at prices which are higher than anticipated.

We could write a book on our experiences in Berlin, being detained for 16 days during the revolution, which accounts for our late arrival in America. Conditions there cannot be judged from reading the U. S. papers, for they little know what really has gone on, and rather than make this tale appear blood-curdling, I shall have nothing to say of what we lived through for eight days steady. At some future time, if any of the readers care to hear how the stamp game may be carried on under difficulties, we may loosen up to the extent of giving a few inside facts on Germany, with her own little war. All I have to say further is that we had to leave that city under U. S. protection and we feel overjoyed to be once again in America.

It is my intention now to issue a wholesale list which I know has not been and will never be equalled for goods of its kind, considering price and quality. We are going to feature on this list Austria practically complete, Bosnia 99 3/4% complete, and German colonies in complete sets to the 5 mark, every colony being represented. These are but a few of the many good things I will advertise wholesale and our old stamps, bought in quantities large enough, but at prices too high for that sort of list, will appeal to every collector in America.

Part of my stamps are now through the customs and the remainder will probably be through inside of two weeks' time. I am trying to be patient and withhold an advertisement until everything can be arranged, and I promise you if I am able to list my complete purchases, that though my ad will be but one or two pages, it will contain the finest lot of retail stamps ever offered in a single advertisement in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY, in all its existence.

I trust this adventure will be a great boom to the collectors here. It has been done more in the interest of philately and advertising than for profits, as heretofore stated. I know you will agree with every word I have said when you see my adv. copy.

Direct from Europe==Our First Offerings

Below we have the pleasure of offering a few of the items purchased by our manager on his personal tour of Central Europe. This is but a sprinkling of the many items which comprise the largest and finest single importation of postage stamps (for wholesale and retail trade) ever made by an American dealer. The stamps which we are featuring at low prices can never be purchased again, except as reprints. Of many old items we have taken the entire supply from countries visited, and we say truthfully there will be no more. We ask you to read this list carefully; consider what the hardships of three months in Austria, Germany, etc., means at this time, then consider the prices we ask. Could there be a better opportunity offered you, Mr. Collector and Dealer.

AUSTRIA.

Under this heading we offer practically everything of interest in this particular country. This will undoubtedly be the most complete offering of worth while Austrian stamps in America.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Proposed—A Washington correspondent says that he is informed that not a few suggestions for designs for a Pilgrims' celebration set of stamps have been received but that the department has made no decision on the question of issuing the stamps.

Scale—Anything new embodied in a philatelic accessory catches our favorable attention; and we must credit Captain Lawrence's Ratio Perforation Scale with having achieved distinction through a new idea for perforation measurement. The little device is ingenious and practicable and employs a new principle in several respects; and while the application at first is not made without some study, the results are acceptable. It would be hopeless to explain how this scale is "operated" and truly, the device must be seen to be understood and appreciated. Fred J. Melville, London, is the sponsor of the Ratio.

Hunt—A month or two ago, a correspondent wrote protesting that a writer in this paper hugged a sure test for watermarks to himself and would not share his advantage with other collectors. Our reader resented this display of selfishness and admonished us for allowing it in our paper. We were puzzled by the accusation and wrote for fuller details, as it was contrary to our wishes to tantalize our readers in the manner indicated. Our informant now says: "In regard to 'sure test for watermarks' of which I wrote you, I must say that the date of the paper is not remembered, but in conversation with another collector and subscriber to-day, we both agreed that it was about fifteen months ago, as we talked it over at the time when it appeared and were both somewhat worked up over the article. I am sorry that we cannot be more definite." We are in the dark.

Rules—A well-wisher of the proposed stamp society for shut-ins has submitted rules for the governing of the organization. We should be pleased to see a society of the kind in operation but we cannot undertake to stand sponsor for it, except to encourage it by notices in our columns. We have one enthusiastic worker for the shut-in body, and if there are others who would give some attention to getting things started, we should like to have their names.

Described—Recently, a reader in a letter said something about "the passion of philately" and now another correspondent refers to the "philosophy of collecting stamps," a descriptive that is new to us in this connection but which is not unhappy; for if we are to believe William Henry Jordan: "A fad lives its life in a few weeks; a philosophy lives through generations and centuries." In the lexicon of the bright, breezy and brainy school of journalism a "fad" is "anything that happens more than once," and as philately has been "happening" for sixty years we ostracize the term. Philosophy of philately is all right even though all philatelists are not philosophers.

Anniversary—The reader who contributed "the philosophy" idea also calls attention to a delinquency that "strangely persists" in not celebrating the anniversary of the coming of the postage stamp, "at least every decade with appropriate ceremonies and exercises." While he is not as explicit as one of the auction cataloguers in his programme for the ceremonials, we think that we can catch the sentiment that impels him to speak. Eighty years ago, in May, the first stamp was issued and it does seem as if we were neglectful in allowing the anniversary to pass unnoticed. Yet, as philately has no capitol in which the celebration could be given, the omission is not to be felt so keenly as otherwise it would be; and then, silent tribute may be given during the first week in May for the foundation of the postage stamp.

Pleased—Here is a friend, indeed; and he cannot be in need, judging from the enhancement that he has noticed in his investment: "I, on behalf of myself and another subscriber, resent the course taken by a number of your readers, if editorials in recent issues are any criterion. Why any collector should complain to you about any overcharge paid for this or that stamp is beyond all justification. It is one thing to have a paternal interest in or feeling for your subscribers but another one to be shown no consideration by those you uphold. How you are called upon to make any explanation for the prices of others is beyond me." We thank our well-wisher for his plain words but he is more disturbed about something than we are. However, here is the gist of the letter: "My British new issues up to the present show a profit of over 15%, based on the offer of a dealer to buy all the stamps. As for the Neuropes stamps, I cannot speak positively, but I know that I got a few stamps from dealers at prices that they are willing to pay just now for the same stamps. Yes, I paid forty or fifty cents for a set that I could buy later at ten cents or so, but what of that? A mole-hill to a mountain. I believe that a good many of those who pity the stamps of the establishment will end by embracing them." Our spirited correspondent fortifies his position with a few other figures.

Suspicious—We quote the words of the foregoing paragraph with especial satisfaction, as we have been somewhat suspicious of the number of times during the past week or two that we have read in letters and heard directly that "the bottom has fallen out" of the Neuropes stamps. We do not want to be mysterious or to enlarge upon circumstances whose triviality would not merit attention, if coincidence did not mark them as its own. In the editorial mind, three or four letters from readers on a single subject is a large number; a half-dozen, an inundation and a dozen, a veritable avalanche. We could say that a small tornado had swept our sanctum, as a handful of readers have mentioned as the subject of their sentence or incidentally that all was not well with the Neuropes stamps. If we thought that there was any headquarters from which a yarn could have emanated, we should say that propagandists were at work with some fell purpose in view. We shall not believe that there is any concerted disposition to condemn the issues in question and we shall dismiss the subject by saying that the change in stamp values is not a sudden one and even if it is once begun on a descending

BOOKLETS!

A SUGGESTION

When you tour this spring take advantage of your opportunities to visit the post offices in the towns you pass through.

From a Collecting Standpoint you will find that Booklets are mighty interesting and the zest of hunting for them simply adds to their attractiveness.

From an Investment Standpoint well there are many varieties to I will pay several times face for. Issues as far back as 1908 are being found today in Booklet form.

Write for my Descriptive Circular; you do not understand their classification and how to go about looking for them.

scale, the descent is not a long one. There are no sudden fluctuations in price to be feared. There is no board on which the market value is given every day or hour and a panic is one of the last conditions possible. Nor do we think that any propaganda is attempted in stamp circles, a sinister sense, as when there a word passed along the line, it is of beneficial nature and removed from sordid possibility.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents. The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—Another hurried trip to Washington and visit at the Bureau brings to light the fact that the 2c surface print, unwatermarked, perforated 11, type II has been issued. I had the pleasure of examining a proof sheet and they are certainly an improvement over type I but have since seen the issued stamp and must say that they are exceedingly poor. It is barely possible that the sheet I saw was a very poor impression and I hope this to be the case. As explained in my previous chronicle, this second type was made from a touched up negative from die I. In this type II we find more dots and dashes in the ribbons under the head, the background in the oval has been redrawn and is sharper. The words "U. S. POSTAGE" at the top have been outlined so that the letters do not run into the background as in type I and the stamp as a whole has been sharpened. The first plate of this new type is No. 10924, followed by Nos. 10936, 10948-49-50-51-52-53. Plate number 10952 was defective, by the way, so that no impressions from this will be found. It will be noticed that there is a long gap in the numbers between the first two plates and these numbers were used up by further plates from type I.

The first plate from type I was No. 10818, but I have not as yet found this number. The last plate of this type is No. 10935 and we are still looking for this. In all 116 plates of type I were made and of these 95 were printed from, the balance being defective. Up to the close of business on April 9th the Bureau of Engraving and Printing had printed 1,621,000 of these type I, so there will be more than enough to go round. None of them have as yet been issued imperforate and it is not the intention of the department to issue them in this shape. New engraved plates are being made daily and just as soon as possible the offset stamps will be discontinued. In the meantime they are running to all kinds of shades, but these are such a great improvement over the former surface prints that we have as yet to locate the double, the uninked impression, the overinked impression, printed on the back, etc.

On these sheets of the second type the plate numbers have been placed in the same irregular way as in the case of the first type.

1920, Surface Print, Perf. 11, Unwmkd. 2c carmine, Type II.

While in Washington, Mr. Southgate called my attention to the fact that in the case of the rejected die "2 CENTS" overprinted in black on the 3c envelopes that some few Die E, Size 5 were found. It was at first thought that these were all Die A but later a very few of the Die E were located.

Mr. J. W. Harmon sends us three varieties from Oklahoma City of these provisional envelopes with overprint similar to the New York type. One of these has the surcharge in the lower left corner through error. Mr. F. A. Brown says that the die for this work has arrived in Des Moines and that he will favor us with the several varieties as soon as issued. The die used in this city is also similar to the New York. Another new lot has arrived from St. Louis and to date it seems that this city has been the greatest offender. About 90 varieties from all cities have been chronicled so far with more coming in daily. Will our readers please continue to favor us with samples, for it is only in this way that we can keep our list up to date.

Mr. H. W. Porter informs me that the colored envelopes in Washington have been sent elsewhere to be overprinted, and I understand that the surcharging in Washington is about at an end.

Mr. B. K. Miller informs me that he has located the 2c rotary compound perforated 11x10 from plate No. 10347, where in the marking "S 30" is inverted. Four in all are said to have been found in Washington.

In my notes of last week I mentioned the so-called roulettes which were supposed to have been issued by the Bureau, and in order to satisfy the most skeptical I inquired at the Bureau if any such thing had been turned out. Assistant Director Fisher informed me there had been no changes whatsoever and that if roulettes were around they were not issued by them. As explained before, these are nothing more than the ordinary perforated stamp with every other perforation cut out. What surprises me is that these have been found in the hands of those who should have recognized them for what they were before passing them on to others. I have been told about several lots but they all trace back to New England and Ohio.

I wish to thank Dr. William Evans, Benj. Cadbury, W. A. Sisson, Malcolm H. Ganser, George Soultman, H. R. Buck, P. M. Mann, A. E. Owen, and Le Grand Payne for interesting notes.

This lot has never been picked for double papers, stitch watermarks or shifts but probably contains no wonderful cancellations and the condition is no better than average. Mostly Continentals & Americans—fewer Nationals and Re-engraved. A good bunch to have handy on a rainy day when the golfing is flavored too strongly with mud. First $10 check received takes 'em.

mentioned last week will go big with the fellows who should have bought last year. Some of the prices look silly compared to the quotations now in effect on good average copies. Good to fine old U. Can supply fine to superb 5c '47s at $5 to $10, on and off covers; not so fine for less. 3c 1857-61 on covers; 20 covers, each with a different cancellation, for the enormous sum of one dollar. Still they come and now is the time to get them before we know which are the rare birds. Have about 75 varieties to distribute to date from several cities on blue, amber, buff and white in all four dies. Some of these were not even known unsurcharged so the surcharged are likely to be scarce. For $5 I will send 50 different varieties including the two rejected dies, the red Washington Die F, the amber Phila. A, a nice lot from St. Louis which supply is about exhausted, some of all colors from Indianapolis, etc. Send $10 if you want and will send you one of each on hand and continue to send until you have received 100. Please do not tell me that you want them cut square consequently care for certain dies only. At present I offer them only in lots of 50 or more all different. Of some I have less than 25 and naturally I will not sell these separately. If one out of this lot does not turn out to be a $5 item alone when the prices are finally established I miss my guess. Do not forget, none for sale at this time separately. A list later on, perhaps.

AUSTRALIA.—The Australian Philatelic Record prints the following:—"Many collectors are not aware that the 2 pound Kangaroo third watermark, has been on sale for some little time past. This will effectually dispose of the rumor, now about two years old, that no more 2 pound stamps were to be printed, as an insufficient number were used to justify their issue."

BELGIUM.—We are indebted to Adj. Henry Hooreman for the information that new stamps are soon to be issued, the occasion being the Olympic Games at Antwerp. Three values, 5, 10 and 15c, will be issued, 5c additional being charged on each value, this latter amount to be given to the War Invalids Fund. The stamps will be printed in New York and the designs will be appropriate to the event they commemorate. They are promised for the end of April.

Another commemorative set is to be issued which will celebrate the country's liberation. The design will be executed by a Prof. Montenez of the Mons School. The several values will represent the head of the King, but upon the franc values there will be portraits of the King and Queen facing each other.

New stamps have been issued for use in Malmady and also at Eupen, with franc currency surcharged instead of the now obsolete issue which had German inscriptions and values.

CEYLON.—Two of the correspondents of the Stamp Lover have advised them a new 9c value is to appear in the near future.

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA.—Collectors will be interested to learn that 5,000,000 sets of the fine "Legion" stamps were issued. 1,500,000 sets were put into ordinary circulation, and the balance of 3,500,000 were handed over to the funds of the Legion. Varieties of perforation are to be met with in this series, some of the stamps being perforated 13½ and others 11½ by 13½.

Mr. E. W. Barthel kindly sends us postally used copies of a 500h and a 1,000h postage stamp, issued, we understand, to commemorate the seventieth birthday of President Masaryk (March 7th). They are uniform in design, which has the President's portrait in an ornamental oval frame, with "POST-ACESKOSLOVSKA" at the top and numerals of value in a scroll at foot.

"HALF CATALOG FIENDS"

won't feel any more at home looking at our Class N approvals than William Jennings Bryan would at Monte Carlo. But collectors who are seeking a little nip of the unusual—old issues, oddities—would act wisely in requesting some of our unique Class N cards before it snows again next Easter.

FENNELL STAMP COMPANY,

They are large upright oblong in format, the names of the artist and engraver (M. Svamsky and E. Karel respectively) being imprinted in diminutive letters below.

500h, slate, 1,000h, buff-brown.

Our valued correspondent is informed that these stamps were in use for two days only—viz. March 7th and 8th. "In appearance and otherwise these stamps savour rather of South American Republics, don't they?" he says. Yes, with the "otherwise" we certainly see eye to eye with him. We have long been expecting a 500h "permanent" stamp with President Masaryk's portrait. Surely a Bohemian permanency is estimated at more than two days!—Stamp Collecting.

Mr. Frank Kocher writes us that he has seen the 50h surcharged "S. O. 1920", imperforate.

DENMARK.—Mr. A. A. Kranhold advises us, "I have just received a strip of 10 Danish stamps, 10 and 15 ore, (current multiple crosses watermark issue) alternating—evidently for use in slot machines as the 3-7 combination issued some time ago. The latter was issued both vertically and horizontally, the last named being scarce.

PAPUA.—The Australian Philatelic Record reports that they have just found amongst their stock a copy of the 1d, all red, of 1911, but imperf. They add that the stamp is on original and has wide margins on all sides, and there appears to be no doubt of its being a genuine imperf.

POLAND.—Owing to the shortage of certain values of the "halerzy" series recently, at many post offices, the blue postage due stamps have been sold for use as ordinary postage stamps. We may add that the "halerzy" series is only in use over a very limited area now.

The 3 halerzy has made its appearance in yellow-ochre instead of brown. The printing is poor. We are informed that this is probably a local printing, a printers' strike at Warsaw having hindered the production in that city.

A complete set of the "assertive red" Service stamps (already chronicled) has been shown us by Mr. Jean Planus. —Stamp Collecting.

Frank Kocher advises us that a registered letter came through his local post office recently franked with the 100h postage due stamp.

THE "HIGH-BROWS" OF STAMPDOM are A. P. S. members. If you are entitled to sign those three letters after your name, you can write any dealer this side of Halifax, and he'll send you what you want without asking who your banker is and whether he wears smoked glasses. Membership in May will cost $1.45. If an A. P. S. number isn't worth more than that, don't read this. If it is, write for more information and an application blank.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—In Mr. Ioor's advertisement of Bos-nia in a recent issue a set of 16 varie-ties, 1910, described as O. G. was priced at 75c. The price should have been $2.75. Quite naturally, Mr. Ioor re-ceived a good many orders. The mis-take is ours, and we think it best to publish this explanation.

—Sherman Rogers informs us that the Pelham, N. Y., post office has all of the aero stamps now on sale.

—A special meeting of the Rhode Island Philatelic Society was held Sat-urday evening, April 17. An informal talk was given by Dr. Carroll Chase of Brooklyn on United States 1851-57 issues, accompanied with an exhibit. An account of the meeting is not at hand as we go to press.

—Recently the residence of Hon. E. R. Ackerman at Plainfield, N. J., was struck by lightning. The estimated damage is $10,000. One room, the walls of which are covered with postage stamps, did not escape the deluge of water. Many costly paintings, tap-estries, draperies, etc., were watersoaked. Mr. Ackerman was in Washington at-tending to his congressional duties at the time.

—Herman W. Boers of Detroit makes the suggestion that dealers look through our department of Adlets for business. Mr. Boers advertised recently for a block of four $2 bi-colored used, and a N. Y. dealer not only overlooked the adv. but sent the very block to another Detroit collector.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from J. F. Rose, Geo. E. Mason, A. A. Leve, Franklin S. Smith, Fred Mayer, W. A. Bowling, Fred Timaeus, Maitland Milliken, Frank Robins, Jr.

COIL STAMPS OF THE UNITED STATES.

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

The 1908-1909 Issue (1908 Design).

The first issue of coils had been on sale but a few months when the designs of the general issue of adhesive stamps were changed and as a result new plates were made, but still of the same make up, that is in sheets of 400 subjects from flat plates showing guide lines, arrows, plate numbers and imprints. In this issue all minor varieties found in the first series exist with the exception of the variety showing both guide line and paste up joint in the same pair. Before these stamps of new design were coiled, the Bureau had removed the center knife that cut the guide line and replaced it with a perforating wheel, consequently the non-existence of this odd combination.

This issue was perforated 12, printed upon paper with the same double line watermark U S P S and consisted of the 1c green, 2c carmine, 4c brown and 5c blue coiled both endwise and side-wise in addition to the 10c yellow coiled sideways only. The 1c shows a profile of Benj. Franklin facing the left, while all other denominations show a similar profile of George Washington. With the exception of the 10c denomination, none of this issue can be classed as rare, although the supply of any of the series is not what might be called large.

With this issue we run into a new combination which gives us additional minor varieties. It will be recalled that early in 1909 the Bureau of Engraving and Printing began to use what is known as "star" plates, for printing some of its adhesive stamps, so designated because a small star either solid or outlined was placed on the plate between the imprint and plate number. These plates differed from the earlier ones in that on the first plates the vertical rows of stamps were evenly spaced, one row from the other, whereas on the "star" plates the spacing measured 3mm between the outside rows and gradually decreased to 2mm towards the center. It was believed at the time that this spacing would take care of the shrinkage of the sheet, after the wet-ting, in order that the centering might be more accurate. Observations had previously shown that the sheet after being wet previous to printing, shrank more around the edges and less at the center. Because of these plates we find the 1c, 2c and 4c sideways coils showing several different spacings varying from 2 mm. to 3 mm. The star imprint may also be found in the paste-ups of some of the endwise coils, but of course the spacing in this case does not vary. To my knowledge the 5c coil stamp does not exist from the "star" plate, although it may possibly have been issued. The change in watermark came just about the time the first 5c "star" plates went to press and as a result the stamp in sheet form is a rarity; in a coil, if it is ever found, is bound to be exceedingly scarce. The 10c value cannot exist with varying spaces, for "star" plates of this denomination were never made.

The 1c green, coiled endwise (perforated horizontally), perforated 12, was issued on December 29, 1908, and continued in use for nearly two years. Of this variety 10,663 coils of 500 and 2,333 coils of 1000 were reeled, but these figures include the single line watermark stamps, as the Bureau did not consider a change of watermark of sufficient importance to keep records separated. Ninety per cent. of these coils, however, were possibly of the double line issue, for the variety is readily obtained.

The 1c green, coiled sideways (perforated vertically), perforated 12, was issued on January 2, 1909, and remained in use for the same length of time as the same stamp coiled endwise. Of this stamp 13,378 coils of 500 and 574 coils of 1000 were made, but then again, this includes those on single line watermark paper. The stamp is common and when we consider the rarity of the single line stamp, I conclude that about 98% of these must have had the double line watermark.

The 2c carmine, coiled endwise (perforated horizontally), perforated 12, was issued January 2, 1909. Along with the single line watermarked stamp, 21,958 coils of 500 and 5,615 coils of 1000 were issued. The stamp is fairly common.

The 2c carmine, coiled sideways (perforated vertically), perforated 12, was issued ten days later on January 12, 1909. The Bureau also counted these

UNSOLICITED

Packet No. 124 entirely satisfactory. I added over 450 new varieties to a previous collection of 2000 stamps.—H. S. Lynn, Pittsburgh, Pa.
I was very much pleased with the War Stamps I received in your 3000 variety packet as I added about 100 varieties to my collection of 300 Wars. It is a splendid packet all through.—R. Speer, Long Beach, Calif.

I added 316 stamps to a collection of about 3200, not counting the envelope stamps—(given as a premium)—I also found many better specimens to substitute for not-so-good ones already in my album. Then I made up the balance of the stamps into smaller packets and sold them to collectors for $3.00. As I only paid $3.25 for packet No. 124 in the first place, my net expense was 25 cents on the deal. I got so much fun looking the pile over (worth a good deal in itself) that I am converted to packets from now on.—F. M. Gracey, Cambridge, Mass.

Received packet No. 126 (2000 varieties at $10.00) in good condition and am very much pleased with same. Another order enclosed.—C. C. Colyer, Altoona, Pa.

along with the single line watermark stamps, and of the combination, 36,958 coils of 500 and 3,121 coils of 1000 were turned out. If we compare the relative rarity of the two watermarks, fully 99% of the above must have had the double line.

The 4c brown, coiled endwise (perforated horizontally), perforated 12, was issued August 15, 1910, and while the stamp is scarcer than the lower denominations, it is not un plentiful. This was the first and only 4c stamp ever coiled endwise. As these were reeled before the Bureau started to use the single line paper, we are able to state that 258 coils of 500 and 30 coils of 1000 in all were made.

The 4c brown, coiled sidewise, (perforated vertically), perforated 12, was issued February 23, 1909, and consequently was used for a somewhat longer time than the endwise stamp. The stamp is among the scarcest of the lower values. Of these, 810 coils of 500 and 200 coils of 1000 reached the public.

The 5c blue, coiled endwise, (perforated horizontally), perforated 12, was issued on January 2, 1909, and like the 4c, is the only variety of this denomination ever coiled endwise. In all, 143 coils of 500 were issued. The stamp is not as scarce as the small numbers issued would lead one to believe. This is due to the fact that there was not a great demand for this stamp by the public, and as a result, a number of them were still in the post offices at the time the collectors began to take interest in the coil stamps.

The 5c blue, coiled sidewise, (perforated vertically), perforated 12, was issued February 23, 1909, and remained in use for about four years. Of this sidewise stamp, 905 coils of 500 and 200 coils of 1000 were made.

The 10c yellow, coiled sidewise, (perforated vertically), perforated 12, was issued on February 23, 1909, and ranks among the rarest coils. The records show that there were two printings, or rather two reelings, one during February and one during April, 1909. All that I have seen, however, are identical in shade. Of this stamp, but 30 coils of 500 were reeled, and these were distributed to postmasters as follows, in the order named:—Jersey City, N. J., 10 coils; Orangeburg, N. Y., 10 coils; Washington, D. C., 1 coil; Chicago, Ill., 5 coils; St. Louis, Mo., 3 coils, and New York, N. Y., 1 coil. Those which went to Orangeburg were all used up by Bell & Co. One of the Chicago coils were sent to a Washington dealer in payment of an account, and these were used at the time for postage, a few of them having been sold to collectors. The Washington coil was broken at the post office, for I personally remember buying ten of them. These I used for postage. The line strip of four is the piece mostly in demand, and I doubt if two dozen such strips exist.

The 3c denomination of this issue with the double line watermark was never issued, either endwise or sidewise. Scott and Gibbons both formerly listed these, not because they had made any special investigations regarding the standing of the varieties, but because they were recognized by those supposed at that time to know something of the subject. As a result of my former writings on this subject, both of these catalogues now omit these coils, and rightly so.

As to a little history of this so called coil, when I first became interested in coil issues, I tried to obtain a line strip of each variety for my collection, and was surprised to find that I could not locate a strip of the 3c stamp which Scott at that time listed at but 15c. I knew nothing about the stamp, but I was at once convinced that if it was to be had it certainly was much rarer than the catalogue value would indicate. Finally, after much hunting, I secured what was said to be a genuine strip of four of both the endwise and sidewise varieties. These came from a prominent dealer and were initiated by him on the back. Examination showed that these were perforated 12½ and not 12 like the other denominations. I then investigated at the Bureau and found that they had never used perforating wheels so arranged that they would perforate such a stamp. These experiences made me skeptical of the stamp's existence. I then wrote to Mr. John N. Luff to learn why these stamps had been listed by Scott, and asked as to what he knew of these coils. Mr. Luff very kindly informed me that he knew nothing about these 3c coils, but stated that when he collected coils and private perforates, that he had this stamp in horizontal and vertical pairs. The former came from a small collection that he had purchased and he never knew its antecedents. The latter he purchased from a middle western dealer who made a specialty of coils at the time. Both of these pairs, if he remembers correctly, were perforated 12.

I immediately wrote the middle west dealer to learn what light he could throw upon the subject. Did he ever buy any at the post office, if not, did he know of anyone that had; in fact, could he tell me anything in favor of the stamp? This gentleman, one of the earliest dealers interested in coil stamps, said that he knew little about them, but that what little he did know seemed in their favor. I had some little correspondence and tried hard to find out what these facts in their favor were, but he was unable to give any information.

I then spoke with Mr. E. B. Power of Stanley Gibbons, Inc., as to why he had listed the stamp in his check list, and he informed me that he had understood the endwise coil had been issued and had obtained a strip of three of the sidewise coils from a collection that he had purchased. This strip went into a mysterious stamps. Not a single person had ever seen or known of a coil of these stamps, nor had they ever heard of anyone that had. They had all accepted these stamps simply on the say so of one or two that were supposed to know that such coils existed and made no personal investigation themselves.

HIGHEST PRICES

It is wonderful that the highest prices for fine stamps in fine condition are secured at auction sales. Auction buyers know what they want and are willing to pay a liberal price. If you have any real rarities, single stamps in fine condition that will catalog at $25.00 each or over, we can include them in some of our sales and feel sure they will realize the present high market values.

During my investigation I examined at least twenty pairs or strips, supposed genuine, and these were all perforated either 11½, 12 or 12½. As we know positively that the Bureau up to this time had never used wheels that would perforate 11½ or 12½, we can eliminate all of these perforations as not being government issues. Those that were perforated 12, I examined most carefully in two classes. All those showing guide line, I put into one group, and those without into another. I knew that if the strip had a guide line which was not put in by pen and ink, I could assume that if it was not genuine, the perforations would be faked, for the perforated sheets only show the guide line on the straight edged copies, consequently there were no line strips that could be trimmed. In the second group, I not only watched the perforations, but examined them carefully to see if there were traces of the perforated stamp being trimmed. In the case of the line pairs or strips, every one showed either uneven spacing between the holes, a difference in the size of the hole from that used by the Bureau, the rows of perforations were not parallel, or the holes were badly aligned. They one and all showed that they were perforated with single line or single pin instruments or machines, that is, clean die cut. In the case of the government perforations, the holes are cut with a perforating wheel, and as the wheel revolves, cuts its hole and pulls out, it leaves one portion of the circumference of the hole somewhat rough. This shows up clearly with a strong glass.

The normal pairs and strips by the same tests showed either faked perforations or were trimmed so that the knife or scissors mark showed. Some single copies had the earmarks of being good, but this meant nothing, for it was not sufficient evidence to warrant any conclusions in the face of the information that the strips had brought forward.

I also know that the Bureau of Engraving and Printing always sent to the Washington Post Office some of each variety that it issued. Living there at the time, I was a frequent visitor at the cashier's window, and I can positively state that although I purchased all other denominations of this series, I never saw nor heard of the 3c value at the time.

Finally, the Bureau of Engraving and Printing has made an investigation twice to my knowledge, and the Stamp Division of The Third Assistant Postmaster General once and perhaps more often, and they both state positively that the 3c perforated 12 with double line watermark was never issued in coil form by the government. The records show that the double line paper had been long out of use before the first 3c coil was made. These facts should certainly convince the most skeptical person that the stamp does not exist.

My personal opinion as to why the stamp was ever listed, or rather recognized, is this: About the time the other denominations were on sale, the International Vending Machine Company of Baltimore, Md., evidently wanted some 3c stamps for their machines and not being able to obtain them, coiled and perforated some of the 3c stamps just as they had done in the case of the 2c 1903 shield type. These, like the 2c, were perforated 12½. Some of these evidently fell into philatelic hands, and they at once took them to be government issues, for they looked to be such on first glance. As the supply was not large enough to go around, unscrupulous persons made them and tried to imitate the government perforation 12. As these were distributed they were catalogued and as no one had investigated the standing of the stamp, its listing was not challenged. It may be of interest to note that most of these fakes must have come from a single source, for fully half of them are in a peculiar reddish violet shade.

PERRY'S "FIRST U. S. STAMP".

By DR. EMILIO DIENA.

I have read with interest the article on "The First U. S. Postage Stamp", by Mr. Elliott Perry, in your issue for March 6.

In connection with the various covers mentioned by Mr. Perry, I desire to put on record that many years ago, I believe about 1885, when in Florence, I saw at a stamp dealer's shop (the late Mr. Gavilli's) a large front portion of a letter bearing six 1845 5 cent New York stamps. I believe that the letter was addressed to Italy and that each copy was separate.

Many times I reproached myself not to have bought such a splendid cover, and I wonder if it is still in existence or if the specimens were soaked from the letter.

PAYMENT OF RETURN POSTAGE.

It may seem to be a trifle, but in the course of a day's mail it means much to those who are engaged in a mail-order business. We speak not only for ourselves, but on general principles, believing that unintentionally many correspondents are neglecting what should be an ordinary courtesy. When writing, seeking information, which calls for a reply by mail, it is only right to expect that a stamped and addressed envelope should be enclosed. We do this in our own correspondence and feel that it is in accord with the ethics of business.

CHAPTER I.

As evidence of the ever-broadening fields of philately one may well consider the possibilities presented in gathering a representative collection of our humble three cent stamp.

The articles covering the first year's issue of this value from the time the increased rate of letter postage became effective on November 2, 1917, to November 2, 1918, appeared in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY in the issues of Jan. 4 and 11, 1919 (Vol. XXXIII Nos. 1 and 2, Whole Nos. 1462 and 1463).

The restoration of the former two cents rate went into effect July 1, 1919, so that the present article includes such information as pertains to the stamps issued between Nov. 2, 1918, and July 1, 1919; so that now the entire period is covered, during which the three cents letter-postage rate was required, Nov. 2, 1917, to July 1, 1919.

The inclusion of the three cents Victory stamps as a special chapter in the present article is therefore a logical procedure, as these were issued and used concurrently with the stamps of the regular series.

In the following review of a two year's issue of this one stamp, the writer does not presume to present new information, but rather has gathered together from many sources such material as will be of possible assistance to the average busy collector, thus enabling one to make a skeleton collection, as it were, of the essential varieties which have appeared within this period, showing in a comprehensive manner the various phases and processes of manufacture of a most interesting stamp while it is still current.

While stocks in the post-offices of the larger cities and towns are necessarily being frequently renewed, and are thus constantly changing from week to week, the chances of finding some of the earlier plate-numbers should not be overlooked, as requisitions are not always filled from the latest printings. It is in the smaller offices, however, where but a limited number of stamps are used, that there may still be the opportunities of picking up those of the earlier items which are fast becoming things of the past, so rapidly do events follow each other.

Considerable difficulty undoubtedly may be experienced in finding the absolutely first or last plate-number of a given printing, but one should always obtain the lowest and highest number possible, and always be on the lookout to obtain a number still nearer the ultimate than the one at hand.

For some time previous to the actual participation of the United States in the World War on April 7, 1917, philatelists had been made aware of the great struggle thru varieties in our own issues forced upon us by dye shortages and by the pressing needs of increased revenue.

The former was the cause of a series of pronounced shades in several of the values, notably the two cents, three cents and twelve cents stamps. Later when the production of American dyes had become more standardized the shades more closely approximated the earlier normal colors.

On November 2, 1917, the new domestic rates of postage became effective, calling for "3 cents an ounce or fraction thereof,—" but it is extremely doubtful if collectors could have foreseen the far-reaching effects of this action.

Naturally, an unprecedented demand for the three cent stamp arose, which the Department had attempted to forestall by the printing of an enormous reserve supply of stamps of this denomination during the months preceding the change in rates.

Large numbers of both flat and curved plates were made for the three cents value, but it was shortly found that the lines on the die for this value were not cut sufficiently deep to give best results, and many impressions may be found showing considerable wear, especially noticeable in the lack of the finer details of the head and of the surrounding wreath of laurel leaves. The last plate made from the original Die I was 8256, and while I have as yet been unable to find this, I have a block with plate-number 8253 in my collection.

There are also imperforates obtainable of Die I on the no watermark paper, as well as coil stamps and booklet pages, but these last, I believe, will be found rather scarce.

Four plates only were made for the booklets from this Die I, numbered 8095, 8096, 8097 and 8098; and while for a time these were found with some frequency, they are not now easily obtainable, and a collector should surely try to include leaves of these four numbers in his collection, as they represent probably the smallest number of plates of any single item in the regular issues of recent U. S. stamps, and the chances are very remote indeed, of any further three cents booklets being made from recess plates.

The coiled stamps should be represented by pairs or strips from the flat plates, coiled horizontally, and by pairs or strips from the curved plates of the Rotary presses, coiled both horizontally and vertically.

It is a well-known fact that in the case of stamps printed from engraved plates, double impressions are exceedingly rare, and usually when so discovered, are found to be the result of either a shifted or a re-entered transfer, peculiar only to a certain subject in the plate. Hence, all impressions taken from that plate will show the double print, or "shifted transfer" as it is commonly called, in the same place, on every sheet. In the case of a true, double impression, the entire sheet passes through the press twice, receiving two impressions one after the other, which do not exactly coincide.

While such errors in production may occur with more or less frequency during the process of manufacture, the sheets have usually been subjected to such a rigid and systematic inspection that none have ever before reached the public through ordinary channels. Occasional "shifted transfers" of an individual subject in a sheet have been reported from time to time in the philatepress, in many of our former issues as in the present one, but in most instances the "shift" is confined to mere portion of the design, and often can readily be seen without the aid of a glass, and allowances must be made for individuals who would always have a doubled vision upon a too free of a "glass."

However, for the first time, I believe, the history of U. S. postage stamps, must record a true double impression from an engraved plate. It is the cents Die I from Plate 8209, in the entire S. E. pane is known double condition, one impression as sharp as the other; the difference in register being nearly 1/2 mm. horizontally; the plate numbers and the guide-lines all showing the same doubling.

If one-quarter of the entire sheet of 400 is known double, the other three-quarters of the same sheet, i. e., the N. W., N.E. and S.W. panes must have existed also, and so are well worth hunting for.

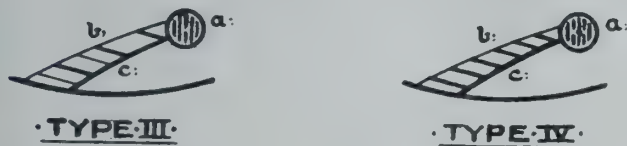

If these panes have been used up in the regular course of business without their peculiarity being noticed, which seems incredible on account of their distinctive appearance, they may turn up at any time amongst used specimens.

CHAPTER II.

RECESS PLATES

first plates, made from transfers his new Die II, went to press on May 10, 1918, the first plate made 8262, and it was stated at the time later plates for this value would down from the new Die II.

reality, however, this die had an ingly short life, for owing to the quality of barytes, a basic in-

gradient of the ink used, containing a larger amount of grit than formerly, the plates wore out rapidly; the average life of a plate having been stated to be but about ten days, a shorter period than the time required to make them.

As examples of the printings from worn plates I have in my collection plate-number double vertical strips of twenty stamps from plates 8266 and 8285, showing great variation in the impressions, good, bad and indifferent in the same sheet.

It has been repeatedly asserted that the last recess plate from Die II was numbered 8367, but it now appears that there were eight more plates of this die bearing higher numbers scattered at random amongst the succeeding plates made for the first "offset" process. These were all 400 subject plates and bear the numbers,—8371, 8386, 8456, 8462, 8466, 8473, 8476 and 8481; and a letter from Mr. J. L. Wilmeth, Director of the Bureau, Engraving and Printing, under date of Nov. 30, 1918, confirms this classification, without, however, going into any explanation as to how it happened that these "recess" plates were so mixed up with those for the "offset" process. It is to be presumed that these were "recess" plates in various stages of completion at the time the latter were being made, and that as fast as they were completed and approved, were assigned numbers in regular sequence with the "offset" plates, in the same manner as though they had been plates for other values.

It will be noted that the first of these "orphans", plate 8371, is the next following the first of the "offset" process plates, No. 8370. So far, I have been unable to obtain any of these eight plate numbers. Here, again, is a further incentive for a little quiet research work, for it is always the case that whatever is the most desired is the most elusive. It is my opinion that these eight plate numbers will be much sought after and absolutely essential for a representative collection.

In addition to the above it may be of

A LITERATURE COLLECTION.

The New Haven Philatelic Society
wishes to extend its thanks to the several readers of the WEEKLY who have donated lots of philatelic literature during the past year.

Excepting a few which have been reserved for current reference, these have been added to the philatelic collection of the Yale University Library for permanent preservation.

Over two thousand pieces were added to this collection during 1919, increasing it to about thirty feet of shelf space.

Further gifts will be gratefully received. Nothing is too obsolete or unimportant to have possible historical interest to the future investigator. Odd numbers of current periodicals, obsolete price-lists, circulars, clippings, all will be carefully preserved in a fireproof building where they will be freely available to all comers. Anything before 1900 especially welcome.

Parcels may be addressed, express collect, to M. Ray Sanborn, Asst. Librarian, Yale University Library, New Haven, Conn.

A FAKED PROVIDENCE COVER.

By A. B. SLATER.

Since the collecting of stamps on original covers has become quite popular, I have noticed that many collectors (and for a time myself included) were very apt to accept supposedly valuable covers without careful examination and investigation to determine as far as possible
whether they are bona fide goods actually used postally as they may superficially appear to have been.

Among the U. S. covers, of course the most valuable are of the early days when stamps were few and their use not compulsory, especially in the period from 1844 to 1853. It was, however, required that prepaid letters should bear the word PAID and a figure or figures indicating the amount prepaid. If the letter did not bear the word PAID, the delivering office would collect the amount required
as indicated by the figure or figures.
Therefore any stamp bearing cover of that period without the word PAID may exist as indicating an oversight at the sending office, but is always subject to suspicion and should be examined with care.

It is comparatively easy to get an un-stamped cover of that period and by affixing a genuine stamp worth perhaps four or five dollars and nicely cancelling it to suit the case, convert the thing into apparently a five hundred dollar combination.

Young collectors may gather some hints to be borne in mind, as I mention the features of a cover submitted to my examination some time ago. The cover is the face of what apparently was a buff paper envelope about 3x5 1/4 in. bearing a pair of the Providence stamps with the Providence postmark and figures 10, addressed to William Bennett, Jr., Hubbardston, Mass. This cover was stuck onto an opaque white card, ostensibly to protect it from being creased, but was a hindrance to the examination by transmitted light. To have required a ten cent rate from Providence to Hubbardston would have required a heavy letter, whereas this cover bore no indications of such but has the general appearance of the usual 5c rate cover, the edges showing evidently the full size of the original envelope. This cover was, in all probability, used postally from Providence to Hubbardston, and the Providence postmark is undoubtedly genuine.

The stamps are genuine Providence stamps, being Nos. 7 and 8 in the sheet,
but the use of stamps in those days was not so perfunctory an operation but that the fact that the stamps are applied upside down causes suspicion that it was purposely done to give the impression of having been done very offhand in the rush of business. The pen cancellation of the stamps does not appear genuine. It is not like the work of either Barton or Gardiner, who were the only ones who had the care of that matter
at the Providence post office, and invariably put the pen cancellation near the center of each stamp. The remarkably long extension of one leg of this one,
reaching over onto the cover, savors
very strongly of having been so done for the benefit of stamp collectors.

The rate mark, the figures 10, are similar to those used at Providence, but the repetition and the manner of overlapping from cover to each stamp is very interesting as being just what a well posted party might do to make the cover pleasing to collectors. At the Providence post office the rate marks were applied by the man who weighed the mail, and as the stamps were a purely local affair, these marks were kept away from them, but one or two instances being known where they even touched the stamp actually used on the cover. It is also of interest to note that it is believed that black ink for the postmarks and rate marks was not adopted
till some time after the Providence stamps were discontinued. The use of stamps was to show the prepayment of the postage, but government regulations also required that all prepaid mail should be marked PAID and the fact that this word does not appear on this cover is fairly good circumstantial evidence that these stamps were not postally used on this cover.

By removing the cover from the card
and subjecting it to strong light transmitted through it from the back (don't use gas or oil light, as the heat may injure your cover) there appears a large figure 5 under the right hand stamp, identical with the rate mark 5 used at Providence in 1850, and this unquestion-ably indicates that the cover was used at the 5c rate without stamps and was not prepaid. The right hand stamp was then raised and turned back without disturbance the other stamp and was photographed as shown by the accompanying cut. This disclosed the figure 5 referred to and also the fact that under the stamp
the surface of the envelope was somewhat soiled, nearly as much as where the stamp did not cover, whereas it would normally be expected that if the stamp were affixed to the envelope when they were new and the cover afterwards soiled by handling, it would remain clean
under the stamp.

The gum is brown, thick and caked under the stamp as the cut shows, but the post office gum was thin and white.
This is not material evidence, however,
as dark mucilage may have been used in addition to the "O. G." This dark gum, though, is like that found on the so-called "Hagan" remainders which were never on sale at the post office. As a matter of fact, this cover is claimed to have been found in the Bennett correspondence many years ago by one to whom I understand it was returned after I saw it. If the black 5 had been erased before the stamps were applied, it might have been even more of a puzzle.

PHILATELIC PUBLICITY.

By C. M. BREDER.

(Without a doubt the plan described by Breder could be made to work in all localities. Any dealer with a bit of en-could cover a large area in his immevicinity, building up a great interest in collecting and producing results from a ness standpoint. New Jersey is one of liveliest stamp collecting states in the
and so far as our mailing list is concis surpassed only by New York, Pennsylv-Massachusetts and Illinois. We are glpass along this suggestion.—W. O. W.)

Essex County, New Jersey, embracing about 130 square miles of territory had a population in round figures amounting to 600,000 five years ago approximately 4,615 inhabitants per square mile (1920 Census figures are available yet). There is one really sized stamp concern located in the of Newark, the county seat. This cern has adopted a policy of philate-publicity, which, while perhaps not is, at least, getting results both munerative and lucrative. It has cured from 26 storekeepers of vari-trades, scattered all over the county,
what you might call "desk-room"
the shape of allowing the placing of their show windows card boards, 16 16"x20", properly ruled and let holding not fewer than 100 stamps.
These stamps are priced at figure 5 enable the concern to allow a certain percentage to the storekeepers of sales made. The cards are made to appear very attractive to the public folks on their way to and from
by a judicious mixture of stamps appeal to the eye. One such card to every five square miles keep the stamp concern busy and on the move until 10 a. m. every day, the hours
which the business place is open.
There is no business worth speaking of before this time and the opening so set as to get prepared for the
during the lunch hours of the day messengers, etc., employed in the office buildings in the immediate neighborhood. One of the storekeepers had granted "desk-room" did considerable business for the concern much, in fact, that he decided to stamps as a side line, and finally
"fired" the concern out of his place.

NORWAY NUMBER ONE.

By N. I. T.

Apropos of H. L. C.'s recent burst concerning the U. S. 1847 its catalog price, permit me to call attention to the absurd jump in Norway No. 1 has taken in the past years. Does the scarcity of this stamp in fine condition warrant a price $2.50 per copy? I've just run over last 25 auction catalogs on my pi-in them I find 48 copies of this stamp offered, an average of about two to sale. There is a strip of three stamps are two pairs and there are three As for condition, with only four five exceptions, these copies are to be fine, very fine, or superb. Here is a clear case of price-fixing by ularity rather than by actual supply.
But of course as long as there are collectors willing to pay such a price
a relatively common stamp, cases
this are bound to occur.

MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS
Beverly, Mass. Portland, Me.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—The Gotham papers contain references to the Loewy auction sale. The first instalment, consisting of United States stamps, was sold recently and brought $26,000. The second lot, consisting of foreign stamps, was sold last week by Morgenthau & Co. and Percy G. Doane, one sale being held at the Collectors' Club and the other in the Tribune Bldg. The collection has proven to be much more valuable than it was supposed to be, except by Mr. Loewy's most intimate friends. At the time of the death of Mr. Loewy, his library with its valuable Shakespeare collection was bequeathed to Cornell University and his will is now in litigation by his widow on the ground that in giving his library to Cornell he gave away more than half of his estate. It is possible that the stamp collection will bring close to $100,000.

—We are informed by Erwin Strasser that he has seen Austria No. 671 with surcharge inverted. This stamp is the 15h on 2h violet (Scott's A23) with Porto surcharge.

—J. Clarke Lennon informs us that LaCrosse, Wis., has never had any precancelled 16c airplane stamps. We are writing to the postmaster of the city for a confirmation of this report.

—For the benefit of nearby collectors, the 13c green stamp may be obtained from the post office at Indian Orchard, Mass. We are so informed by Charles E. Booth.

—The Brooklyn Stamp Club held on Wed. evening, April 21, a very interesting session. The fine collection of Finland, belonging to George W. Ring, was exhibited. Brooklyn collectors should get in touch with Wm. Lycett, Secretary, 323 Clinton Street.

—Fred. J. Melville has issued a tentative checklist of Latvia map stamps. A specimen may be obtained by addressing him at 110 Strand, London, England.

—It has been some time since Canada has had a creditable representative of philatelic journalism, but the initial number of the Canadian Stamp Collector just at hand gives promise of filling the bill. It is published by Farrow Brothers, Brockville, Ont., and edited by Hector M. MacLean of the same city. The magazine of sixteen pages is printed and edited in a very creditable manner, and we urge our subscribers to send a stamp for a sample copy.

—M. Ohlman suggests that we emphasize the need of greater care in making remittances through the mail. He writes that not infrequently correspondents insert currency in their letters and mail them by ordinary mail. He says, "The practise is bad," and we agree with him.

—A number of subscribers have sent us clippings of a most commendable article which has been featured by several of the leading papers of the country. The article in question is written by George M. Emery and deals with the public auction sale of the Ferrary stamp collection, soon to be held. The article is well illustrated and occupies a commanding position. The Boston Transcript gave it an entire page. Such an article is of tremendous value to the stamp collecting trade and it must be a source of great satisfaction to stamp collectors that their hobby is able to secure so large an entrance to the columns of the metropolitan press. We congratulate Mr. Emery.

—W. F. Hubbel calls our attention to the fact that Thibet Nos. 1 to 5 are issued without gum. He states that the catalog makes no mention of the fact and thinks it would be a good plan in cases of this kind that a note be inserted with a description of the "mint" state.

—Our reference in a recent number to a wreath cancellation on the 3c green has invited a letter from Henry B. Phillips of Berkeley, Cal. Mr. Phillips encloses an interesting variety of a Q in wreath used at Quinton, N. J., in 1879. The color is purple.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from F. G. Browne, Joseph Ward, M. M. Cassidy, H. C. Hyde, Jos. A. Steinmetz, Allan J. Roos, C. Lat. Wilhelm, A. S. Davenport, Benj. Cadbury, Frank W. Lynes, Preston Smith, Maitland Milliken, A. H. Kius-alas, Wm. Hoffman, J. A. Montgomery, Jr.

E. B. EDDY.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

This is one of the first match stamps engraved by the Bureau and seems to have been made in a hurry, as there is nothing on it to indicate the purpose for which it was intended. Later the Bureau went to the other extreme and labelled the R. C. & W. adhesive "Match Stamp" so there could be no mistake about it being a stamp and intended for use on matches.

Eddy's stamp is quite attractive and shows the national eagle in an unusual pose. It is an upright rectangle of the standard 1c size with "1" in a circle in each upper corner, "One Cent" on each side, the firm name above and "U. S. Inter. Rev." below. The address, Ogdensburg, N. Y., appears just below the firm name.

Quoting from a letter of the president of the E. B. Eddy Company, Ltd., of Hull, Canada, written in the summer of 1919 on a letter head bearing the words "Established 1851", it will be noted that the period when the Ogdensburg factory was running coincides with the date when the Diamond Match Company—the match trust—was formed:— "Mr. Eddy established a factory in Ogdensburg in 1880 and 1881, which was controlled from Hull, Canada, where he had the largest match factory in the Dominion. Supplies were drawn from the factory in Hull to supply the one in Ogdensburg. He also manufactured pails, tubs and washboards in connection with the match factory, but as the plant was not a very paying proposition he finally sold out to the Diamond Match Company, they buying both the woodenware factory and the match factory. The E. B. Eddy Company was incorporated in 1886, and Mr. Eddy died some fifteen or sixteen years ago. The company is still running the largest match manufacturing establishment in Canada, as well as pails, tubs, paper, washboards, and indurated fibreware, etc."

This letter explains why such a large quantity of stamps—nearly ten millions—were used in such a short time and why the stamp was in use only about six months. The stamp is not rare but is indeed hard to find in good condition if well centered. Such copies are well worth the catalog quotation of 25c. There is little variation in shade and probably there were only a few printings. Color, lake or carmine-lake. The Boston Book States:—

210 stamps per sheet, (14x15).

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Here—House & Garden for May brings philately in its best guise before a discriminating public. In that magazine of distinction, two and one-half pages are devoted to pictures and stories of stamps, under the clever appellation, "Mercury's Print Collection." There is the further heading, "The Postage Stamp Has An Appeal To Those Who Prefer To Ride Their Hobbies At Home." Gardner Teall, the author, has shaped his material to advantage and the result is a most readable summary of stamp collecting which is illustrated in a way to compel the attention of the eye. A Baltimore ten cent and a St. Louis twenty cent, each on cover, is shown; and likewise the Mulready envelope and the penny black on envelope. Some of the newer stamps of striking design appear, including two of the Hungry Bolshevik stamps. The text and pictures are presented in exquisite style, and we are sure that the combination will be found so appealing that a number of converts to philately will be credited to the article. In our last paragraph, something will be found about the details of this triumph for philately.

Corner—We have received a copy of the Seattle, Wash., Star, that bears a heavy type announcement: "Tacoma Philatelic Bug Corners 'Penny Blacks'." The text begins: "After years of ceaseless endeavor and the outlay of much money, Clyde D. Brill of Tacoma, member of the Washington State Philatelic Society, has cornered nearly every copy in America of the first postage stamp, much sought after by collectors the world over." It happened that Mr. Brill at the eighth annual banquet of the society, said that he had "bulled the market" on this stamp, having accumulated 1,600 copies. The voracious reporter quotes the speaker as admitting that there may be "half a dozen others in this country." We may say with certainty that there are a few penny blacks that Mr. Brill has not annexed, as we have just been offered a lot of over one hundred on covers. However, we recognize that non-philatelic reporters are human and therefore not infallible, and that remarks at banquets are often "in the manner of speaking." On the frame indicated, a number of philatelic stories were strung; and so some local publicity was had by the society which will be helpful in the drive for new members.

Bit—In "September," by Frank Swinerton, the English writer, Robert, a youth of seventeen or so, was to occupy his summer holidays with the pleasures that appealed to him. "Bird's nesting, chemicals, botany, stamps, bicycle rides, tennis, walks—these were only a few of his desired employments." We are glad to find stamps catalogued as a summer pleasure.

Sport—We copy the following from the advertisement of a big London dealer. This account of the visit of a specialist is taken from an article in a stamp journal: "Glancing over the rest of the book, he noted an even scarcer variety, the normal price of which was beyond his means. But as it was priced at one penny, he bought it also. One of the consolations of a specialist is that one should know more of one's specialty than the dealer, who cannot specialize in everything." This is tremendously jolly. Some dealers have been known to sulk over such an episode and effect a "never darken my door again" attitude towards the ferret who gathered in the gem for a few bawbees.

Echo—We are reminded to inquire what has become of the old-time dealer who about 1890, with an air of great good cheer, allowed favored customers to go through his stock-book in search of watermarked varieties, he resolutely maintaining that the absence or presence of a watermark did not affect the value of a stamp in any way.

Wanted—We expect to get the unvarnished version of the alleged "plant" of a lot of faked Hawaiian Missionaries, whereby a stupendous swindle was perpetrated at the expense of a New York dealer. In the meantime, the stories that come to us are founded on hearsay to no small degree.

Said—The secession of Sonora from the republic of Mexico with threats from Chihuahua to follow this example of her sister state is fraught with many philatelic possibilities, we should say if forced to make conversation, but (and here we quote from a correspondent on the spot in Sonora) "the matter may be settled without revolt by concessions from Carranza," who, we gather, has been warned by the Chamber of Deputies to recede from his position that nullifies the electoral wishes of the citizenry who are not in accord with the Carranza policies.

Flags—We are favored with the following letter from Professor Julian Goldthwaite, who says: "Your various references to the symbolism of the Ukrainian stamps recalls that I have been at some pains to collect the official descriptions of the flags of some of the new European countries. However, a friend has sent me copies of continental edition of the London Mail, in which a most instructive summary is given of these new emblems. For instance, its application to Ukraine is: 'The flag of Ukraine, modest in its design of blue over yellow, horizontally arranged, aims at least at being symbolic, the official description explaining that it represents the blue sky over the golden wheat-fields of Europe's richest granary.' The clipping in its further descriptions deserves space elsewhere.

Here—Well, over a month ago, Mr. Hugh C. Barr, of Vogue, wrote: "I know that articles on stamps and stamp collecting in newspapers and magazines outside of our chosen field are always of interest to you. Accordingly, it will be welcome news to you to learn that House & Garden, one of the Nast magazines, will publish in its May number a truly excellent article on stamp collecting. I say 'excellent' advisedly, because I have just read the manuscript of the article and helped our art department in the selection of the illustrations and the lay-out of the pages, and from the point of view of both the layman and the collector, it should prove very interesting reading. For about a year, House & Garden has published in each number an article on 'collecting,' treating of various subjects. . . The author of each article in the special issue of House & Garden, while I doubt if he has ever handled all the various subjects he writes about, he certainly handles subjects very cleverly and accurately. The manuscript of the stamp article shows that he has a good working knowledge of stamps in general; an article, appearing in a high-class magazine such as House & Garden, with a circulation of approximately 100,000 copies, should prove one of the best publicity articles that ever have appeared.

BOOKLETS!

A SUGGESTION

When you tour this spring, take advantage of your opportunities to visit the post offices in the towns you pass through. From a Collecting Standpoint you will find that Booklets are most interesting and the zest of hunting for them simply adds to their attractiveness. From an Investment Standpoint—Well there are many varieties and I will pay several times face for issues as far back as 1908 are being found today in Booklet form. Write for my Descriptive Circular; you do not understand their classification and how to go about looking for them.

2c POST CARDS SURCHARGED 1c.

APRIL 19, 1920.

1. Change of denomination.—The department is authorizing postmasters to change the denomination of their unsold 2-cent postal cards to 1 cent by running them through canceling machines equipped with special dies bearing the numeral "1" and the word "cent" in place of the regular postmarking-canceling dies.

2. Purpose.—The principal purposes are to conserve, during the prevailing condition of short paper production throughout the country, large quantities of paper which would otherwise be wasted and to save the Government the cost of manufacture of the many millions of outstanding 2-cent postal cards which must otherwise be a total loss.

3. Description.—The dies which are being provided print upon the 2-cent stamp on postal cards a large double-line numeral 1, with the word "cent" underneath running through the two original numerals "2" and word "cents." The revaluing is done with black ink.

4. Authorizations.—As 1-cent dies are obtained from the die makers the department will send them to postmasters with authorization to revalue their stocks of 2-cent postal cards and full instructions for doing the work. They will also be instructed as to securing credit for 1 cent each on the postal cards as revalued. Postmasters are requested not to apply to the department for authorization to revalue their postal cards; the authorizations will be issued to them as 1-cent dies become available, in the order of quantities of 2-cent postal cards reported on hand in response to the instructions published in Notice No. 27, January Postal Guide.

5. Postage and selling value.—The postage value and selling price to the public of 2-cent postal cards revalued "1 cent" shall be 1 cent each.

6. Redemption.—Two-cent postal cards revalued 1-cent shall be redeemed at the redemption rate for 1-cent postal cards, under the provisions of paragraphs 5, 6, and 8, section 344, Postal Laws and Regulations. The possibility of "skips" in revaluing in canceling machines makes it necessary to refuse redemption of 2-cent postal cards except at the redemption rate for 1-cent cards. If redemption of 2-cent postal cards that have not been revalued is claimed at the rate for 2-cent postal cards, a statement of the time, place, and other circumstances of their purchase should be made by the holder and sworn to before a postal official. This statement should be submitted to the department for ruling before redemption is made, the postal cards meantime to be held in the custody of the postmaster.

40,000 3c Greens

This lot has never been picked for double papers, stitch watermarks or shifts but probably contains no wonderful cancellations and the condition is no better than average. Mostly Continentals & Americans—fewer Nationals and Re-engraved. A good bunch to have handy on a rainy day when the golfing is flavored too strongly with mud. First $10 check received takes 'em.

THOSE 30 DAY BARGAINS

mentioned last week will go big with the fellows who should have bought last year. Some of the prices look silly compared to the quotations now in effect on good average copies. Good to fine old U. S. at substantial discounts on approval while the old stock lasts. But if you forget to send the reference I'll forget to fill the order. Can supply fine to superb 5c '47s at $5 to $10, on and off covers; not so fine for less. 3c 1857-61 on covers; 20 covers, each with a different cancellation, for the enormous sum of one dollar. If you like covers you'll like these.

D. TAUSSIG, 10 West 28th Street, NEW YORK

Mr. Frank R. Demmerly sends us more information as well as varieties of the 2c on 3c provisional envelopes with the Indianapolis overprint, while Mr. Vergne H. Ford sends us the first of the Des Moines overprints, although we previously mentioned that the die for sur-

ing that these stamps were first issued to the Washington Post Office on March 13th. Mr. Karl Koslowski writes that he purchased a part sheet of this stamp from plate No. 10824 at the North Western Post Office Station in Detroit on March 13th, so it looks as if the Washington office was not the first to receive its supply. The stamp has not been issued imperforate as yet, and if any get out it will probably be by accident.

The Nassau Stamp Company has shown me a very odd sheet of the current 2c engraved perforated 11, unwatermarked, wherein the vertical left half of the sheet was printed first and the last several rows were blank and then later on the sheet was run through the press again and the right half printed. Where the two printings meet in the center we find a vertical row of stamps of very odd appearance much narrower than the normal variety. This is certainly a real double print. Mr. B. K. Miller kindly informs me that he also has run into something somewhat similar.

Mr. D. B. Beattie sends for inspection an unusual envelope error, namely, the 2c circular die A on white, size 3, knife 92, on the paper watermarked, 1911 (watermark No. 18) instead of the normal 1915. Twelve in all were found in a Virginia town. This variety will be known as Bartels' No. 0283A.

1020, Circular Die Envelope, Error in Watermark.

2c red, Die A, size 3, knife 92, Wmk. 18.

Rev. C. L. Young also sends two heretofore unknown envelopes, namely the 1c green oval die B, size 5, white, high back on extra quality paper as well as the same stamp die D, size 5, white, low back on the 1919 watermark paper.

DANTZIG.—Current German stamps overprinted DANTZIG FREISTAAT have been freely advertised, but we are informed on the highest official authority that no overprinted stamps have been issued in Dantzig, where ordinary un-surcharged German stamps are still in use. Moreover, Dantzig is not a State but a town and the German spelling is "Danzig", therefore if any surcharged stamps are necessary the overprint
 would probably be DANZIG FREIS-TADT.—Whitfield King & Co's Monthly List.

ESTHONIA.—The Aerial stamps referred to in our last month's issue are issued. They are of the value of 5 marks (not 10) and are triangular in shape, printed in yellow, blue and black.
 The central design is an aeroplane in flight and the inscription is EESTI OHUPOST (Esthonian Air Post).
 The stamps, which are imperforate, pay for the conveyance of letters from Reval as far as Helsingfors only, by aeroplane, and in addition the ordinary postage to destination has to be prepaid with ordinary stamps. Our correspondent states that only two aeroplanes are at present available and that they could not convey a tenth of the mail to Finland, therefore the diplomatic mails and registered letters are taken first and as many ordinary letters as can be carried.

The 35 penni stamp has been discontinued and the recently issued 70 penni lilac stamp has been replaced by one of the same design, but printed in blue.

 visionals of this country. The 30c value of 1918 has been surcharged with "1920"
 in blue and at the same time bears the overprint "2 centavos" in black. The other is the 60c of the same issue and this has "2 centavos" in black at the top,
 while at the lower left is "1920" in red.

HAYTI.—For some time we have preferred to ignore the avalanche of surcharged rubbish which flows from Port au Prince every now and then. We are glad to say that there is at last ground for some hope that the eruption will cease, at any rate for a considerable period, as an order has just been placed in New York for the production of six millions of stamps, comprising five values only—viz. 3, 5, 10, 15, and 25 centimes de gourde.

The design of the two lowest values is to represent Agriculture and that of the other three Commerce.

Incidentally, even while we are expressing our hopes for some sort of respite, a new provisional arrives—viz.

the 1 gourde, ultramarine, of 1898, (already overprinted EN PIASTRES PORTES, &c., in an oval frame) surcharged 1c GOURDE, vertically.—Stamp Collecting.

MACAO.—The Stamp Lover reports that the 5a stamp of 1914 issue (Reaper type) has been surcharged "1/2 AVO" in two lines in black. Also the 6a on 25r provisional of the 1915 issue surcharged "2" in black.

MONACO.—The remainders of the Red Cross stamps have been overprinted with date "20 mars 1920" to commemorate the wedding of the daughter of Prince Albert of Monaco. The following values are overprinted with the date only, and sold by the Post Office at the original value:—15c+10c, 25c+15c, 50c+50c, 1fr+1fr. The following are overprinted with lower values in addition to the date:—2c+3c on 15c+10c, 25c+15c and 50c+50c; 5c+5c on 1fr+1fr and 5frs+5frs. These stamps appear to have been made for purely speculative purposes, as they have been offered at 10 to 20 times the face value.—Whitfield King & Co's Monthly List.

MOZAMBIQUE.—The Stamp Lover
 notes that the 1c and 5c War Tax stamps of 1918 issue has been overprinted CORREIOS and surcharged
 new value in one line diagonally upwards from left to right in black. They are 1 centavo on 1 centavo, deep green and 1 1/2 centavos on 5 centavos, carmine.

NAURU.—The Australian Philatelic Record reports that Mr. H. Davis has shown them the 2d and 2 1/2d, overprinted NAUPU.

NEW ZEALAND.—Mr. J. H. Smyth has shown us the current 3d stamp surcharged OFFICIAL in black in the same manner as the previously issued George Official stamps.

POLAND (Southern).—The present series with values in halerzy and kronen
 are likely shortly to disappear from use,
 as it is proposed to use the fennig and mark currency—now used in North Poland—all over the country, and thus do away with the difficulty of two separate sets of money. The fennig and mark values will then be used in South
 as well as North Poland. The blue Unpaid Letter series will also vanish, as the necessity for their use will no longer exist. As a matter of fact, Whitfield King & Co. state that the kronen and heller values (formerly used in Galicia)
 have already been withdrawn.—Stamp Collecting.

SAN MARINO.—This ridiculous mus in the stamp world is going to launch another series of labels. Il Bollettino Filatelico announces that this series will comprise six values, designed by Professor Carlo Patrignani. They are to symbolize the past "glory" of the tiny Republic—its history and social activity, &c.—Stamp Collecting.

PRECANCEL NOTES.

By CHAS. WILSON.

Cleveland, O., is using a new type similar to the current Cincinnati but slightly larger and thinner type.

Double strike precancels are scarce
 from some cities, others are quite common. Boston is one of the scarce ones, also New York, but Chicago are quite common. The dated Chicago doubles, however, command high prices.

Errors in spelling in precancels occur
 in several cities. In the Garden City, Kan., one in every ten, Kan. is spelled
 "Can."

Chicago has several errors in spelling:—"Chiago", "Chicago". They occur mostly in the handstamp varieties.

South Weymouth, Mass., occurs on the 1c 1902 as "South Weymotuh", Mass.

Northampton, Mass., on the set of 1898, diagonal, occurs the error "Nass."
 also on the dues, on the 1914 issue perf.
 10 and also on the perf. 11 occur the "fi" in place of "th", but this roller is no longer in use.

Grand Junction, Colo., has been using the 3c Victory precanceled.

Peoria, Ill., has precanceled the 6c and 16c airplane. Superior, Wis., and La Crosse, Wis., are both using the airplanes precanceled. I found a new old one in a lot of junk precancels the other day, a 2c 1912 Cincinnati, Horseshoe Type, inverted, not catalogued and rare.

I know of one precancel collector who collects plate numbers only. "Some job".

SLOV.—This abbreviation meaning Slovenska is seen in the oval of the 1 crown and 2 crown values of the so-called Laibach issue of postage stamps. It is in both Roman and Cyrillic letters.

SLOVENIA, OR CARNIOLA.—(Krain in German.)—The English equivalent for the native term Slovenska. A former crown land of the Austro-Hungarian Empire under Cisleithan (Austrian) influence in distinction from Hungarian (Transleithan) administration. It is a country of about 1½ millions population and is the third main member of the Jugoslav state. Capital city Ljubljana (Laibach).

SLOV. LIGA.—This inscription means Slovak League and is found on a war charity label issued for the purpose of raising money for Czechoslovakia. The label was not used for postal purposes. The second inscription found on this stamp "Slovensky brat objim Simat" means "Slovak brother embrace your mother." It could be taken to mean "Always be loyal". The shield represented is that of the country.

S. O. 1920. (East Silesia.)—This overprint found on certain Polish and Czech stamps stands for "Silesie Orientale". The surcharge was applied during the progress of a plebiscite held in Austrian Silesia, as it was formerly called. The district was occupied by both Poles and Czechs, both nationalities making claim to it.

SOMERS ISLANDS.—A name by which the Bermuda Islands have been known.

SPES BONE.—An inscription "good hope" found on certain stamps of the Cape of Good Hope colony.

SPES MIHI PRIMA DEUS.—A motto shown in Slavonic characters below the royal arms of Serbia on the stamps of 1904, and meaning "God my first hope."

SRB.—This abbreviation meaning Srbska (Serbian) is found in the oval of the 1 crown and 2 crown values of the so-called Laibach issue of stamps. It is in Roman as well as Cyrillic letters.

SZEGEDIN.—A district in Hungary which came into philatelic fame in 1919 with a set of overprinted Hungarian stamps.

T.—An abbreviation for "taxe", a surcharge on certain stamps converting them into postage dues.

TANACS.—A surcharge on Hungarian stamps meaning "Councils", or as is now used in the Russian form, "Soviets".

TAXA DE GUERRA. (War Tax.)—This overprint was applied to revenue stamps of Portuguese Guinea, thus converting them into war tax stamps, in connection with the world war.

TEMESVAR.—The chief city of Banat, a district of Southeastern Hungary. This city, when occupied by the Allies in 1919, issued a set of stamps consisting of Hungary stamps surcharged.

T. E. O.—These letters stand for "Territoires Ennemis Occupes", meaning "Occupied Enemy Territory". They were applied to Turkish stamps for use in Cilicie.

THEBUSSEM DR.—The pen name of Senor Mariano Pardo de Figueroa, who did much to improve the wretched condition of the Spanish postal system forty years ago. His work was much appreciated and he was offered various honors, which he declined, making a curious request that his correspondence in Madrid might be exempt from postal charges. The privilege was afterward extended to Spain generally and the Spanish colonies. He caused special stamps to be printed for his private use, the design consisting of a double circle containing his name and the letters KRTRIO—a phonetic suggestion of Cartero (postman). The stamps were recognized by the Spanish government, though Dr. Thebussem seems to have preferred the use of a handstamp.

TIMBRE DE RECONSTRUCCION.—An inscription found on a 12½c stamp of Guatemala, representing an additional tax. The funds secured were used for the rebuilding of the Guatemala General Post Office, which was destroyed in the earthquake of 1917-18.

TRANS-ATLANTIC AIR POST.—This inscription is found on the 15c 1897 Newfoundland, the stamps being used to frank letters carried by Capt. Alcock in his successful aerial flight across the Atlantic from Newfoundland to Ireland, June 14-15, 1919.

TRANSYLVANIA.—A former Austrian principality and part of Hungary since 1868. The country declared its independence of Hungary, Dec. 2, 1918, and a royal decree by the king of Roumania annexed the territory to Roumania Jan. 11, 1919. Roumanian stamps overprinted P.T.T. in monogram were issued to commemorate the annexation.

UDINE.—The capital of the province of the same name in Venetia, Italy, which issued type-set stamps for local use in 1919.

UKRAINE.—The region of the middle Dnieper Valley from the marshes of Pinsk to the cataracts below Ekaterinoslav. As a result of the great war Ukraine became an independent republic.

UKRAINSKA NARODNA REPUBLICA.—An inscription shown on the stamps of Ukraine, meaning "Ukrainian Peoples Republic."

UNIO CATALOGNE.—Certain small labels bearing this inscription and a nondescript device were issued in 1919 to raise funds for the cause of Catalan self-government. They were not postage stamps, and the Spanish government quickly applied a quietus.

VALORE GLOBALE.—A surcharge applied to certain stamps of Fiume. In order to vend them at their normal value these words were overprinted, indicating "value according to face."

ENDT, EARLVILLE, IOWA.

HUSSMANS'S TOTAL IS 439.

Since last October the C. E. Hussman Stamp Co. of St. Louis has secured 439 new subscribers for the WEEKLY, a result in co-operation for new subscriptions that has never before been achieved by any dealer. During the past month 70 subscriptions have been taken and L. B. Dover is a close second with 63. It is with great pleasure that we mention especially the thirteen dealers who have sent in during the past month ten or more subscriptions. It is needless to say that we feel under special obligations to these firms who have taken the time and the trouble to use our subscription forms. The thirteen leaders for the month of March are:—

NEW FLAGS.

One of the most successful is the new flag of Poland, consisting of white and red horizontal stripes, with a red shield appearing in the center of the upper half, upon which is emblazoned the white eagle of Poland, curiously enough, seeing that it is the flag of a republic still wearing a crown!

There has been a great moulting of "eagles" recently in European heraldry, but the bird of war flaps its wings and again raises its (double) head as the emblem of rockbound Albania. Incidentally, in this flag is committed what might almost be called the heraldic "crime" of emblazoning "color on color" that is black on red. If one had been a "metal" (yellow or white) it could have made all the difference.

The flag of Ukraine, modest in its design of blue over yellow, horizontally arranged, aims at least at being symbolic, the official description explaining that it represents the blue sky over the golden wheatfields of Europe's richest granary.

The new flag of Czechoslovakia incorporates the colors of Bohemia, white over red, with a triangular patch of blue in at the "hoist" end, emblematic of the blue hills of the Carpathians.

The flag of Latvia (otherwise Lettland or Lettonia) one of the new Baltic states carved from the side of Russia, is red, white, red, horizontally, the two red stripes being each double the width of the central white. As an instance of the persistence of warlike realism, it may be added that the red is officially described as the "color of coagulated blood."

Two other states that have broken away from Russia have chosen horizontal strips, but in these cases tricolors of equal width, Esthonia flying blue, black and white, and Lithuania the gay "Futuristic" combination of yellow, green and red, in both instances reading downward.

Another flag that will soon be familiar in Baltic and British waters is that of SYRIA, CILICIA, NEW ARAB STATE, PALESTINE, MECCA, EGYPT, SUDAN, ABYSSINIA, THE LEVANT, ETC.

Also Their Errors and Varieties.

If you are interested in the above countries, ask for an approval book. Deposit of money from $5.00 to $100.00 (greenbacks) will do. Also A. P. S. number. Money back if unsatisfactory. Ref. W. O. Wylie.

Finland, with its simple but effective device of a dark blue upright cross upon a white ground, oblong for the merchant service and swallow tailed when flown as the ensign.

The new emblem of Austria is very liable to be mistaken for that of Latvia, here again the colors being red, white, red, horizontal, but in this case of equal width. This design only differs from the old flag of Austria-Hungary in not having the lowest stripe half red, half green, the latter color representative of Hungary.

Finally, from official information received, the writer can state that the new flags of Germany are as follows:

The national flag is to be horizontal stripes of black, red and yellow, while the mercantile flag retains the old black, white and red horizontally, but with a "canton" of black, red and yellow in the corner.—London Mail.

NOTES FROM THE ORIENT.

By FELIX COHEN.

Syria again. The third issue of this young but very promising philatelic country (O. M. F., Syrie and Egyptian value on French stamps) has been sold out and the new fourth issue is already on sale and differs from the third only by thicker typographical print. The values on hand up to date of this fourth issue are: 1 millieme on 1 centime, 2m on 2c, 3m on 5c, 5m on 10c, 20 piastres on 5 francs. The intermediate values are still T. E. O. on French Levant stamps but these seem to be at the end of their existence and will be replaced, probably, by the fourth typographical print so jumping over the third print, and will consist only of four values overprinted O. M. F. with thin print. From trustworthy reports I am able to give the official number of stamps overprinted "O. M. F. Syrie" and Egyptian value in thin characters. These are:—
1 millieme on French stamps, 15,000
2 millieme on French stamps, 15,000
3 millieme on French stamps, 7,500
20 piastres on French stamps, 750

It is still unknown if the fourth issue will be permanent or not, as political conditions of these new Asiatic countries do not look totally settled. The ruler of the new Arab State, Emir Faisal, proclaimed himself, according to local telegrams, King of Syria, Palestine, etc. What this may mean to philately is at reach of every philatelic mind?

Philatelically, the new Arab State has about 50 to 52 varieties of Turkish stamps overprinted HAKUMA EL ARABIE to his credit. They run from 2 milliemmes up to 25 piastres. There has been a rush here, days ago, for these stamps, as letters arriving from Emir Faisal dominions had only ordinary Palestine E. E. F. stamps. Why and how this is possible is not at reach of every philatelic mind. Up to date, besides the overprinted Turkish stamps, there is no sign of a permanent issue.

And no permanent issue seems to be on the printing machine for Cilicia, too. In fact, I have a report that the new issue "O. M. F. Cilicie" and value in paras and piastres, of which three values on stamps of France has been seen, runs up to 100 piastres. It must be remembered that Syrian issues are in Egyptian currency, whereas Cilician are still in Turkish. The actual difference is that an Egyptian piastre is now three Turkish worth.

Smyrna, Constantinople and probably some other oriental towns have foreign post offices (British and French) but these post offices are using ordinary stamps of their country of origin. Constantinople has also an Italian post office; Smyrna, occupied by Greece, has no Italian post office. The Polish and Rumanian post offices in Constantinople have been suppressed as far as can be understood. Used stamps on letters, if any of these two Levant post offices, must be scarce.

MICE WILL PLAY.

By GEO. N. VANSOTER.

I am fourteen years old and am a small stamp dealer. I have a personal collection of over 8000 varieties. I am writing to tell you of a funny incident that happened me.

One Sunday night I was sitting in my room reading when I heard a noise in a case in which my father keeps Victrola records. I pulled open one of the drawers and out jumped a good sized mouse. He had made a nest in this old case. It seems, also, that he was a stamp collector, for in his nest I found some Ceylon Wars, Old U. S., Precancels and some other of the nicer stamps. He must have gotten into my sorting board. He had carried at least 100 away to his nest. The only thing he lacked was an album, because he also had some old hinges. The most peculiar thing about it was that none of the stamps were torn the least bit.

I have had trouble with mice before, but they always ate the glue off the backs and tore the stamps to pieces. This seems to be another specimen of the various kinds of collectors.

PRECANCELLED POSTAGE DUES.

By W. H. FIELD.

This is some side issue for the precancelled collector and one that will take considerable effort to complete or even get a fair showing in.

I have 600 varieties, which is probably not 50 per cent of the whole number of varieties available to the collector.

The seven parts of the catalogue list 182 Parcel Post Dues and 394 ordinary Dues, making 576 varieties so far catalogued.

The Parcel Post list issued by Robert Haynes lists 342 varieties of Parcel Post Dues which is about double that in the Bushnell catalogues so far issued, although there are lots of varieties listed there which I have always considered doubtful as to their actual use. Anyway it would appear that there are possibly 1000 varieties of Dues in existence, so a collection of Precancelled Dues would make an interesting and an exceedingly difficult collection to get together.

In my collection 92 cities are represented, scattered all over the entire United States, and I know that ten other towns have used them and perhaps many more. They are just as interesting as the regular issues, as they come normal, inverted, some running up and down. Lots of doubles and double inverts are found. They are printed in most instances the same as the regular postal issues, yet some cities use the rubber roller cancellation on entire sheets, such as Baltimore, Md.; Pittsburgh, Pa.; Atlanta, Ga., and Syracuse, N. Y.

Hartford, Conn., Pittsburgh, Pa., Syracuse, N. Y., use the Killer roller on most of their Dues. The cities using the most prolific number are Houston, Texas, Kansas City, Mo., and Cincinnati, Ohio. Have 53 varieties of Houston, 38 of Cincinnati and 30 of Kansas City, Mo. Houston, Texas, and Coffeyville, Kansas, seem to hold the medal for largest number of unnecessary varieties, as their postoffices either have a very careless force or a very enthusiastic precancelled collector among them, as they come normal, inverted, double, inverted doubles up and down, even different colors of ink, but Kansas City and Cincinnati seem to be perfectly necessary and legitimate issues. Many cities only use the common 2c due but others use the entire set up to 10c value.

The first city to use precancelled Dues was New York City, using the old brown Due of the 1880 type. They used all values from 1c to 25c, cancelling same with a circle with the letters "N. Y." within. Two other cities used the same 1880 Due—Columbus, Ohio, and Wichita, Kansas—but both were undoubtedly printed on remainders either in the office or sent in when the present system of accounting was adopted to handle postoffice supplies which brought into the larger offices old issues of stamps which had been in some of the smaller offices useless for years. Most offices start with the 1895 issue perf. 12 and continue to the perf. 10 variety and are now using the present perf. 11.

The using of the Parcel Post Dues account for the greatest number of unnecessary Dues in existence, such cities as Woodstock, Vt., used two types, all varieties both normal and inverted accounting for twenty varieties. Other cities, like Houston, Texas, Marion, Ky., and Waterbury, Conn., are just as prolific along that line. Yet the regular issues have had their own troubles, too, so we must cast no reflections on the Due stamp precancelled, as 90 per cent of them were issued for actual and necessary use. As this is the day of specialization and as the number of precancels is growing, this branch of the study to any who do not wish to make precancelled game offers an interesting a general collection.—Bushnell's Magazine.

YOU ARE RIGHT—HELP THE SHUT IN!

Responding to your note in the issue for March 27, I am sending some stamps to Murry Gullows, and want to thank you for the opportunity and privilege I have had in trying to bring a little cheer to him. I am always glad to respond to these requests when they come marked with your bona fides, and while I am not overburdened with wealth, still the few dollars' worth of stamps won't break any of us, and these little turns in themselves alone, in my opinion, justify philately, if any defense were needed, and adds to the joy of the game. Am I not right?—M. A. G.

SSAU STAMP CO.
Nassau St., New York City

UNITED STATES 10c 1857-60.

By ELLIOTT PERRY.

The eight different recut stamps on plate No. 1 are not difficult to distinguish, and if we number them from one to eight in the following manner, they will be easy to remember. This order of numbering is quite arbitrary, has nothing to do with their relative position, or position on the plate, and could well be changed when the exact position of each of them has been worked out. Numbers 1 to 4 are recut at top only, 1, 2 and 3 being B reliefs, and No. 4 being the only A relief recut at top only. Numbers 5, 6 and 7
are A reliefs recut at bottom only.
Number 8 is the only double recut—a
B relief recut at both top and bottom.
Thus there are four recuts on A relief
stamps and four recuts on B relief stamps, the A recuts being three at bottom only and one at top only, and the B recuts being three at top only and the double.

(Half tones of all these recuts will appear in the booklet to be printed later.—Ed.)

Recut No. 1.—Tops of X ovals and top line recut. The top line is too flat and comes very close to the letters OST of POSTAGE. This stamp probably comes in the 5th horizontal row just below recut No. 7, but may possibly come in the 7th or 9th horizontal row.

Recut No. 2.—Tops of X ovals not recut. Top line recut and often showing a spur over the T of POSTAGE, running in toward the S. The top line is further away from POSTAGE than on any of the other recuts. This stamp is the misplaced B transfer coming in the top row.

Recut No. 3.—Tops of X ovals and top line recut. Somewhat resembles recut No. 1 but the top line is not so close to POSTAGE and is usually heavier, especially toward the left. This stamp comes in the 3rd, 5th or 7th row adjoining recut No. 8 at the latter's right and just below recut No. 5.

Recut No. 4.—Top line recut. Position dot outside left X oval. The top line appears to have been cut inward from each end and does not exactly meet, making a poor joint over the S of POSTAGE. All A relief stamps have the top design pretty complete and are often mistaken for recuts, but as there are about one hundred A reliefs on the plate and only one of them is recut at the top, the chance that any A relief will be recut No. 4 is only one chance in a hundred. Recut No. 4 comes in the 4th, 6th or 8th row, two stamps to the left of recut No. 7 and just below recut No. 8.

Recut No. 5.—Bottom line recut, the new line running outside the original line below the N of TEN. Position dot outside the left X oval more than 1 mm. away. This stamp comes in the 2nd, 4th or 6th horizontal row adjoining Recut No. 6 at the latter's right and just over recut No. 3.

Recut No. 6.—Bottom line recut much like on No. 5 but running inside the original line below the N of TEN. Position dot touches the left X oval, making No. 6 very easy to identify. The stamp is just over recut No. 8 and forms a block of four with Nos. 5, 8
and 3.

Recut No. 7.—Bottom line recut much like Nos. 5 and 6 but does not run off
the original line below the N of TEN.
Position dot is about 1 mm. from left X oval and is noticeably nearer the oval than the dot on recut No. 5. Recut
No. 7 comes in the 4th, 6th or 8th row two stamps to the right of No. 4 and
just over recut No. 1.

Recut No. 8.—Top and bottom line
recut. Tops of X ovals not recut.
Marked depression in top line over T
of POSTAGE and recut line at the bottom runs off the original line below the N of TEN. This stamp comes in the 3rd, 5th or 7th row with recut No. 6
just over it and recut No. 4 just below
it.

As the reader will note, the recuts
are so close together a block of nine stamps could contain six of them and it is possible that all eight could be included in a block of less than fifteen stamps—three stamps wide by five stamps deep. The following charts show their relative position and as soon as any of the other seven recuts can be located with reference to No. 2 the vertical position of all of them on the plate will be known. The reader will also note that the horizontal position of

"BARGAIN APPROVALS"

With the advent of new and much higher prices with the coming of the 1920 Scott's catalogue, many collectors will have to satisfy themselves with slightly defective
copies of the more expensive stamps.

My "Bargain Approvals," a department of many years standing, will fill the bill.
All stamps that have any defects whatever,
however slight, go to this department—
that is, stamps that catalogue over 25 cents.
I also fill want-lists in this grade of stamps.

As usual, reference is required from all
not having had approval dealings with me within the past two years. Two stamp dealers preferred as reference, although your bank will do.

all except No. 2 is almost determinable since the other seven must come either in the 4th, 5th and 6th or in the 5th, 6th and 7th vertical rows, counting from the left edge of the pane.

Recut number two is the third stamp in the top row of the right pane. This fact is established by Dr. W. A. Evans who has a horizontal strip of three that are made up of numbers 1, 2 and 3 from the top row of the right pane.

None of the eight recuts mentioned above occur on the full shells stamps and it is extremely unlikely any of the full shells stamps are recut unless a peculiarity noted on the stamp believed to be No. 100 R is a recutting. This stamp comes in the lower right corner of the right pane and several copies have been seen, all showing the same peculiarity, but no imperforate from this position with sheet margins at both side and bottom has been noted. The Stevenson collection contained a strip of three perforated full shells stamps with part of an additional margin beyond the right end stamp and the present writer is convinced these three stamps are No. 98, No. 99 and No. 100 R. A single full shells stamp with pane line at the right side and such a large bottom margin that it must be the lower right corner of the left pane—No. 100 L—has also been seen. This stamp does not

POSITION DOTS ON A RELIEFS ONLY

The writer suggests the stamp below recut No. 2 may also be the stamp adjoining recut No. 5 at the latter's right, and if this supposition should prove to be true the exact position of the eight recut stamps would be:—

Recut No. 1 is 46 or 47 on the pane.
Recut No. 2 is 6 or 7 on the pane.
Recut No. 3 is 25 or 26 on the pane.
Recut No. 4 is 34 or 35 on the pane.
Recut No. 5 is 15 or 16 on the pane.
Recut No. 6 is 14 or 15 on the pane.
Recut No. 7 is 36 or 37 on the pane.
Recut No. 8 is 24 or 25 on the pane.

If, however, the stamp below recut No. 2 is the stamp adjoining recut No. 6 at the latter's left, then recut No. 2 is either stamp No. 3 or No. 4 on the pane and the numbers assigned to the other recuts are still correct. Available data tells us only that recut No. 2 is in the top row and may occupy any position in that row from the second to the ninth, but because the other recuts are all so close together it seems more than probable recut No. 2 is in the same pane and very near them.

show the peculiarity noted on all copies believed to be No. 100 R.

Stamp No. 91 L, which is the lower left corner stamp of the left pane—has one position dot below the lower left corner and the other full shells stamps have two dots placed side by side below the lower left corner. Stamps No. 100 L and No. 100 R also have three additional position dots below the lower right corner. On No. 100 L two of these three position dots are at the left of the pane line and the third dot is at the right side of the pane line and may belong to stamp No. 91 R rather than to No. 100 L. On No. 100 R the three dots below and to the right of the lower right corner are in a horizontal row and the middle dot is smaller than the other two. Traces of a faint horizontal guide line may be found close to the lower edge of No. 100 R and sometimes also below No. 98 R and No. 99 R.

The short curved mark below the C of CENTS in the outer line on No. 100 R is possibly a recutting, but if it is a recut it is a horrible botch, for the ends are out of place and other

HIGHEST PRICES

It is wonderful that the highest prices for fine stamps in fine condition are secured at auction sales. Auction buyers know what they want and are willing to pay a liberal price. If you have any real rarities, single stamps in fine condition that will catalog at $25.00 each or over, we can include them in some of our sales and feel sure they will realize the present high market values.

STAMP AUCTIONS
PHILA. STAMP CO.
21 SOUTH 17TH ST. PHIL.

No. 100 R is a short broad line like the original wavy line and looks as if a section of the original line had broken away and the ends had bent upwards, making it crescent shaped.

No. 99 R.

No. 100 R.

If, however, No. 100 R was the first stamp rocked on the plate and the same damage which occurred to the die or to the transfer roll and resulted in the broken shell at the left also damaged the outer line so that when No. 100 R was rocked in part of the outer line was so weakened it broke off or was removed, the remaining full shells stamps would not show as much of the outer line as does No. 100 R, whereas the fact is that some of the other full shells stamps have the outer line more complete than it is on No. 100 R. After studying more than sixty copies of full shells stamps the writer is at loss to explain the presence of the mark under the C of CENTS on No. 100 R other than to call it a poor job of recutting—much worse than any of the eight recuts about which there can be no doubt.

Another fact regarding the method by which the first 10c plate was rocked in still remains to be considered and this is whether or not the B relief was the full shells relief altered after the bottom row was rocked in, and if so, why there is no position dot at the upper corner of any full shells stamp or at the lower corner of any B relief stamp in the 9th horizontal row. No position dots have been noted in these locations but if—as is believed—after the bottom row had been rocked in, the tions below the first, 3rd, 5th and 7th rows.

Here we have an indication that instead of there having been only two reliefs on the transfer roll there were three reliefs, and that the third relief—or the first, which made the full shells stamps—was used only in the 10th row. The writer is unable to distinguish between the tops of the B reliefs and the tops of the full shells stamps and is undecided whether or not the full shells relief could have been altered at the bottom to produce the B relief. If at any point the B relief is definitely more complete than the full shells relief they must have been two separate and distinct reliefs, but it is extremely difficult to come to a conclusion on this point.

On many B relief stamps the outer line of the left shell is stronger and continues farther down than the same line on the full shells relief, but this is not always true and may be due only to the fact that the bottom of the full shells stamps was the edge of the engraving on the plate and the paper at the margin of the sheet was apt to be slightly dryer there, thus causing a fainter or less perfect impression. A large proportion of the full shells stamps show defective printing, particularly along their bottom edge, undoubtedly due to this very cause.

NEWS NOTES.

By JOSEPH WARD.

The New York Tribune and Philadelphia Evening Ledger are running syndicated cartoons by C. A. Briggs that touch on boys' life, pleasant, humorous and otherwise, not forgetting stamp collecting.

The Toronto Daily Mail and Empire ran April 23 a full column on the editorial page dealing with the Ferrary collection.

The Scientific American for April 24 contained an air-mail article of but little interest to philately, as it was a trade booster.

Gentleman, receiving a package:—"Why, this package is delivered in an unusually short time. How do you account for it?"

Carrier:—"Oh, the chief clerk thought that it might contain a time bomb."

The new form of mail address in use in Boston is being commented upon favorably and Boston advertisers in the WEEKLY should use the same more generally. The Philadelphia Bulletin went into the details some time ago to show the people of the Quaker City the advantages of the modern address form. The people of that city while admiring Bay State progressiveness don't value it enough to themselves adopt it.

The Illustrated London News, for April 3rd, last, carried a full page of 48 illustrated New Europe stamps. The page is headed "The Stamp as Historian; Changing Europe Recorded in Philately".

STAMP FAMINE IN AUSTRIA.

VIENNA, April 22.—Among its other troubles, Austria is undergoing a stamp famine. Not only is suitable paper very scarce, but stamp dealers have bought up all the recent issues, many printed on cardboard, and nearly all unperforated. As a first corrective measure, all higher value stamps have been abandoned and parcels must now be taken to the post office and prepaid in money.

It is rumored that unless the situation is remedied, the government will resort to the postal measures of early days, requiring all mail to be prepaid, and then forwarding it unstamped.

POSTAGE STAMPS OF BRITISH COLUMBIA AND VANCOUVER ISLAND.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER IV.—The First Stamp.

The first stamp issued was for the use of the two Colonies and has the names of both upon it. The design shows, in the centre, a profile portrait of Queen Victoria with head to left upon a horizontally-lined ground. Above is "British Columbia" and below "Vancouver Island" in uncolored capital letters on labels of solid color. At the left is "Postage" reading upwards, while at the right the value, "Two Pence Half-Penny," in two lines, is shown reading downwards. The die was engraved and the stamps printed by Messrs. De La Rue and Co., of London, on a thin smooth unwatermarked paper with white gum. They were perforated 14 by a single line machine and show but slight variation in the matter of shade. As we have already observed, this one value was entirely inadequate for the postal needs of the Colonies even so far as interior postage was concerned. Letters between New Westminster, Douglas, Hope and Yale, each required two stamps to prepay the postal rate of 5d, though a single stamp franked newspapers between those points. To other places within the province rates were 1s, 2s, 3s, or 4s and it is obvious that none of these amounts could be correctly made up with a 2½d postage stamp. The stamps were intended for local use only and on this point we read in the Stamp Collector's Magazine for May, 1864, that the stamp "franks letters to the confines of British territory only, or is employed for local postage."

This stamp is known imperforate, and while Scott lists it as a regularly issued variety other catalogues state that the imperforate copies are from proof sheets. Mr. King says, "Why this stamp was issued imperforate it is impossible to say, but it is possible, from their great rarity, that such specimens were from proof-sheets sent out for approval, and afterwards turned into stock by the Government. Used copies are particularly rare; within the last six years I have only seen two mentioned as for sale." The existence of isolated used copies does not, of course, prove that they were ever sold at a post-office in imperforate state. It is quite probable that if sample sheets were sent to the province imperforate the stamps were distributed as "souvenirs," and these may have been used for postage quite inadvertently.

REFERENCE LIST.

CHAPTER V.—The Vancouver Island Stamps.

Unfortunately, as we have already stated, there appear to be no documents of any sort existing relating to the issue of the 5c and 10c special stamps for Vancouver Island. Gibbons' catalogue gives the date of issue as July, 1865, and as they were reported in the stamp journals of the period in September and October of that year we may take this date as being probably correct. Both stamps show a profile portrait of Queen Victoria on a lined ground similar to that shown on the stamps of Bermuda issued about the same time.

The 5 cents has "Vancouver Island" curved above and "Five Cents" curved below, both inscriptions being in uncolored capital letters. The spandrels are filled with foliate ornaments and the whole is enclosed within a rectangular frame of colored dots. In the case of the 10c the name at top is on a straight label, while the value below is also on a straight label, in colored letters, but does not extend the full width of the design. The spandrel ornamentation on this denomination consists of conventionalised leaves. These stamps were also engraved and printed by Messrs. De La Rue & Co. of London. They were printed on white wove paper watermarked with a device consisting of a Crown over the letters "C C" (Crown Colonies), and were perforated 14.

Both denominations exist imperforate and as used copies of the 10c in this state are by no means uncommon it would appear that there were quite a number of imperforate sheets issued. Whether the imperforate stamps constitute a distinct issue or not or were from sheets that had accidentally escaped perforation we cannot say. As these special stamps were in use for less than a year it is hardly likely there were two separate shipments of stamps in that short time. In any case both perforated and imperforate stamps seem to have been used concurrently.

CHAPTER VI.—The British Columbia 3d

From June 20th, 1864, until Nov. 1st, 1865, the 2½d stamp originally issued for the combined use of both Vancouver Island and British Columbia did duty in the latter Colony as a provisional 3d stamp. On November 1st, 1865, a regular 3d stamp was issued, this being quite a handsome production. In a central oval is a large ornamental V surmounted by a Crown, the V, of course, signifying Queen Victoria and the Crown being symbolical of Her royalty. In the centre of the large letter is a rose and at the left and right are thistles and shamrocks respectively, these representing England, Scotland and Ireland. The upper and major portion of the oval band bears the inscription "BRITISH COLUMBIA POSTAGE", while the lower part shows the word "POSTAGE" with an ornate cross at each side. The spandrels are filled in with a plaid ground slightly curved at each of the four corners. These stamps were engraved and printed by Messrs. De La Rue & Co., of London, the sheets consisting of 240 stamps divided into four panes of sixty each (ten horizontal rows of six) placed in pairs. The panes were divided by narrow margins of plain paper. The stamps were perforated 14 and like the Vancouver Island labels of the same year were watermarked with a device composed of a Crown over the letters "CC". This 3d stamp varies slightly in shade and though Scott lists it as existing imperforate we have never seen a copy in this condition. This catalogue, by the way, gives the date of issue as 1866, though we have incontestable proof that it was placed on sale on November 1st, 1865.

The Stamp Collector's Magazine for October 1st, 1865, illustrates an essay for this stamp which differs in many particulars from the issued article. The V, crown, and heraldic ornaments are entirely different in shape and the base of the V touches the lower part of the inscribed band, while the jewel above the crown encroaches upon the upper part of the band. The inscription, also is differently arranged, the words "British Columbia" being at the left and "Postage Threepence" at the right.

This value, like the stamp it superseded, was used only for postage within the limits of the Colony itself, for with a single denomination it was impossible to make up the rates for foreign postage and the more so as the rates were computed in cents.

REFERENCE LIST.

CHAPTER VII.—The Surcharged Issue of 1867.

In 1867 British Columbia adopted a currency of dollars and cents in place of the English system of pounds, shillings and pence and, with the exception of Prince Edward Island, was the last of the British North American Colonies to make the change. The actual date of this change of currency has not been published so far as we can find, but as the Postal Act of 1867 was dated March 13th and gave new rates of postage computed in cents that date may be taken as approximately correct. Naturally, the change of currency made new postage stamps necessary and a supply of 2c, 5c, 10c, 25c, 50c and $1 values were ordered from London. To eliminate the expense of making special plates for each value Messrs. De La Rue & Co. used the existing plate of the 3d printing supplies for each required denomination in a distinctive color and then overprinting its particular value at the base. The 2c and 5c values were printed in brown and red respectively, and had the values surcharged in black; the 10c was printed in lake and had the value added in blue; the 25c was printed in yellow and surcharged with value in violet; the 50c was in mauve with a red surcharge; and the $1 was printed in green and surcharged with value in green.

The actual date of issue of these stamps is not known. Mr. King assumes that all were placed on sale at the same time and ascribes their date to March, 1867, but the new issue chronicles of the philatelic journals of the 'sixties do not corroborate this supposition. The earliest reference we can find to any of these surcharged stamps is a small paragraph in the Stamp Collector's Magazine for April 1st, 1868, viz.:

"We have received specimens of the threepence in bistre, with a provisional value, TWO CENTS, impressed in black ink in lower margin. It has no doubt been thus issued for use until the arrival of the supply of a new series with decimal denominations."

It will be noted that no positive statement is given to show that this value had been actually issued but even if we accept the paragraph as reasonable evidence that the stamp was in use it could hardly have been on sale much before the latter part of 1867. Two months later we read "the postmaster has informed a correspondent that he will very shortly issue new stamps." We can find nothing further until May, 1869, when the following appeared:

"Some months back we announced, on the authority of a trustworthy correspondent, the postmaster's intention to issue new values. The Philatelist now reports the following as being about to be issued:—

- 5 cents orange-red and black.
- 10 " pink and blue.
- 25 " yellow and violet.
- 50 " violet and red.
- 1 dollar green and green.

These will all be printed from a die of the threepence, like the two cents already in existence, and of the two colors above mentioned for each stamp, the second indicates that of the surcharged value, the first that of the stamp itself. We shall give further details of this emission upon receiving ocular demonstration of its existence."

Finally, in August, 1869, we read that all five values had been issued. It would, therefore, seem that with the exception of the two cents none of the values could have been in use before the early months of 1869.

All values except the 2c are known perforated 12 1/2 as well as the more usual 14. Whether these represent a separate consignment or whether both varieties were on sale concurrently we can find no evidence to show one way or the other. All values of this series in both perforations are worth much about the same used and unused with the exception of the 10c and $1 perforated 14. For many years there was so much doubt as to whether either of these varieties had actually been sent to the Colony that they were finally omitted from the 1900 edition of Gibbons' catalogue. In the early part of 1903, however, a used copy of the 10c of undoubted authenticity was discovered and this value was re-instated in the catalogue. Shortly afterwards it was learnt from a reliable source that the $1 had actually been sent to the Colony, though, we believe, no used copy is known. The existence of the lone used copy of the 10c is, of course, very slender evidence that the variety was ever on sale at a post-office.

"ANDY"

By EDWIN B. HILL.

The casual visitor to the Pass City feels always that it is incumbent upon him to stroll toward the Rio Grande, and at least look over into the Land of the Montezumas. Some obtain a twenty-four hours' pass, and enter into the Land of Discontent,—for it is very wet there when all these United States are dry.

More than a year ago I, too, had been among the strollers, but later my duties took me across the border. Since that period reluctance has clung to my garments; but nevertheless, I pass on and rejoice at safe return; for all is not peace with us, however difficult we find it to make the world believe otherwise.

Cross the street which divides the north from the south, in Del Norte, and one is almost at once in the quarter where only Spanish is spoken, and where the stores bear quaint names and their proprietors regrettably reply:—"No habla Ingles, Senor," in the most courteous manner.

If you speak Spanish haltingly, they are very patient, and generally, if you wait a few moments, one of the moderns will drift in, and talk beautiful English to you, devoid of haste and slang,—English that the present generation Americano wots not of.

In the 400 block, on one of these streets, I had discovered a little store where, among other things, Villa and Mexican money was on sale, and glory of glories! stamps of the Revolution, as souvenirs for the tourist and others. The prices were not exorbitant, and I had picked up a few things there of more than passing moment.

It was Texas Day,—March 3,—when all over the state the independence from Mexican rule is properly commemorated. I had for the moment forgotten, and, finding the American stores closed, I entered the Mexican quarter. Here all was open as the day,—for they had no reason to commemorate an enemy's victories.

When I entered the tiny store, I espied a customer, at the rear of the room, speaking slowly in English, to the proprietor. Then he would himself translate, still more slowly, like a child, almost. But his Spanish was purest Castilian, and one surmised he had not used this vehicle of expression for many years.

As I leaned against the show case, the man's profile swept aside the years, and I was a boy again, back in Detroit,—that, and the voice, both were the replica of a man I had known and loved and whose son had been a boyhood chum. This man was chief engineer in a big reformatory, and oftentimes we boys went there to visit him, for his hours were long, and he, with other officers of the institution, sometimes did not reach home for week on end. This man was dead,—this dear old friend,—and his son and I had gone our various ways these many years.

My back was to the light. When the customer had made his purchases—they were sets of Revolutionary stamps—and had turned to pass out the door, I caught my breath. It was my dead friend come to life! He did not see my face in the darkened light. As he left the store, he turned toward the American quarter, walking slowly. He must have been nearly eighty, yet he walked with erect body and firm steps. I made a trifling purchase, and followed. The man turned twice, and, arriving at the Plaza, seated himself upon an unoccupied bench. From a vantage point I studied him. Then the years fell away, and the vision came.

It was the inside of a prison. In the center of the big room was a glass partition, shielding the great engine from the dust and dirt. All was visible to the outer eye. Here the chief engineer worked and watched. Here his son and I, lads in our early teens, visited him now and then, when the mood was on, carrying messages,—for there were no telephones in those days.

One day—and how well I remember it!—as we entered the great door which opened into the large shop, we were attracted by a slight commotion inside the glass partition. Then there was a sight which held us spellbound. A prisoner had raised a hammer to strike the engineer. The engineer did not stir. He looked at the man who had started toward him.

There was a yell in the big room. Some prisoners saw the move, and ran toward the glass door. One, in his haste, went promptly through the partition, dragging sashes and broken glass with him, as he fell upon the prisoner. It was all the engineer, cool through the fray, could do to keep the infuriated men from killing. They tried to throw the fellow into the machinery. He, strangely to us, did not resist. All the anger and hatred seemed gone from him. Yet he was no coward, for no man who was that would stand up before this murderous mob to be manhandled without cringing.

It was all over before the outer guard arrived.

The engineer led the man away. As he passed us, his head erect, his face white, I heard him say, in low, halting tones:

"You should have let them kill me!"

It was three months before the lad and I were back again. The engineer was in his room, and his assistant—always a prisoner—was the man who had tried to murder his patron!

In my nervousness, although I was only a boy, I was fearful of my life. I pulled at my pocket, and out of it fell a few foreign stamps,—for I was a collector from my eighth year. The man saw them.

"Andy!" called the engineer, "here's a boy who collects. You must tell him about your collection."

The prisoner's face lighted with earnest enthusiasm. He knew the rules,—prisoners must not talk without consent,—and this was consent.

So I sat beside him, and he told me of his boyhood and his collection of stamps. That, you of today, was away back in '79. He said he had his collection with him, and next time I was up he would show it to me. As we were going out of the room, I heard the engineer say to his son:—

"Fred, he's the best helper I ever had. He would do anything for me,—for any of us. He just lost his temper the other because I reprimanded him. And want you boys to know another prisoner had done the thing I blamed him. He'll never lose his temper again." The boys were back the next Saturday and the collection was disclosed to our view. There were U. S. a-plenty float over, and many foreign as well. Surprisingly enough, he was a purist in the days when to be a condition crank was an unknown quantity. But his stamps were all perfection! And the album! It was of blank pages, bound in pig-skin, with exquisite binding. And the lettering! The book had been made for him by a prisoner—a man—who had been a bookbinder, whose art had survived the many years before and behind. A few weeks afterward, when we went to the prison, the engineer told me the man had been pardoned, and had said. He left good-byes for us. That night I wept, for I had learned to love him.

All this came back to me, overwhelming me like a wave, as I sat there. Unconsciously, I called aloud:—"Andy!"

The man, wide-eyed, sprang to his feet. I stood erect. We looked into each others eyes. Then he came toward me, laid his hands on my shoulders, and his tears running down his cheeks, he said:—"You! You! After all the years,—you a boy no longer, of course, yet you a boy's heart!"

My own eyes misted. Then we sat down, two men, one middle-aged and past, the other very old. He kept his hand on my arm, as he talked. It is all too sad,—those years. But I am so glad to know you are alive,—and Fred. His father left us years ago, now. But he never knew my story. He was pardoned,—pardoned for a crime he did not commit. The man who committed the crime had a family. I was the one. He begged me to shield him,—I did. Then, dying, he confessed to his wife. She came to see me. I told her to keep silence,—that I had only a few months to serve. But she went to the governor, and I was set free. On her death, long after my release, I learned she had left papers showing all the facts. But I was away from town. I never went back.

"I think I should have gone mad or died, had it not been for my collection and the kindness of my friend, the engineer. You know, that was his name,—Andy. My own did not matter. I loved him, and grew to look like him, as I grew older. That is why you knew me, I think."

The old man's face worked, and it was several minutes before he could command his feelings.

"I have the collection at my home in California. I just stopped over here between trains. It has all the stamps you saw,—but no more. I have another collection in another album, and the book was bound by the man you knew of, back there."

He waved his hand toward the east.

"The old fellow is dying, now,—but he has been with me for twenty years. You see, I asked the governor to pardon him. He had committed a crime in anger,—even as I almost did; and I wanted him to be free. He has been with me in my work for years.

"And now, it is nearly train time. Before we part, however, I want your name and address. You know, I am old, and I may forget."

A smile of passing sweetness swept his face.

I went with him to the train. He shook hands with me, and we stood there upon the steps, tears in our eyes. I watched the train as it disappeared in the distance. I had quite forgotten all things mundane, until I was aroused by a voice at my side.

"I never saw the old man so worked up before. You must-a hit him hard."

He was a man in the garb of a railway conductor.

"Yes, I knew him years ago, back east," was my reply.

"Well, when —" and he named a name that meant the world to many men — "forgets an old friend, it's because he's lost his mind. He never forgets. And kind! Say! If ever a man goes wrong, or gets mad, the old man is the last to blame him. He sure is one white man, plus!"

The railway man turned away. Then I betook me to a bench, to ponder the devious ways of a world gone mad.

A week later, my heart was gladdened by receipt of a tiny blank book, beautifully bound, inside whose covers were hinged three stamps,—Cape Triangulars.—and I leave my readers to guess their rarity. With the gift came a note:—"Dear Eddy," it said,—and none had called me that these years on end! "Here is a tiny thing old Henry made. When I told him of our meeting, he said, 'I must remember him.' It contains what he called always his 'collection.' He has gone the long road at last. When I reached home he was seemingly well, and worked with his little bits of vellum and tools until he was over tired. 'It is finished,' he said as he laid the little book in my hands. We found him lying as if asleep next day at noon. He wanted you to have it,—for remembrance of the sad dead days."

The letter was signed with the full name of him whom we had called "Andy."

A SLIGHT CHANGE IN RATES.

During the past few months, notwithstanding the fact that we have been running 12 and even 16 pages, we have found ourselves unable to use much reading matter, due to the large advertisements with which we have been favored. While we are pleased at being accorded this patronage, we feel that a certain amount of reading matter should appear each week.

It is impossible for us to run the WEEKLY 16 pages regularly, and we feel that a slight increase in the rates on large advertisements is justified. Commencing June 1, the following rates will be in force:

1 page,	$75.00
2 " "	40.00
3 " "	25.00
4 " "	12.50

Any existing contracts will of course be filled, and prospective users of large space will please note the new rates.

EDITORIAL.

Apex.—From all points of the compass come messengers of philately. In other words, clippings from newspapers and other publications on stamp subjects are being sent us in such numbers as to amaze us. For some time past, there has been a steady patter of these articles and we have not been slow to speak in terms of enthusiastic approval in consequence. To sustain the proper verbal proportion of the present conditions, a set of new adjectives would be necessary. In our opinion, the injunctions to spread the gospel of philately that we have voiced for so many years, and for long time to indifferent ears, have been carried into effect; and we believe that for all time to come philately will occupy a position of recognized merit and be admitted to possess fair claims for recognition. The much-acclaimed "new era" may be said to have descended upon stamp collecting; and publicity in the general press was a great force in bringing it here.

Hurry.—A reader sends us his plaints in the following words: "After no little argument, I persuaded a stamp dealer to sell me a copy of the new catalogue at a small advance over the regular price. I was humbly grateful, of course. After my throbbing nerves had calmed down upon seeing how some of the stamps had jumped in price, I essayed to buy one of the early U. S. from the dealer, who, by-the-way, is not a bad fellow at heart. Grudgingly, he admitted that he would sell me the stamp at catalogue, whereupon I gently demurred and he took the stamp away from me and said that he really did not care to sell me the stamp at catalogue but that he wished to favor me! With that I said that I would take the stamp but he said that I was too late as he was now keeping it for someone else. The worst of it was that a man came in who happened to be the self-same person for whom the stamp was kept; and this chap paid more than I was asked for the stamp. It was not bluff, you see. If it continues to be such a privilege to be allowed to buy a catalogue at the regular price and a U. S. stamp at catalogue, the collector will approach the dealer on his tip-toes and make obeisance to him before venturing to crave the boon of being allowed to buy stamps at any price. By-the-way, will you deign to accept a dollar for a renewal of subscription?"

Answer.—From time to time, criticism of the post office department in its ramifications has been made in this paper; and from philatelic days, immemorial, complaints have been made by stamp dealers that the postal inspectors gave scant heed to cases that they referred to them. Recently, having had occasion to examine into the shortcomings of the service, directly attributable to the short-handedness of the department, as a consequence of low wages returned to the postal workers, we came in contact with a man whose fullness of experience in postal affairs has been such as to make him an exceptional authority. At our request, he placed observations on subjects suggested by remarks in the WEEKLY, on paper, in order that we might share them with readers. His preface is: "In a recent issue one dealer said that he finally had found a post office inspector who had put a claim of his through. What he should have said was that he finally found a claim that an inspector could put through. If dealers and others using the mails would read through the Postal Rules and Regulations, there would be less complaint against the department."

Different.—As for the necessity for red tape in some of the workings of the department, our defender of the postal faith says: "In a late letter, one dealer said that he could not understand why, when a dollar and a quarter claim could be paid by a private insurance company within a week, the government could not do the same. Did he ever stop to think that the insurance company selected with some care the persons to whom the insurance privilege was given, whereas the government is compelled to extend the registration privilege to anyone who cares to spend a dime? Remember that congress limits and ties the department down and that the number of employees as well as the pay is limited. There are other duties devolving on postal inspectors besides considering unpaid bills. The 'poisoned pen' letter writers; yeggmen who burglarize post offices; dishonest employees; checking and auditing offices and making collections from them; investigating sites for post offices, and hundreds of other duties are only a part of the daily work of the inspectors. A lot of their duties are far more important than collecting bills. The average inspector works from early to late making his investigations and then spends a good part of the night writing his reports. Hundreds of complaints that should be made to local postmasters are sent to inspectors; for instance, complaints of non-delivery of ordinary mail, etc., should be handled by postmasters."

Registry.—As to the limitations imposed by the act of registration, our advisor says: "A difference of opinion arises on the question of registration of a letter and the consequent duties that devolve upon the department. The payment of ten cents does not mean that the department is to do more than deliver the letter carefully and promptly; the authorities, though they may consider the neglect of the payment of bills reprehensible, is not going to force the person to whom the letter was addressed to pay his bills. One could rather well do away with the credit departments of large concerns if this held good. The department agrees to deliver safely the registered article. If, upon investigation, it is shown that mail was delivered without rifling or other loss, the responsibilities of the authorities ceases. You may depend that when a report of loss disclaims liability because the loss happens out of bounds, the department knows what it is talking about. If the dealer who wrote the article complaining of the service rendered could see an inspector's reports or know of the average run of these cases, he would take a different position. Any old inspector will tell you that that are plenty of complaints that are not well founded and others where an investigation shows that the complainant never sent the stuff, even for which loss was claimed. If every complaint made was paid for without question, Uncle Sam would be in as bad a position as the dealer!"

Sum.—In a nut-shell, the postal inspectors, like the other post office employees, are overworked and underpaid. They always have more to do than they can attend to properly, and the stamps that are not pigeon-holed are the important ones, as they seem, or over which the greatest stir is raised. There are cases that are always at the bottom of the sheaf of complaint, we suspect that the dealers are supposed to report cases that in themselves are not very striking. The consequence is that they are allowed to drag their feet, probably that with an increased picking force, the inspectors could clear all cases involving the use of the mails to defraud, for instance, under classification the dealer usually pays his charges.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

COIL STAMPS OF THE UNITED STATES.

Before passing to the next issue it may be well to mention one other denomination of this series which was prepared, issued to a postmaster and offered for sale but not sold, and that is the 6c
 orange, coiled sidewise, perforated 12
 on double line watermarked U S P S paper. It is of interest to note that on page 171 of the May 15, 1909, edition of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS there appears an advertisement that reads as follows:—"The latest in U. S., 6c orange, Part perforate Pairs for 18c
 post free, strip of three 26c post free.
 Larger strips at the rate of 8c per stamp and 2c postage extra on each order." We reach the climax of the story on page 190, issue of May 29, 1909,
 of the same publication when we read
 a copy of a letter addressed to the Editor from the dealer offering the stamps for sale.

"Editor MEKEEL'S WEEKLY:—
 We are sending the following communication to certain of our customers:—

"Your favor to hand ordering United States 6c part perforate and thank you for same. Very sorry to say that we cannot fill your order, therefore refund
 your remittance and return postage.
 When we ordered these from the postmaster, we thought they were going to deliver them imperforate between, but instead they can only be had perforated at sides and imperforate at the top and bottom in strips, which, of course, have no philatelic value or interest whatsoever, as any perforated all around stamps can be cut or trimmed off and have the same appearance as these. Regretting very much to have caused you this inconvenience, we remain
 Very truly yours, ,,"

As to the history of this stamp, it seems that a certain New York dealer had the wrong impression as to what coil stamps were, and finding them mentioned as "part-perforates", was led to believe that they were unperforated between. As a result, he made application to the New York postmaster for one coil of 500 of the six cents stamps.
 The postmaster placed this item on his requisition to Washington, along with the other stamps that he desired, and when it passed through the Stamp Division of the Post Office Department, it was not noticed that this was something unusual. As a result, it was passed on to the Bureau for filing. The Bureau of Engraving and Printing in its regular course of business, made up the one coil which was issued to the New York postmaster on May 7, 1909. When the New York postmaster offered it to the dealer who had ordered the coil, it was refused because the stamps were not unperforated between. The New York postmaster, therefore, returned it to the department, and it was then placed in the Washington Post Office, where it remained without a purchaser for something, although I know of at least one dealer to whom it was offered. It was finally destroyed by official order and philately lost what today would bring a fancy sum.

Several of these 6c stamps have turned up here of late but they are all undoubtedly trimmed specimens. I saw a very fine pair with wide margins that had been purchased some years back from a small dealer and had remained in the hands of its present owner since that time. The present owner is a man of the highest integrity, but it was trimmed before it reached him, for a close examination by glass showed traces of three perforation holes as well as a scissor cut. Another copy turned up on a cover from Virginia but this copy was run to its source and it was found that a sheet of the stamps had been separated by scissors instead of by the perforations. Recently another cover has been found, sent from Hartford, Conn., by a stamp collector to a gentleman in New England, also a philatelist. When the cover was referred to the Hartford collector he stated that he had no knowledge of the variety coming from him and that he could give no information as to its history. I had the pleasure of examining this cover and it is positively my opinion that the stamp is nothing more than a trimmed variety. The owner of the cover has had some little correspondence with the Post Office Department and if they should attempt to make another search of their files they will simply be able to confirm the information that I obtained from them as well as from the Bureau and that is that one coil was made and one was destroyed. It will take more evidence than that which has been produced to date to prove that such a variety exists.

May I not call your attention to the following desirable stamps which are hereby offered at reasonable prices?

Byam & Carlton Match wrappers—great big stamps measuring several inches each way that catalog 25c to several $$$ each, all in very fine condition. Prices average about 40% under catalog and there is a whole flock of different dates for those who thrive on such.

Other match and medicine stamps in the condition you usually do NOT find, at one-half to one-and-a-half times catalog according to their actual value. For quite some years the Westfield peach orchard has been fine picking for those who could not find the rare varieties anywhere else.

2c on 3c Provisional Envelopes

Fifty varieties all different, including many scarce varieties in all dies on all colors of paper and in all sizes of envelopes. Some are bound to be rare. While they last I offer fifty for $5. Those sending $10 will receive a 100 varieties as issued.

IMPERFORATE COILS.

We were fortunate recently in finding some of the 2c imperf. coiled, rolled lengthwise, and while they last will furnish them at $15 each coil of 500. We also have coils imperforate of the 1c, 4c and 5c both 1908 and 1912, nearly a dozen different varieties in all. Scott does not list them because they claim they cannot be told from the sheets. For those who simply want a strip of each we will advertise next week a full set of both the line and paste up. Every one will have my guarantee on the back. They were actually taken from the complete coil by myself and if wanted an affidavit will be furnished with each lot for 50c extra. A set should be in every advanced collection. See next week's adv. If you want anything unusual in U. S. late issues see me first.

PAYMENT OF RETURN POSTAGE.

It may seem to be a trifle, but in the course of a day's mail it means much to those who are engaged in a mail-order business. We speak not only for ourselves, but on general principles, believing that unintentionally many correspondents are neglecting what should be an ordinary courtesy. When writing, seeking information, which calls for a reply by mail, it is only right to expect that a stamped and addressed envelope should be enclosed. We do this in our own correspondence and feel that it is in accord with the ethics of business.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—In a recent chronicle we informed our readers that the die for overprinting the 2c on 3c provisional envelopes had reached Des Moines and now we wish to thank Messrs. F. A. Brown and D. T. Sanders for sending us copies of the several varieties placed on sale. Seattle has also started the good work and Mr. E. C. Kinsel kindly sends us by special delivery one of the varieties. These, by the way, as well as the Des Moines overprints, are similar to the New York variety. Mr. George P. Smith shows us several New Yorks that we have not seen before, and I find by visiting one of our branch Philadelphia offices that they were selling something new. Mr. R. F. Molitor has located some on buff from Cleveland, while to Mr. W. A. Cullers we hand the palm. He saw passing through the mail a very unusual overprint consisting of two horizontal lines with a small figure "2" between. These came from a small Oklahoma city and bear the return card of a national bank, from whom Mr. Cullers obtained his copy. I am trying to obtain more information on the subject, and just as soon as I find that the issue is official I will give full details to our readers.

The overprinting is without doubt applied by means of a printing press and is in black ink. The figure falls directly on the head and it shows up to much better advantage than those surcharged by means of the cancelling machine. It is my opinion that the postmaster in this small town received the notice sent out from Washington regarding overprinting the envelopes, and he simply construed it as instructions authorizing him to proceed with the work. The fact that they come from a national bank gives them all the earmarks of being a legitimate issue. More about them later.

For the benefit of our readers, would advise that ten dies have been made for this surcharging and as a result we are likely to have at least this number to look out for. There are only three main varieties, namely (1) the "2 Cents" which was rejected after being used in Washington, (2) the variety with the horizontal lines used in Washington and St. Louis, and (3) the variety with the vertical lines used in New York, Boston, Cleveland, etc. Most of those that we have seen differ one from the other in the general shape of the "2", the location of the lobe in relation to the rest of the figure and the spacing and size of the lines. The specialist must recognize these minor varieties, therefore we will continue to list them by cities. It is my personal opinion that there is no more reason for bunching New York and Boston together and calling them one type, with Cleveland a second type, than there would be to put Cleveland with Boston and call New York a separate type. We either have ten types or three types.

It might not be generally known that the die with horizontal lines used in Washington is the identical die used in St. Louis. The surcharging, differs, however, because of a peculiarity in the machine. The die is put in, and it can be so arranged that only a certain part prints. In other words, a stop on the machine controls the length of the overprint. In the case of Washington, the stop was so fixed that the horizontal lines were short, whereas in St. Louis the machine was arranged so that the lines were long and extended to the end of the envelope. I understand that Chicago now has this die, and I will await with interest early samples showing what they have done.

Through the courtesy of the Post Office Department, we are able to advise that now that the surcharging of the envelopes is well under way, that the postal cards are next in line.

Mr. S. C. Rogers sends for our inspection copies of the 1c blue Proprietary stamp with a distinct double print. It seems that twenty copies were found in New England. We have seen several of the Documentaries in this shape but this is the first Proprietary to come to my attention.

We again wish to thank Hon. James L. Wilmeth, Director of the Bureau of Engraving & Printing, for a list of plate numbers, starting where we left off and brought up to April 24, 1920.

AITUTAKI.—The Economist Stamp submits for chronicle a copy of the 1/2d current New Zealand stamp charged "Aitutaki" in red.

ARMENIA.—In commenting on the recently issued Armenian stamps surcharged on Russian, Messrs. Briggs note that: "According to our respondent's report, the design represents an H (in Armenian Z) and (in Armenian) the initials of words Haygagan Post, i. e. Armenian Post, enclosed in a frame. We understand that these are purely a Provisional Issue made at Erivan, the capital, and a permanent set is being prepared in Paris, and will shortly be issued. The violet surcharges are reported to be very rare, as they began by selling only a few sheets and then changed to black, which was decided more profitable. The imperf. high values, 3 and 5 rubles, are also very scarce from two to four sheets being made as there are only 50 stamps to a plate of these high values. The large quantity (if this information is correct) can only be 200 stamps. Several of them are already obsolete (our correspondent reports about three weeks back) and only a few thousands of each printed, as the stock of the Russian stamps was very small."

AUSTRIA.—The Economist Stamp has submitted to us a set of 6 of a new type of stamp. The stamps are square and imperforate and top "Deutschosterrich" and direct low the face of man and the value of value below, with "Hel" on one and "Ler" on the other. At the bottom of the stamp is "Zeitungsm". The values and colors are as follows: 2h purple, 4h brown, 8h green, 12h orange, and 60h claret.

Mr. John R. Larus calls our attention to the fact that the current 10 are appearing printed on a light-colored board paper. He also advises that 15 and 20k stamps are soon to be issued. Mr. Larus advises that the 30, 40 and 80k imperforate postage due stamps are on sale.

CILICIE.—We chronicled, April current stamps of France surcharged "O.M.F. Cilicie", in black in two together with a third line with printed value. We have been advised by the Economist Stamp Co. two other than those recorded, a 5 paras 2c and 10 paras on 10c. M. Die also calls our attention to the named variety as not having been mentioned in the WEEKLY.

COSTA RICA.—Mr. A. Z. Cray submitted to us a copy of the provisional issued March 30 and 31st in black and in four lines. The stamp also appears with inverted overprint.

Mr. Crane adds the following:

"The postmaster informs me only 1000 were issued, which amount was sufficient to meet the shortage of 1 and 2 cent stamps, strange as the assertion seems, when the provisional was on six cent denomination. It is explained this way: the foreign postal charge is six cents in Costa Rica but there is no stamp of six cent denomination. There being an acute shortage of one and two cent stamps in late March, the Postmaster General authorized a provisional
so that the people in general and tourists, in particular would not be compelled to pay 8 or 10 cents postage as they had been paying for several days,
during which time many complaints came in, trivial as they were. At any rate, the provisional was well distributed, and is extremely hard to procure.
The surcharge exists also inverted and probably double."

ESTHONIA.—Mr. A. M. McFadden has shown us copy of the recently issued Aero stamp. The value is 5 marks and the color yellow, grey and black and is triangular in shape. It presents a picture of a bi-plane in the air and around it are the words "Eesti Ohu Post."
The figures of value at each lower corner with "Viiz Marka" between.

GERMANY.—Mr. Geo. W. Miller has shown us blocks of the 2, 2½ and 3pf stamps surcharged in the middle of the block

At the left of the center of the stamp
is "1918", while at the right is "1919".
Mr. Miller is anxious to know the meaning of this surcharge, and any information will be appreciated.

HUNGARY.—The Economist Stamp Co.
has shown us the following changes in colors in the current type of stamps
of this country:—20f pale green, 40f red, 60f brown and blue, and 1k dark blue and light blue.

ICELAND.—Mr. W. T. Wilson has submitted to us the following new values of the new set:—8a brown, 10a red, 20a blue, 25a brown and green, 30a red and green, and 40a claret.

JAMAICA.—The Economist Stamp Co.
calls attention to the fact that a third printing of the 3d War Stamp has appeared and that the color is a pale brown on yellow.

MONACO.—The Charity stamps of 1919 issue have been recently overprinted in two types. The first type is "20 mars 1920" in two lines in black and is on the following values:—15cx10c, 25cx15c, 50cx50c, and 1fx1f.
The other surcharge has added values
at the bottom.

NIEUE.—The current ½d New Zealand
stamp has appeared surcharged "Nieuw"
in red. The Economist Stamp Co.
shows us the first copy we have seen.

PENRHYN ISLAND.—The current ½d
stamp of New Zealand has been overprinted "Penrhyn Island" in red in two lines. We are indebted to the Economist Stamp Co. for showing us a copy.

PHILIPPINES.—The Economist Stamp
Co. has shown us a copy of the 20c

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all
the news from the various philatelic centers.
Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for
services rendered.

—Hon. Ernest R. Ackerman, member of Congress from New Jersey, sends us a copy of the bill carrying with it an appropriation for an observance of the 300th anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth. The interesting part of this report is found in the section in which the Postmaster General is authorized to issue a special series of postage stamps "in such denominations and of such design as he may determine". The bill passed the House by a vote of 59 to 5 and it will doubtless pass the Senate.

—As an interested subscriber to your magazine, and an ardent "rooter"
for anything philatelic, I would like to draw your attention to a very interesting and enlightening article entitled
"Mercury's Print Collection" by Gardner
Teall, same covering three pages of the House & Garden Magazine for the month of May, 1920, and being profusely illustrated with good pictures of popular stamps. An article in a magazine of this character, catering to a highly artistic clientele, is an honor to our hobby. The article shows that the postage stamp makes an appeal to those who prefer to ride their hobbies at home."
—C. D. BOGERT.

—The postmaster at La Crosse, Wis., informs us that his office has never pre-cancelled any of the 16c aeroplane stamps. The postmaster states that he was approached in connection with having a supply precancelled, but he refused to take the step until the matter had been placed before the authorities at Washington.

—Several weeks ago, we received in our office a cover from Nicaragua showing a two centavos stamp cut diagonally, and used as a one centavo stamp. The cover bears two of the two centavos stamps, type No. A25, and a third one cut diagonally from the upper left corner to the lower right corner. The three stamps were used to make up the five centavos rate from Nicaragua. The envelope was postmarked at Bluefields, November 12th, 1919."—FRED L. PAULY.

—The collectors of Colegrove and Smethport, Pa., have organized a stamp club. Collectors interested can communicate with Robert McAllister of Colegrove, who is the secretary.

—We have received from H. S.
Dickey, Newton, Kansas, a song just issued by the H. S. Dickey Music Store.
It is entitled "When You Come Out into the Sunshine Again I'll Still be Waiting for You." Words by Howard Starr and music by Fred West.
We have a suspicion that the "Howard Starr" represents the first two words in Mr. Dickey's name.

—Various subscribers have sent us in clippings giving the particulars of the counterfeiting of "American Postage Stamps in Denomination of $5". None of the press despatches give the facts in detail and we are left in doubt as to the kind of stamps counterfeited. It is possible that the War Savings Certificates may be intended. An American,
named Philip Kopp, of Pleasant Grove, Utah, has been arrested in Berlin on suspicion of being the leader of a gang of counterfeiters.

—We are in receipt of a letter from Edw. M. Smith who subscribes himself as a "beginner not out of my teens".
He wants dealers to drop from their advs. "Orders for less than 50c respectfully declined". He writes that it may sound nice and business-like, but it is not good business in that it cuts out the beginner. Mr. Smith thinks that the dealer should have enough concern for the welfare of the trade to give the small collector a chance. We are inclined to believe that he has the best of the argument.

—"The writer has just returned from a visit to the principal stamp markets of Europe and conditions there are worse
by far than American dealers yet realize. In Austria—where the money is the lowest in the world—every dealer has on his desk a table of foreign exchange rates showing the value of the Austrian kronen, and the latest copy of Yvert and Tellier's catalogue. With these two agencies he prices his stamps
so as to obtain the highest market value, regardless of the cost. In Germany this repeats itself, while French and Italian dealers are now beginning to price their goods in English pounds and American dollars. Furthermore, there are no large wholesale stocks of pre-war stamps anywhere in Europe. The stamps have simply disappeared to return no more,
all being in the hands of collectors. It is a question of supply and demand, and demand has won a most decisive victory."—H. E. HARRIS.

PANAMA AND ITS POSTAGE STAMPS.

By FREDERICK E. HEYDON.

CHAPTER XVII.

Regular Issues, 1906 to 1911.

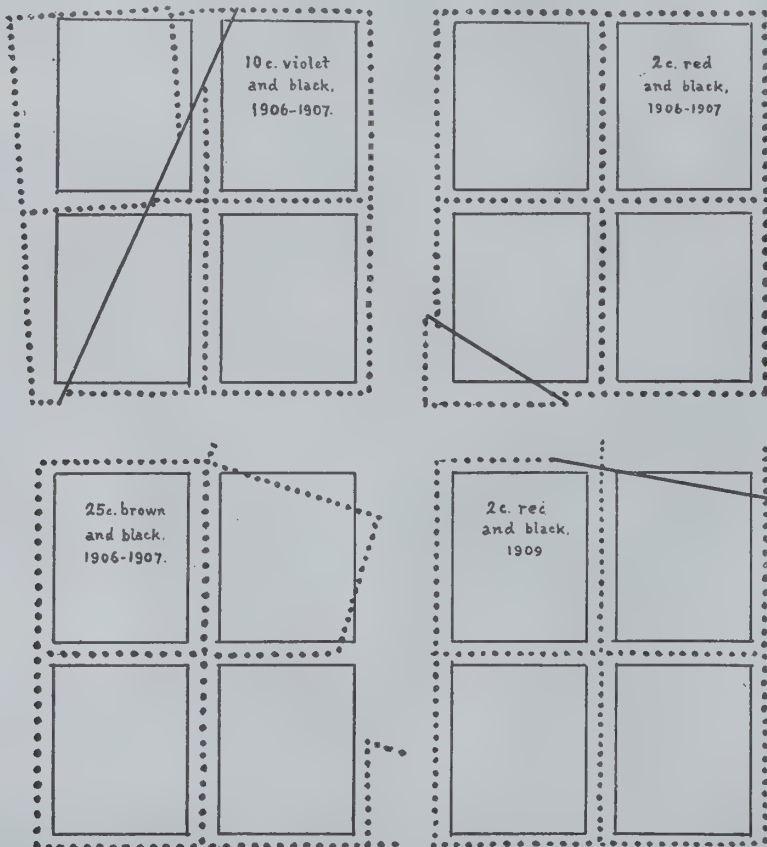

In 1906 and 1907 a new issue made its appearance. The stamps, which were engraved and printed in New York by the Hamilton Bank Note Co., form a very attractive set, the 50c in particular being a beautiful specimen of engraving. On account of the change in currency from a silver to a gold basis, we have instead of the 1c, 2c, 5c, 10c, 20c, 50c and 1p, of former issues, a ½c, 1c, 2½c, 5c, 10c, 25c, and 50c, while the 2c and 8c in the new issue were required to meet new postal requirements.

The currency, formerly in centavos and pesos, is now in centesimos de balboa and balboas. The size varies slightly with the design but averages about 21½x26 mm. Perf. 12. The first printings were on soft and rather thick paper, but in 1907 new printings of the lower values were on thinner and harder paper, and the colors have shown considerable variations, particularly the 5c, which was originally printed in ultramarine, but subsequently in various shades of blue.

Certain values are found with inverted center, and others with perforations between vertical rows missing. Those found entirely imperforate are not known to have ever been issued in this condition. The use of bisected stamps was confined to some of the smaller offices where supplies were inadequate, and so far as I know were unauthorized. There are also some very peculiar errors in perforation found in this issue due to corner of sheet being folded before perforating. As these curiosities are quite unintentional, I will not assign letters to them in my list, but illustrate examples showing how the perforation was produced from diagrams sent me by Mr. J. P. Coveleski.

The following list will be found fairly complete except as to varieties of paper, which in my opinion is rather treacherous ground unless the variations are very considerable, or the quantity of material available for study sufficient for many comparisons, neither of which is true as regards the issue under consideration.

202. ½c in Panama flag in red, white and blue, wreath green, frame yellow.
a. Vertical pair, imperforated between.
b. Inverted center.
203. 1c Portrait of Vasco Nunez de Balboa, black, frame deep green.
a. Inverted center.
b. Bisected diagonally, used as ½c stamps.
204. 2c Portrait of Fernandez de Cordoba, black, frame, vermilion.
a. Frame lake-red.
b. Frame dark lake-red.
c. Horizontal pair, imperforate between.
d. Inverted center.
e. Bisected diagonally, used as 1c stamps.
205. 2½c Arms of Panama, orange.
a. Reddish orange.
b. Bright orange.
c. Orange buff.
206. 5c Portrait of Justo Arosemena, black, frame ultramarine.
a. Frame deep blue.
b. Frame light blue.
c. Bisected diagonally, used as 2½c stamps.
207. 8c Portrait of Manuel J. Hurtado, black, frame reddish purple.
a. Frame dark reddish purple.
b. Frame dark blue-violet.
c. Perforated vertically near center, used separately as 4c stamps.
d. Bisected diagonally, used as 4c stamps.
208. 10c Portrait of José de Obaldia, black, frame deep purple.
a. Inverted center.
b. Bisected diagonally, used as 5c stamps.
209. 25c Portrait of Tomas Herrera, black, frame brown.
a. Frame yellow-brown.
b. Frame light yellow-brown.
c. Bisected diagonally, used as a 12½c stamps.
210. 50c Portrait of José de Fabrega, black.
a. Horizontal pair, imperforate between.
b. Bisected diagonally, used as 25c stamps.

In 1909 this issue was superseded by a new and more beautiful issue, engraved and printed by the American Bank Note Co., whose imprint appears on each stamp in small capitals just below the design. The ½c stamp reverts to a modification of the old map design, the stamp being oblong, 24x21½ mm., while in the other values the central design follows the preceding issue but more finely engraved, while the designs of the frames are entirely new. White wove paper varying both in thickness and hardness. Perf. 12.

211. ½c (Map of Panama), orange (1911).
a. Orange-yellow.
212. ½c (Map of Panama), dark rose (1916).
213. 1c (Balboa), black, dark green frame.
a. Green frame.
b. Bisected diagonally, used for ½c stamps.
214. 2c (Cordoba), black, frame vermilion.
a. Frame scarlet.
b. Frame red.
c. Frame dark red.
d. Bisected diagonally, used for 1c stamps.
e. Perforated vertically through center of stamp instead of margin.
- (Similar errors of perforation occur on other values, but this is a rather interesting freak and I have seen an example used postally.)
215. 2½c (Arms of Panama). Light orange.
a. Reddish orange.

it will be found interesting and valuable. The only really common cancellations are from Panama, Colon and David. Enough from the smaller post offices are secured to add excitement to the collection.

THE RAYNHAM MATCH STAMP.
By CHRISTOPHER WEST.
Leeds, Robinson & Co.

Raynham is a small town in southeastern Massachusetts about three miles northeast of the city of Taunton. For some years prior to 1883, Charles B. Gardiner ran a tack factory in the building which had previously been a button factory on the King property in the upper end of the village of Raynham, where what is now Gardiner street crosses a small tributary of the Taunton river. Power for the factory was furnished by a dam in the stream, which holds back the water to form Kings pond.

About 1883, Gardiner and his father-in-law, David F. Ranney, began to make matches in the same building from lumber obtained in the vicinity and ran the plant as a match factory for two or three years. A man named Walter Stevenson came over from England and showed them how to dip the matches. A gentleman living in Raynham who knew both of the proprietors states that Gardiner was the originator of the Diamond tack and that the matches were called Diamond matches. The business was not successful and was sold to the Diamond Match Co. of Delaware, whereupon Gardiner and Ranney went into the manufacture of shovels, trip hammers, etc., at the same location. Both of them died about 1886. The factory is still in operation, and at the present time shoe machinery is being made there.

The selling agents of the match factory were Leeds, Robinson & Co., who are listed in the Boston directories of 1883-85 at 75 North St.

The Boston Book states of the Raynham stamp:—

Die approved?
First issued, March 10, 1883.
Last issued, March 10, 1883.
231,000 issued on watermarked paper.

The number of stamps per sheet is not given, but in all probability was 210, and this would give the total issue as exactly 1,100 sheets costing $2,100 net.

The stamp is an upright rectangle of the usual 1c size, bearing a numeral of value on a small circular disk in each corner. A straight label between the lower numerals is inscribed "Matches" and a similar but narrower label between the upper numerals reads "One Cent" in very small letters. The central portion is occupied by a circular disk in which is a hand grasping a cluster of thunder bolts. A band surrounding the disk is inscribed "Leeds, Robinson & Co." above and "Boston" below. Following the curve of this band, outside it at the top and sides is found "Raynham Match Co. Raynham, Mass." and at the bottom, "U.S. Inter. Rev." A fine line of color surrounds the design which is almost devoid of ornamentation. Despite the unusual amount of lettering, the stamp is neat and effective, and the deep green color makes it more handsome rather than less so.

Severn-Wylie-Jewett Co., Beverly, Mass. Portland, Me.

This was the last match stamp engraved by the Bureau and was in use less than four months. It is the only match stamp on which two different firm names and two different addresses appear. Part of its popularity is due to its prettiness and part is due to the unusual proportion of specimens that are in acceptable, or even fine condition. Many copies have original gum and may be assigned either to a supply of remainders or to a supply of unused stamps obtained from the proprietors while the tax was in force. Probably it was never used in multiple and only one pair is known to the writer.

Some match stamps that are easy to find have to be found a good many times before the collector who is at all particular about condition obtains a satisfactory copy, but with the Raynham stamp, although fewer copies are to be found, when one finally is found, oftener than not it's the kind of a copy that's worth finding. The stamp rose steadily in value from 15c in 1886 to 75c in 1900. In 1903 it was quoted at $2 and there it still remains. Fine copies are apt to fetch close to that figure, and M & M collectors with limited means and limited patience may be grateful that the proportion their number bears to the total number of stamp collectors is small, for if as many as ten postage stamp collectors in every hundred should collect match stamps actively, it seems doubtful to the writer that there are enough Raynham stamps now in existence to keep the price of fine specimens below $10 each.

WHAT THEY ALL SAY!

You sure have some "puller" when it comes to selling stamps and service.

I take off my hat to the WEEKLY any day. Having been up against the stamp game, as well as the publishing end of philately for a number of years, I can say without reservation that your WEEKLY as a medium for selling stamps has my best recommendation.

You may sell stamps without the WEEKLY but one never knows what stamp selling is until they have tried the WEEKLY as an advertising medium.

PRECANCELLED NOTES.

By ROBERT HAYNES.

Just received a fine block of four 24c Aeroplane precancelled Philadelphia, reading down. They are now obsolete, and evidently rare. The only other 24c I know of are Federalburg, Md., Corry, Pa., and Los Angeles, down. Of the 16c values I have seen or heard of Federalburg, Newton, Kan., and San Antonio, altho I understand the 16c Toledo is being offered, I do not think it is official. At least, I have never been able to see any at the stamp windows.

Of the 6c, Federalburg, normal and invert, and a smaller type reading both up and down; and Herrin, Ills., up and down, are all I have seen so far.

I have been fortunate in having large quantities of Victory stamps to look over, and have gotten together a collection which includes all but six of the following which are all the Victory precancels so far reported:—

Atchinson, Bay City, up and down; Carrollton, Chicago, Dundee, normal and invert; Elkhart, Federalburg, normal and invert; Hastings, up; Los Angeles, up and down; Minneapolis, up; New York, Newark, O., Omaha, Racine, up; Tiffin, Techny, Tyrone, Philadelphia, Pa., Altoona, East Aurora, normal and invert; South Bethlehem, Pa., Elgin, Ills., St. Johnsbury, Vt., down.

Springfield, Ohio, is out with a new type, which looks like a rubber roller. The 5c value is the only one I have seen so far.

In the 1c values of Springfield, Perf., two distinct types, U-3 and U-9, are used at the same time. I have both varieties invert; and both are rare this way.

On the 1908 issue of Milwaukee, Wis., the 6c is listed as reading up and down at 10c each. Of about thirty copies I recently found all but 3 read down. Evidently the catalogue is a little off on these prices.

I have looked over large quantities of 1c Panama-Pacific for precancels and generally found more 1c Chicago and Cincinnati than anything else, altho the 1c Boston, both normal and invert, is only priced at a cent.

In seventy-five copies of the 2c Washington, D. C., found 1 invert and 2 copies with the "C" of "D. C." missing entirely. Evidently rare.

Have a 1c from Warsaw, but don't know whether its Warsaw, Mo., or Ohio, as the state is indistinct. First I have ever seen.

Cincinnati and Kansas City have a new type (U-14) on both postage and dues. Another new one, and rare, the 13c Baltimore, Md.—Philatelic Gossip.

SAVING ALL THE HOLES.

The Bureau of Printing and Engraving at Washington is actually saving the holes resulting from perforating postage stamps. S. R. Winters states in the Scientific American that four barrels of tiny paper discs are collected from the perforating machines every day and sold to paper manufacturers. Director James L. Wilmethe calculates that the daily output of holes, perforated from stamps would, if placed side by side, edge to edge, extend in a line 863 1/2 miles long.

STATE REVENUE STAMPS OF THE U. S.

By FREDERICK E. HEYDON.

Those, who, like the writer, belong to the older generation of philatelists, look back with more or less regret to the good old times when we all dabbled in general collecting and specialization was almost unknown. At present, however, only those having very considerable financial resources can hope to possess a general collection of any standing, and the rest of us after we have graduated from the schoolboy class, act wisely in confining our efforts to a comparatively limited field in which we can accumulate a collection which will be of interest to others as well as ourselves, and possibly make discoveries of hitherto unrecognized varieties.

I desire, therefore, to call attention to a class of stamps which, while of exceptional interest and not infrequently of beautiful design and execution, have been neglected by the great majority of philatelists. The state revenue stamps furnish an attractive field to collectors of moderate means. There are still excellent opportunities of picking up bargains, which is practically out of the question in regard to the more generally popular issues. Then there is the ever present hope of securing items either entirely unknown or in the class of the great rarities. I will not, however, lay too much stress on this aspect of the case, as commercialism is the bane of real philately, and the collector who looks on his collection from a speculative point of view will lose much pleasure which he could derive from the stamps.

As a rule there is far more to be learned from revenue stamps than postage stamps as the former can only enlighten us on a single aspect of life, while revenue stamps reveal to us the phases of business which in any community were of sufficient importance to furnish a tempting source of revenue to the tax collector. They also at times are a sort of gauge of the pressure under which business was conducted. When I look at the old California Exchange, or Bill of Lading stamps, of which the set of three or four required for each transaction were cut close to the circular design with scissors, I am impressed with the fact that conditions then were widely different from the rush of modern business. The Louisiana Lottery stamps bring back to mind the days when a state government was not ashamed to engage in so ignoble and demoralizing a traffic. We turn to the beautiful New York Stock Transfer Tax Stamps and the stock exchange surrounded by the skyscrapers, which have turned downtown New York into a labyrinth of canyons into which the light of day penetrates if at all only for a short time each day, comes before our vision. We see the bulls and bears howling out their orders in a way that to a casual visitor would suggest an assembly of lunatics. Then the interesting Missouri inspection stamps for coal oil and gasoline remind us that we are in an age when the papers are filled with lying prospectuses of oil companies, which will extract from the pockets of their dupes, all of the resources that the tax collector and high cost of living have left them. Our reflections, however, become more pleasant when we see the feeding stuff inspection tags which Virginia and some other states require to be attached to the analysis tag on each package of commercial feeding stuff, as they remind us that an effort is now being seriously made to prevent fraud on the farmers by unscrupulous dealers.

With these preliminary remarks, I invite my readers to make an excursion into what seems to me one of the most fascinating fields for philatelic study that still remains largely unexplored. There are doubtless many state revenue stamps unknown even to specialists, as about one third of the states have issued either documentary or inspection stamps and the number is rapidly increasing. A catalogue which will include all actually known varieties is in course of preparation, by philatelists of national reputation, and now approaching completion. When it does appear there will be a fixed standard of value which at present is lacking. Forbin's catalogue, while valuable as to foreign revenues, is not an authority as to our own state revenues, and being in French is not available to

DEPARTMENTS

Past—neglected by most collectors.
 Present—still priced about the same as for years.

Future—I prophesy they will become very popular in a year or two.

Advice—Buy now. Demand creates a shortage and prices go up.

I have an excellent stock of departments both used and unused at low prices considering the decreased value of our dollar and the advances in other stamp prices.

Revised for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

STAMPS OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS.

By FRED. J. MELVILLE.

INTRODUCTORY.

Although the time is still far-distant, when this small group of islands will celebrate its philatelic jubilee, the comparatively short space of twenty years since the issue of its first modest pair of stamps has proved fruitful in variety, not merely of the ordinary postal series, but of stamps of a brief provisional existence, rendered necessary by the exhaustion of certain values.

The postage stamps of the Cayman Islands have already been the subject of study by several writers, and large specialised collections have been formed—one at least, on such generous lines as to entitle its owner to consider it practically complete, containing, as it does, several items of great and almost unique rarity.

Unlike that of Jamaica, of which these islands are a dependency, the record of the Caymans cannot be truthfully said to be quite clear of philatelic speculation; but the practice of the Crown Agents for the Colonies, in sending out supplies of stamps merely sufficient for genuine postal requirements, and in ignoring the inevitable requirements of dealers and collectors, undoubtedly furnishes opportunities for, what should be, quite unnecessary emissions.

With this slight qualification, there is no doubt that the issues of the Cayman Islands constitute an interesting study, and are popular with many amongst that ever increasing section of philatelists who, despairing of ever approaching the collectors' ideal—completion—in the stamps of any of the historic colonies, turn their attention to the philatelically younger groups and find therein a sufficiently absorbing interest to justify the collection of modern issues only.

The study of the stamps of the Caymans is straightforward, and presents little difficulty, but the opportunity of inspecting a large accumulation, which may perhaps not be always so accessible, provides an excuse, if not a reason, for producing the present work.

We are glad to admit indebtedness to those writers, whose contributions to our philatelic knowledge on this subject have appeared in the various journals as detailed in the Bibliography.

CHAPTER I.

The Posts of the Caymans.

It was Columbus who, returning to his beloved Spain from Porto Bello, discovered this little group of islands, and he named them Las Tortugas, possibly on account of the extraordinary number of turtles then frequenting their shores. Spain, the colonising power of olden days in the far west, does not appear to have ever occupied this group; and it is said that the islands were for long used by pirates as a convenient base, from which to carry on their depredations on the trading ships which in due course ventured across the seas, in search of new markets or fresh sources of produce.

We have mentioned that the Caymans—as they were subsequently renamed—are a dependency of Jamaica, and it was shortly after Great Britain had obtained possession of that island that she annexed the small adjoining group, which is now under the care of a High Commissioner. There are only three Cayman islands—Grand Cayman, Cayman Brac, and Little Cayman: they are situated in the Caribbean Sea, the first named being about 100 miles south of Cuba and about twice that distance slightly to the northwest of Jamaica. The other islands are 60 to 80 miles farther east, and together about one-third the size of their larger sister; the area of the entire group being only 200 square miles, with a population, in June, 1911, of 5,564, of whom 4,533 were white or coloured, and 1,031 black—an increase during the preceding twenty years (when the previous census was taken) of 1,242.

The apparent disparity between the sexes—2,427 males and 3,137 females—was due to the fact that quite 500 men were absent at the time of the census, at work in the United States and the Republics of Central America, or at sea.

Turtle-fishing, farming, and sea-faring are the principal occupations of the inhabitants, of the female portion, of whom it is ungallantly said that they are thriftless and idle. Though no one is rich, there are no paupers, and the "poor-rate" is covered by an annual contribution from the Government of the small sum of £10.

The first mention of Caymanian postal affairs is in the Handbook of Jamaica, 1889-90, where it is stated that on April 13, 1889, "temporary arrangements were concluded for the exchange of mails between the Cayman Islands and Jamaica," by schooner plying at irregular intervals between Georgetown and Kingston.

Communication with the outside world is irregular, if frequent, and efforts are being made to induce some of the numerous steamers passing Grand Cayman within a very close range to call regularly.

Previous to 1889 there was no Post Office in the Dependency, letters being

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—The Senate has now passed the House Resolution authorizing the issue of a special series of postage stamps to commemorate the 300th anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth. We are indebted to C. Hackett for this information.

—A stamp club has been organized at Guthrie, Okla., and meetings are held at the homes of the members, with social features mixed with the more solid matters of philately. Ernest Allison Smith, one of Guthrie's High School teachers, is sponsor for the new club, and those interested should communicate with him.

—The second annual convention of the United Stamp Societies will be held May 31 at 11 A. M. at the rooms of the Boston Philatelic Society, 322 Tremont Building.

—We have received from W. T. Wilson his bi-monthly list of special offers and bargains, a very attractive folder. Covers are strongly featured and a copy of the list will no doubt be sent on application.

—Under date of April 20, H. E. Harris & Co. have issued a wholesale price-list which covers a wide range of stamps, and dealers, active and prospective, will profit by a perusal of the same.

—A syndicated article appears in the Chicago Ledger of Saturday, April 17, entitled "Small Change" and has a decided philatelic flavor. The story is illustrated and is another marked tribute to the popularity of articles based on stamp collecting. Clipping from Wm. Hoffman.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from R. M. Bruns, Malcolm H. Ganser, G. Dalrymple, Walter Hartman, H. S. Dickey, Miss Mary R. Smith, A. H. Robertson, E. B. Anderson, E. J. Newcomer, J. Greenwald, Kenneth Tallmadge, C. Lat. Wilhelm and A. M. McFadden.

—The C. S. Watson Co., Inc., has issued a wholesale pricelist featuring Austria, Bosnia, Turkey, and certain other countries. Stamps are priced per 10, 100 and 1000, and dealers interested will find it profitable to procure a copy.

—Mr. E. C. Dodd of LaGrange, Illinois, has left on a trip east and upon his return, about June 15th, he will attend to the accumulated correspondence.

—Mr. H. F. Rech, Chicago, is using a quarter-page to advertise his mail auction sale of stamps and what we like to see is that he is not averse to giving his local society, the Chicago Philatelic Society, a bit of publicity at his own expense.

—"Would it interest you that Wenonah, New Jersey, has a stamp club. We have at present thirty-eight (38), ten of which are girls. Don't laugh, that's the truth. For a title we have called ourselves the Philatelic Five, because five organization members are amongst us. Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Boy Scouts, and one 100% High School class are four of the five. It is not a Boys Club entirely; we have one-third business men who were collectors in the olden days. As soon as we become completely organized we are going to sell stamps retail, to raise the club funds. We also intend to use the MEKEEL columns, which are the Best by Test. Officers elected are Elmer Manning, President; Charles M. McAvoo, Secretary; and myself, Maynard Mayfield Bernard, reporter to the press. We meet at the Business Manager's spacious home every Thursday evening. All of us have taken a Buy in U. S. A. pledge. Exit the member who breaks it."—BERNARD.

—"Cannot too strongly express my appreciation of the worth of the WEEKLY. April was the best month ever experienced in the stamp business. Am now making arrangements to expand as a natural consequence of the boom in philately."—H. C. Ioor.

—"I have recently come into possession of two varieties that are new to me and not catalogued as far as I know. The 1st one is Peru, 1895, type A, 23a, No. 128i, 100c red brown, an unsevered

CHAPTER III.

DIE I. OFFSET PRINTED.

(To be referred to hereafter as Type III.)

On account of the rapid deterioration of the recess plates, as stated above, it was necessary, in order to keep pace with the demands for the three cent value, to resort to some other method of production, and the photographic rubber-offset process was selected as being the most suitable under the existing conditions.

As a matter of review, I am quoting from Mr. J. B. Leavy's article in The Philatelic Gazette for June, 1918,—

"The offset plates were manufactured in the following manner,—a photograph was made of a proof taken from the original die (I), and a proof from the first die of the 3c denomination was intentionally selected for the enlarged negative, as it was considered that the lighter, finer lines of that die lent themselves more readily to surface printing reproduction than the thicker, heavier lines of the second die of the 3c; very much enlarged, the enlarged negative was cut, cleaned and touched up, so that every line was clear and sharp;
the design was then reduced, by photography, to the normal size; the normal size negative placed in what is termed a
"step and repeat" photographic machine containing a sensitized glass negative plate as large as the printing plate; this machine permits the photographing of a subject as many times as desired, in any position on the plate, one subject at a time, so that the single normal size negative was placed for number one position on the plate, flashed, moved to number two position, flashed, moved to number three position, flashed, and so on for the entire plate of four hundred subjects. The four hundred subject photo plate thus obtained had the guidelines and arrows etched upon it and was then used to manufacture the printing plates in the usual manner, by direct contact photography on sensitized zinc plates, the plate number being etched on each zinc plate thus manufactured."

The first plates made by the new process were 8370, 8375 and 8379; and it is interesting to note that they all three show plate number variations as follows,—

Plate 8370 has the plate numbers exactly in the center of each pane, at the bottom, top or sides, appearing thus in the margins opposite the interval between the fifth and sixth stamps, so that the perforations cut thru the plate numbers.

One of the plate numbers at the right side of this plate, but whether from upper or lower pane I do not know, has the zero etched in over what appears to have been a partially erased 8.

The plate numbers in the left margin were placed with the tops of the numerals towards the stamps, thus reading from the outside.

Plate 8375 is like 8370 in the disposition of the numbers, even to those in the left margin, but as it was originally a duplicate of 8370, the zeros were all erased and 5's substituted, being etched

in by hand, therefore all eight plate numbers are different in this respect.

Plate 8379 has all of its numbers in normal positions; i. e., directly over or alongside the fifth stamp in a pane, as on former recess plates.

These offset-printed stamps from Die
I are easily distinguished from the recess plate printings from Die I by the following details,—

a. The shading of the jaw has been so changed that a most pronounced double-chin is produced.

b. The middle vertical line in the "button" is broken, with a dot in center, appearing as a dash, dot, dash.

c. The upper line of the drapery fold at front of neck is much heavier than before.

On the fold, counting up, the fifth cross line is missing, while the first and third lines are much weaker than the others.

(See illustration of Type III.)

d. Numerous lines have been added to the top of head and hair, especially over the ear.

e. The shadows of the eye, nostril and jaw have been deepened.

As printing by the offset process is a continuous one, a given plate remains at press until too worn to be of further use, usually not more than 50,000 impressions in sheets of 400 stamps being possible.

The ink used for the first printing (Plate 8370) was of commercial type bought of a local concern, but for the succeeding printings ink was used of the Bureau's own manufacture, and as it was of a more or less experimental nature, varied considerably with the different early printings, so that many may be distinguished, not alone by the plate numbers, but also as well by the shade of ink employed. The first 25 printings are as follows:—

- 1st printing, March 3; plate 8370; dark
violet.
- 2nd printing, March 14; plate 8375; deep bright violet.
- 3rd printing, March 15; plate 8379.
- 4th printing, March 18; plate 8380.
- 5th printing, March 19; plates 8381 and 8382; light grayish violet.
- 6th printing, March 20; plate 8383; light
violet.
- 7th printing, March 22; plate 8385.
- 8th printing, March 23; plate 8384;
lavender.
- 9th printing, March 25; plate 8411.
- 10th printing, March 27; plates 8412, 8414, 8554.
- 11th printing, March 29; plates 8413, 8415.
- 12th printing, March 30; plates 8417, 8418.
- 13th printing, April 1; plates 8421, 8556.
- 14th printing, April 2; plates 8420, 8558.

It has been supposed hitherto that practically all of the early printings were absorbed by the Washington Post Office,
but I have recently come across a copy
with bottom plate number attached, plainly showing it to be from plate 8375,

have been informed by a correspondent that he purchased both plates 8370 and 8375 at the Philadelphia P. O.

There are numerous collectible va-instance, plate 8610 appears with the numbers as tho "rubber-stamped," irregular in alignment and the numerals of a wholly different character than the normal ones, being broader; the whole number being 11½ mm. long as against a normal length usually of about 9 mm.

shape of the numerals, which are classified as follows:—

Plate number: Type I, Thin numerals, 2½ mm. tall; plate number 8 to 9 mm. long.

Plate number Type II, Broad numerals, 2½ mm. tall; plate number 10 to 13 mm. long.

Plate number Type III, Large numerals, 2¾ mm. tall; plate number 10 to 10½ mm. long.

All of the earlier numbers thru 8602, and with the exception of the five noted as being of Type II onwards thru 8672 were of Type I.

Type II is represented by but five plates; namely, 8604, 8605, 8606, 8608, and 8610, (8607 and 8609 are Type I).

Type III is only shown on three plates, 8674, 8700 and 8717.

A peculiarity of Type II is that they appear as tho "rubberstamped."

Thru some unexplainable way there was considerable duplication in the assignment of plate numbers, and when this was discovered, the numerals in error were erased and etched in by hand, giving rise to a large number of interesting variations in the plate numbers. In some cases it appears that there was intentional method in this as a whole sequence of numbers, as for instance 8591 to 8599 is found where the final digit only has been etched by hand, so it would appear that the 859 (the first three digits) were placed permanently on 9 successive zinc plates, the final digit being left to be etched in by hand as the plates were successively finished.

The following list, taken from the article by Messrs. Leavy and Owen in the American Philatelist for Jan. 1, 1919, (Vol. XXXII, No. 4) shows what plates were so treated,—for one reason or another:—

8568	Both 8's inverted on lower left-side number.
8572	72 altered on all 8 Nos., hence all different.
8578	78 altered on all 8 Nos., hence all different.
8579	79 altered on all 8 Nos., hence all different.
8591	1 altered on all 8 Nos., hence all different.
8592	2 altered on all 8 Nos., hence all different.
8593	3 altered on all 8 Nos., hence all different.
8596	6 altered on all 8 Nos., hence all different.
8597	7 altered on all 8 Nos., hence all different.
8598	8 altered on all 8 Nos., hence all different.
8599	9 altered on all 8 Nos., hence all different.
8600	600 altered on all 8 Nos., hence all different.
8601	601 altered on all 8 Nos., hence all different.
8602	602 altered on all 8 Nos., hence all different.
8607	607 altered on all 8 Nos., hence all different.
8609	609 altered on all 8 Nos., hence all different.
8626	Last 6 altered on all 8 Nos., hence all different.
8627	7 altered on all 8 Nos., hence all different.
8628	Last 8 altered on all 8 Nos., hence all different.
8646	Last 6 altered on all 8 Nos., hence all different.
8647	7 altered on all 8 Nos., hence all different.
8648	Last 8 altered on 6 of the numbers; both bottoms entirely altered.
8649	Last 9 altered on 6 of the numbers; both bottoms entirely altered.
8669	9 altered on all 8 numbers, hence all different.

In my own collection, I have a bottom plate number from 8596 which has the 6 crudely redrawn, and a similar bottom plate number from 8646 shows the same peculiarity in the final 6, while a top number from 8647 has the 7 drawn in at a considerable distance from the 864. A bottom number from 8674 shows all the numerals half as large again as ordinarily.

Again, on plate 8649 the numerals appear as tho scratched on by hand with some sharp pointed instrument, the numerals being 3 mm. tall, very irregular and misshapen.

All of which confirm the data given above.

Other interesting collectible varieties in this Offset Type III are the "press" numbers sometimes found in lower margins; and these should be taken in horizontal strips or blocks large enough to show both the "press" number and the "plate" number. Four different plates may be found showing these unauthorized markings; namely:—

8412 has G214 scratched in the lower margin below the 91st subject in S.E. pane.

8418 has 124 scratched in same location, S.E. pane.

8420 has 214 scratched in same location, S.E. pane.

8559 has No. 214 scratched in same location, S.E. pane.

There are also instances where the plate number and arrow guides repeat at intervals along the margin at top or bottom of sheet. Two such from plates 8632 and 8656 show the numerals over about every second stamp, and in some cases they are also doubled at a given point.

Some very fine double impressions are found in these "offset" prints,—some from plate 8615 being particularly fine, with the second impression a ½ mm. off. Printings from this plate, however, are not always to be found double, as I have also this same 8615 perfectly normal in every respect.

One hundred and eighty-seven (187) plates in all were made for the Type III offset process, the last plate from this die being numbered 8719. There were, however, numerous plates rejected and cancelled for one reason or another, in fact, 60 in all, which reduces the total of collectible plate numbers to 127. The plates listed as defective and not used, and which therefore it will be unnecessary to hunt for, are as follows:—8410, 8416, 8419, 8555, 8566, 8570, 8571, 8575, 8576, 8577, 8594, 8595, 8603, 8623, 8624, 8638, 8673, 8675 to 8699 inclusive; 8701 to 8716 inclusive; 8718 and 8719. Of these Nos. 8675 to 8699 were too thick, and cracked during the process of curving. Nos. 8701 to 16 and 8718 and 8719 were made from the new 400 subject master-negative, of which plate 8717 remains the only representative, and were considered unsatisfactory on account of the spacing, and were cancelled without being used. Plate 8717 was printed from, however.

It is different from all others preceding, having the subjects spaced 3 mm. apart vertically, instead of the normal 2½ mm., and it will be noted that this feature is also a distinguishing one of the following series of Die II offset plates. This plate 8717 was printed from on June 1, and must be a scarce article.

Here it may be well to state that the subjects have not in reality been spaced further apart but rather that the subjects themselves have been reduced in height ½ mm., the vertical measurement from the bottom of a stamp in one row to the bottom of a stamp in the next row remaining as before, 25½ mm., the new subjects measuring vertically 22 mm. instead of 22½ mm. as formerly.

Another plate about which there is some mystery is 8668; the records, according to Messrs. Leavy and Owen, show that this plate was defective, and no proof was taken. However, a number of sheets were printed and delivered. They show the final 8 altered by hand in all eight numbers.

The last printings from any type III plates were made June 3, 1918, from plate 8700, which plate, it will be noted, is one of the three having the large plate numbers of Type III. There are no imperforates or booklets known of Offset Type III.

NEW EUROPE==NEW COUNTRIES==ETC.

While the offers on this page are almost entirely "New Europe" and new countries, we carry one of the largest general stocks in America and solicit requirements in anything else, French, English, Portuguese Colonials, especially 20th, etc., etc.

Let us know what you want in New Europe. This adv. offers a good line of such items as we feel we have a sufficient stock of to be safe in offering prices that can never average any lower. With the 1920 cat. to check up by you can now fill your spaces.

Anything not O. K. is returnable. Wholesale prices on more than half the goods offered in this adv. are now advancing in price and we will not be to quote these rates on many items when our present supply is gone. The bottom has been passed on a lot of it.

AUSTRIA—ITALIAN OCCUPATION

We have practically all of these and if you need any not listed let us know. Scott's Catalog numbers. Cat. prices very low on many of these considering quantities and prices advancing. Can supply most of them used or new whichever way you want.

Old German States

A very pretty lot of these, both on and off covers, is being submitted on approval to collectors willing to purchase $5 or more. Baden, Bavaria, Hanover, Mecklenburg, Schleswig, Thurn & Taxis, etc., in very good to very fine condition at prices that are attractive to those who know the market value of early issues in such condition. They will not interest collectors who are unwilling to pay more than 50% of the 1918 prices.

If interested in these or any other early foreign or U. S. on covers write me a real letter giving first class reference and you will be served in your turn.

Those April Bargain Showers whetted many appetites and the supply is dwindling rapidly. The last man will get—LEFT.

PAYMENT OF RETURN POSTAGE.

It may seem to be a trifle, but in the course of a day's mail it means much to those who are engaged in a mail-order business. We speak not only for ourselves, but on general principles, believing that unintentionally many correspondents are neglecting what should be an ordinary courtesy. When writing, seeking information, which calls for a reply by mail, it is only right to expect that a stamped and addressed envelope should be enclosed. We do this in our own correspondence and feel that it is in accord with the ethics of business.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents. The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—I was personally told by a high official of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing that the 2c surface printed stamp would not be issued imperforate. The wish was probably father to the thought. He had perhaps intended that they should not be issued, but the supply of the engraved variety possibly ran short, for the stamp in type I has left the Bureau in imperforate condition. Mr. George Soulman has sent me a cover sent out by the Chicago Telephone Co. on April 30, 1920, bearing a copy of the 2c surface print, type I with Shermack perforations.

1920, Surface Print, Unwatermarked.
2c red, imperforate.

My attention has also been called by Messrs. M. Ray Sanborn and G. E. Hoeft to the fact that the 93rd stamp from the southeast pane on certain sheets of the 2c surface print, type I, has an oddly shaped left-hand "2". The under top part curves in somewhat like the secret mark on the 12c stamp of the Continental issue of 1870. This does not occur on all plates but is found on at least three, namely Nos. 10821, 10822 and 10823 and quite possibly all of the other type I from these numbers on.

Most of the large cities now have the type II on hand and this variety is running strongly to shades. We recently had some here in Philadelphia in a very beautiful rose carmine which would compare favorably with the engraved article. As the plates become worn, however, the head of Washington leads us to believe that he has recently gotten over a bad case of chills and fever. Personally, we hope that excellent headway is being made with the new engraved plates, but judging from the list of plates which we listed in our last chronicle, nothing but the offset plates are being turned out.

Saint Paul has started to surcharge their supply of 3c envelopes, and Mr. H. M. Norton sends us one of the first, placed on sale April 30th. The surcharge has the vertical lines, and Mr. Norton says that seven million are on hand to be overprinted. They, like all other offices, start by surcharging the white but will finish up with the colored papers. Mr. E. C. Kinsel sends another from Seattle, while Mr. F. A. Brown sends a new one from Des Moines. Mr. F. R. Demmerly, who has so kindly kept us well posted on the Indianapolis varieties sends a new one from this city. The colored papers in this city all exhausted with only a few of the whites left. Some blue papers were surcharged in Philadelphia so Mr. George Smith tells me, but to date no one has been lucky enough to obtain a copy.

Mr. George E. Foster sends us a clipping from the Seattle Post Intelligencer stating that five million envelopes and eight million postal cards are in that city ready to be overprinted.

More of the 2c circular dies are coming to hand with the broken letters. Mr. Demmerly sends some with the "P" in "United" missing, Mr. A. A. Leve some with the "C" of "Cents" missing, Mr. Malcolm H. Ganser a copy with broken frame line. I note one advertisement mentions one of these varieties as an actual error, a perfect "F" not a broken "E". I have seen these and they are from the well known Die A. He possibly does not know how envelopes are embossed, otherwise he would not make such a misleading statement, for they are positively broken "E".

While it is not directly in the line of a chronicle to mention prices, nevertheless, in a recent auction sale two of the rarest United States 20th Century varieties were sold and as one of the varieties is not priced in the new catalogue, these figures may be of general interest. The 2c Pan-American, mint, with inverted center sold at $580.00, while what is without doubt the rarest late U. S., namely, the 24c aeroplane with center inverted, was knocked down at $675.00. Some ask if stamps are a good investment? It will be recalled that this stamp was sold not so many months back at $250.00.

We wish to thank Messrs. H. W. Porter, R. L. Mitchell, Walter Hartman and Edw. Wintermute for interesting information.

AUSTRIA.—A specimen of the new 7½ kronen, purple, value (chronicled in ours for February 14th) has been shown us by Mr. J. Planus.—Stamp Collecting.

AUSTRALIA.—The Australian Philatelic Record announces that the 1 pound stamp has appeared with the third watermark, sideways. Also that Mr. C. B. Scott has shown them a sheet of the current 1½d stamps which were evidently printed from a new electro. On the left pane, the two right-hand stamps on the second row from the bottom each have the top of the crown missing, so that a straight line appears across the top of the stamp.

BELGIUM.—Adj. Henry Hooreman sends us the following figures as being official, showing the total numbers printed of the helmet issue:—5c, five millions; 10c, ten millions; 15c, fifteen millions; 20c, one million; 25c, two millions; 35c, three hundred thousand; 40c, three hundred thousand; 50c, three hundred thousand; 1f, one hundred thousand; 2f, thirty thousand; 5f, thirty a female figure wearing a white coif,

and, with her right hand supporting a slender lance, and her left resting on a shield emblazoned with the national arms of "La Georgie" (St. George slaying the Black Mountains).

The stamps are of large format and inscribed "Republique Georgienne"
in small uncoloured capitals, in two corners, in the upper left corner, with are equivalent at the foot, and cipher of blue in the upper right corner. The values in brown, the 3r in blue, and the 5r in yellow, and the stamps are perf.

NEW ISSUE NOTES.

By CHAS. S. THOMPSON.

ABYSSINIA.—Those interested in small varieties of type will have opportunity to search for minor differences in the surcharge of the 1917 issue. The fraction bars between "11" and "2" and between "2" and 1917 are of different lengths, either 2 mm. or 3 mm. The normal has both bars 3 mm. long but in addition to the 3:3 variety, there are two others, 3:2, and 2:3. Examination of about two hundred specimens fails to disclose any with the possible combination of bars 2:2. The same variations occur on all values.

AUSTRIA.—The new newspaper stamps are in preparation, and the 4 heller brown has been issued. These show a full-face of Hermes with winged helmet, and caduceus. DEUTSCHÖSTER-REICH appears above in same style of lettering as in the Parliament set.
Below is "heller," the numeral in a colorless tablet. At bottom is "Zeit-ungsmarke"—newspaper stamp.

BELGIUM.—The entire set of parcel post stamps, from 10c to 10fr has now been issued. Colors as follows:

- 10c green.
- 15c grey.
- 20c red.
- 25c bistre.
- 30c violet.
- 40c orange.
- 50c olive yellow.
- 55c bistre.
- 60c lilac.
- 70c green.
- 80c red-brown.
- 90c ultra.
- 1fr olive
- 1.20 dark green.
- 1.40 brown.
- 2 red.
- 3 lilac.
- 4 (?)
- 5 brown.

BULGARIA.—In connection with the stamps showing the design of the Demir-Kapu (Turkish for "Iron Gate"), a contemporary expresses his inability to understand why this Roumanian scene
should appear on a Bulgarian stamp.
This place on the Danube is one of the points at which the Bulgars invaded Roumania, and these stamps, like the others recently mentioned as showing Serbian scenes, is a commemorative of the victorious march of the Bulgars.

The "Iron Gates" constitute a pass on the lower Danube, just below the Hungarian border. Formerly a spur of the Transylvanian Alps nearly blocked the channel, so that navigation was impossible. From 1890 to 1900 the work of removing this barrier was carried on,
and about a million and a quarter cubic yards of rock were removed.

POLAND.—A new set of officials has appeared. These are oblong, perf. 12, and all are red. The figure of value is framed in an elongate hexagon, above which is the Polish coat-of-arms. POC-ZTA POLSKA appears at bottom.
There are 8 values, 5, 10, 15, 25, 50, 100, 150, and 200 fennia. Most of them will be used by collectors.

CILICIA.—Two new stamps just received are surcharges made on the 5 para revenue stamp, used for cigarettes. They are of large size, 25x37 mm., similar to the type illustrated by Forbin on p. 766, under 1911. CONTRATS DE LOCA-TION. They are overprinted with the surcharge arranged box-fashion (similarly with the Baghdad and Iraq issues), OCCUPATION MILITAIRE Francaise CILICIE and the value, PARAS 70 or PIASTRES 3½, in the centre. The surcharge is applied with an ultramarine ink, and the work is poorly done. Some letters are missing entirely, not because the type were not "there," but because they were not "type-high." Several mis-spellings are reported, but my specimens show nothing more startling than a few missing letters.

JUGO-SLAVIA.—The postage dues have been produced in Vienna. This edition differs in shade from the original, and the inscriptions are much smaller and the figures thinner than before.

SARRE.—The Bavarian stamps of the 1914 issue have now been surcharged Sarre in sans-serif letters and five bars
below for the values from 5 to 60pf, and in Roman caps, and 4 bars for the Mark values.

AERO STAMPS.

By FRED. J. MELVILLE.

Among the many varied phases of special interest in stamp collecting none can exercise a more powerful appeal to the imagination and foresight of the collector than the collecting of those stamps which come as heralds of the aerial mail.

War first developed ingenuity in sending or receiving messages through the air, and historians can go back to the siege of Potidea (five centuries B. C.) for an example of a traitor in the city getting messages shot with arrows from without. In the siege of Paris (1871) many letters were sent out of the city by balloon, and answers received by Nature's own postman—the pigeon.

Before the present war the substantial encouragement to aerial inventive progress created by prizes led to some experiments in the use of aeroplanes for postal transport. I have a postcard sent by the first aer plane mail, from the United Provinces Exhibition at Allahabad (India) on Feb. 18, 1911. The airportmaster of Allahabad, Capt. W. G. Windham, was also the organizer of the first United Kingdom Aerial Post, London to Windsor, in September, 1911, in honor of King George's coronation.

Since then mails have been sent by aeroplanes and seaplanes in many countries, and by Zeppelins in Germany before the war. A Taube carried mails out of Przemyśl early in the war, and since then the achievements of the military airmen have shown the practical certainty of a complete revolution in the world's mail transport. So far, however, few of the aerial mails have been available to the public use. Italy opened an experimental public aeroplane mail between Rome and Turin in May last year, and shortly afterwards set up a hydroplane post (to evade the submarine menace) between Naples and Palermo.

The United States has used aeroplanes for some years on difficult sections of the mail transportation system, but on May 15, 1918, the Washington-Philadelphia-New York "air-line" started; it carried letters for a fee of 24 cents (1s). This post has been a great success, and the postage rate was reduced to 16 cents on July 15th, 1918. This sum is arrived at as follows: 3 cents ordinary postage, 3 cents for the "airplane" transport, and 10 cents the ordinary charge for "express delivery." The U. S. Government is seeking to make the air-line popular; postal sorters have been supplied with hand-stamps bearing this official message to impress on ordinary mails: "Send a letter by airplane, especially to one 'over there.'" It will be a real treat." That message seems to bring visions of the Washington-Philadelphia-New York air-line developing into a New York-Newfoundland-Ireland-Paris line. The U. S. air-line covers the distance from Washington to New York in about two hours, which is two and a half times as fast as the fastest mail train can cover the distance. The postage rate has been still further reduced to 6 cents (3d.).

The historic flights across the Atlantic inaugurated a new era in long distance mails, and happily the government of Newfoundland associated the great aerial adventure with the mail service, and provided specially overprinted stamps. A rather high fee was demanded by the conveyance of a letter by the first Trans-Atlantic air post, carried by Mr. H. G. Hawker, namely £100 for a letter not exceeding one ounce in weight. Although no curiosity-loving American sported $500 for the privilege, a number of letters were carried by Mr. Hawker and Capt. (now Commander) Mackenzie-Grieve on behalf of officials and private persons interested in aviation, and today a letter carried by this mail, bearing the appropriate stamp, is a rare and valuable possession. The aviators started at 6.48 p. m. (British summer time) on Sunday, May 18. All the letters we have seen tell something of the perils of the flight, for the mails were immersed in the sea, and were recovered, together with the wreckage of the aeroplane, in mid-Atlantic by the ss. Chlotteville on May 23rd, 1919. The record says:

"The aeroplane was floating tail and on top of the tail was a white sheet tied as a signal of distress. Near top was lashed a brown mail, marked 'Newfoundland G.P.O.' mail in it was very much water-soaked and otherwise damaged. We dried it and pasted the stamps back on them."

The mail carried by Captain Sir J. Alcock, K. B. E., D. S. O., and Sir Whitten Brown, K. B. E., on their successful flight, June 14-15, was also very limited one, and bore a distinctive overprinted stamp. Letters posted Newfoundland the day prior to flight (June 13) reached the press-writer on the night of June 17th, within three days of leaving Newfoundland. The "Alcock" stamp is not yet a very expensive item, although a stamped letter carried by the mail is of course of much greater value.

Airlines will bring distant points closer, and even weeks, nearer to each other. That is where the value of winged letters will be most appreciated. We shall write in the morning to Paris and receive answers (if our correspondents are diligent and prompt) the same day. I shall write to Rome and get a reply the morning. The mail from London to Cape Town should do the round journey in a week. Postal airmen will most realise the fanciful ideal of the critic of Rowland Hill, who wrote in 1840:

Invention is progressing so, and soon will be seen

That conveyance will be quicker than it has ever been.

A plan's in agitation, as nought a genius fether,

To let us have the answer back, before they get the letter.

AUSTRIA.

30th March, 1918. Austrian stamps of Arms (1916) type in modified colors, overprinted FLUGPOST and charged (except 4k) with new values in black.

1. K.1.50 on 2kr lilac.
2. K.2.50 on 3kr bistre.
3. 4 kroner, grey.

The mail service was inaugurated on the date given, between Vienna-Cracow-Lemberg.

CANADA.

August, 1918. Lithographed in black and red, on white wove paper. P. 11 1/2.

25 cents, black and red.

The aerial postal service inaugurated in Canada in August, 1918, was not a regular service instituted by the Post Office. Solely in order to gain experience the Minister of Posts permitted "the Aero Club of Canada" to carry ordinary correspondence from Toronto to Ottawa and vice-versa, allowing, for the occasion, his exclusive right of carrying letters within the boundaries of Canada and at the same time permitting the Aero Club to use a special stamp. It was to be affixed to the back of the letters, and was to be sold by the Aero Club itself, at a price fixed by him, for the benefit of charity.

GERMANY.

10th November, 1919. Surface-printed on white wove paper, no watermark. Perf. 14 1/2 x 14.

1. 10 pfennig, orange.
2. 40 pfennig, green.

HUNGARY.

4th July, 1918. Contemporary stamps (Parliament House type) overprinted REPULO POSTA, and surcharged with new value in red (R) or blue (B).

1. K.1.50 on 75 filler, blue.
2. K.4.50 on 2 filler, brown.

The airport service starting on July 4, 1918, was discontinued on July 20, after several accidents to the aviators. Letters actually carried by the service should bear the postmark 4 (Hafpost), or "Repülő Posta—Budapest."

ITALY.

22nd May, 1917. Express post stamps overprinted in black "Esperimento Poste."

Maggio 1917 — Torino-Roma, Torino. Perf. 14.

centesimi, rose.

Mail started May 22, 1917, between Rome and Turin, a distance in straight line of 330 miles. The aeroplanes leaving Turin in unfavourable weather at 11.15 a. m. on that date, carrying 40 lbs. weight of mails, arrived in Rome at 3.30 p. m. The pilot travelled at average height of 9000 feet.

June, 1917. Express delivery of denomination 40c violet (previously never issued for use) surcharged in black "Idrovolante Napoli-Napoli 25 Cent 25." Perf. 12½.

cent on 40c violet.

This stamp was used for a seaplane service between Naples and Palermo. The postmark reads "Posta Aerea Italia-Mo-Continente" and date. The letter express stamp, although not for use, was never issued without above overprint, the express service for which it had been intended having been abandoned as impracticable.

JAPAN.

March 3, 1919. Current 1½s and 3s overprinted with device of aeroplanes in red or black "Granite" wavy watermark wavy lines. Perforated 13 or 12.

Blue.

cent carmine.

These stamps were intended for use between October 4th, 1919, on mail matter to be carried by two aeroplanes from Tokyo to Osaka, the distance being about 1000 miles. This was the first attempt at an air mail in Japan, and prizes were offered for a successful and quick trip. The weather, however, was unfavourable on the 4th, and as on the 5th it got worse, the flight was abandoned and the mail sent to the destination by rail. The stamps, which were valid until the end of October, were sold only at first and second class post offices at Tokyo and Osaka and the total printing of the two issues not exceeding 40,000 copies, the edition was sold out in a few hours. A special cancellation stamp was also used.

It was intended to renew the experiment about October 20th.

NEWFOUNDLAND.

April, 1919. First Transatlantic Air Post. Current 3 cents stamp (Trail of the Caribou issue) overprinted "First Transatlantic Air Post, April 1919" in five lines in black, as illustrated. White wove paper. No watermark. Perforated 14. Stamps engraved and printed by Whitehead, Morris & Co., London, and overprinted in the Dominion at the office of the Royal Gazette.

1. 3 cents, brown (200).

This stamp was used on the first attempt to fly from Newfoundland to the United Kingdom with mail, and a sporting agreement was made between the aviators that whoever took off first should carry the mail. Mr. H. G. Hawker and Capt. (now Commander) A. Mackenzie Grieve were first to take off, on May 18, and the mail bearing these stamps was carried by them, and was saved with the wreckage of their machine in mid-Atlantic, and brought to London. The total number of the stamps overprinted was 200, but of these 18 were damaged and were destroyed in the presence of the Auditor-General. Two were presented to the Governor, of which one was forwarded to H.M. the King, six others were presented to aviators and two to the Castle Museum; 95 were cancelled and used in the mail, and 76 were sold at $25 each on behalf of the Permanent Marine Disasters Fund.

Letters carried by this historic first mail bearing the stamp are of great rarity, and prices vary. We have had most of those which have come on the market, and can quote prices for them from time to time.

May, 1919. Aerial Post stamps. Current stamps (Trail of the Caribou issue) overprinted "1st Atlantic Air Post, Martinsyde, Raynham, Morgan." in five lines in black. White wove paper. No watermark. Perforated 14. Engraved by Whitehead, Morris & Co., and overprinted locally.

1st Atlantic Air Post, Martinsyde, Raynham, Morgan

1 cent, green.
2 cents, carmine.
3 cents, brown.
24 cents, pale ochre.

These stamps appear to have been issued in a somewhat irregular fashion, and appear to have been used on mail entrusted to Messrs. Raynham & Morgan, who, starting shortly after Mr. Hawker, crashed on rising, the flight being abandoned, and the mail was subsequently delivered in the ordinary way. We have had letters bearing these stamps postmarked 17th May, 1919.

June, 1919. Second Transatlantic Air Post. 15 cents stamp of the 1897 (Jubilee) issue, surcharged "Transatlantic Air Post 1919. One Dollar" in four lines in black. White wove paper. No watermark. Perf. 12. Engraved and printed by the American Bank Note Co., New York, and surcharged at the Royal Gazette Office, St. John's.

2. One Dollar on 15 cents, scarlet. Variety, no comma after "POST". Variety, no stop after "1919".

This stamp was used on the mail carried by Captain Sir John Alcock, K.B.E., D.S.O., and Sir A. Whitten Brown, K.B.E., on their successful flight on June 14-15, 1919. Mail posted in Newfoundland on June 13th, the day before the start, was delivered in London on the night of the 17th, within three days of leaving Newfoundland. The stamps were sold at $1 each in the Dominion, but the limited edition was speedily sold out.

Letters carried by this mail and bearing the stamp are of a high degree of rarity and of historical interest.

SWITZERLAND.

28th April, 1919. Current 50c stamp, overprinted with Swiss military aviators' "wings" badge in red. Surface-printed on white wove granite paper; watermarked cross. Printed and overprinted at the Federal Mint, Berne.

50c yellow-green and deep green.

The air service between Zurich (Dübendorf aerodrome), Berne (Kirchlinde) and Lausanne (Blécherette) started April 28, 1919; letters are carried at the usual postage rates plus the 50c air mail charge. A special air mail postmark is used.

TUNIS.

May 5, 1919. Aerial Post stamp. 35c pictorial stamp of 1906 issue (Ruins of Hadrian's aqueduct) overprinted with airmen's badge (extended wings) and inscription "Poste Aérienne" below, and surcharged new value (the original figures of value being obliterated by three short horizontal bars), all in red. White wove paper. Perforated 14x13½. Surface-printed at French Government Printing Works, Paris.

30 centimes on 35 centimes, olive & brown (100,000).

This stamp has been issued for use in connection with the aerial post between Gabès — Djerba — Zarzis — Ben-Gardane.

UNITED STATES.

15th May, 1918. Recess-plate, printed at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Washington, on white wove paper, without watermark. Perf. 11.

1. 6 cents, orange.
2. 16 cents, green.
3. 24 cents, carmine and blue.

The 24c stamp was issued for the Washington-Philadelphia-New York "airline", which started on May 15, 1918, the total length of route being 220 miles. The postage rate of 24 cents was reduced on July 15th, 1918, to 16 cents, and subsequently to 6 cents. Although primarily used for use on mail matter sent by the "airline" these stamps could be used on ordinary mail. A sheet of 100 of the 24 cents, with the centre inverted, was sold over the counter at Washington Post Office, the sheet subsequently being bought by Col. E. H. R. Green (son of the celebrated Mrs.

UNSOLICITED EMCO PACKET TESTIMONIALS

I added 316 stamps to a collection of about 3200, not counting the envelope stamps—(given as a premium).—I also found many better specimens to substitute for not-so-good ones already in my album. Then I made up the balance of the stamps into smaller packets and sold them to collectors for $3.00. As I only paid $3.25 for packet No. 124 in the first place, my net expense was 25 cents on the deal. I got so much fun looking the pile over (worth a good deal in itself) that I am converted to packets from now on.—F. M. Gracey, Cambridge, Mass.

Received packet No. 126 (2000 varieties at $10.00) in good condition and am very much pleased with same. Another order enclosed.—C. C. Colyer, Altoona, Pa.

THE GOLDBACK MATCH STAMPS.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

A. Goldback & Co. and A. Goldback.

These are the only match stamps issued in Virginia and, with a single exception, are also the only such adhesives bearing the word Proprietary. There is nothing about them to reveal the class of proprietary tax they were issued to pay. The two varieties differ only in that the first has the firm name reading "A. Goldback & Co.", while "Co." is omitted on the second.

The design forms an upright rectangle of the usual 1c size with curved edges. Four similarly curved marginal labels are inscribed "U. S. Inter." (at top), "Revenue" (at bottom), the firm name at left, and "Richmond, Va." at right. In each corner is a shaded oval placed diagonally and bearing a colorless numeral "1". The central part of the stamp is occupied by the arms of the State of Virginia with "Proprietary" above and "One Cent" below, while in tiny letters arched over the head of the standing figure the motto "Sic Semper Tyrannis" appears. The whole design is so beautiful and effective and the execution so excellent that it is not to be wondered the Goldbacks take high rank with the most popular of the Philadelphia productions.

Of the first stamp the Boston Book states:—

Die approved, June 25, 1874.
First issued, July, 1874.
Last issued, August, 1875.
210 stamps per sheet, (14x15).
3,586,403 issued on silk paper.

Regarding the second die the data given is as follows:—

Die approved, Oct. 16, 1875.
First issued, November, 1875.
Last issued, 1877.
1,974,644 issued on silk and pink paper.

The firm of A. Goldback & Co. is listed in the Richmond directories for 1874-75 and 1876-77 as match manufacturers at 3101-3-5 Dock St., and in 1877-78 at 3103 E. Rockett St. At first the partners were A. Goldback and Emanuel Bear, Jr., but in 1876-77 Mr. Bear is listed as a boot and shoe agent and after 1874-75 A. Goldback appears to be the only partner. Evidently Mr. Bear was the company of A. Goldback & Co., and after his retirement from the firm the die was suitably altered. The directory for 1881 lists Abram Goldback, salesman for S. M. & M. Rosenbaum.

The A. Goldback & Co. die was one of the last match stamps engraved by the Carpenter firm and all the stamps from it were printed in Philadelphia. The shades are yellow green and green, the latter varying somewhat from medium to pale.

The A. Goldback die was one of the first engraved by the National Bank Note Co., and all the stamps from it were printed in New York by that company. The shade is a trifle more bluish than on the Philadelphia stamps and varies but slightly. The variety on pink paper is one of the rarest U. S. revenue stamps and one of the rarest stamps of any kind in the world, not more than half a dozen specimens being known to exist. Five different copies have been traced by the writer, one of which is in splendid condition, another is poor, and the remaining three are quite respectable, even though perhaps not really perfect.

This variety must have been one of the first stamps printed on the pink paper, and if actually issued in 1877 could not have been printed on the "magenta" paper supplied by S. D. Warren & Co. of Boston. The Goldback on pink paper was not known to collectors until nearly twenty years after it was issued. It was first listed in the standard catalog in 1896, priced at $50, and so remained until 1903, when the quotation was raised to $100, the current figure. Within a few years several of the known copies have changed hands at not far from the catalog quotation. The first copy discovered is stated to have been found in Alexandria, Va., by a well known dealer who priced it at $1 and felt gratified when he obtained that amount for it! He is also credited with having found another copy which he sold for several dollars with less effort.

A famous collector and dispenser of anecdotes, Edgar Wilson Nye, otherwise known as Bill, used to bewail the fact that his ancestors were not attending to business where he thought they should have been when Manhattan Island was sold for $24 worth of glass beads, etc., and the present writer bemoans the fact that he was elsewhere when a Goldback on pink could have been purchased for eight bits.

Neither of the Goldback stamps was probably ever used in multiple but a small block and one or two pairs have been noted. A friendly suit brought by the Internal Revenue Bureau under the title U. S. v. Goldback in the U. S. court for the Eastern District of Virginia to decide whether a box with two sliding drawers each holding 42 matches, was taxable as one box or as two boxes was decided April 6, 1877, in favor of Goldback. It was held that as there were less than 100 matches in the box, dividing it into two compartments was immaterial and one stamp was sufficient.

MARKET NOTES.

Mafeking "Siege" stamps are not the salable commodities they used to be some years ago. Many years ago a set would generally fetch about £50, but at an auction last week the highest bid was £12. The same thing may be said about Transvaals—they are not what they were. These are just a couple of exceptions to the general universal tendency in the other direction—to appreciate in value.

The 5s K. E. Falkland Islands seems to have disappeared off the wholesale market. Two or three years ago a supply was unearthed at the post office, and orders for 5s stamps were executed for a time with 5s K. E. For a time the wholesale market was flooded with them, but, like many other stamps, they have all found their way into collections.

Gambias and Gibaltars are both fetching very tall prices at present. I consider Gambia one of the finest colonies to collect; the stamps are so beautiful in design and colouring, they will always be in demand.

Collectors should be wary in buying the famous "value omitted" error of Gibraltar, as there are some wonderful "duds" on the market, the value on a genuine stamp having been removed by some process. I recently saw a mint block of four of this "rarity."

Early type Grenadas are extremely beautiful and desirable stamps in mint condition. In buying these stamps, a big difference can be made between unused and mint. Unused, they are comparatively common in comparison with mint. Mint specimens are a sure proposition.

New Zealand "pictorials" can be recommended to the philatelist whose means are limited. The stamps, generally speaking, are cheap, and would well repay anyone who made a serious study of the printings. There is a wonderful variety of shades of some values, certain of which will want a lot of finding in spite of the fact that they may only be catalogued at a few pence.

The 1893 provisional (CC) of Sierra Leone is becoming uncommonly rare nowadays, and it is probable that less were issued than is supposed to have been the case, as I have heard of the same surcharge having been found on the 2d grey.

The £1 Union of South Africa is a popular stamp, and keeps up its price in used condition.

In Virgin Islands, the 6d perf. 15 is bound to show an increase in price. It is a rare stamp, both used and mint (not unused) on either paper. The 1s double-lined frame is also a very hard stamp to find at any appreciable discount off cat. The 4d 1899 issue is overpriced.

I am indebted for the following interesting information to a British naval officer:—"I do not know if you are aware of the fact that the currency of Latvia is about to be altered, the 'Ruble' being rechristened the 'Lat' and the kopec having a new name also. Owing to this, the new postal rates are being increased very considerably, and the post offices will not part with the present low value stamps, the 3kop variety having entirely disappeared in Libau, and it is anticipated locally that the so-called Jubilee issue of November 19th, 1919, will become scarce, especially the large-sized (there are two sizes) 10kop. This latter stamp appeared on variously watermarked paper; horizontal, vertical, letters in paper, others without watermark. There is a variety of the blue 25kop on thin paper, both perf. and imperf., which is known locally as 'Semiton' stamps, being named after the General who liberated Riga. These stamps were issued at Wolmar early in 1919. The National Assembly takes place early next month, so another complete issue is anticipated."

My correspondent concludes his letter as follows:—"As I have been in these waters [Baltic] for the past year or so, I have accumulated a lot of 'enemy occupation stamps' and I note the English catalogues do not list them. These stamps are of considerable historical interest, and I cannot understand the dislike Britishers have for them, as the used specimens cannot possibly swell the German exchequer, and other trading is considered quite de rigueur."—Stamp Collecting.

THE SURCHARGED ENVELOPES OF 1920.

By LOUIS G. BARRETT.

When it was announced by the Post Office Department that owing to the large numbers of three cent stamped envelopes remaining in reserve stock at Post Offices thruout the country, and the prevailing shortage in paper, these were to be surcharged for use as two cent envelopes, it was supposed that some uniformity of surcharge would render but a relatively small number of varieties for the collectors of stamped envelopes. With the various dies of the three cent envelope, four in number, A, E, F and H, with the various combinations of paper and size, further complicated by two watermarks, these alone would have made a considerable collection.

At first this theory seemed about to prevail, as the output of the first two or three offices preparing surcharged stock began to appear.

As time passed, however, it has been found that, altho quite similar in many respects, the surcharges of all the various cities so far issuing them, are different from each other, and these can be quite readily identified as to their city of origin.

But, meanwhile, collectors had been content to consider these surcharges as of four general types, but now with further study it seems that attention should be given to some types which have been grouped with similar ones of an earlier issue from some other city.

Up to this time they have been listed and distinguished as follows:—

Type I. Saint Louis. Three long horizontal lines extending to right edge of envelope; large numeral 2 above them.

Type II. Washington. Three horizontal lines 29 mm. long, not extending to right edge of envelope; numeral as Saint Louis type.

Type III. New York. Two groups of four vertical bars each, with a smaller numeral 2 above them. (This type has included everything with vertical bars except Cleveland Type IV following.)

Type IV. Cleveland. Same as Type III, but a narrower (?) numeral 2.

Now the above classification is, to say the least, most confusing, as other distinct types are entirely ignored, so it would appear that some other scheme of classification should be adopted, bearing in mind the order in which the various types have appeared, and having a type of some general characteristic as the model for each group.

It is hoped, therefore, that the following descriptions, with the accompanying sketches, may assist in bringing a semblance of order out of the present chaotic conditions, and allow collectors, before it is too late, as many of the issues are extremely limited in quantity, to acquire some of the varieties which otherwise would be entirely overlooked. As the situation is today, one hardly knows what to look for, as so many surcharges have been reported as of the same type from various cities, whereas, as will be shown, they have been all different, and a comprehensive collection of these most interesting issues is fast assuming sizable proportions.

1ST WASHINGTON DIE, TYPE I.

The first cancelling die for the purpose of surcharging envelopes was used at Washington. In the presence of Postmaster General Burleson, a number of envelopes were run thru the machine fitted with this special cancelling die; illustrated as Type I in the sketches. On Mr. Burleson's criticism that the large numeral 2 did not fall upon the stamped impression of the envelopes, this die was rejected and no further quantity was surcharged with it. On the sketches the outline circles show the position of the embossed impression of the original three cent envelopes, in relation to the surcharges when normally applied; and the dimensions, all in millimeters, will assist in identification of the various types. In some cases these measurements were made from "proof impressions" on plain card or paper, whereon the details naturally show much clearer than when found on the envelopes themselves.

2ND WASHINGTON DIE, TYPE II.

(Previously known as Type II.)
Succeeding the rejected Type I, this die was used to surcharge the greater part of the reserve stock at the Washington City P. O., the earliest printings being in red. This, however, was to the right edge of envelope, as illustrated. The numeral 2 is practical of the same character and dimension as that on the similar Washington die, the top stroke ending in the "ball" appears to be bent down somewhat. BOSTON DIE, TYPE III.

(Previously considered the same as New York Type III.)

In reality this is quite different from the New York die, and as the surcharges were quite numerous and were undoubtedly issued earlier than those at New York, it is fitting that they be given the honor of bearing the Type designation.

This was the first type seen with vertical bars in place of the horizontal lines distinguishing the 2nd Washington and Saint Louis emissions. These are so placed in two groups of four pairs each that in a normal surcharge they would obliterate the 3's of the original impression. The dimensions on sketches show the arrangement of the bars in relation to the numeral 2.

This numeral 2 is smaller than that of the 2nd Washington and Saint Louis die, being but 6 mm. wide by 6½ mm. tall. Especially to be noted are the following characteristics, while a comparison of the sketches for the various dies will make these distinctions quite clear.

a. The "ball" is directly over the left end of the "base" of numeral. (Note: This is also found to be true in regard to Types IIIa, IIIb, IV and V, the only exception being Type Ia.)
b. The width of the "double-bar" back to head is 1½ mm.

c. Left end of base is four times as wide as the right end. (Note: This same feature is found on Types IIIa, IIIb, IV and IVa, the exception being Type V.)

d. The "serif" at right end of base flares out to the right at its top.

PHILADELPHIA DIE, TYPE II.
(Not previously differentiated.)

The die used in Philadelphia is the same as the Boston Type III in a respect, with the exception of the "ball" at right end of base of numeral, which on this is distinctly vertical and straight, without the curved flare found on the Boston die.

INDIANAPOLIS DIE, TYPE III.
(Not previously differentiated.)

Of the same general type as the Boston die, but differing from it in several details:—

a. The top line of head of numeral curves over more to the left before reaching the "ball."

b. The width of "double-line"-back to head is 1½ mm. as on Boston die, but the inner-line is vertical rather than curved.

c. The "serif" at right end of base of numeral curves slightly to the right, not flaring abruptly at top only, as on the Boston die.

NEW YORK DIE, TYPE IV.
(Previously known as Type III, and with which the Boston, Philadelphia and Indianapolis printings have previously been combined, being considered the same.)

Actually, this die is quite distinct from these others noted, and can easily be picked out at a glance. The variations are as follows:—

a. The "double-line"-back to the numeral is narrow, being only 1 mm. wide, thus distinctly different from the Boston die.

b. The "serif" at right end of base is short and straight, with no indication of a curve.

3RD WASHINGTON DIE, TYPE IVa.
(Not previously differentiated.)

On this die the head of the numeral is narrower than the base, the "ball" of numeral not being over left end of base, being, as the sketch shows, 1 mm. to the right of an extended vertical line from that end of the base.

a. The "double-line"-back to numeral is same as on the New York die, being 1 mm. wide.

b. The "serif" at right end of base is curved to the right as on Indianapolis die.

CLEVELAND DIE, TYPE V.
(Formerly known as Type IV.)

The general dimensions of the surcharge are the same as those of Types III and IV and their sub-varieties; but there are differences from those dies as follows:—

a. The "ball" of numeral is not a circle, being shaped like an inverted "comma." Its characteristic appearance is well shown on sketch, and this feature alone is usually sufficient to determine the type.

b. The "double-line"-back to numeral is 1½ mm. wide, as on the Boston, Philadelphia and Indianapolis dies.

c. Instead of the left end of base being vertical with the upstroke starting at its top, the upstroke starts up obliquely from the end of the bottom line of base (see cut).

d. "Serif" at right end of base is straight and vertical.

In all probability, it will be found that the die provided for each city using them will be different one from the other, in similar ways to those noted above, but whether this is intentional or not, is not known. It may have been considered advisable to be able to identify the surcharged output of each city. It will be interesting to watch further developments, as city after city falls into line surcharging their surplus stock. The writer will make no attempt here to give even a partial check-list of the dies, papers, watermarks, etc., issued under each type, as at best it could be but a partial list.

The object of this article has been rather to bring to the attention of the collectors of stamped envelopes differences which in the writer's opinion are as well worthy of consideration as those already recognized, and to present a more logical classification of the known varieties of die.

USE THE LOCAL BOOKSTORES.

By MAXWELL KRAUSE.

We have a town here of about 25,000. A number of boys have come to me for advice concerning stamps and I have helped them where I could. But I am too busy to give them the attention they deserve. So I went to one of the local bookstores and offered to place with them, on consignment, a number of sets of stamps. The proprietor had several young nephews who collected and was a fair subject for conviction. The result is, after four or five months, that this bookstore carries a window-display of stamps which interests almost every passer-by, has stocked albums, catalogs, and all the other accessories, is doing a profitable business and is the Mecca of a hundred or more boys who have had their interest stimulated by this opportunity given them to see new stamps whenever they so wished and to use this shop as a little center to meet their fellow-collectors.

It seems to me that every town which has no stamp dealer who does a counter-trade is open for just such an experiment. Bookstores are everywhere, and any sensible stationer who is properly approached will be glad to take on consignments of stamps on commission. He not only makes a profit, but gets some mighty good advertising out of the proposition. And his window displays, and his easy accessibility to every boy, will mean a lot in stimulating collecting in his town. In other words, he will be another missionary to help "start 'em young."

Philatelic interest instilled in the youth is our most valuable means of propaganda. Believe me, it is not hard to "start 'em young". I have three boys myself. None of them are old enough to be trusted with stamps of any value, but observation of their Daddy has already filled them with philatelic zeal. My waste-basket is combed thoroughly every day. Worn-out approval cards are quickly pounced on and filled with a motley array of stamps taken from the envelopes in the basket. Young as they are, they are quick to see the difference between the stamps, German, French, Austrian, etc., and eager to learn about them. Every boy is a natural stamp collector, and it just takes a little stimulation to make him a serious one.

Not only dealers, but collectors as well, can make their local bookstores outlets for their duplicates and surplus stamps. They will not only profit thereby themselves but they will also be doing a genuine service for their hobby.

PANAMA AND ITS POSTAGE STAMPS.

By FREDERICK E. HEYDON.

CHAPTER XVIII.

The 1913 to 1919 Commemorative Issues.

Panama has not up to the present time indulged in the practice of issuing stamps, ostensibly for the purpose of commemorating some important event, but really for sale to stamp collectors. The commemorative issues have been few in number and the occasions such as to fully justify the emissions.

In 1913 occurred the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of the Pacific Ocean by Balboa, and the occasion was marked by the issue of a single stamp of beautiful and appropriate design. It is a vertical rectangle 20x30 mm., the central design representing Balboa standing on the hill from which he first gazed on the Ocean, in oval inscribed "Centenario del descubrimiento del mar del sur" (Centennial of the discovery of the South Sea) as the Ocean was called in ignorance of its true character. The dates 1513 and 1913 appear in the upper corners, value at bottom. Perf 12.

219. 2½c center dark green, frame yellow-grn. This stamp was only in use for a short time, and, as the number printed was small, it has never been common. The work has the beautiful execution that characterizes the productions of the American Bank Note Co., whose imprint appears below the design on each stamp, and all collectors will do well to secure a copy, or if available, a block, while they can be obtained at a moderate price.

In 1915 the opening of the Panama Canal, of such vital importance to the new republic, was fittingly commemorated by the emission of a series of eight stamps, to which three additional values were added in 1918. The designs differ slightly in size, the average being about 35x22 mm., although all are perforated uniformly. The central design is in black with frame in color. It would be hard to find anywhere more beautiful examples of the American Bank Note Co.'s work at its best, and the specialist can indulge in a search for shades and unusual cancellations.

220. ½c olive-green, black center. "Salto de la Chorrera." (Fall of the Chorrera.) a. Light yellow green, black center. This is very rare only one sheet having been located. It is not a shade but an entirely distinct color.

221. 1c dark green, black center. "Canal de Panama, 1915." (Panama Canal, 1915.) Representing a relief map of the Canal Zone and the adjacent parts of the Republic of Panama. a. Bisected diagonally, used as a ½c stamp.

222. 2c bright carmine, black center. "Balboa tomando posesion del Océano Pacifico." (Balboa taking possession of the Pacific Ocean.) a. Bisected diagonally, used as a 1c stamp.

223. 2c scarlet, black center; same design as the preceding. This is not a shade but an intentional change of color.

224. 2½c carnation red, black center. "Catedral de la Antigua Panama" (Cathedral of Old Panama). These are about the only remaining ruins on the site of the old city which was deserted after it had been sacked by Morgan and his army of cutthroats.

a. Deep brownish red, black center.

225. 3c reddish violet, black center. "Palacio de Artes." (Palace of Arts.) a. Dark bluish violet, black center.

226. 5c deep blue, black center. "Exclusas de Gatun." (Gatun Locks). The regular Spanish spelling is "esclusas" instead of "exclusas," but whether this is an allowable variation like the use of i for y in Spanish America, or is an error I am not prepared to say. a. Bisected diagonally for use as 2½c stamps.

227. 10c orange, black center. "Corte de Culebra." (Culebra Cut). a. Bisected diagonally for use as 5c stamps.

The use of bisected stamps, while absolutely unauthorized by any competent authority, was tacitly allowed on account of the smaller offices being unprovided with a full line of stamps, and unable to secure supplies promptly when they ran out of the common values. It seems to have been felt that the fault was after all on the part of the government and that penalizing either sender or addressee would be unjust. The varieties are therefore unofficial, but entitled to a certain amount of recognition as illustrating a phase of Panama postal history.

228. 12c (1918). Bright violet, black center. "El vapor Panama cruzando el Canal. Vista tomada del Norte en el Corte de Culebra Agosto 11 de 1914." (The Steamer Panama passing through the canal. View taken from the North in the Culebra Cut August 11, 1914).

229. 15c (1918). Light blue, black center. "El vapor Panama cruzando el Canal. Vista tomada del sur en el Corte de Culebra, Agosto 11 de 1914." (The Steamer Panama passing through the Canal. View taken from the south in the Culebra Cut, August 11, 1914).

230. 20c brown, black center. "Arco de Santo Domingo." (Arch of St. Domingo). This arch is of such extreme flatness that it is an architectural curiosity, but so perfectly made that it has withstood repeated earthquakes. It was built in a past age when mechanics took an honorable pride in their work.

a. Inverted center, only one sheet known up to the present time. b. Bisected diagonally for use as 10c stamps.

231. 24c bistre-brown, black center. "El vapor Cristobal en la esclusa de Gatun el 11 de Marzo, 1915." (The Steamer Cristobal in the Gatun Lock, March 11, 1915.)

It will be noted that the subjects selected have been of unusual interest. The numbers issued were not large, but I have no data available.

The 12c, 15c and 24c were not included in the original issue, but were added in 1918.

The first supply of the 12c surcharged for use in the Canal Zone was printed in dark blue violet and black, very different from the color of the regular issue, and that the 12c, 15c and 24c surcharged Canal Zone appeared in 1917, about a year before the unsurcharged stamps were on sale in Panama.

On August 15, 1919, the 400th anniversary of the founding of the old city of Panama was celebrated by the issue of 50,000 stamps of the 2½c deep brownish red, black center, on which is shown a view of the ruins of the old cathedral, but surcharged in dark blue "1519" and "1919" in upper corners, and at bottom "2 CENTESIMOS 2". It was not intended for use on mail for points outside of Panama, but some covers with these stamps reached the United States safely. The stamps were only current for thirty days, but in spite of efforts to restrict selling to five stamps to each person, they were all sold out at Panama City by about noon on August 15. 5000 stamps were sent to Colon, 500 each to Bocas del Toro and David, and 250 each to Chitre, Aguadulce, Santiago and Las Tablas, the balance being sold in Panama or at a postoffice opened on August 15 for a single day at Panama Viejo (old Panama), where the actual celebration was held. A few varieties are to be noted:

232. 2½c carnation red, black center, surcharged 2c dark blue. a. Inverted surch. (One sheet known).

By THE MANAGING EDITOR.

(We welcome corrections and additional data. We are heading up a big job and no one brain can do the work as well as the many. One writer makes it "Melat-i-Kazerun" (which see) and another "Millet-i-Kazerun." Which is right, or are both right?—W. O. W.)

HAUTE SILESIA.—These words are found on the stamps of Upper Silesia. See Upper Silesia.

IDROVOLANTE.—An Italian word meaning "hydroplane." It occurs as a surcharge on the Italian aerial post stamp, issued for use between Naples and Palermo, 1917.

I.E.F. "D".—These letters together with the word "Postage" were overprinted on certain Turkish fiscal stamps in 1919 for provisional use in the town and division of Mosul, Mesopotamia. The letters represent "India Expeditionary Force, Troop D".

ILE ROUAD.—An overprint on French Levant stamps used in Rouad Island, off the Syrian coast. The island was occupied by the French in December, 1915, as a base for operations.

INDUSTRIELLE KRIEGSWIRTSCHAFT.—(War Board of Trade).—A surcharge applied to various Swiss stamps during 1918 to denote that they were the property of the War Board of Trade and to be used upon official correspondence only.

IRAQ.—An overprint applied to Turkish stamps. Iraq consists of that part of Mesopotamia between the lower courses of the Tigris and Euphrates, which is almost coincident with ancient Babylonia. The stamps are special printings made from the Turkish plates which are in the possession of Bradbury, Wilkinson & Co. of London and occasioned by the British Occupation of the territory.

KARBOWANEZ.—The monetary unit of the Ukraine. It is equal to 2 grivnia or 200 schagiw, or 100 kopeka, consequently it is intrinsically the same as the ruble. Cf. Schagiw.

KAREMA.—See data under Kigoma.

KARLSFOND.—An inscription found on certain fieldpost stamps of Austria and Bosnia. It means "Charles' Fund," a charitable project having the patronage of the Emperor Charles (or Karl) the Last, of Austria-Hungary.

KASTRIOTI.—This word on Albania, December, 1913, issue, identifies the national hero whose head is the main feature of the design. From 1443 to his death in 1467 Kastrioti upheld the independence of Albania against the Turks.

KERMANSHAH.—Early in 1917 provisional stamps of local origin were issued in this Persian city of 32,000 population. They are crude productions.

KIGOMA.—See data under Ruanda. It should be noted that there was no official authorization for this provisional.

K.K.H.M.—A watermark found in the Austrian stamps of the 1850 issue. It exists only in those on hand-made paper, and only portions of the letters are to be found in four stamps in each pane of 64. The letters signify "Kaiserliche-Königliche Handels-Ministerium," meaning "Imperial and Royal Ministry of Finance."

KOE OTUA MO TOGA KO HOKU TOFIA.—An inscription found on the 1/2d, 1897, stamp of Tonga. It means "God and Tonga are my Inheritance," and finds its parallel in "Dieu et mon Droit."

KRALJEVSTVO S.H.S.—A surcharge applied to various issues of Bosnia. It means "Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes." See S. H. S.

K.U.K. FELDPOST.—(1) The surcharge applied to the stamps of Bosnia in 1915, and (2) the inscription subsequently borne, by later issues of stamps provided for the same purpose, the army field posts of the Austro-Hungarian monarchy. The letters are the initials of Kaiserliche und Königliche, and the whole inscription means "Imperial and Royal Fieldpost," the ruler of the two nations being Emperor of Austria, and King of Hungary.

K. u. K. MILITAR POST.—The inscription carried by the stamps of Bosnia since 1912. It signifies "Kaiserliche und Koenigliche," etc., which means "Imperial and Royal Military Post." The mails in Bosnia and Herzegovina were handled by the army (ostensibly) as the two provinces were subject to a military occupation by Austria after the treaty of Berlin, 1878.

K. u. K. MILIT. VERWALTUNG.—A surcharge applied to the 10 & 15h Austrian Fieldpost stamps used in Montenegro. It signifies "Kaiserliche und Königliche Militar Verwaltung," which means "Imperial and Royal Military Administration."

COIL STAMPS OF THE UNITED STATES.

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

CHAPTER VI.

The 1910 Issue (Design of 1908).

Single Line Watermark, Perf. 12.

During the latter part of 1910 the watermark of all the adhesive postage stamps printed in sheets of four hundred was changed from the double line U S P S which had been in continuous use since 1895, to a new watermark U S P S in small single line Gothic letters. The first coil stamps upon this new paper were printed during October, 1910, and made their appearance early in November.

These stamps insofar as the lay-out of the plates, design and perforation were concerned are identical with the previous issue, the watermark alone being different. This series was perforated 12, and consisted of the 1c green and 2c carmine coiled both endwise (perforated horizontally) and sidewise (perforated vertically) in addition to the 3c purple sidewise. The 1c shows a profile of Franklin facing the left, while the 2c and 3c show the familiar portrait of Washington after Houdin facing the same way. All of the coil stamps of this issue are scarce and the 3c at least ranks as a real rarity, for with the exception of one unused paste-up strip of four, only a few single used copies are known.

From the records of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing as to the stamps issued each year, I at first was of the opinion that the 5c value must exist on the single line watermarked paper, perforated 12 for 5c coil stamps were issued during 1911 and 1912 and I knew that none were printed on the old paper after the Bureau had once changed to the new. The 5c perforated 8½ did not appear until 1913 so it looked as if one denomination of this series had come and gone unnoticed. Investigation showed, however, that when the Bureau of Engraving and Printing "issues" stamps on a certain day, it means that they are sent to the postmaster at that time to fill his requisition. These stamps which were so issued may have been in the vaults of the Bureau for many months. Official records show that there were no 5c stamps perforated 12 on single line watermark paper issued in coil form and that the supply on hand printed on the old double line paper was sufficient to carry them over until after the perforation on coil stamps had been changed.

The Bureau still continued to use the previously described "star" plates so we find the sidewise coils showing the usual variation in spacing peculiar to these plates.

It is impossible to give the quantities of these various stamps issued for the Bureau has never considered a change in watermark of sufficient importance to warrant keeping a record. As a result the two watermarks are considered together in the Bureau's report and our readers are referred to the previous chapter for the combined quantities issued. In the case of the 3c value, however, we have this information for none were issued on the double line paper and consequently we know the exact number coiled.

The 1c green, coiled endwise (perforated horizontally), perforated 12 was issued on November 1, 1910. While the variety is not rare it is certainly uncommon. Not a great many were issued, for the following month saw the introduction of the coil stamps perforated 8½.

The 1c green, coiled sidewise (perforated vertically, perforated 12 was issued on the same day, November 1, 1910, and remained in use for about the same length of time. For a number of years the variety appeared to be exceedingly scarce but later there were a few coils found and the variety became more plentiful, although by no means common.

The 2c carmine, coiled endwise (perforated horizontally), perforated 12 was issued on November 1, 1910, and was also short lived. The variety is somewhat scarcer than either of the 1c denominations and is likely to become more difficult to obtain in time, for I cannot locate any available stocks.

The 2c carmine, coiled sidewise (perforated horizontally) perforated 12 was issued as were the other 1c and 2c values on November 1, 1910. While it is possible that quite a few were coiled, although the stamp was in use for only a short time, nevertheless observations have shown that the variety is exceedingly scarce. Line strips are really rare and are seldom to be had except on the breaking up of some large collection.

The 3c purple, coiled sidewise (perforated vertically), perforated 12 on the single line watermarked paper was issued on January 24, 1911. It is the rarest coil variety and but one unused strip of four and a few used single copies are known to exist. Of this stamp 210 coils of 500 and 150 coils of 1000 were reeled and issued but they evidently were practically all used and destroyed.

The few used copies known, and I doubt if there are more than twenty, have all been traced to one source. As the unused strip came from the same place, it is my opinion that the greater part of these stamps were used from the same post office. I have never learned of their use elsewhere. It seems that Bell & Company (so often incorrectly called Bell Chemical Company), manufacturing chemists of Orangeburg, New York, desired to distribute to the physicians throughout the country samples of one of their products for indigestion, then known as "Pa-Pay-Ans-Bell" now known as "Bellans". Several of these tablets were placed in a small flat metal box and were put into a blue unsealed patented clasp envelope, opening at one end, 6½" long by 4" wide. In the upper left corner of the envelope was printed in five lines the black return card as follows:—

Bell & Company
 Incorporated
 Manufacturing Chemists
 Orangeburg, New York
 U. S. A.

In sending out these samples, this company, which had also previously used the 10c coil stamp, used the 3c coil of this series. They secured these from their post office, who in turn had especially ordered them from Washington. To my knowledge, these samples reached physicians in Philadelphia, Detroit and Brooklyn, and without a doubt went to all other large cities.

As these envelopes were flat and as there were thousands of them, the postmaster at Orangeburg ran them through the electric cancelling machine which was ordinarily used for letter mail. As a result all of these stamps have the cancellation of first class mail which at that time consisted of seven black wavy horizontal lines in addition to the small circle enclosing the name of town, state, date and hour of posting. In all copies that I have seen part of the lines fall upon the stamp and the balance on the envelope.

One will immediately assume that in order to obtain this rare variety it is simply necessary to take the regular 3c adhesive stamp, clip the perforations at the top and bottom, and behold the coil variety. Such a stamp, however, never deceive, one having the genuine variety for comparison. There are peculiarities that would assure the stamp's genuineness, and I doubt if an adhesive stamp perforated on all sides exists that could be trimmed to meet these conditions. In the first place, all copies used from this source as stated before, no others are known were taken from the envelopes just described. Consequently they, one at all, have the cancellation of a stamp used on first class mail, namely, black wavy lines. How many 3c stamps were then used on first class mail? There was no first class rate that would take a 3c stamp and if two were required it is more than likely that the envelope would be too bulky to go through the machine. Secondly, the stamp is of a very unusual deep shade quite different from any of the perforated varieties that I have seen, and thirdly, the amp should have sufficient height between top and bottom, that is between the two straight edges. A fake under such conditions is practically impossible.

A little history of the only known unused strip of these stamps may be well worthy of record. This strip of

Cent—The bargain postal cards, originally two cents but now priced at one cent are out and we thank correspondents who have sent us specimens of our first surcharged postal card. Mr. C. A. Jenkins of Cleveland was the first one to show us the card.

Work—For some time past, Mr. Stanley B. Ashbrook has been working on the reconstruction of the Confederate ten cent outer line plate; and it may be imagined readily that he is engaged on a task that keeps him from yawning. There are two hundred stamps to be considered, although Mr. Ashbrook thinks that there is a possibility that the original sheet was of one hundred objects. Failing proof to this effect, the count will have to remain at two hundred. Too, he has begun to reconstruct the plate of the TEN cent Confederate and he is pressing on enthusiastically. This is not all but we forbear to get away from the subject of Confederates just now; and we ask those who have one or more of the stamps mentioned about their persons or in their collections and want to share in a good cause to loan their copies of these stamps in order to help smooth out the complications as much as possible. Register to Stanley B. Ashbrook, 720 Union Trust Building, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Stir—A correspondent in New Zealand informs us that a tempest that has got beyond the confines of a tea-pot is agitating collectors in Australasia because of the sale by the New Zealand authorities of the recent Victory set of New Zealand in London. The course is criticised generally and the fact that the precedent for the sale of New Zealand stamps in London was established when the pictorial set was offered there does not mollify the objectors. The criticism is in line with the remarks of the Australian Stamp Journal whose editor does not mince his words in dealing with what he regards as a breach of faith. He challenges the New Zealand government to produce a single letter from a reputable firm of stamp dealers in England asking that the stamps be placed on sale in London as an accommodation, in answer to the statement that a reason for the proceeding was the wish of English dealers to buy the stamps at home.

Plan—The following letter has been received: "In regard to the points of importance in measuring the 'condition' of a stamp, inquired for recently by a correspondent, I submit the following table. I place myself in the position of a disinterested judge and am not guided by personal inclination, as in fact, I do not collect according to the scheme that I believe is most logical and embraces the most reasonable findings. First the stamp design is paramount and that means that decided off-centering by impinging on the color takes away a part of the design; and other degrees of variation from the center are responsible for an ill-balanced result. Thus, centering is of first importance. If the stamp is used, a disfiguring cancellation is objectionable, of course, but, even so, it does not rank with marked off-centering as a disqualification. In the consideration of design, freshness of color has its consideration. Second a minute tear in a stamp extending into the design does not actually take away anything from the stamp but a 'thin spot' does remove a layer of the stamp and so is worse than the tear. A straight edge is not a defect in manufacture, but as it disorders the appearance of a stamp, it is reckoned a fault. Gum on unused stamps is of smallest consequence when the loss is not attended by fading of color of the stamp. Its absence is felt because it is a part of the finished stamp. To recapitulate: the chief requirement is centering; then, absence of thin spots, followed by all-around perforating and last, gum. Some intermediate divisions could be accommodated and minor considerations affect each classification to some extent." The plan of our correspondent is worth reading, but our opinion is that any blanket rule of the kind could not be made operative. There are many fugitive details about a stamp that are not to be bound by any general finding. Each specimen must be weighed on its own merits; each stamp is peculiar to itself and requires individual attention.

Long—Several readers have remarked upon the award of the Order of Philatelic Merit to the editor of the WEEKLY, as one of the twenty-five philatelists so distinguished. One of them says: "I want to congratulate you upon receiving the Order of Philatelic Merit. . . . You have been a consistent and persistent booster of stamp collecting for a quarter of a century and have done practical good. Your sustained effort in upholding and spreading philately has its influence in the present activity. Read this: 'The progressive steps of philately during recent years are fresh in the minds of collectors, and so the pursuit enters more largely into public notice through the attention given it in the general newspaper press and periodicals. The position of the collector is now secure, and he is spared the cynical curiosity of the ignorant. Newspapers and magazines that keep abreast of the times are inclined to cover philately in their columns, regarding it almost as a staple source of news and information; and the recognition of stamp collecting by a powerful magazine while a gratification, no longer excites the wonder and extended comment in the way that it did not many years ago.' You have forgotten this, but you wrote it seventeen years ago. Vide WEEKLY of Nov. 7th, 1903." Er,—how time does fly.

Sold—From Mr. Lowell J. Ragatz, we have received the fragment: "Quoting Herbert Adams Gibbons, 'The New Map of Africa,' p. 94: 'In 1905, the Government of Liberia was bankrupt. The only portion of revenue not yet mortgaged was the sale of postage stamps.' Consular reports show that the situation has improved but little since then. Evidently the wily Liberians have been endeavoring to get as much as they can from this last unencumbered asset." Still, Liberian stock is regarded as about the best a dealer can have, and at times these stamps are not easy to get, wholesalers tell us.

is seen in a Shanghai newspaper, headed: "When the Mail Comes In. How Thousands of Letters are handled." In the description of the workings of the great establishment the North China Daily News says that the only female members of the staff are the office cats, "who are rationed and kept 'on the strength' because of the unfortunate attraction postage stamps and contents of parcels have for the office rats!" The United States postal agency at Shanghai has its own staff of postmen. NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—England proposes to increase its postage rates. Chancellor Chamberlain, presenting his budget statement to the House of Commons, declared that postal charges should be raised from 3c to 4c and the newspaper postage will be doubled. The minimum for telegrams will be 24c instead of 18c.

—James Jenkins calls our attention to the fact that the Eupen & Malmédy on Belgium set is now replaced by separate sets for each province.

—We want copies of Nos. 15, 25, 31 and 51 of 1917 and No. 43 of 1918. If you can send us copies of these in the original fold we shall see that you get some of the exchanges that come to our office.

—B. Max Mehl of Fort Worth, Tex., has just issued a pretentious catalog of coins, listing American and foreign and ancient and modern, priced at current market quotations. The book has in it a great deal of valuable information for one who is not a numismatist, and while it is circulated free of charge, the person who secures a specimen copy may consider himself fortunate.

—The New York Post for Saturday, May 8th, contained a two full column meaty stamp article headed "Stamp Collecting An Art of Increasing Complexity", written by Henry B. Curry. Some personal experiences are mentioned, also early P. E. I. and N. B. issues touched upon.—JOS. WARD.

—C. H. McBride sends us a copy of the Traffic Club Bulletin containing a two-page feature written by Otto Praeger, Second Assistant Postmaster General, entitled "Air Mail Service". It is illustrated with a picture of Mr. Praeger.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from C. M. Breder, Allan J. Roos, J. M. Stone, Herman W. Boers, F. C. DePuy, C. H. McBride, Otto Frank, John H. Feeman, Walter B. Gould.

—We have been shown by Fred S. Wist, Alameda, Cal., some weird labels that are supposed to be Poland stamps and we think it advisable to give them the widest publicity. In October of last year, the Champion Stamp Ex., Sta. C, Box 46, Montreal, Can., advertised "Poland latest issue. Armored head of Liberty. Imperforate. Cancelled" and quoted a price of 40c for a set of five values, 5, 10, 20, 25 and 50fen. These stamps are nothing but miserable counterfeits, and we have asked the Champion Stamp Ex. for an explanation. In the meantime we publish these facts, believing that our subscribers may have come in contact with these fakes.

—The ex-Russian Province of Bessarabia is now a part of Roumania; it was annexed recently, and the Manchester (England) Guardian states that a special set of stamps is in preparation of the event. The province is of great value to the Roumanian Government; it is half the size of Ireland. It has been the battlefield for countless Russian-Turkish battles for ages back, and it is hinted (so the Guardian says) that these subjects may be used for designs of the stamps. Russian Bolsheviks' intolerable atrocities are the underlying reasons for the voluntary annexation with the Roumanians. New Europe specialists take note.—JOS. WARD.

—"I beg to call to your attention the incorrect chronicle of the Colombian Airpost surcharge in the WEEKLY for

May 1: LO SERVIZIO POSTALE AREO. The correct spelling of this surcharge is as follows—"El Servizio Postal Aereo."—GEO. A. LINDEMANN.

—J. A. Goldsmith, Box 313, Kansas City, Mo., has succeeded Dr. Hennan as secretary of the Int. Precancel Club.

—Philatelist No. 1—Five months ago Elsas borrowed my catalogue for two hours and has just returned it.

No. 2—What a blessing!
 No. 1—What's a blessing?
 No. 2—That he didn't borrow it for two days.

—H. J. Kaufmann of the Michigan Stamp Club, Detroit, sends us an article dealing with the poor mail service that Michigan is given at the present time. He asks if auction managers and publishers cannot do something to improve the situation. Our impression is that Mr. Kaufmann and others must deal with the postal officials in order to secure the reform needed. We have been informed that second class mail in some of the western cities (notably Chicago) has been held up and stored for weeks awaiting the attention of the P. O. Department. Our issue of April 17 was not delivered to subscribers in Chicago until after the April 24 number had been received.

—We should like to know the present whereabouts of James C. Graves, proprietor of the Providence Stamp Co., and formerly at 109 Washington St., Providence, R. I. He has left Providence, and if any of our readers ever come in contact with him please let us have the desired information.

—"Who said that your subscribers do not read the 'Adlets'?" In your issue of April 24th I used five lines asking for selections of 3c green cancellations, and before I had even seen my copy of the paper I had five replies, and every mail is bringing more, with the net result to date of the addition of over 100 varieties to my collection. This shows not alone the spirit of co-operation among fellow collectors, but also the splendid pulling power of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY—may its sphere of usefulness long continue.—D. L. BALLENTINE.

—The Australian Council of Defense is considering plans for an aerial fleet which will cover that continent completely, and although a war defense it is a boom to inland commerce. By 1926 the plan will be in operation, and 24 squadrons of planes will be used. In time of peace the aerial carriers will convey merchandise and other city products to the country, and will bring back rural farm products. Mail, it is intended, will be carried both ways.—JOS. WARD.

DEATH OF EARL E. BOYD.

We have received from Mrs. Rose Boyd, Watertown, N. Y., the mother of Earl E. Boyd, the news of the death of the latter, which occurred March 23. Mrs. Boyd has been unable to give us the information because of her illness. Mr. Boyd is the young man known to many of our readers from having been an invalid for years, the result of a peculiar malady which rendered him by degrees helpless. His stamps were his great consolation and a great many of our subscribers have had correspondence with him and helped him pass away many hours of pain through donations of stamps. Mr. Boyd was twenty-six years old.

WATCH YOUR STEPS.

If you have any varieties of foreign stamps, new or otherwise, that you feel are deserving of mention in the WEEKLY, please forward the same to Mr. Smith, whose address may be found in the heading to our Chronicle.

If it be United States stamps please note that all such should be sent to Mr. Ward, whose address is also to be found in the Chronicle heading.

It will be appreciated by Mr. Severn and Mr. Wylie both if subscribers will note the above disposition of correspondence. It is absolutely impossible for them to keep track of these matters with the many details of WEEKLY work that come in regular order.

WHEN DOES MY SUB. EXPIRE?

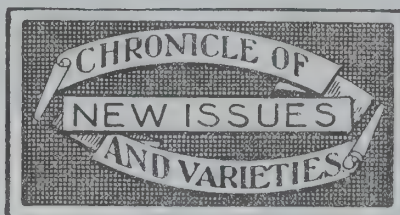

Notwithstanding the missionary work that has been done in past months towards acquainting subscribers with the number on the wrapper, we frequently receive letters with the question, "When does my subscription expire?" At the risk of being considered tiresome by many of our subscribers, we desire once more to call attention to our system of noting subscription expiration. The present Whole Number of the WEEKLY, as will be seen by the title page, is 1534, and if the number on your wrapper is 1534 or under, your subscription has expired. This certainly should be easily understood.

New Permit Regulations.

Order No. 4164 just issued from the office of the Postmaster General calls attention to a revision of the present regulations regarding the use of permits. Hereafter first, second, third and fourth class matter will be accepted for mailing under permit without the affixing of stamps upon prepayment of the full postage in money. This in substance is the text of the lengthy order just issued by Postmaster General Burleson, and anyone desirous of a copy of the order can obtain one from the P. O. Department at Washington.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

UNITED STATES.—Mr. J. H. Houston sends us a copy of the "Congressional Record" for May 5, 1920, wherein a joint resolution, H. J. Res. 302, is presented to the Senate authorizing an appropriation for the participation of the United States in the observance of the three hundredth anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims at Provincetown and Plymouth, Mass.

Section 4 of this resolution, which has passed Congress and which will without a doubt receive the approval of the President, reads as follows:—"That the Postmaster General is hereby authorized and directed to issue a special series of postage stamps, in such denominations and of such design as he may determine, commemorative of the three hundredth anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims at Provincetown and Plymouth, Mass."

Section 5 of this resolution states that the provisions of Section 4 shall expire December 31, 1921. This means that the printing of these special stamps will be discontinued after that date.

It will be seen that it is left entirely to the Postmaster General to decide as to the denominations and designs. As the Bureau is seriously behind in its engraving division, it is assumed that the series will consist of not more than five values and possibly only three. As soon as the Post Office Department is in a position to advise as to their intentions our readers will be informed.

In my notes of last week I mentioned that the 2c surface print type I, unwatermarked, had been seen with the Sherman perforations. Through the courtesy of Mr. George Soulmie we have seen an entire sheet in imperforate condition. Quite likely type II, in a similar condition, will make its appearance before long.

During the last week at least one of the Philadelphia Stations has had a run of the 8c perforated 11, unwatermarked in a very peculiar brown olive different from any of the other shades of this stamp that have come to my attention. The brown seems to predominate and the shade is very distinct.

More of the provisional envelopes have been seen. Baltimore placed theirs on sale May 6th, and we wish to thank Mr. H. H. Schnick for sending us some of the first. Mr. Arnold Herrmann sends us a number from New York that have not been noted before and calls attention to the fact that this city has evidently been using two dies, for there is a variation in the figure "2".

Mr. H. W. Lindaman sends us the first that we have seen from Chicago. This city is using the same die that formerly was used in Washington and later in St. Louis. This differs from the Washington type in that the horizontal lines are longer, and from the St. Louis type in that while the lines are a little longer in the Chicago type, they do not run to the end of the envelope as in the case of the St. Louis type. Philadelphia has placed on sale some low back size 5 on white which differ in die from the former high backs. I overlooked mentioning that the Baltimore overprint has the vertical lines.

I note that some writers take exception to my designating the different types after the city in which they were first issued. How else can they be chronicled more intelligently when the identical die used in three different cities gives three absolutely different and distinct impressions. Some may call the die used first in Washington then in St. Louis and now in Chicago Universal die I, but the specialist will consider each of these overprints as applied in the three cities as different.

The overprinted postals which we advised had been authorized have begun to make their appearance. Dr. L. A. Thompson and Mr. Louis G. Barrett send us some of the first from Boston, and Messrs. C. A. Jenkins and Jas. Nicholson send samples of those issued in Cleveland. The overprint in both cases consists of a large double line figure "1" with "CENT" underneath and the surcharging is done in black. In the Boston type the figure is 10 mm. high and 5 mm. at the base, while the Cleveland type is 11 mm. high and 4 mm. at the base. Many of them are so poorly overprinted that only the "C" and "T" in "CENTS" show.

ALBANIA.—Apropos our previous reference to this country, a letter which we have just received from a

(Italy) correspondent states that the Postal Administration at Scutari is tally lacking stamps," issued, on February 27th, a provisional series which to remain in circulation pending the arrival of the new "definitive" stamps from Paris. The writer says: "The new (provisional) issue comprises 3 values, in the same type—i.e. the portrait of the Prince of Wied, overprinted with the double-headed eagle."

Meanwhile, we learn from M. G. G. that the overprint consists not only of the Albanian eagle, but also the word "Shkodra" (Scutari) and the denomination in qints; it was approved by the French Government Bureau of Printing, Boulevard Brune, Paris.

a small stock of the Prince of Wied labels which were found in the post office at Scutari. The values are 2, 10, 25, and 50q.—Stamp Collecting

AUSTRALIA.—Mr. W. T. Traherne, Melbourne, writes us as follows:

I regret that, owing to my holiday being curtailed, I was unable to call upon you again to demonstrate the difference between the ordinary one-cent Commonwealth stamp and the one printed on "War-Savings Paper." I am of the opinion that the latter was produced from a new die, as the minute changes in the design which are common to all stamps on the new paper. The most notable are:—

(1) The figure of value in the new die is thinner. (2) The lines of the background of the stamp are much more even and distinct, particularly above the head. (3) The color forming the outline of the King's head does not vary in thickness. (4) In the "new die" the shadow of each side of "one penny" is separated from the solid colour by a fine white vertical line. (5) The "new die" has a fine horizontal white line across the shading on the neck, about 2 mm. below the point of the neck.

As these differences are common to all stamps on the sheet it proves that the basis of production—the die—has been altered.—Aust. Stamp Journal.

BAVARIA.—Mr. Allan J. Rodger has shown us copies of the recently issued 15pf and 30pf stamps surcharged DEUTSCHES REICH in two lines in black. The letter was mailed in Munich the latter part of April. M. E.

UM.—Messrs. N. Yaar & Co. informs that the (original) "Eupen and Malmedy" (and German value) occupational stamps were withdrawn on the 20th, when they were superseded by two separate series, "Eupen" and "Malmedy," already chronicled in these pages. The Postage Dues, 5, 10, 20, and 50c have also received these names.—Stamp Collecting.

ADA.—We learn from an Ontario dependent, Mr. Wm. Butler, that Canada is to have an aeroplane stamp.
Design and denomination have not yet been decided, but we are assured that the announcement emanates from the Aero Club of Canada.
The same time we understand that the Dominion Government will not issue
a Victory stamp.

is considerable agitation going on in Canada for the return of the two post which was restored in the States some time ago. A Bill is presented in the House of Commons, Ottawa, now in session.
Butler also tells us that there is talk in the statement that Canada and Newfoundland are going to issue stamps to commemorate the visit of Prince of Wales; he has letters from the Postmasters-General of the two Dominions to that effect.—Stamp Collecting.

GERMAN EAST AFRICA.—Mr. J. A.
Smallbones, of Shanghai, while traveling through South Africa, wrote us as follows on the 27th December:—

"At Dar Es Salam I heard that a new set of East Africa stamps were prepared to take the place of the old set overprinted G.E.A., so called to see the postmaster, but failed to get him to sell me any. He said they were in the post office not unpacked and he dare not open the package without instructions from Nairobi.—Aust. Stamp Journal.

HUNGARY.—Chas. S. Thompson reports a new set of charity stamps, this time for prisoners of war. They are three in number, and of large size.
The 40fi/1Kr pictures a soldier in the snow; the 60fi/2Kr shows a barbed-wire pen full of prisoners; the 1Kr/5Kr pictures a soldier and his family. All are inscribed "Magyar Posta" and additional directions for use.

Due to change of postal rates, the 20fi is now green; 40fi, red; 60fi, brown and blue; 1Kr, dark blue and pale blue.
Colors of charity set: 40fi red, 60fi
pale brown, and 1Kr blue.

MONACO.—The inevitable minor variety has promptly turned up in the "Prince Albert wedding" provisionals chronicled last week. Le Bulletin Mensuel says: "The Boulevard Brune establishment performs the work very carefully and the only error to be found
is in the first three stamps of the series;
it is an inverted 'c' on the eighty-ninth stamp of each sheet of 150 of the 2+3 on 15+10c, the 2+3 on 25+15c, and the 2+3 on the 50+50c.

Our Paris contemporary goes on to talk of the "very limited numbers," &c., but as a set-off to that Messrs. Whitfield King & Co. state "These stamps appear to have been made for purely speculative purposes, as they have been offered at 10 to 20 times their face value.

However, we are assured that the 5f-5f is already rare, in consequence of the greater part of the sheets having been spoiled during the surcharging operation.—Stamp Collecting.

NAURU.—We have noticed amongst our stock of 2d, 2½d, 3d and 4d stamps
one of the overprints spelt "NAUPU".
It looks peculiar, but in reality it is only the result of a broken type "R." It is the 62nd stamp on the upper pane of 120 counting from the top-left corner.
It may be on all the other values which were overprinted about the same time
but we do not seem to have any of them.
—Aust. Stamp Journal.

NEW CALEDONIA.—Mr. A. C. LeDuc advises us that he has on hand some of
No. 109, 5c on 15c, surcharged in brown, that is surcharged in red and some in black. He also adds that his correspondent informs him that the black overprint is rarer than the other by far.

WALLIS ARCHIPELAGO.—The Philatelic Magazine states that these islands which form a dependency of New Caledonia are shortly to be provided with stamps of their own, made by overprinting the French New Caledonia stamps: ILES WALLIS.

We might add that a similar announcement has been made at intervals
during several years past but the stamps
have not so far materialised.—Aust.
Stamp Journal.

L. W. BUCK & CO.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

This is one of the last match stamps engraved by the Carpenter firm and certainly reflects no little credit upon them. Collectors may be grateful its beauty was not spoiled by printing it in the purple (!) color used for the first Bousfield & Poole stamps.

The design forms a horizontal rectangle of the usual 1c size, of which the central portion is occupied by a shield containing a full face portrait of Mr. Buck. Curving along to the left side of the shield is MATCHES,
and similarly at the right, ONE CENT.
A straight marginal label across the bottom is inscribed U. S. INTER REV., and on either end of this label rests
a single Greek fret supporting an end of an arched panel extending over the shield and which is inscribed L. W.
BUCK & CO., CLINTON, IOWA. In each upper corner of the stamp is found a small shield flanked by ornamental scrolls and containing a numeral of value. The whole effect is most pleasing.

A collector in Clinton supplies the following information under date of April, 1918:—

"As a small boy I remember the Buck concern. They were in business in Clinton in 1869-70 making matches.
The firm was composed of L. W. Buck and B. F. Pool. It is the portrait of Mr. Buck which appears upon the stamp and their plant was destroyed by fire,
I believe in the year 1870, and the business was not re-established. Mr. Buck and his family removed from this locality to California some six or eight years later, and Buck has since then been "gathered to Abraham's bosom".
Their friction matches were quite generally used in this locality, not only in Clinton, but for a circle of a good many miles, but so far as I know there is no copy of the stamp now remaining in this locality.

I had a fine copy which I disposed of in a collection about 1896. I have instituted a diligent search for a copy and at one time was led to believe that there might be a sheet of them in existence with the agents who sold them on behalf of the government to the Buck concern, but this proved to be false. By some chance a boyhood collection might turn up with one pasted down tight, but I know of none such
now in existence."

The Boston Book states of the Buck
stamp:—

Die approved, June 14, 1870.
First issued, June, 1870.
Last issued, Dec. 5, 1870.
565,000 issued on old paper.
210 stamps per sheet, (15x14).

"As will be seen by the above dates
of issue, this stamp was never printed upon the regular silk paper and all specimens showing silk threads must, therefore, be referred to the experimental silk paper."

The present writer heartily agrees with the above statement and would go even further, for in his opinion there were only one or two printings of the Buck stamp and only one kind of paper was used. This conclusion has been reached by careful examination of most of the copies now known to be in existence.

There is little or no variation in the quality of the paper and the only noticeable difference is that some of the stamps have one or two or three minute silk fibres, and on the other copies these fibres are either missing or are invisible. When only 100 or perhaps 200 tiny fibres were scattered irregularly
through a sheet of paper used to print 210 stamps, anyone can readily understand why some of the stamps would have a few of the fibres and others might and probably would have no fibres at all. The entire issue was less than 2,700 sheets and represented but little over $5,000 of net tax—not an exceptionally large order to have been printed at one time.

As will be seen by the catalog prices quoted, the Buck stamps have never been considered very common:—

The 1898 quotations are still in effect
—theoretically. The present writer has traced about twenty different copies, hardly one of which is in absolutely perfect condition. Poor centering is the rule, with minor or major defects thrown in for good measure. Nearly half the specimens seen had one or more silk fibres and the great difference in the price quoted for the two "varieties" is not justified. Most collectors can obtain $50 much easier than they can obtain a fine copy of the Buck stamp, with or without silk fibres. Think of a stamp comparable in rarity to the Post Office Mauritius and selling for ten, twenty, or forty dollars!

UNITED STATES 10c 1857-60.

By ELLIOTT PERRY.

PLATE NUMBER 2.

This is the new plate made during or after 1857 for perforated stamps and referred to as such in the letter of April 2, 1863, from Mr. S. H. Carpenter to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. It may have been made in 1857 and not placed in use until the next year, or until 1859, or may not have been made until 1858. Probably it was placed in use before 1859 because its use contemporaneously with plate No. 1 seems unlikely and stamps from it are much commoner than those from the first plate. By dividing the period when the 10c greens were in use into three approximately equal parts and comparing the relative scarcity of the stamps comprising each group we can reach a fairly accurate conclusion.

Plate No. 1, Imperf.—May, 1855, to May (?) 1857.

Plate No. 1, Perf.—May (?) 1857 to May, 1859 (?).

Plate No. 2, Perf.—May, 1859 (?) to June, 1861.

This division allows just about two years for each of the three major varieties and its incorrectness is at once apparent because the plate No. 2 stamps are so much commoner than either of the other two varieties. The imperforates must have been in issue about two years because no perforates could have been issued before February, 1857, and perforates may not have been issued in quantity until several months later. The imperforates are somewhat commoner than the perforates from plate No. 1, to identify the reliefs, although many attempts to do so with considerable quantities of material have been made. The differences between the reliefs are very slight and do not appear to recur regularly according to the plan stated, or to any other plan. Moreover, the stamps often vary in the horizontal rows, which is rarely the case on other six relief transfer plates and is very difficult to explain unless there were alterations made on the plate itself after the designs were rocked in. Indications which may be due to plate erasure are found on many of the stamps at their tops and bottoms, but not at their sides, where the greatest variation in the designs occurs.

The stamps from plate No. 2 were divided into two sub-types by Stevenson and may be separated with some success according to the completeness of the designs at the right side. Both sub-types are decidedly incomplete at the left side, but at the right side some of the stamps are nearly complete and much resemble the stamps from the first plate. The illustrations give a fair idea of the distinctions between the two sub-types and many of the stamps will agree with either one or the other of these cuts. Other specimens do not correspond exactly with either sub-type as illustrated, and the writer cannot say whether this difference is due to a variation in the design or is due merely to faulty impression. In several instances vertical pieces have been noted in which the stamps seemed to be all of the same sub-type.

Stevenson Type III-A
(Scott Type II)

Stevenson Type III-B
(Scott Type II)

which indicates the latter were in issue less than two years, and as the plate No. 2 stamps are at least twice as common as either the imperforates or the perforates from the first plate, the stamps from plate No. 2 must have been in issue more than two years. Therefore, 1858 is the logical date for plate No. 2 to have gone into use.

It should be borne in mind, however, that any or all of the perforates from plate No. 1 may have been taken from stock printed before 1857 and on hand when perforation commenced and that plate No. 2 may have been made in 1857 and stamps printed from it immediately, but no issue of these stamps made until the next year, or even later. This supposition is possible, but does not seem very probable.

But, whether made in 1857, in 1858, or as late as 1859, this second 10c plate belongs with the second 5c plate, with the 24c plate and with the 1c plates made from six relief transfers during this period, and like those plates, is believed to have been made from a six relief transfer, presumably rocked in 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 3, 4, 5, 6 in each vertical row. Neither the present writer, nor so far as he knows, anyone else, has been able

The reader will note on sub-type A the ornaments at the right are practically complete, the upper two pearls and part of the lower pearl show, and the shell is nearly intact, while on sub-type B the tips of the ornaments at the right are removed, only part of the highest pearl shows, and the shell is noticeably incomplete. On both sub-types the tips of the ornaments at the left side are removed, only the highest pearl remains, and a large part of the shell is gone. The bottoms of both sub-types greatly resemble the bottoms of the full shell stamps on the first plate, but on the second plate the stamps all have the lower outer line complete, whereas this line is always defective on the full shell stamps.

The tops of the plate No. 2 stamps resemble the tops of the A reliefs on the first plate, but the outer line at the top is usually stronger on the A reliefs than on the plate No. 2 stamps. On the latter this line is usually much fainter than as shown on the illustrations and frequently it does not show at all over the S of POSTAGE. It is stronger at the left side than at the right. Many of the plate No. 2 stamps have a faint horizontal line along the upper edge of the ornament over U. S. and this line sometimes extends to the right far enough to join the outer line, the two meeting to form a narrow V over the S of POSTAGE. Stamps in the top row of the plate may show a similar faint horizontal line placed a fraction of a mill higher and running all the way through the position dots and is probably the position line by which the stamps were located on the plate. No such faint line is found on any of the stamps from plate No. 1, but we find it again on all the stamps printed from the print plate of 1875.

The imprint is found at the middle of each side of the plate, that is, on the right side of the right pane and on the left side of the left pane and consists of the words, "Toppan, Carpenter, Bank Note Engravers, Phila., New York, Boston & Cincinnati", with the plate number just below the middle—"P". The style is exactly like that found on the 5c, 24c and 1c plates of 1857.

As on other six relief plates of this period, the 10c from the second plate are quite close together vertically, and much further apart horizontally. Undoubtedly this layout was for the purpose of making the sheet fit the perforating machine and not to give more room for the perforations. The vertical spacing on the second plate is wider than on the first plate—if so—and the horizontal spacing on the second plate is wider than was necessary. Quite obviously, if the reason for laying out the new plate was solely to make more room for perforation, the stamps would have been placed further apart vertically as well as horizontally. Exactly the same peculiar arrangement is found on the second 5c plate and on the 24c plate, both of which plate were made at about the same period as this second 10c plate.

There are many imperforates from plate No. 2 in existence, but they are singles—no pair, or record of a pair, has been traced. The singles often have irregular margins at the sides, but never have satisfactory margins at both top and bottom and there isn't the slightest doubt every last one of them is a perforate stamp with the perforations trimmed off either before or after use. The plate No. 2 stamps normally have generous margins at the sides because spaced far apart horizontally, and any one of them enough to wield a pair of scissors can make an "imperf." that will have good side margins. There isn't the slightest shred of evidence that any plate No. 2 ten cent were ever issued imperforate and all available data points to the fact that this plate was not used until at least a year after the issue of imperforate stamps had entirely ceased.

The plate No. 2 stamps frequently have a blur of color across the top margin or below the lower margin clear across. This blur is much like the blur on the top of most of the stamps on the 90c plate and in both cases was probably due to the same cause—hugs of metal between the reliefs on the transfer roll or between the stamp designs on the plate. Any displacement of metal which it would be necessary to create or burnish off to bring the surface of the plate back to a true level would come in the valleys between the tops and bottoms of the stamps and it is between the side valleys, because the transfer roll was rocked up and down the plate and not sideways, and this blur may have come from burnishing the plate a little too deeply over the tops and below the bottoms of the stamp designs.

Beside the differences in the reliefs there are few varieties on the plate. One stamp has a remarkable shift in the lower part, giving a very dark effect there. There is noticeable thing in the letters TEN CENTS, and in the lower left segment of the color oval containing the portrait, and duplication of the lines in the left shell and adjacent parts. Stevenson states this stamp to be No. 47R, which has been traced by the present writer. Most certainly this stamp is not a shift in the fringes

ly accepted sense of the term, but is a re-entry of the transfer on a design not rocked deeply enough the first time.

When a multiple relief transfer is used, the position of the first design rocked in determines the position of all the designs rocked in from that setting of the roller and therefore a shift would be likely to occur only on the first stamp design rocked in from any setting. If a shift occurs in any other position, it is therefore not due to a re-setting of the transfer roll, but must have been made by re-entering the design at some later time. The term "shift" would better be confined to duplication caused by changing the position of the transfer at the time a particular design is being rocked in and should not include the duplication caused by an inexact re-entry of the design at a later time, even though the results from either method are indistinguishable from each other. For instance, the duplication of design on the first 1c plate in its first state is believed to have been caused by changing the position of the transfer while the designs were being entered, and these designs showing duplication are properly shifts, but later, when the entire plate was re-entered, the duplication of individual designs caused by inexact re-entry was not due to any "shifting" of the transfer and these stamps are not shifts at all but are double transfers.

If No. 47R is what should properly be called a shift, the transfer roll must have contained five reliefs and the upper five rows on the plate must have been rocked in 5, 4, 3, 2, 1 upwards from the fifth row, because No. 47R comes in the 5th row and the duplication of the design is strongest at the bottom of the stamp. The writer believes the 10c plate
No. 2 was rocked in from the top downwards; that afterwards No. 47R was re-entered and therefore is a double transfer. Two other minor varieties have been noted. On one of them there is a circle of color on Washington's head known as the "ring in the hair," and the other has a fine line of color crossing the stem of the T of CENTS. The position of these two varieties remains to be determined.

"A PASSIONATE PEEVE."

(As a rule we agree with Mr. Thompson's observations and we do this time with one exception. Mr. Thompson is a believer in restricting orders to a 50c minimum, while our view is that any order accompanied by postage should be gladly received and filled. He has the right of way on the other items of his indictment.—W. O. W.)

I wish you would do a little editorial dealing with those who send in 18c orders and no return postage. All my ads bear the announcement that orders under 50c are not accepted and that postage is extra, yet there isn't a day goes by that some one-cylinder collector doesn't send in a request for some trivial item, which, if sold alone, would represent an actual loss if time, postage, paper, and envelopes are reckoned as being worth anything. Then there is the collector who is a person of prominence in his own home town of Scoopapottamie, Wiskota, or Olemargarsen, Minnesconsin, who thinks because everyone from Crow Center to Cackle Landing knows him that he ought to be a proper person to receive valuable approvals just because he asks for them. He writes on a slab of birch bark, wrapping paper, or shingle, with a piece of chalk or a lead pencil, gives no references, commercial or otherwise, and then expects that the dealers are going to fracture a couple of cervical vertebrae in rushing him a $300 selection of mint B.C's. In addition there is the man who asks for stamps, gives proper references, and then writes either his own signature or his address in such an utterly slovenly manner that it is impossible to comply with his demands. I have several letters of this kind that have caused me no end of anguish. One is from a man who wants a large and valuable consignment of stamps, for which he should be able to pay promptly, judging from his references, but his rendition of his name and address are so sketchy that letters sent to a name which seems to be a reasonable solution of his hieroglyphs, are returned marked "Unknown" and "No Such Postoffice." The writer is able to read, French, Spanish, German, Kamtchatkan, and Vanderabdjian, but not English or a la Chinois, hence this passionate peeve.

AERIAL MAIL SERVICE NEWS.

By JOSEPH WARD.

The Graphic, London, Eng., in its issue of Apr. 10 portrayed the London and Paris airmail service in five pictures.

An aerial service between Santiago and Valparaiso, Chili, is being established by a Franco-Chilian company located at Santiago, which will provide three trips a day, each of forty minutes, between the two cities. The cable despatch does not mention special stamps to be issued in connection.—N. Y. Post.

The advent of the flying postman and the development of the aerial mail have brought a new and fascinating interest into stamp collecting hobby. Mr. Fred J. Melville, the president of the Junior Philatelic Society, has compiled the first detailed catalogue of Aero stamps. It enumerates all the special postage stamps issued up to date for use in franking letters for transmission by the air post. It is interesting to note how many countries figure in this list.—Scientific American.

Between France and Morocco, Toulouse and Casablanca, an air communication has been established, mail and passengers. It is now working on a bi-weekly schedule, but soon to be placed on a daily scheme. Mail and passengers leave Paris in the evening of one day and before the same time the next are viewing the capitol of the Moors. The distance of 1200 miles is covered in 14 flying hours. The postage required on letters of one-half ounce or less is one franc forty centimes.—Le Figaro.

The cities of Shanghai, Yichang, Hankow, Chungking, and Chengtu are soon to experience the benefits of commercial air service. A company of Chinese and American capitalists are contemplating the inauguration of an aerial communication between Shanghai and Chengtu in Szechuan. The company has a capital of $500,000. Eight American planes are to be used for the transportation of mail and passengers.

The government has accepted a bid to carry mail, and while no definite information can be gotten, it is generally thought that the letter rate will be around one dollar per letter, with chances for a reduction after a few weeks of successful operation.—North China Standard.

PAYMENT OF RETURN POSTAGE.

It may seem to be a trifle, but in the course of a day's mail it means much to those who are engaged in a mail-order business. We speak not only for ourselves, but on general principles, believing that unintentionally many correspondents are neglecting what should be an ordinary courtesy. When writing, seeking information, which calls for a reply by mail, it is only right to expect that a stamped and addressed envelope should be enclosed. We do this in our own correspondence and feel that it is in accord with the ethics of business.

U. S. 10c 1857-60, PLATE No. 2.

By ELLIOTT PERRY.

QUANTITIES ISSUED.

The official figures regarding the quantities of 10c stamps issued between 1855 and 1861 are incomplete and only an approximation of the totals can be given.
Up to July 6, 1855, the contractors delivered 747,000 ten cent stamps, which amount may have been equal to a three months' supply. As the 10c is believed to have been first issued May 4, 1855, it had been in use two months. Allowing for a gradual yearly increase, the first year's issue would have been about three million stamps, and totals not far from the following would be obtained for the years ending June 30th up to 1858:—

1856,	3,100,000
1857,	3,300,000
1858,	3,600,000
For three years,	10,000,000

The official figures for the succeeding three years ending June 30th are:—

1859,	3,765,560
1860,	3,898,450
1861,	3,925,690
For three years,	11,589,700

This gives a grand total of over 21,500,000 stamps and would equal more than 50,000 impressions from each plate
—a very good production. Probably nearly all the stamps issued after June 30, 1858, were from the second plate, and if we assume these plate No. 2 stamps amounted to 11,000,000, there remains 10,500,000 for the first plate. Now to the 3,600,000 assigned to the year ending June 30, 1858, add 500,000 of those issued after that date and 400,000 of those issued before June 30, 1857, and the 4,500,000 thus obtained should approximate the number of perforates issued from the first plate. There are left 6,000,000 imperforates. Of course, this is mostly guess work, but it agrees fairly well with the figures that are available,
with the relative scarcity of the stamps,
and with what little correlative data can be obtained. If far from the truth, the estimates for the stamps from plate No.
1 are too high rather than too low.

SHADES AND CANCELLATIONS.

The collector who takes delight in the study of shades will find much pleasure in these 10c greens. The range of color is not so very extensive but many of the shades will interest anyone to whom green makes an appeal. Most of the imperforates are yellowish in tone and beautifully clear impressions are the rule.

The perforates from plate No. 1 are duller and grayer and bright, clear impressions are exceptional, occurring only in the darker shades. The plate No. 2 stamps range from a decided yellowish green to a dark, blackish shade and the brilliance of some of the impressions
from the first plate is lacking.

Among over three hundred copies examined nearly 90% bore black cancellations. On the imperforates about 3% had blue cancellations and about 4% had red. On the perforates from the first plate 6% had blue and 5% had red,
while the second plate stamps have a much higher proportion of colored cancellations. On the latter blue cancellations run about 10% and red cancellations about 30%. Two color cancellations are quite scarce and averaged less than 1%.

The back cancellations are usually grids or towns with occasionally a PAID. The commonest town cancellation is San Francisco and this often has the year date—1860 or 1861. New York, Philadelphia, New Orleans and other town cancellations are not rare and many of the red cancellations are impressions of the New York postmark which was often used on foreign mail. In cases where the postmark and the cancellation
are in different colors if both happen to hit the stamp, a two color cancellation is the result. These are purely accidents.

Red grids are less common than black but are not especially scarce. Blue cancellations, either towns or grids, are less frequently seen and were seldom used on the plate No. 1 stamps. Green cancellations are indeed rare. Stamps used on mail that went abroad sometimes bear
the cancellation NEW YORK SHIP and may have parts of foreign postmarks.
The latter are usually in red. The writer has not noted the "Supplementary Mail" cancellation on the 10c, although it probably exists. This indicated the payment of a fee equalling and in addition to the regular postage for special delivery of the mail matter to an out-

REPRINTS

In his exhaustive treatise on United States stamps Mr. Luff informs us the reprint plates of the 1c, 3c, 10c and 12c stamps of the 1851-60 series were made from the original transfers rolls of these stamps. These rolls were sent to the Continental Bank Note Co. in 1874 and new plates were made from them. The new plates contained 100 subjects arranged 10x10 and bore no imprint or plate number. The designs were spaced farther apart than on the original plates so the sheets could be perforated without damaging the stamps. The original stamps were perforated 15. All the reprints were perforated 12. The common proofs of the 1851-60 series were printed from the same plates used for the reprints, hence the proofs of the 5c, 24c, 30c and 90c are like the original stamps and the proofs of the 1c, 3c, 10c and 12c are like the 1875 reprints.

The reprint 10c is quite different from any of the stamps on either of the two original plates and it is very difficult to believe this plate was made from the original transfer used to make either of the original plates. In the first place, both of the original plates were made from multiple relief transfer rolls, whereas the reprint 10c plate was made from a single relief transfer. Each of the reprints is exactly like every other one. Each has one position dot which will be found close to and just below the right shell. The design is absolutely complete in every particular, which is not true of any of the 400 stamps on the two original plates. These facts directly contradict the supposition that the reprint plate was, or could have been, rocked in directly from any relief on any roller used for either of the original plates.

What happened? How did the Continental Bank Note Co. produce a plate bearing 100 complete designs from a transfer on which none of the designs—so far as we know—were complete? The present writer wasn't there and doesn't know but he strongly suspects a single transfer was taken from the old Toppan, Carpenter roller onto a new die block; that this new single die was touched up wherever the old transfer was incomplete, and that a new single relief transfer was taken from this new die. The new single relief transfer therefore had a complete design and the reprint plate made from it would have and does have only complete designs. The connection between the reprints and the stamps from the second 10c plate is the fine horizontal line along the top of the ornament over U. S. All the reprints and many of the original stamps from plate No. 2 have this line. Therefore the present writer believes the reprint plate was made from a transfer taken from one of the reliefs on the roller from which plate No. 2 was rocked.

Like other reprints of the set, the 10c reprints are ungummed and the paper is very white, hard and brittle. The color is bluer than on any of the regular stamps. The number of 10c reprints sold was 516.

GRENADA.

The island of Grenada is the most southerly of the group in the West Indies known as the Windward Islands, and is the headquarters of the Government of that group. It is itself a Crown Colony, having been in permanent British possession since 1783. Like the other colonial possessions of Great Britain, its post office was under the control of the Postmaster-General of the United Kingdom until the local government took it over on September 19, 1860. The Act of this date also provided for the issue of stamps which were ordered and finally appeared about June 1, 1861. At this time the Colonial rate for letters to Great Britain was sixpence the half ounce, and the rate on local letters or those that arrived from abroad or were despatched from the island was fixed at one penny the half ounce. These two rates account for the two values that were the only stamps issued by Grenada up to the year 1875. Of course the various shades of each stamp, the unwatermarked and watermarked small and large star papers, and the perforation varieties make a list which the catalog details, but Messrs. Perkins, Bacon & Co., who made the stamps and furnished them from 1861 to 1881, knew them only as various supplies of the two values, a total of 612,000 1d and 276,000 of 6d having been sent to the Colony during that time. They were handsome line-engraved stamps, printed in sheets of 120 in ten horizontal rows of twelve.

In the spring of 1863 the British Colonial letter rate was raised from 6d to 1s half ounce. It was not until 1875, however, that Grenada ordered a stamp of the latter value. In that year the Colony was supplied with a set of fiscal stamps all printed in orange from a single plate and having the value and a crown surcharged in green. This plate was used to print stamps in purple which were then surcharged "Postage One Shilling" in blue. They were issued in July, and 60,000 were printed.

The Act establishing postal rates in 1861, fixed that of newspapers at a halfpenny each, and book post at a halfpenny for every half pound in excess of one pound, for which the rate was a penny. These rates must have been paid in cash, as no halfpenny stamp was called for, but in 1880 the 1 penny stamp began to appear cut in half diagonally for prepayment of the halfpenny rate, and in April, 1881, the regular stamp was issued. This and two other new values of 2½ and 4d were really called for by the admission of Grenada into the Postal Union on January 1, 1880. The 2½d rate was for half-ounce letters to islands "within three hundred nautical miles" of Gre-

STAMPS OF THE CAYMAN ISLANDS.

By FRED. J. MELVILLE.

CHAPTER II. "Borrowed" Stamps.

For the ten years preceding the issue of Cayman Islands stamps, those of Jamaica were on sale at the post offices, and, although such cannot be differentiated from the ordinary issues of Jamaica when unused, they are (when duly post-marked) of considerable interest—and rarity—and are certainly worthy of a place in a specialised collection of the Dependency's issues.

During the period specified (1889-1900) the series of Jamaican stamps comprised ten values ranging from One Halfpenny to Five Shillings, and three official stamps of One Halfpenny, One Penny, and Two Pence respectively; of the former only six were used in the Caymans—Halfpenny, Penny (two designs), Two Pence, Twopence Halfpenny, Three Pence, and Four Pence, together with the three bearing the OFFICIAL overprint.

All these stamps, except the Penny of the second type, bear the profile of Queen Victoria, and were printed on the Crown "CA" paper in use during the period, and are perforated 14; they were designed, engraved and supplied by Messrs. De La Rue & Co. The halfpenny is in green; the penny bicoloured, dull purple and mauve; the two pence, green; the twopence halfpenny, also bicoloured, is in dull purple and blue; the three pence is pale olive-green, and the four pence is red-brown.

The penny of the second type is that with a view of the Llandovery Falls printed in red on the large Crown "CC" paper then used for stamps of similar dimensions; it was issued in Jamaica on May 1, 1900, and had only a short "Caymanian" life of five months; whilst its successor, of the same type but printed in two colours (blue-black for the centre, and red for the frame) was not on sale in Jamaica until September 25, 1901. This latter, although copies are known as having paid postage on letters from the islands, cannot be included in the category of Jamaican stamps used in the Caymans.

The "Llandovery" stamp, line-engraved and printed direct from the plate by Messrs. De La Rue & Co., was designed from a photograph of the Falls, situate—not in Wales, as might be, and actually was, thought—in the district of St. Ann, Jamaica.

The official stamps were the halfpenny green, the penny rose and the two pence grey, all with the overprint in thick letters.

All the postmarks, by which the use of these stamps in the dependency may be recognised, bear the word "Cayman" as part of the inscription; those we have met with are:—

(1) a large transverse double oval, inscribed between the concentric lines "Grand Cayman—Post Office", with the date in the centre.

(2) a single-line circle, lettered "Grand Cayman P. O.", and the date in the centre in two lines.

MORE NUMBER ONES

Of favorite countries coming in our June sale. Also many 19th Century rarities. Are you on our mailing list? We boosted the Philatelic Index and to many inquiries we are obliged to say "No, we do not know what has become of it." We failed to get any response to 3 letters to the publisher last month. We are offering as long as they last Blocks of 12 of the 5c double error "Perforate Ten" for $15. The last auction price was $16.40.

(3) a double-line circle, with the inscription "Grand Cayman—Cayman Islands" inside both lines, and the date in the centre as in (2).

(4) similar to (3), but lettered "Cayman Brac—Cayman Islands."

(5) a transverse oblong, lettered "Cayman Brac—Cayman Islands" in two lines; no date, which presumably was added in MS.

The official stamps, which came into use, so far as the halfpenny value is concerned, in Jamaica on April 1, 1891, were current in the Caymans also, until discontinued in favour of "franking" government correspondence by means of a handstamp.

CHAPTER III.

The Queen's Head.

Prior to the first issue of Cayman Islands stamps, it was intended to use those of Jamaica with a suitable overprint, and instructions were actually issued to the postmaster to supply a series overprinted CAYMAN ISLANDS for use in the dependency; but the instructions did not materialise, so far as collectors are concerned, beyond a few copies of the lowest two values.

Some stamps of St. Vincent were also overprinted for use in the Caymans, but no specimens have been forthcoming, and the stock printed was, it is said, ultimately destroyed, the Commissioner of the Caymans refusing to sanction the issue.

However, it was at last decided that the Caymanians were to have their own definite postage stamps, and instructions were accordingly sent through the Crown Agents to Messrs. De La Rue & Co. early in 1900 to supply a modest series of two values, halfpenny and penny.

The supply was duly delivered by the printers and was placed on sale probably late in September, or, perhaps, on October 1, the earliest mention of the stamps in English journals being on the 27th of that month.

As often the case with modern colonial issues, these stamps were surface-printed from electrotypes in sheets of 120, arranged in two panes side by side, each pane containing 60 stamps grouped in ten horizontal rows of six, and being enclosed in a "Jubilee" line of printers' rule; the plate number was shewn four times in the margins—over or under the second stamp from each corner of the sheet.

The paper used was the well-known Crown "CA" paper, which has already been fully described in these Handbooks, and the perforation was of the almost universal gauge of 14 to the two centimetres.

THE WOODBRIDGE MATCH STAMPS.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

Mr. Frank G. Northrup of Woodbridge, Connecticut, has kindly furnished much of the information given herein regarding the Woodbridge factory. He was connected with the factory for many years and was personally acquainted with the men who were interested in it. When he talked with the writer in 1919 some of the old match machinery from the Clark-Newton factory was still in his possession.

The factory site was in the northwestern corner of the town of Woodbridge on a small stream called Bladens Brook, which is a tributary of the Naugatuck river, and joins the latter about three miles below where the factory was located. The site is very close to the Bethany town line and is about eight miles northwest of the city of New Haven. Power was supplied by the brook, which was dammed to make a small pond and turned an old style 36 foot pitch back water wheel. A saw mill and manufactory of half-bushel measures had previously occupied the site. The match factory was partly burned and what was left of it has been altered, but the dam and pond are still there.

The Woodbridge factory was one of the earliest match factories in America. The business was started by William A. Clarke, (or Clark), in 1835, within a year or so after D. Monroe Chapin of Springfield, Mass., had accidentally discovered how to make a match that would light. It is not known whether Clarke got the idea from hearing of Chapin's invention or was trying to make a practical match from an idea of his own, but he and Thos. Sanford, also of Woodbridge, were working on the idea at the same time, and it is related that each used to keep track of what the other was doing by lying on a high bank that ran beside their shops and watching his competitor through the windows. A chemist from Massachusetts was employed to assist them in making the proper composition. Sanford got his match on the market first and operated a small factory for twenty years or more. Clarke was a more far-sighted inventor and made match machinery as well as matches. He made the first seven match machines made and preceded Beecher of Westville, a few miles away, by many years.

During Mr. Northrup's experience the matches made at the Woodbridge factory were always sold in boxes of 100 and no "card" matches were made there. All the lumber used came from Michigan and was hauled from New Haven and later from Bridgeport. He states that the stamps were cut in strips and stuck on the boxes with a "stamper" which cancelled at the same time, and that his sister was the one who did the stamping. The Clarke matches were sold all over the United States and abroad, those for the export trade being put up in tin cases. Many of the matches were made for Berrien and also Van Duzer in New York. At one time—before the Diamond Match Co. had bought and closed so many of the shops—there were 28 match factories in Connecticut. Today there are none.

The first and second edition of the New England Business Directory, (1856 and 1860), lists Wm. A. Clark in Bethany, Conn., and the Connecticut Gazetteer for 1857-58 carries the same note. The Connecticut Business Directories for 1869-70 and 1871 list Wm. A. Clarke at Woodbridge and the latter edition also lists Frank Clarke there. The same directory for 1879 carries an advertisement of "Clarke's Patent Expansive Bits  Manufactured by Wm. A. Clarke, Westville, Conn." The village of Westville is a suburb of New Haven and adjoins Woodbridge on the east.

Frank E. Clark, ("F. E. C.").

Regarding the first Woodbridge stamp the Boston Book states:—

Die approved, April 12, 1870.
First issued, May, 1870.
Last issued, March, 1872.
5,367,820 issued on old paper.
2,779,680 issued on silk paper.
210 stamps per sheet, (14x15).

There is no firm name or address on this stamp. It is in the form of an irregular upright rectangle of the standard 1c size and bears in the center a circular disk showing a full face portrait of the founder of the business, William A. Clarke. At either side is a tall oval containing a numeral of value. A curved label above the central disk is inscribed "U. S. Inter. Rev." and a similar label below reads "Matches." In each corner is a broad scroll bearing three five pointed stars and ornamented with four graduated pearls. Between the upper scrolls is a colored label inscribed "One Cent" in two lines and similarly between the lower scrolls appear the initials F. E. C., which are those of Frank E. Clark, one of the sons of William A. Clarke, who ran the match business for several years. Theodore Clark was associated with his brother Frank in the shop after he returned from the army. Another brother died in the army and the fourth son, Wallace, went to South America and started a match business there. The William A. Clarke Company was Frank E. Clark.

All the F. E. C. stamps were printed by the Carpenter firm in Philadelphia from the die and plate made there. The design is quite unlike any other match stamp except those used successively at the Woodbridge factory. The stamps are frequently found overprinted in black in two lines reading upwards or downwards "S. R. V. D.—& Co.", the initials of this overprint being those of S. R. Van Duzer & Co. of New York, for whom many of the matches were made. The Van Duzer firm also dealt in patent medicines and had several private die medicine stamps. Their overprint is frequently found on many of the general issue private proprietary stamps of the Civil War period.

The Frank E. Clark stamp and the other Woodbridge stamps are often extremely difficult to find in prime condition. The practice of cutting the sheets apart into strips gave most of the stamps at least one straight edge, and as the cutting was seldom done with much care the design of the stamps is frequently cut into. Beside, the stamps were often badly creased in folding them over the edge of the boxes. The color is a dull rosy lake, often faded.

SPECIAL—A fine collection of 1050 all different 20th Century only, mounted in books with all varieties labeled as to watermarks, etc. Price only $25.

8810 0 altered on all eight numbers, hence all different.

8816 Upper right-side number scratched in, extra large numerals.

8818 6's altered to 8's (a duplicate plate of 8816) on all numbers except upper right side.

In addition to the above, I have blocks showing alterations in the plate numbers, but have no way of telling exact position on the large plate, as I have had no opportunity to examine proof sheets. In many of the following listed it is probable that all eight numbers were altered, following the procedure in other known cases:—

8764 Bottom block, 8 altered.

8825 Top block, first 8 and 5 altered.

9347 Bottom, 7 altered.

9348 Bottom, 8 altered.

9350 Top and bottom blocks, the entire numbers altered on both.

9352 Top and bottom blocks, 52 altered on both.

9353 Bottom block, 3 altered.

9354 Top and bottom blocks, 4 altered on both.

9357 Top, bottom, and right blocks, 7 altered on all three blocks.

9371 Top, bottom and right blocks, 71 altered on all three blocks.

9372 Top block, 72 altered.

9373 Top and bottom blocks, 73 altered on both blocks.

9374 Top and bottom blocks, 74 altered on both blocks.

9375 Top, bottom and right blocks, 75 altered on all three blocks.

9901 Top and left blocks, second 9 in each case altered over from an 8.

Plate 8782 of this series has 215 scratched in the lower margin below the 100th subject of the S. W. pane.

Here, indeed, is a new field for the specialist, adding emphasis to the opening sentence of this review. It is presumed that such markings will not be found occurring much longer, for it is, I believe, illegal to have plates for postage stamps bear any other inscriptions than the plate-number imprint, outside of the stamps themselves.

Of the Offset Type IV, approximately 570 plates were made, of which 73 were never printed from; the plates, however, being perfect, were held in reserve against an emergency. The entire number of cancelled plates on account of defects or cracking is unknown to the writer, but between plates 8720 and 8865 there were 23 defective plates of the following numbers, so these never can be found, as they never went to press:—
8727, 8729, 8753, 8758, 8767, 8768, 8770, 8771, 8783, 8806, 8807, 8822, 8823, 8826, 8827, 8843, 8847, 8849, 8850, 8851, 8858, 8864, 8865.

The highest numbered plates that were printed from were 9922, 9923, 9924, 9925, 9926, 9927, 9928, 9930, 9931, 9933 and 9961, of which 9922, 9923, 9926 and 9930 are represented in my collection.

Plates 9736, 9914, 9915 and 9948 were large plates containing 1600 subjects, and so far as is known 9914 was the only one that went to press, as the other three numbers are in the "reserve" list.

The only plate imperforate I have been able to obtain is 8787 but I presume there are others.

Owing to the greater number of stamps printed of Type IV as compared with Type III, and the much larger number of plates made, the printings provide a wonderful array of shades, ranging from an intense black-purple, thru it would seem every possible shade of purple, violet and lavender, so that the "shade" specialist for once had his fill.

Double impressions occurred in this printing as in that of Type III, and several different plate numbers are known with a second impression about half a millimeter "off" usually to the left, but sometimes to the right. Blocks from plates 9000 and 9085 are of the former character in my collection. A sheet or so is known with distinct impression on the back as well as front.

A HUNGARIAN-AMERICAN NOVELTY.

We illustrate herewith what is indeed a novelty. We are unable to give all the facts and may not do entire justice to the set of so-called stamps that has been submitted for chronicle. The labels in question come from a Hungarian promoter, Varady Andras, and Erwin Strasser has kindly given us the translation of the circular sent us. We publish the same verbatim:—

"I herewith take the liberty to send you a complete set of 8 stamps of the 'Hungarian-American Messenger Post.' I am submitting this last Hungarian-American Novelty, which are interesting stamps of two countries, to you already now, that you may be enabled to print them in your valued paper, and also send me New Issues from your country for the same purpose. As I only have a few of the complete sets on hand at present, I must ask you to return at least the Dollar values, after you have taken photographs of the set and published it in your paper.

The Hungarian-American Messenger Post has been established for the purpose of transmitting valuable mail from Hungary to America, or vice versa, for the many Hungarians that are living in your country. It was chiefly established in order that all foreign mails might be regularly and orderly delivered, as most of the mail is confiscated by the Roumanians who occupy this country.

I am owner of the Hungarian Briefmarken Zentral, and will, if you wish, submit to you any of the Hungarian issues at reasonable rates, or exchange them with other stamps."

In connection with the above we reprint a news despatch which has appeared in the metropolitan press and which associates the name of Gen. Bandholtz with this novelty:—

BUDAPEST, May 12.—Stamp collectors are paying large sums for postage stamps which Brig. Gen. Henry H. Bandholtz had printed while he was serving as American representative on the Interallied Commission in Budapest for the purpose of establishing a neutral means of correspondence, under American protection, between Hungary and the other nations of Europe and the United States during the Roumanian occupation.

The stamps bear the inscription "Hungarian-American Messenger Post" and also portraits of Lajos (Louis) Kossuth, the famous Hungarian patriot, and George Washington. The stamps were never put in circulation because of the cessation of Roumanian occupation.

Speculation is more intense in the stamps than in those issued during the Communist dictatorship of Bela Kun as General Bandholtz took the stamps to the United States. It is proposed to view of their popularity, to make them and reintroduce the stamps of the national issues.

We are perfectly willing to moderate our Budapest dealer in view of publicity to his circular letter, as to illustrate the design common to the set. There are eight values in the set consisting of 2c, 10c, 15c, 30c, 5c, $1 and $1.50. It is certainly a very anomaly for stamps printed and issued in Europe to have inscriptions in English accompanied by values in U.S. currency. Our subscribers know as much as we do in regard to the value, and additional information is given as obtained. It seems as if one had attempted to create a case for this set of labels and that they failed to materialize. It is quite true that the promoters of the enterprise should wish to market these stamps.

EDITORIAL.

Stampless.—One of the most important of postal developments is recorded in the departmental order of May 10th, 1920, with whose provisions collectors have been made acquainted. The permission to accept mail matter of the first class without stamps affixed marks a step of postal progress, and while it is to be said that for the time being no appreciable effect will be noticeable on philately by reason of the innovation, it is possible that in time the curtailment of the use of stamps will be apparent.

Changes.—What would the collectors of years ago have said if it had been predicted then that by 1920 parcel post communication had been established between this country and the Tonga Islands and yes, of all places, Greenland? Yet this has come to pass. A gazetteer of 1884 says that the inhabitants of the Friendly or Tonga Islands "have now made some progress in civilization" and that the "European population of Greenland does not exceed 250." Too, we learn that the postal administration of the Bahamas has informed our department that the postage rate from that country to this has been reduced from two pence to one penny (or two cents) an ounce.

Heavy.—Readers are alert to send us information in the form of clippings telling of the payment of heavy postage. For instance, the Minneapolis Journal said recently: "Nearly a ton of steel arrived in Minneapolis by mail to-day. The shipment weighing 1,744 pounds came from Pittsburgh; the postage was $106.08." According to the postal laws, the limit of weight on first-class matter is the same as fourth-class matter; and on fourth-class matter the limit of weight is seventy pounds for parcels mailed for delivery within the first, second and third zones and fifty pounds for all other zones, including Manila, P. I. Thus, $22.40 would be the maximum amount payable on first-class matter, exclusive of registration and six dollars on parcel post packages, exclusive of insurance. The rate on gold coin, bullion, etc., from Alaska to the United States is two cents an ounce, with a limit of weight of eleven pounds, thus the postage and registration would be a maximum of $3.62.

Unvarnished.—Five adult collectors selected at random, none of whom was known to be a philatelic society member or reader of the stamp press, were asked the question, in turn, "What effect have the stamps of Neuropo on stamp collecting?" Here are the answers, each compressed into a few lines. One: "They are historical and interesting, and for these reasons they help stamp collecting. Many of them are cheap and we are not all millionaires or war brides." Two: "I got soaked on some of the sets but at that they teach a lot about conditions over there. They give the people over there a piece of money and they need it; and there are now more stamps for the collector to choose from." Three: "They have boosted stamp collecting, even though some are fakes. I know that others are not as they are postally used by the thousand. I am willing to take a chance on the cheaper sets but no fancy prices for mine." Four: "Most are issued for collectors but anyway they come from the country of issue and some cost little enough and a showing may be made for ten dollars. They are attracting a lot of attention to stamp collecting." Five: "Many things may be said for and against the stamps, and while I like old stamps best, yet I am spending some of my coin for the new things because I am in at the beginning. They give a new angle to collecting and that helps." This summary is not without interest, as it gives the impromptu opinion of representatives of a considerable class of collectors. The idea of Number Five, even though baldly expressed, is worth attention. As he suggests, it is something to be contemporaneous to the philatelic birth of a country and assist in its postal development.

Commissioner.—We have had the pleasure of meeting P. Leong Hingkee of China who is here in the interest of trade establishment between this country and China; and it is worthy of mention that incidentally, this commissioner called upon us in his desire to secure a broader market here for used Chinese stamps, through the intermediary of a few of our dealers.

Extremes.—We have heard some tall stories of the intensity of philatelic interest shown by some of the devotees of philately, such as that of the young boy who took his little album to bed with him, but here is one that is surprising indeed. A boy is accused of "bumming", or in finished phrase, playing hookey from school, in order to go down town to the stamp dealers to spend the dollar that was given him by his parents for being "a good boy." Here we "condemn the fault and not the actor of it." It is a case of stamp collecting running away with a boy.

Digging.—A correspondent writes: "While your readers are delving the past, they should not lose sight of the following par: 'More and more attention is being bestowed on United States stamps in fine condition and the difficulty in securing specimens in the desired state is becoming a matter for comment. Notwithstanding the low prices at which United States stamps are sometimes sold in auction sales, an authority gives it as his opinion that an auction sale composed wholly of United States stamps in prime condition would net results that would show a greater proportion of catalogue value than any other class of stamps would realize.' Was this written recently? Oh, just about twenty years ago in your Chicago Notes, in this paper."

Denial.—The following communication has been received from General Bandholtz, Washington, D. C.: "In reference to the Associated Press report from Budapest, published May 14th, in the New York Times stating that General Bandholtz had printed while he was serving as American representative in Budapest some postage stamps for the purpose of establishing a means of correspondence under American protection between Hungary and the other nations of Europe and the United States, during the Rumanian occupation, General Bandholtz saw and never even heard of the same article nor did he have anything to do with any similar transaction. Evidently this stupendous emanated from some "inspired source" of information, but even so, it is to understand how there does not to be a scintilla of truth in the which was supposed to have something of a news value.

NOTES FROM THE ORIENT.

By FELIX COHEN.

Let us wander, mindly (otherwise the life insurance premium would be advanced) toward the New Arab State under the Emir Faisal rule. The political situation which is closely tied to philately is described in the following manner by a local newspaper:

"The situation at Damascus is far from being the most pleasant. Trade relations are totally stopped. The public opinion is excited by the call to arms of numbers of people. Nobody can leave the house without a permission of the military authority. At the Emir's residence things are far from right. Discussions there are, open from morning to evening. The Emir's departure so often announced has been once more postponed and nobody can say when it will take place. Add to all this the enormous taxes ordered daily for the needs of the administration, army and for the Emir and everyone will understand what sort of lives the inhabitants of Damascus are experiencing."

Philatelically some fresh news arrives from this mysterious state. The overprint "Hakuma el Arabie" has been overprinted on the remainder of Turkish stamps. Meanwhile the printing of stamps is managed in the following manner by the officials of the Emir:—Every second day a list is made for the quantity of stamps needed by the various post offices (Alep, Damascus, etc.) and then, under supervision of controlling officers, the remainder of the old Turkish stock is inspected and the quantity needed overprinted. If the "inspection" may last long nobody can say, but certainly the stock can't be too great. The Palestine E. E. F. stamps are also used (without overprint) and letters bear both Turkish overprinted and E. E. F. stamps. It is impossible to know which stamp is scarce as, if a stamp is surcharged to-day, and impossible to obtain in the next 15 days, on the 16th another lot being discovered among the remainders it receives the usual surcharge and thus reappears on the market after having seen the preceding issue bought at high prices by collectors.

After penning these lines I just happen to receive four more varieties of Turkish stamps with an overprint that may be regarded as typographical. The overprint in a triangle reads: "Hakuma Soria Arabia Ghershi Masri 1" (Government of Syria and Arabia, Egyptian piastre 1). Is this according to the proclamation of Emir Faisal as King of Syria, New Arab State and some more countries in the neighborhood? Some of the countries where the Emir wants to reign are occupied by European powers. What sort of surprises can this bring to the philatelic world?

JOS. GALLANT, 28 MAIN ST., HEMPSTEAD, N. Y.

In MEKEEL'S WEEKLY of Feb. 7th, 1920, under the heading "Editorial" information is asked for the kind of stamps used at Aden and Muscat. Aden used in the past times and is using still British Indian stamps. Muscat, a sort of seaport in the Free Arab State of Oman (Persian Gulf), is also using British Indian stamps. Muscat is a center of pearl fishing; the population is Arabic and the state is ruled by a Sultan under British protection. Muscat is also a coaling center and a British naval basis.

The last O. M. F. issue for Syria in thick letters on French stamps still lasts and the printing figures of this issue are given as follows from an official source:

1 millieme on 1 centime, 60,000
 2 milliemes on 2 centimes, 60,000
 3 milliemes on 3 centimes, 15,000
 5 milliemes on 10 centimes, 15,000

ADAMSON IN NEW YORK.

We learn from a New York dealer that C. W. Adamson, the San Francisco dealer who is much wanted in philatelic circles, was in New York City last Thursday and called for his mail at City Hall P. O. General Delivery. He could not get it and was asked to call again. Detectives are on his trail and he may be arrested before this appears in print. So far eight dealers have sent in claims to the secretary of the A. S. D. A., the total aggregating nearly $2000.

THE SAME OLD STORY.

"During the next three or four months I will not be able to devote much time to stamps, so would ask that you discontinue my Ad after your issue of May 29. Such time as I do have will be devoted to the securing of new stock and arranging same so that it may be properly handled.

While it is the same old story, I wish to express my appreciation of the WEEKLY as an advertising medium. During the six months that I have used same, I have used half inch space almost entirely, and results have been more than satisfactory, considering the small space used. In addition to this, I have not been in position to properly follow up my replies—having no lists as yet—and I feel that I could have doubled or tripled my sales had I been in position to follow up the replies I received.

Am at present preparing a series of lists, the first of which has just gone to the printer, and others will follow as fast as I can arrange stock and prepare copy. This will take possibly three

S. P. A. YEAR BOOK.

We have received from the secretary, C. V. Webb, the 1920 Year Book of the Society of Philatelic Americans. It is a superb book in every respect. It gives the proceedings of the 1918 convention at Niagara Falls and the 1919 convention at San Francisco, and is illustrated with group pictures of the attendants at the two conventions. The book contains the usual official matter and may be obtained from the Secretary at Painesville, O., for 50c.

Pittsburgh has been selected as the convention seat of the S. P. A. this year and the dates fixed upon are Aug. 5, 6, 7.

of exorbitant prices on all kinds of goods everywhere there is a certain satisfaction in realizing that I have done and am doing my little bit to keep prices on the stamps I handle down to a reasonable basis.

New goods bought on the present price level must be charged for accordingly but I have not marked up the prices on goods bought at lower levels. I am satisfied to make the normal regular profit to which every fairly conducted business is entitled.

UNITED STATES.—Mr. F. B. McGown has shown me several panes of unusual varieties that have not come to my attention before. He has located the southeast pane from sheet No. 10138 of the current 20c unwatermarked, perforated 11, wherein the last vertical row has a distinct double print. The sheet no doubt passed through the press twice, the second time with another sheet above so that only the last vertical row printed on this sheet. He also has found two of the northwest panes from plate No. 9673 of the 1c surface print, perforated 11, one coming from an uninked roller, hence very light in shade and the other from a heavily inked roller in a very deep color. Two panes from the southwest corner of plate No. 9987 of the same stamp show that impressions were made from this sheet, and because the bottom plate number was not showing up clearly it was later etched in by hand. Mr. McGown has one before and one after the change was made.

We described a few weeks back a pane of the 2c double perforated 11, unwatermarked but was only able to give a meager description. Through the courtesy of Mr. B. K. Miller we are now able to furnish additional details. It is from the northeast pane of No. 10236 and the 7th vertical row of stamps is only 14½ mm. wide instead of the normal 19 mm. When the sheet was first run through the press only the right 3½ vertical rows were printed, the balance of the sheet remaining white. It was then run through again so that only the first 3½ rows show the double print, the 7th row showing the peculiarity mentioned because the second print did not square up with the first.

More of the provisional 2c on 3c envelopes made their appearance this week. Pittsburgh has started, and through the courtesy of Mr. A. W. Guy I have seen a copy on white. Mr. Guy states that about 1600 size 7 on buff were overprinted but they were all sold out when he arrived. I imagine that these were Die A, although I would like to see a copy to verify. The Pittsburgh type shows the vertical lines but in this case they are much closer together than any others I have seen. In a small supply just received from Cleveland a new variety was found, while Mr. J. William Harmon sends a new one from Oklahoma City. Mr. V. H. Ford has located an unchronicled die from Des Moines, while Mr. H. W. Potter sends us a new one from Washington, stating that 60,000 have just been received from another city and placed on sale. These resemble the Baltimore type and will be listed accordingly.

Chicago has a good number on hand to overprint but as yet have seen only the size 13 on white chronicled last week. Will our readers please continue to send news of the new varieties promptly upon issue? Send one of each size and color and I will gladly send some scarce varieties from other cities in their place. We want to have our chronicle complete and we must depend upon our valued correspondents for data.

Notes of interest are thankfully acknowledged from Messrs. H. A. Thatcher, E. J. Newcomer, Horace Freeman, George E. Foster, Frank Sheer, G. B. Noble, D. C. Alexander and W. L. Preston.

Our readers will also be pleased to learn that a very prominent, as well as active philatelist has been accorded the greatest honor within the power of his city to bestow. He has been elected mayor of a large and flourishing middle western city. Our congratulations are extended to him. He is of course a reader of MEKEEL'S.

BAVARIA.—Four new values have made their appearance, 3m ultramarine, 5h orange, 10m green and 20m dark brown, inscribed Bayern. They bear the design of a woman, "without her spring gown." Apparently clothes are scarce in that part of the world. The introduction of overalls or even wall paper is quite in order.—Economist Bulletin. We are informed by Mr. Henry Woelfel that he has received a copy of the 15pf, last issue, stamp surcharged "Deutsches Reich". We presume this is in two lines and black printing same as we chronicled in the last issue of the 10 and 20pf. Mr. Woelfel also adds that he has received the 10 and 15pf, Ludwig, surcharged "Volksstaat Bayern" imperforate.

BELGIUM.—The Stamp Lover prints the following information:—

"A complete new series is in course of preparation comprising a full range of values from 1c to 10fr. The stamps will be printed on watermarked paper and will be of three different types. The lower values will show a profile of King Albert wearing the uniform of Lieutenant-General; the middle values will have a similar full face portrait; and the franc values will bear medallions of the King and Queen. M. Montenez, a professor at the college of Mons, is responsible for the designs. Owing to an increase in the charge for express letters, a new 65c value is to be added to the "Havre" issue. It will depict the Town Hall at Termonde."

CAYMAN ISLANDS.—Referring to the recently issued War Stamp Stamp Collecting prints the following:—

"We learn that the overprint of new Cayman Islands War stamp, chronicled last week, was done in the Government Printing Office, Jamaica, during March, and dispatched to the Islands about seven weeks ago. There are several sheets overprinted, by way of samples, before the existing type was decided on, and I hear that one of the sheets was overprinted in red, but eventually discarded as unsuitable. All the discarded sheets were, however, sent to the Commissioner of the Cayman Islands with instructions as to their destruction but whether or not this will be done yet remains to be seen. In the meantime we put our readers in possession of these facts, as it is possible that the red overprints may get out of the office through an unauthorized channel. However, it may be competent for the Commissioner to decide to issue trial sheets, in which case, having passed through the post office, they will have to be recognized as legitimate issues, and they will certainly be very desirable specimens. The total number of stamps surcharged was 72,000, i. e., 20 panes of sixty."

DANZIG-PLEBISCITE.—The Economist Bulletin chronicles the following:—

"We have seen copies of the 5pf, 10pf and 20pf values. The design is that of a woman holding numerous flags, and by all appearances she is standing on a coffin on which is inscribed "Ipse lar Voluntas." They are also inscribed "Commission Interalliee" at the top and "Marianwerder" at the bottom.

FIUME.—We have had copies of the current Pictorial series inscribed "Fiume." The values are 1cor, 3cor, and 5cor, also the 10cor "Ista Fiume." All are surcharged FRA 55.—Economist Bulletin.

GEORGIA.—The Stamp Lover chronicles the appearance of a set of new values the design showing the former Czarina of this country. The stamps are printed on white wove paper with no watermark, perforated 11½. The values and colors are as follow: 2 brown red, 3r blue and 5r yellow.

ICELAND.—We are indebted to Mr. W. T. Wilson for submitting to us the following additional values of the new set, 3a brown, 4a gray and vermillion, 6a gray, 15a purple. Also the 20a official of the same type. The color reference is the "Pjornustu" at the left instead of "Frimerki".

LICHTENSTEIN.—The Economist Bulletin prints the following:—The 5h and 25h have been surcharged with a fancy scroll, obliterating the words "Oesterr Post" and the 3h, 15h and 20h with new values, namely 40h, 1 Krone, and 2½ Kronen respectively. All in black.

POLAND.—Mr. George W. Miller advises us that he has just received the following stamps of this country surcharged "Porto" in a triangle 1919 issue, 5h, 10h, 15h, 20h, 25h and 50h, Szt's Nos. 63, 65, 66, 67, 68 and 69. Also Nos. 105 to 112 complete surcharge in the same manner.

ROUMANIA.—In addition to the values we have already chronicled of the new type the Stamp Lover adds the following: 50b rose, 1l green and 2l orange.

The gum, in this and all the following issues is usually white, though occasionally it is of a slightly brownish tone.

CHAPTER IV.

The King's Head.

Consequent on the death of Queen Victoria in January, 1901, it became necessary to provide new stamps, and this time the order was a little more ambitious, the denominations required being five—halfpenny, penny, twopence halfpenny, six pence, and one shilling.

As before, these were prepared by Messrs. De La Rue & Co., the process of manufacture and the printing being identical with those of the former issue; the paper continued to be that watermarked with a Crown and "CA"; and the perforation was uniformly 14.

The values were issued as follows:—2 1/2d, 6d and 1s on December 20, 1901, the 1/2d on September 15, 1902, and the 1d not until March 6, 1903.

The design is similar to that of the previous issue, the head of King Edward VII, being substituted for that of the late Queen; and, instead of a diadem, there is a very small crown poised above the portrait and imposed on the upper part of the enclosing circle. There is a difference, also, in the value-tablet of the three new values; instead of an uncoloured figure on a lined ground, the indication of value is in colour on a plain uncoloured tablet.

In addition to the IS LANDS variety on the two lower values, there is another minute variety on the duty-plate of the twopence halfpenny; the first upright stroke of the letter "M" is very slightly abbreviated, as if it had been damaged. The variation is found on the 27th stamp on each of the two panes, shewing that the original duty-plate contains only 60 clichés.

All the values were from No. 1 of the new "Postage—Postage" key-plates, and it is noteworthy that they were the first stamps to be printed from it.

The colours of the stamps are as follows, with variations in depth of shade except, perhaps, in the case of the one shilling:—halfpenny, green; penny, rose, through rose-carmine, to carmine; twopence halfpenny, bright blue, pale to dark; six pence, brown, pale to dark; and one shilling, orange. "Specimen" copies of all values were circulated as usual, through Berne.

There appears to be no definite record as to the quantities printed on the old Crown "CA" paper, but the following figures are given for the three high values:

2 1/2d,	13,560
6d,	5,400
1s,	3,240

Various trial-colours are known, the halfpenny duty-plate being used for the experiments—dull mauve, brown, brown and mauve, ultramarine, ultramarine and purple, french-grey and carmine. The second colour is that of the name and denomination.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The response to our two page "ad" of April 24th, together with our new wholesale list has been tremendous. Accordingly we have been obliged to move into new offices and increase our staff materially. We ask your pardon if we have kept your orders a day too long, but under these conditions we have done our best. We will be well settled in our new quarters when this goes to press and prompt service will be in order. Run out from Boston some time and visit us. It will pay you well.

OUR APPROVAL SERVICE

With the arrival of all our stock from Europe, we are now in a position to approval customers from every angle. We have one of the finest general stores in America to select from and as everything we possess is either put on sheets or our want lists there should be a grade of stamps for you that cannot be obtained elsewhere. We make no extra charge for filling want lists and can truthfully say we surprised more than one collector by accepting a hard list and filling the major numbers it contained. May we not receive your list? For the boy collector can furnish almost all of the low priced stamps. No premiums but we firmly believe in rewarding good patronage. Reference of course is required, or if a minor, no signature will do very well.

DICTIONARY ADDENDA.

By THE MANAGING EDITOR.

LIVONIA.—This country is a former province of Russia and its chief city is Riga. The population consists of Letts and Estonians. The Republic of Livonia or Latvija includes South Livland, Lettgallen and Courland. The natives call the country Latvija; Lettland is the German name; Lettonie or Lettonia is French; and Livonia is English.

LONG ISLAND.—In the world war the island of Chustan in the Gulf of Smyrna was used temporarily as a British naval base and the name changed to Long Island. Typewritten postage stamps were issued under local authority but later suppressed by the Admiralty and the existing stock destroyed. They have no legal standing whatsoever.

LOS REYES RECIBENA COLON.—Inscription found on the 10p Salvador 1894 meaning: "Columbus Received by the King and Queen."

MAGYAR POSTA.—Found on stamps of Hungary and mean "Hungarian Post."

MELAT-I-KAZERUN 1335.—(National Committee of Kazerun 1917).—The 1911 set of Persian stamps with this surcharge was issued by the rebel leader Nasr-i-Divan, who led a rebellion against the British in So. Persia. These stamps were in use about two weeks and they have no philatelic standing. Date of issue, January, 1917.

MESHAD.—A walled city, capital of Khorassan province, Persia, famed in philately for having issued in 1902 a set of six stamps for provisional use. The postmaster, having sold out his regular stock, issued the set referred to. In the middle of the design are the letters V.C. for Victor Castaigne, the then local postmaster.

MONUMENTO DE COLON EN GENOVA.—On the 5 peso Salvador 1893 is shown a statue with this inscription below, meaning, "Statue of Columbus in Genoa."

MOSCOPOLIS ISSUE.—An emission of stamps of doubtful character, which are alleged to have done postal duty at Moscopolis in Epirus. The lower values, to 50 lep., are steel engravings, and some of them were passed through the postoffice on account of the complaisance of the postmaster. These were printed in sheets of 25, and came on the market cancelled to order en bloc, one large aniline postmark covering four stamps. The higher values, to 25 dr., never did even the dubious work of the lepta values, and are nothing more than doubtfully-ornamental "labels." Later this issue appeared with a Greek surcharge also faked.

MOSUL.—This is a province in Mesopotamia of 29,220 square miles. Its capital city bears the same name and is located near the site of ancient Nineveh. On the occasion of the British occupancy of this province by the India Expeditionary Force, troop D, in 1919, Turkish fiscal stamps were locally overprinted with new values in Indian currency. See I.E.F. "D".

M.V.I.R.—A surcharge found on various German and Roumanian stamps, fiscal, postage, dues, and charity. The letters are the abbreviation of "Militar Verwaltung in Rumanien," and mean "Military Administration of Roumania."

NA SKARB NARODOWY.—A Polish surcharge which was applied to the "Gen. Gov. Warszaw" set of German Occupation stamps. It means "For the National Funds" (or Treasury) and was made at Wlotzlawek.

NATIONAL VERSAMMLUNG.—In 1919 the German Republic issued stamps with these two words inscribed on them. They mean "National Assembly," and with deference to the law making body in session at Weimar, these stamps are referred to as the Weimar issue.

NEUROPE.—A term applied to Europe by stamp collectors with special reference to the new countries resulting from the World War. Many stamp issues are now credited to Neurope (New Europe somewhat contracted), a considerable number being purely speculative or created to raise funds for depleted treasuries.

NIHIL SINE DEO.—A Latin inscription found on the 1906 portrait set of Roumania. It means "Nothing without God." Cf. motto of the State of Colorado "Nil Sine Numine" or "Nothing without Providence."

OCCUPATION AZIRBAYEDJAN.—Russian stamps surcharged with these two words were used in connection with the Allied Occupation of Azerbaijan, Persia, in May, 1917.

O.K.C.A.—These letters in the form of a monogram are found on the stamps issued by the Russian Northwest Army, and represent the first letters of the four Russian words "Odjelnny Korpus Severnoy Armii", meaning "Separate Corps Northern Army", of which the Northwest Army formed a part. The stamps were issued in 1919 in the advance on Petrograd.

OLONETS.—A district stretching from Lake Ladoza to the White Sea, Russia. It is the name also of the chief city, 120 miles northeast of Petrograd. The Finnish forces advancing towards Olonets in the world war overprinted various of their stamps with the word "Aunus" (the Finnish word for Olonets) for use in the occupied zone.

"O.M.F."—This overprint on stamps of France (Occupation Militaire Française or French Military Occupation) was applied for use in Syria. The word "Syrie" is also overprinted on the stamps.

PARTMENT DE CHAMPLIN POUR L'OUEST.—An inscription found on the 15c, 1908 Canada, Quebec issue. It means "Champlain's Departure for the West," which the scene on the stamp pictures.

PLEBISCIT SLESVIG.—This inscription is found on the pfennig values of a set of stamps issued during the taking of the plebiscit in Schleswick-Holstein in 1919 under the decree of the Allies war adjustment council. The plebiscite in the northern part Schleswick, was favorable to Denmark, while the southern portion voted to remain under German authority.

POLSKA POCZTA.—An inscription on the stamps of Poland meaning "Polish Post."

PORTO.—A German word (derived from Lat. portare, to carry) meaning postage. In combination, i.e. "portofrei" it means postpaid, but as usually used by itself, it means postage due. It occurs (1) in combination as "Porto-marke" on the Austrian dues, (2) as a surcharge on those of 1916, (3) as an inscription on those of 1916, (4) surcharge, 1917, (5) on the dues of Austrian Levant, where it constitutes the only inscription except the value, (6) on no less than 13 different sets of provisional Hungarian due stamps, as a surcharge, (7) as a surcharge on Italian occupation stamps used in Austria, (8) part of the inscription on the Bosnia dues, (9) surcharged on Jugo-Slavia and no doubt elsewhere.

POSCHTA.—Russian for "post."

POSCHTA, POCHTA, POSHTSHA, POSHTA.—Variations, and in some cases misspellings of the word "Posta," meaning post or postage.

POSEN.—See Posenania.

POSTA FIUME.—"Fiume Post".—An ancient seaport city at the northeast end of the Adriatic Sea formerly belonging to Hungary. As a result of the world war it became a football in diplomatic negotiations. Under Italian occupation Hungary stamps were surcharged "Fiume" while "Posta di Fiume" and "Posta Fiume" appear inscribed on later issues.

POSTAGE CURRENCY.—A name given to paper money, especially that issued by the United States, upon which may be found facsimiles of postage stamp designs. Thus a 5c piece of currency shows the design of the then current 5c stamp and a 50c would show five of the 10c.

PUERTO DE MONTEVIDEO.—This inscription is shown on the 1909 issue of Uruguay. The design presents a striking view of the "Port of Montevideo."

RODOSTO.—A set of bogus stamps issued for this fortified marine town in Roumelia, Turkey, in 1919. They were made by surcharging four Turkish stamps with a cross, in inscriptions, and new values in Greek. That the set is illegitimate is plainly shown from the fact that this town was never occupied by the Greeks during the world war.

RUANDA.—A district in East Africa formerly belonging to Germany. In April, 1916, a Belgian force took possession and stamps of Belgian Congo were hand-stamped "Ruanda". The overprinting was authorized by a military ordinance dated June 11, 1916.

QARKU-KORCES.—An overprint found on a stamp issued in Albania in 1918. It means "Local Post, Koritza."

SAAR.—A territory famous for its coal mines, ceded to France by Germany, and governed by a commission appointed by the League of Nations. In 1934 a plebiscite will be held to ascertain whether a continuance of administration under the League of Nations is desired in preference to union with France or union with Germany. Stamps were issued consisting of the overprint "Sarre" on Bavarian and German stamps.

nada, and the 4d for all other countries. Each of these three new values was printed from the revenue plate in different colored inks and surcharged with the proper value, as in the case of the 1s previously. 60,000 of each value were supplied. They were all on paper with a "large star" but the 2 1/2d and 4d are both found with the "large broad-pointed star" which was only issued in South Australia, and thus are interesting as possible errors of watermark. The 2 1/2d on this watermark is quite rare. The 4d is also rare. The 1d is common.

At the end of 1882 the 1/2d and 1d stamps ran out and recourse was had to the first regular provisionals. They were made by using the 1d fiscal stamps, the 1/2d value being made by bisecting the stamp diagonally and surcharging each half with the word "postage," and the 1d value by surcharging the whole stamp horizontally with the same word. The first type used on the 1/2d was deemed too large and a smaller one was substituted. The 1d type is quite rare. The 1/2d is also rare. The 1d is common.

At the end of 1882 the 1/2d and 1d stamps ran out and recourse was had to the first regular provisionals. They were made by using the 1d fiscal approval applicants. Seneca Stamp Co., 30 Grant St., Owego, N. Y.

Penny stamps again ran out in October, 1886, and were supplied by surcharging the new value and "postage" on the 1 1/2d fiscal stamp. The 4d revenue was thus used in November and the 1s revenue in December before the new stock arrived in January, 1887. The new stamps were headed "postage and revenue" instead of "postage," but were otherwise the same as the 1883 issue.

The 4d stamps ran out next, and on March 31, 1888, the 2s revenue stamps were surcharged 4d and "postage." There were two settings with spaces of 4 mm. and 5 mm. between the value and the word "postage."

In December, 1889, the 2s revenue was again used to supply provisional 1/2d stamps, while in December, 1890, they once more served to make provisional 1d stamps. In this case they had already been surcharged "1d revenue," so that only the words "Postage and" were required to be surcharged in addition. In January, 1891, a wholly new surcharge reading "Postage and Revenue 1d" was applied to the 2s stamp. The same surcharge was also applied to the 8d De La Rue stamp, as the 2s fiscals had probably become exhausted. In December, 1891, the 2 1/2d stamps ran out and were supplied by surcharging this value on the 8d.

In September, 1895, the new 2 1/2, 3, 6, 8d and 1s stamps in the new De La Rue Colonial "postage and revenue" type were issued. The 1d was not issued until May, 1896, and the 1/2d and 2d until September, 1899.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Cyril Long informs us of the use of an airplane cancellation in India and submits a tracing of a postmark giving the date Jan. 23, 1920. We have no particulars as to the cities served, but "Karichi" is included in the postmark.

—A Portland subscriber has shown us a used block of fifteen of the 1918 $5 deep green and black, Scott's 434. It is in extra fine condition and the block is five by three.

—Monroe Nash favors us with a specimen of a school savings stamp used in the public schools of Norfolk, Va. Stamps are sold at 5c each and later converted into a dated dollar stamp that bears interest.

—Gallant's "Vacation Packet" is all that is claimed for it. A sample was submitted in connection with the advertising copy and the stamps are a clean, low priced, worth-while proposition. We have no hesitation in commending it.

—We have been shown by George W. Durrell a specimen of the current 2c envelope with the first "S" missing in STATES.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from E. W. Munson, Benj. Cadbury, N. D. Babcock, L. A. Beebe, Maitland Milliken, C. E. Doile, Ezra D. Cole and Rev. A. B. Moss.

PRECANCEL NOTES.

Detroit, Mich., is precancelling the 10c special delivery stamp in the current U-1 type.

Stockton, Calif., is precanceling the 10c special delivery and all values up to 30c. Also the 1c documentary up; all in a type similar to U-16, but larger letters.

H. E. Upleger reports the 1c from Union City, Ga., in the U-14 type. Also the 2c inverted from Red Bluff, Cal., U-8.

H. S. Dickey reports the 2c offsets from Chicago. There's nothing slow about Chicago, tho a new style of overprint would please us mighty well. He also has the 3c coil from St. Joseph, Mo., in the roller type. And last but not least he has a 1c newspaper wrapper from New Rochelle, N. Y.

J. H. D. Reynolds has the 30c from Niagara Falls, N. Y., double inverted. Also the 9c from Pontiac, Mich., double inverted.

C. W. Haynes says that Louisville, Ky., is now precancelling the 3c victory, reading down. He also reports the 1c offset precancelled Falmouth, Ky.

Bonne Terre, Mo., is out with precancelled stamps. I have the 9c inverted and the 10c normal in the U-16 type.

Pine Bluff, Arkansas, is precancelling the current issue with the U-10 type, but without any lines or bars. The overprint is handstamped in various positions. Several denominations perforated 12 and 10 can also be obtained.

New Rochelle, N. Y., has precancelled the 75c parcel post.

M. P. Rodermond reports the 2c imperforate precancelled Weehawken, N. J.

Donald Graham has everything from 1c to 20c inclusive, normal, from Chico, Calif. Also 3c victory normal and down; 16c and 24c aero normal; and 1c and 2c documentary normal.

From Red Bluff he has the 1c, 2c, 3c, 4c, 5c, 6c, 7c and 8c normal; 2c and 5c inverted; 7c double, one normal and one inverted; 5c double, one normal, one up.

From Seattle he has the 7c double, one normal and one inverted.

From Racine the 3c victory down.

From Vancouver the 50c normal and 9c inverted.

From San Francisco he has the 2c, 10c and 15c inverted.

All the above are perforated 11.

Messrs. Carter and Reynolds report 2c, 50c, and 1 dollar inverted in the current 3-line type from New York. This leaves the 13c and 1 dollar normal and 4c inverted to be accounted for.

Mr. Carter has the 9c and 12c current type from Cincinnati. Only the 13c and 1 dollar or any dues need to be reported.

Mr. Carter reports the 13c and 20c from Sapulpa, Okla.; 5c and 20c Lancaster, Pa.; 20c Red Oak, Ia.; 1c offset Salt Lake City; 1c offset Little Rock; 8c inverted Louisville, Ky.; and 13c and 15c Flint, Mich., in red ink.—Bushnell's Magazine.

THE U. S. 3c VIOLET, WAR AND PEACE. NOV. 2, 1917 TO JULY 1, 1919.

By LOUIS G. BARRETT.

CHAPTER V.

THE THREE CENT VICTORY STAMP.

In recognition of the end of the World War as prefaced by the signing of an armistice by the warring nations on Nov. 11, 1918, the Bureau prepared a die for a Victory Stamp of the denomination of three cents. It was not a well designed stamp and never had much popularity. It was line engraved, and sixteen plates were made from it, numbered 9412 to 9419 inclusive, and 9426 to 9433 inclusive. The plates were put to press Feb. 12, 1919, and the stamps were placed on sale at Washington March 3, 1919. In all 200 million stamps were printed; a rather depressing shade of dull violet being used for the most part, altho some are found of a reddish cast and others in a rich dark violet. One pronounced shade, however, which I have, printed from plate 9415, is of a rich petunia or magenta shade, quite distinct from any of the regular violet or red-violet shades. From the small number that I have seen I should judge it was a scarce article.

These plates for the Victory stamp were made after the custom of prefixing a small F to the plate number on recess plates had been inaugurated, usually placed before the upper right number, so all the plates of this series are found with the F. It is, however, placed without any sense of regularity, and it may be found leaning forward or backwards, upside down and on its side, and both with and without serifs. Differing from the others, however, plate 9426 has the F preceding a left side number instead of a top number.

This additional detail to the plate numbers of all recess engraved plates, once to a plate, now makes it necessary for plate number collectors to include two top plate number blocks, one with the F from top of N.E. pane, and one of the same number without it from top of N.W. pane.

Further, many collectors are also including a bottom block of 12 stamps (6 by 2), or a horizontal strip of five stamps from the bottom of all engraved plates showing both the plate numbers, and at right or left margin, as the case may be, the initials of the engraver responsible for that particular plate, a most interesting detail quite generally overlooked, and it should be said in passing, not so easy to find as it appears, for many trips to the P. O. will be made before a lot of S.W. or S.E. panes will be located.

Occasionally plates will be found on which two engravers have worked, each signing it, so two sets of initials appear. The record of the three cents purple stamps would not be complete without mention of the sheets of 100 stamps (10 by 10) from the rotary presses. These were portions of torn or otherwise defective printings intended for coiling horizontally and were perforated vertically by the 10 gauge machine used for coils.

To adapt these sections for issuance as sheet stamps they were put thru the 11 gauge perforating machines for the horizontal perforations, so the well known compound perforation 11 by 10 resulted. The earliest plate number I have of these three cent "rotarys," compound perf. 11 by 10, is 8454, and also have 8483, 8923, 8924, 8949, 8950, 9109 and 9110, while there are probably several others.

It must be borne in mind also that the plate numbers from plates made for the rotary presses of 170 subjects each are unobtainable ordinarily when the product is used for coils, as the margins are stripped off. The issuing of these stamps in sheet form therefore enables collectors to obtain some plate numbers which would otherwise be lacking in a collection.

The former rate of "two cents an ounce or fraction thereof" having been restored on July 1st, 1919, the demand for the three cent value ceased, and since then it has not been necessary to make any more new plates for this value, as there were large numbers left over in every post office, and which will last for a long time, as in the ordinary course of business, relatively few three cent stamps are used, as compared with some other values.

United States Stamps AT BARGAIN PRICES

It is almost impossible to obtain fine copies of United States stamps, consequently most collectors content themselves with second grade copies as space fillers.

To meet this demand we have put up some of the higher grade United States stamps in packets, which we offer at a very liberal discount from catalogue. Only stamps of a better grade are included—no revenues or envelopes, unless so desired. Included in these packets will be found the '57 and '69 issues, also dollar Columbians, the 7c, 24c and 90c 1870-88 stamps, etc. No two packets exactly alike and no duplicates in any package.

2ND NATIONAL BANK BUILDING, Washington, D. C.

SUMMARY AND CHECK LIST.

A collector wishing to have a sequence of blocks and plate numbers illustrative of the various changes and processes in this most interesting current stamp, could make a collection covering the ground, something after the following summary, bearing in mind, however, that perhaps in some cases the actual first or last plate of a given printing may not be immediately available, and that one should get the nearest number to those limits as is possible.

To show both the plate number and the "press-number" referred to above, however, a full bottom row, or better, a double row of twenty stamps is required.

CHAPTER V.

The "All-over" Watermark.

Save for a change in the watermarking of the paper on which they were printed, the stamps of this issue are absolutely identical with those described in the preceding chapter.

The alteration in the watermark, which first appeared in its new form about the middle of 1904, consisted of a slight reduction in size, though the space between the Crown and the letters "CA" is appreciably greater than formerly, and in the disposition of the device. Formerly each stamp had one watermarked device, and one only—hence the distinguishing name which had to be adopted, "Single 'CA'", whilst the new disposition had the devices scattered over the paper, from edge to edge of the sheet, so that each stamp shewed portions of several watermarks.

This new paper, which is technically said to bear an "all-over" watermark, is known to collectors as "Multiple Crown 'CA'".

All the then existing values of the King's Head type appeared in due course on the new paper, the stamps being printed from the same plates in colours practically similar to those of the single "CA" series; the perforation gauged 14 as formerly.

The various denominations appeared as follows:—Halfpenny, pale to dark green; twopence halfpenny, bright blue; six pence, light and dark brown; and one shilling, orange, in March, 1905; and the one penny, carmine, on October 18, 1905.

There were evidently three, or perhaps four, consignments of the stamps on the new paper, but all the figures do not seem to be available; presumably, the quantities were sufficient for all requirements, as none of this series is particularly scarce. The figures given for the first consignment are:—

½d, 12,000 2½d, 10,500
1d, 12,000 6d, 1,154
1s, 995

CHAPTER VI.

The "Bi-coloured" Series.

The passing of a new Stamp Duty Law (No. 9 of 1906—November 8, 1906), the payments under which were directed to be made by means of postage stamps, rendered it advisable, as a matter of convenience, to provide stamps of a higher denomination than the shilling, and accordingly a supply was ordered of the facial value of five shillings.

At the same time another new stamp, of the value of four pence, was added to the existing series; and it was also determined to obtain a further supply of the six pence and one shilling, all four stamps to be bi-coloured.

The order was, as usual, placed with Messrs. De La Rue & Co., who prepared the necessary duty-plates for the two new values, and forthwith printed the requisite quantities, the size of the sheets, the paper—Multiple Crown "CA"—and perforation being as in the preceding series. For each of the two new values, the plate used was numbered "1".

All four values—four pence, six pence, one shilling and five shillings—were placed on sale on March 13, 1907. We have not been able to trace more than one printing of this bi-coloured series, and the figures do not seem to have been disclosed except, perhaps, in the case of the highest value, the number of which is given at 6,000.

The design of the middle two values was, of course, unchanged, and that of the four pence and five shillings is similar to that of the one shilling, with the figure of value on an uncoloured ground; and for colours the following selection was made, the second in each case being of the impression from the duty-plate—brown and blue for the lowest value, olive and rose for the six pence, violet and green for the shilling, whilst the highest denomination was allotted a combination of salmon and green.

It will be noticed that, although the new high value was primarily created for fiscal purposes, the old "Postage—Postage" key-plate was used, not, as in the case of other colonial issues intended for stamp duties as well as postage, that with the special inscription of "Postage & Revenue". Whether this was intentional or not is unknown; possibly, it was a slip on the part of the responsible official for the four stamps had a very brief existence, all subsequent printings of those values being from the new plate.

The four stamps are comparatively scarce, and used copies, especially when bearing an early postmark, are seldom to be met with. When these bi-coloured stamps had been on sale a short time, all the single-coloured values were withdrawn from issue, but it is believed that the order was intended to apply to the six pence

NOTES FROM THE ORIENT.

By FELIX COHEN.

The last novelty from Syria is the 5 francs stamp of France overprinted in red O. M. F. Syria 20 PIASTRES (thick type). Issued at 1,500 specimens they seem to be the last provisional stamps that will come on our market. From May 1st a new permanent set in Syrian piastres currency will be issued. Up to date Egyptian money will still be in use there. From May 1st the official currency will be the Syrian piastres (100 Syrian piastres=20 French francs, whereas 100 Egyptian piastres=£1. 0. 6.). The enormous difference between the two values will not please everybody.

On my previous note I gave the number of overprinted O. M. F. stamps (thick type). This has to be corrected, as, on account of the postal needs for April, the same (very same overprint) has been printed in undermentioned quantity on following stamps.

1 millieme, (1st) 60,000; (2nd) 90,000
2 millieme, (1st) 60,000; (2nd) 90,000
3 millieme, (1st) 15,000; (2nd) 30,000
5 millieme, (1st) 15,000; (2nd) 105,000
20 piastres, (1st) 3,000; (2nd) 1,500

On the other hand Syria No. 2 under Emir Faisal rule sends us an Arabic stamp with a violet overprint in Arabic, which says "Tiskar es Teklal Suria Al-moutahidah," or in English, "In memory of the independence of coalized Syria." "March 8th, 1920." This overprinted stamp is said to have been issued at 600 pieces and some fanatic nationalists paid up to £8 to have it. Meanwhile covers from this State bear mostly Turkish fiscal stamps overprinted with an Arabic surcharge in a triangle. The new type has only been seen with the 5 milliemmes value, higher values are the Palestine E. E. F. stamps in use. Somewhat strange. And there is little probability that in the near future a clear statement can be rendered about the number of stamps issued.

To the foreign P. O. in Smyrna I have to add the Italian, too; so this town is provided with four different P. O. (British, French, Italian and Greek). All these P. O. use stamps of their country without overprint.

Cilicia issued two different overprints on stamps of France, "Cilicie" and "Sandjak-Est" issue. The number printed is, on some values, very limited and few have been seen here, the market for all Asia Minor philatelic products. The "Sandjak-Est" issue is intended for internal use of the Cilician region, but this interior of Cilicia, being nobody's and everybody's territory, and on account of the anarchical situation that prevails there, the "Sandjak-Est" issue does not seem to be much used. Anyhow, we have not seen a specimen here up to date.

All these issues that come from Asia Minor do not discourage our collectors. Many are specialising in them on account of the special intricate political situation of this country. A cheerful collector had, days ago, a word of humor. After selecting a lot of Cilician stamps handstamped "Cilicie" and having bought all the dealer's stock of these issues, he said cool-bloodedly to the astonished dealer: "Say, could you have some more done for me like these?" These stamps are easily to be forged and some imitations have been seen.

My information of months ago about Armenia stamps was correct. According to the Armenian newspaper, "Djaglamart" of Constantinople, the new issue of Armenian stamps printed in Paris are sold from April 15 in all P. O. of Armenia. These stamps represent various designs, as the "Mount Ararat," peasant, Armenian girl in national dress and some panoramical views. The values issued are not described in that paper.

FISCAL CANCELLATIONS.

A few weeks ago one of our advertisers offered some British Guianas at very reasonable prices. We find, however, that the stamps were fiscally cancelled while catalog prices were quoted. This is a clear violation of our rule but in this instance was done unknowingly. Will all our advertisers please note that catalog pricings are for postally used stamps and these quotations should never be used in connection with fiscally cancelled specimens.

NEW GERMAN OFFICIALS.

(We are indebted to A. E. Koestler for the below information giving the particulars of some new official stamps just issued by Germany. Mr. Koestler sends three specimens, 10 carmine, 20 blue and 30 orange, in differing types but each bearing the word "Dienstmarke." On the stamps are found in small figures the 21 which was so conspicuous on the set referred to below, Scott's 201 to 208 and which the new set supplants.—W. O. W.)

I am sending you enclosed a few copies of the new German Official stamps which came into use on April 1st, 1920. A brother who is an official of the German Department of the Interior sent me these and has promised to send more. He also gives the following information regarding these stamps which may be of interest:—

In the days of the Empire the number 21 as on the stamps of Prussia (Scott's Nos. 201 to 208) was the number of department; in those days the Minister of the Interior had to pay for all the different offices belonging to this department, a certain sum to the post office dept., to let official mail go free, and so every office used those labels, which could not be regarded as postage stamps. But now, since the German P. O. is running at a deficit, the Dept. of the Interior has to buy these new stamps at face value from the P. O.; therefore they are really postage stamps, and should be catalogued as such.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Class—We have been interested in the London Daily Telegraph's report of the celebration of the "coming of age" of the Junior Philatelic Society at the Café Monico on May 6th, 1920. The banquet marked felicitously as well, the eightieth anniversary of the issue of the postage stamp and the tenth of the King's accession to the throne. A message was received from the King; and the president, Mr. Fred. J. Melville, was supported by a host of worthy ladies and gentlemen whose presence must have proved an inspiration. The toasts were responded to most happily, we should judge, and we are pleased to learn that Viscount Burnham was an honored guest. In this connection, we quote from Mr. Melville's introductory remarks: "Viscount Burnham would always be looked upon as the first who recognized the news value of postage stamps and their right to admission as one of the regular departments of a great daily newspaper." "Cheers" deservedly greeted this sentiment. Sir Anthony Hope Hawkins wittily told of his "early enthusiasm for stamps" and "laughter" punctuated the printed account. Here is a terse statement of elemental fact: "Stamp collecting stands as a most highly interesting presentment of the changes and chances of history and the progress of the world." Sir Martin Conway said that philately would have adequate representation in the New Imperial War Museum which is to be opened by the King in June. Viscount Burnham responded to the toast, The Junior Philatelic Society; and his observations were of the most engaging kind and the intimate views expressed were very acceptable to the auditors. In the course of his address, Viscount Burnham said: "The crying need of to-day was to make education more popular. Stamp collecting was a popular interest and on its geographical and historical sides could be used as an aid to education. By making the school more popular, both for the parents and the children, it had a national value which the educational developments of to-day made continuously more progressive and stimulating." An occasion of this kind, while enjoyable to those who are in attendance, is of importance in a constructive sense; it has a fortifying effect of philately and extends its zone of influence. Our hearty congratulations to the Junior Philatelic Society upon its attainment of man's estate.

Tribute—A collector of standing and of many years of affiliation with philately made an observation to us that we pass along; and we have taken care to quote our friend literally: "In my experience covering some years and transactions with one hundred dealers, I estimate, I never have had occasion to complain on the score of their treatment of me. On the contrary, I have been satisfied without exception and I may say that I have a high regard for these men who are good sports and fairer in their business relations with customers than business men in some of the other lines." Admitting that we have not been averse to speaking plainly in cases involving the relationship of buyer and seller, it is fair that these kindly words be not withheld.

Counterfeit—From Mr. J. A. Cook, Waterloo, Iowa, we have received the description of the counterfeit war savings stamps, against the acceptance of which the members of the postal service are warned. We have referred to the attempted swindle of the government, and in the notice before us, the discrepancies shown in the forgeries are described in length. Here is the manner in which the San Francisco Chronicle presents the subject: "A government employe in examining some war savings stamps presented for redemption discovered the toothache. He had seen many of the Government's engravings of Franklin and the fact of a pronounced swelling in one cheek struck him as a recent development. Further examination proved that it was a counterfeit toothache. Two minor faults were found in the counterfeit stamps. The lower of the two left dots below the portrait is indistinct. There is a vertical opening in the numeral '2' of 1924. The series with the engraving of Washington is not affected."

Found—We thank those of our readers who have assisted our memory in finding the basis of the remark of a reader that we had an infallible test for discovering watermarks that we preferred not to divulge publicly. As Mr. F. J. Rider of Portsmouth, New Hampshire, proves to be the gentleman with whom Mr. Locke of the same city discussed the instance, we submit his explanation: "The original article was published October 13th, 1917, page 338: 'There is another test to prove the unwatermarked series of U. S. stamps, but we hope that we may be pardoned for keeping this secret. It may not stand good for future printings but in the present instance is conclusive.' This came out during the time of the controversy over the thirty cent, U. S., perforated 10 on unwatermarked paper. At the time, Mr. Locke and I commented on the statement and wondered if some photographic process had been developed that would search out any watermark on a stamp, however indistinct." The case resolves itself into the expression of a contributor, who for the time being, at any rate, wished to keep his knowledge as a trade secret; it was regarded at the time as a matter of personal concern on his part. We wish to ask if there has been progress in ways and means to lure the elusive watermark from his lair. For every collector who may rejoice in the difficulty that he experiences in identification of the watermark, there are a dozen who would hail as a deliverer the man who had a panacea for watermark ills.

Gift—We acknowledge the receipt from Mr. E. L. Robinson, Chicago, of a specimen of the revenue impressed paper, U. S., third issue, August 2nd, 1813. The impression of eagle on shield with "Twenty Five Cents," below, without color, is on a blank sheet of paper with the watermark in large double-lined letters: "Stamp U. S." The note in question is dated June 18th, 1817.

Law—The advice has been received that the case involving the perpetration of a huge fraud at the expense of a Dollar—We notice in a German paper the ad of an American philatelist who wants to buy "Polen Dollar 1, Danes mark Dollar 1, Schweden Dolar 1, Norwegen Dollar 1, Gross-Britannien Dollar 1," etc. As Watson could not make anything of it, our private secretary, yawning and said: "You see, the denizen of the land of the free man this number mark, #, look like a dollar mark, $; and the literal German did the rest." Thus was another philatelic mystery exploded and another philatelic triumph recorded for the stamp collector.

NEWS GLEANINGS.
Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—In the future there will be a charge of 3c on all letters returned from the Division of Dead Letters, though an exception will be made in connection with undeliverable prepaid letters bearing the card addresses of the senders. Clipping from C. H. McBride.

—At the meeting of the Washington (D. C.) Philatelic Society May 26, Pres. Wm. A. Johnson was presented with a 19th Century linen hinged Scott's album. Mr. Johnson has been president of the Society for over eight years. Another pleasant feature of the meeting was the exhibit by Wm. Sahm of his Philippines collection, rich in pairs and blocks and mounted in a highly artistic style. We are indebted to Harry B. Mason for the above.

—Whitfield King & Co., Ipswich, England, has just issued a very full price list making a book of 76 pages. It quotes prices for packets and sets at retail, and a copy can no doubt be obtained on application.

—We are very pleased to state that C. W. Rumsey of Dushore, Pa., has been dealt with by the courts and given six months sentence after pleading guilty to defrauding dealers. Rumsey solicited on approval selections right and left and thanks to Inspector Daily of Harrisburg his operations were cut short. It should be a warning to other collectors who may be tempted to defraud stamp dealers.

—A. O. L.—Your copy has reached this office minus your address. It is written in pencil and will have to be entirely made over for use by the printer. While the subject matter might be of interest to the specialist in Hayti, it is not of sufficient general interest to warrant our going to the trouble and expense that would be required in putting it in type. We thank you for your interest and shall return the copy on request.

—Philadelphia is planning for an exposition in 1926 to celebrate the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Jos. Ward informs us that a bill has already been introduced in the house of representatives at Washington providing for the celebration. A set of stamps would naturally follow.

—We are always glad to publish items of news that result from club meetings, but correspondents must pardon us if occasionally we condense matter sent in. We know our friends will appreciate the truth of the statement that there is a great demand upon us for space, and matter published must be of general interest.

—We are informed that Stamp Trade has been consolidated with the Collector's Journal, and the publication will appear under the latter name. Subscribers desiring a copy of the new paper can no doubt secure one by addressing the publishers at Milford, Conn.

—The Weltpost Echo prints in its last issue, just to hand, quite an article about the stamps of the Western Army of Russia, issued by General Bermond. They are not postage stamps, as they were never placed in use, and were considered a speculative issue. There are a few on cover with fraudulent cancellation, cancelled at Mitau. I know that there is quite a considerable quantity of these stamps in this country for sale, and I have also a few of them left. To publish such an information, will not be appreciated by many a dealer, but it would be justified for the sake of philately.—ERWIN STRASSER.

—J. E. Guest informs us that in company with F. G. Swanson a partnership has been formed for the practise of law, with offices in the City National Bank Bldg., Wichita Falls, Texas.

—The Collectors Club of Southern California, located in Los Angeles, has removed from the Wilcox Bldg. to more commodious quarters in the Walker Auditorium. Meetings are held every Monday evening and visiting collectors will be warmly welcomed.

—Collectors of Greater Kansas City, Mo., who would like to organize a stamp society in that vicinity will please communicate with Carl S. Davis, 5148 Baltimore Ave., Kansas City, Mo.

—No. 1 of Stamp Topics published by Theodore Siddall has reached us from 17a Nanking Rd., Shanghai. It is a house organ but nevertheless interesting, and Mr. Siddall would doubtless send a copy on request.

—We are under obligations to Joseph Ward for various news items dealing with air flights. We are unable to use most of these for the reason that they do not deal particularly with philately. Our space is too limited for us to use many of these clippings that have been sent us by Mr. Ward and other friends.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from Ed. Edwards, Adolf Schaefer, W. R. Horney, Benj. Cadbury, M. M. Cassidy, C. Grebasch, Arthur H. Printz, G. M. Brack, J. R. Wilson.

—"It may be of interest to you to note that the N. Y. Volkszeitung, a daily newspaper printed in the German language, has inaugurated a special column in the interest of stamp collectors which appears every Sunday. Enclosed clipping will show you that it is no small item either. They seem to have a special editor for this purpose."—ADOLF SCHAEFER.

THE STAMP SHOPPE
Among the ever growing numbers who are taking up the business of dealing in postage stamps is a concern in Little Rock, Arkansas, that has adopted the name of The Stamp Shoppe. While young in an old game they seem to know stamps and from what we can learn are evidently getting the business, since their persistent advertising has made us take notice. We understand that Mr. Sears, the present owner and manager, has been so busy taking care of inquiries coming from their ads in this paper that he is now on the lookout for a partner who can invest a small sum. This is an opportunity for some live wire to help spread the gospel of philately in a section of the United States where there is very little competition and goodly number of collectors coming on.

ADAMSON IN NEW YORK CITY.
We have received a letter from the San Francisco post office informing us that C. W. Adamson's mail is being forwarded from San Francisco, Cal., to N. Y. City. Any complaints that have not been sent to the San Francisco office should be sent to the post office Inspector in charge, N. Y. City.

of exorbitant prices on all kinds of goods everywhere there is a certain satisfaction in realizing that I have done and am doing my little bit to keep prices on the stamps I handle down to a reasonable basis.

New goods bought on the present price level must be charged for accordingly but I have not marked up the prices on goods bought at lower levels. I am satisfied to make the normal regular profit to which every fairly conducted business is entitled.

Old U. S. Postage, Revenues, M. & M. and some early foreign in good to very fine condition submitted on approval to serious collectors against satisfactory references.

2c on 3c Provisional Envelopes

Over 100 collectors and dealers have subscribed to my new issue offer of 50 varieties of these provisional envelopes for $5 or 100 at $10 and a good portion of those who have received the first dose have come back for more. This is the only way to get them as they come and unpicked. Of some varieties I had less than 25 but they went out to those on the list. New varieties are coming daily and many of them are sure to be rare. Send $5 or $10 and I will include many scarce varieties such as the Wash. red Die F, the Phila. amber A, the two rejected die, Boston on all colors of paper, some scarce St. Louis and some from most of the other cities. Many keep $5 always on deposit so they receive all the new ones as fast as I obtain them.

My recent advertisements on imperforate coils, Narcotics, envelopes and perforated surface prints still hold good.

Always in the market to buy anything fine in United States, either old or late issue. See me before closing elsewhere. Now in the market for a 15c 1869 invert, pair of the 5c 1851 and other good things.

1c Rotary Perf. 10x11.

As we go to press we have received from H. F. Colman a block of four 1c U. S. printed from the rotary press in sheets of 100. The stamps are perforated 10x11 and were placed on sale May 26. Only two plates were made, namely 10,151 and 10,152. The stamps are fully perforated on all four sides and are very nicely centered. There is only one plate number and it falls on the right-hand side of the sheet.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

UNITED STATES.—That prince of good fellows, Mr. George Soulmán, who was the first to show me the 2c surface print, unwatermarked, Type I with Shermack perforations now shows me the same stamp in imperforate condition. He, by the way, informs me that the entire supply with the exception of less than half a dozen sheets were used up by the affixing machine company and that as a result these imperforate blocks are likely to be somewhat scarce. As mentioned before, it was not the intentions of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing to issue these and it is barely possible that the requisition from the Chicago Post Office at the time was so large that there were not enough of the engraved to supply the demand and as a result some few of the offset were mixed with them. I have not heard of these being sent to any other office.

The same gentleman also sends me several new Chicago surcharges of the 2c on 3c provisional envelopes and Mr. Arthur Cantrell shows me some from the same city. Los Angeles has started the good work and is using the vertical line types. Some of them show the last vertical line to the right so blurred that there appears to be five instead of four lines. Mr. G. H. Grinnell is the first to send us these. Mr. R. F. Molitor sends a new one from Cleveland, Mr. F. A. Brown a blue one from Des Moines, while Mr. John H. Wilms sends us one from Indianapolis that has not been noted before. Mr. G. W. Linn sends one from Columbus, while Mr. Charles A. Townsend sends us one from the same city. This is the type with the vertical line and shows the overprint both over the embossed stamp as well as in the upper left corner of the envelope. When Mr. Linn first sent the variety we were under the impression that this was an error but the one coming from Mr. Townsend is the same, although it was used by a business house. Mr. Harold Schoen sends one from Long Island which was probably overprinted in New York, as it is the New York type. Mr. Robert Bonnar has located a new one from Seattle.

Have been looking for more of the overprinted postals but so far only Cleveland and Boston have started to surcharge.

Several weeks ago we chronicled the 3c red error envelope in Die A on white, size 14, and at that time only a very few were known. Dr. L. G. Tedesche now kindly informs me that he has received a copy in the mail from New York cancelled March 20th. Mr. E. Smith also kindly informs me that he has some of them unused. The size 14 envelope is a very odd size which is very seldom used and I would suggest that collectors ask their offices for this variety, for they are quite likely to run into the error.

Mr. G. G. Ryder sends me one of the oddest freaks that I have seen coming from the Bureau for some time. He has obtained the southeast pane from sheet No. 10365 of the 1c green, perforated 11, unwatermarked engraved, with the bottom plate number double. One number is about 2 mm. above and to the right of the normal one and both are strong impressions and are not to be confused with the phantom plate numbers found on most of the sheets of the surface printed stamps. Undoubtedly this sheet passed through the press with another sheet directly above so overlapping that only the plate number appeared on the bottom sheet. This was then run through the press and received the normal impression. Mr. Ryder states that only one pane was found in the entire package.

Mr. Ryder has also located more plate blocks where the letter "F" appears at the bottom instead of in its normal place at the top. Such a variety occurs on plate 10276 of the 10c special delivery and also on 10419 of the 2c. The "F" in each case is inverted.

We also wish to thank Messrs. Harmon Wendell, Wm. Shafer, Andrew Hanes and H. R. Arnold for letters of interest.

BAVARIA.—Mr. Ward R. Chapin has shown us the 7 1/2 and 15pf stamps of the 1916 type, tete beche.

Mr. Joseph V. K. Wells has shown us copies of the complete 1914 issue together with the issues surcharged VOLKSSTAAT BAYERN and FREISTAAT BAYERN in imperforate con-

At the top of the stamp is "Bai at left "Patrona", at right "Ba and at foot the inscription of. The colors are red, and olive, blue, gold, and green and grey respectively. Mr. Wells has submitted to us three copies of these stamps. The same respondent also submits to us a type of the higher values. The shows a likeness of a woman with large circle. The values and colors as follows: 3m ultramarine, 5m on 10m dark green and 20m dark green.

CEYLON.—In our issue for October 4th last we chronicled "a postally copy of the 2c War stamp—appears from Plate I—with a distinct overprint." Is our type so small such good things as this are overlooked. It would seem so, for in a copy dated April 15th we find following:—

"Of the numerous local overprints of War Tax stamps in many of the British Colonies there were plenty examples of double and inverted prints, besides errors of a minor kind. Most of these were discovered offices, and were preserved unused. an error of this class occurs, it effects one entire sheet of 120 stamps, and, if discovered by a list at the Post Office, he would endeavor to secure the lot at value, and thus the entire printing errors would be saved for collection. On the other hand, if the error not noticed, and are sold, per se to a business firm, and used up in correspondence, the chances are more than a small proportion in escaping the waste paper basket. Sample of this has just come to me in a 2 cents orange-brown 'War' at Ceylon, doubly overprinted. Only copy I have heard of is a fine, and it was found amongst a lot of used copies of these stamps, copies of which are plentiful. It is worth the while of collectors to possess quantities of these Cingalese stamps to examine them carefully for the double overprint. Two hundred and forty of them must have been printed, but so far only the one specimen copy has come to light."

used copy we reported, seven days ago, was not in a parcel but specially for our inspection by a collector; it is presumably a copy that is now described by contemporary.—Stamp Collecting.

RE.—Mr. M. Dicranian advises he has received a pair of 5 para revenue stamps surcharged 'ARY FRANCAISE 70 PARAS'. Mr. Dicranian adds that the design is inverted.

A.P.S. 4853 J.A.P.S. Pres. M.P.A. Int. Sec. S.P.A. 1775

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA.—The Bohemian Republic has followed the example of Poland in opening a postal agency in the Consulate at Constantinople for the convenience of Czech residents in the Turkish capital. The current adhesives of Czecho-Slovakia have accordingly been overprinted with the word LEVANT in large black Roman capitals, and surcharged with local values in paras and piastres. The latter precaution, formerly in vogue at all foreign post offices in the Near East, is intended to guard against possible loss to the revenue through the fluctuations of exchange.—Stamp Collecting.

ESTHONIA.—Stamp Collecting reports that a new 35 penni stamp has just arrived from Reval. The artistry is quaint but nevertheless striking. The stamp is in red and has a miniature silhouette view of the Esthonian capital (though there is no inscription to inform the stranger to that effect), in a panelled frame of curved lines, with "35 penni" at the foot and "Eesti Post" in thin capitals extending over the right hand part of the panel above the view.

EUPEN.—Mr. Joseph V. K. Wells has shown us the 1915 issue of Belgium to the 50c, inclusive, surcharged EUPEN in small black type. Also the 5c to 50c postage due stamps overprinted in the same manner.

Fiume.—Messrs. Bright & Son send us the following regarding the Charity stamps overprinted VALORE GLOBALE, etc. "We have received this set in which the overprint is larger than originally, evidently the second printing."

IRAQ.—Messrs. Bright & Son chronicle the appearance of a 1½ anna on 5 para Turkish, new value.

NEWFOUNDLAND.—We are indebted to Frank F. Wills for copies of the 2c caribou in a fine new orange-red shade. The stamp is a very handsome one.

ST. KITTS & NEVIS.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Monthly List reports that a new issue of stamps for this colony is expected to arrive about the 12th inst. All values will be issued from ½d to 10sh.

SARRE.—We have to report yet another series—the third—of provisionals for the French occupation of the Sarre Valley. This latest consists of eight values of the current German adhesives overprinted "Saargebiet." The values overprinted are the 5, 10, 15, 20, 40, 50, 60, and 75pf, and one of our correspondents informs us that no other values will be overprinted, although we observe Messrs. Yvert & Tellier chronicle the 1 mark stamp.—Stamp Collecting.

SLESVIG.—There have been at least two printings of the Plebiscite stamps, the second printing differing in shade from the first in several denominations. In the first printing of the 10pf stamps the last stamp in the 3rd row shows a prominent defect, due probably to an accident to the plate, part of the foliage on the left being missing, leaving a white space; in the second printing this error has been corrected. The errors are quite scarce, as the defective stamps were removed from the sheets as soon as discovered.—Whitfield King's Monthly List.

NEW ISSUE NOTES.

By CHAS. S. THOMPSON.

AUSTRIA.—New postage rates went into effect April 15, all tariffs being again raised. Domestic letters require 80 heller, postals 50h, and registration Kr 1.20. Foreign letters require 2kr, and foreign registration the same, while foreign postals cost 80 heller. This will mean that the 50h will be issued in green, the 80 in red, there will be a new 2kr in blue, and one new value, a Kr 1.20. It is announced already that the 2kr will be of small size, like the others of the current set. The 2kr of the Parliament type is already obsolete, and unobtainable in Vienna.

BAVARIA.—The present cubo-futuristic set has been completed, the mark values having appeared. There are two designs, one small, for the lower values, the other quite large, as usual. They are strangely anomalous, as indeed all the other designs of the set are: the design of the lower values has for its central motif a representation of the Virgin and Child, standing on the Bavarian coat-of-arms, the whole in an oval frame, which has "Bayern" above, value below, and "Patrona Bavariae" at sides. The higher values picture a scantily-clothed damsel who appears to have been a member of a musical comedy company, striding toward a Bavarian coat-of-arms which is tilted at an angle of 45°, both enclosed in a circle, below which appears the value, and at bottom "Bayern". The values:—1m red and grey; 1½m blue and brown; 1½m green and grey; 2½m black and grey-brown; 3m bright blue; 5m orange; 10m dark green and 20m black.

ESTHONIA.—A new 35 penni stamp has appeared. It shows a view of Reval, in a highly ornate frame. Value at bottom. Color, cherry red.

MR. BREDER'S COMMON STAMPS.

(Mention has previously been made by Mr. C. M. Breder of his experiences in collecting stamps listed at not more than 10c each and this recent word from our friend will be of interest.—W. O. W.)

When I received a copy of the 1920 catalog I still lacked 89 stamps to complete all stamps listed in 1919 at not more than 10 cents each, divided as follows:

Passed out of my class,	9
Not listed in 1920,	16
Listed but not priced in 1920,	3
Still in my 1 to 10c class,	61
	89

I have made up a new list, based on 1920 catalog, of stamps priced at not more than 20 cents each and this represents 2,105 stamps. Some job ahead of me.

GRENADA.

On August 15, 1898, a stamp to commemorate the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of the island by Columbus was issued to the number of 240,000. It is a very neat design showing a Caravel under sail toward the island. The name "La Concepcion," above, was the name bestowed on the island by Columbus, and not the name of his flagship as has been stated by some writers. The stamp is large size and printed in sheets of 60, five horizontal rows of twelve.

"King Edward" stamps in the usual
De La Rue Colonial type were supplied in 1902, with the multiple watermark coming in 1904-6 and the chalky paper on the 3 and 6d and 2s values in 1905-6.

A new special type for Grenada was prepared by Messrs. De La Rue in 1906, showing the Colony's badge—the same picture as on the commemorative stamp.
The 1/2d, 1, 2 and 2 1/2d values are line-
engraved on multiple ordinary paper, and the higher values typographed on multiple chalky paper, except the 1 and 10s, which were single watermark, as they were on green paper which had not run out of stock. These stamps were issued in 1908 and the 1s finally appeared on the multiple green paper in 1911. The 10s was never issued on the latter paper.

A new "King George" Colonial type set was supplied to Grenada in January, 1913, the four lower values as before being on ordinary paper and the higher values on chalky paper. The 3d and 1s were temporarily printed on the surface-colored paper (so-called "white backs")
in scarlet, and was also surcharged during 1914. In 1916 the 1d appeared
"WAR TAX" in two different styles of type, the first locally applied and the second by the printers.

Postage-due stamps of 1, 2 and 3d
values were issued on April 18, 1892.
The first supply of 1 and 2d was quickly used up and the 8d postage stamp was employed to make provisionals of these values in August, 1892. Still further supplies were needed and met by sur-charging the 6d postage stamp in the same manner in October, 1892. Since then there has been no further change in the regular series except the change to multiple watermarked paper.—N. E.
Stamp Monthly.

CANCELLATIONS.

By L. KOPF.

In reference to the E in wreath and Q in wreath cancellations recently mentioned will state that I have an
"H" in wreath in black and a friend of mine has an "N" in wreath in purple,
both of these cancellations occurring on the 2c 1883. Will also say that I have discovered the origin of the famous Kicking Mule cancellation and located the firm who supplied that particular P. O. canceller to postmasters during the eighties. Also located a picture of the original mule or donkey which suggested the idea for that unique cancellation. Makes an interesting little story and I would be glad to write it up but have put same at Mr. Ritchie's disposal, so it's perhaps best to allow him to use same as he sees fit. Would make an interesting article just at present while the interest in cancellations is so keen, and I would be pleased to see same appear in advance of publication of the "Book on Cancellations."

BERMUDA "WAR TAX."
By BENEDICT PRIETH.

The War Tax stamps of this colony cannot be used for postal purposes. These stamps must be affixed in addition to the regular postage. Some of my American correspondents seemed to doubt the correctness of my statement, and they called my attention to the War Stamps of Jamaica and other West Indian colonies, which were valid for all postal purposes. To put the matter to a test, I mailed a cover, bearing a War Tax stamp only, from St. George's, with the result that I had to pay 2 pence postage due as indicated on the cover, which I am enclosing for your inspection. As the postmaster of Harrington Sound pointed out to me, the surcharge reads "War Tax" and not "War Stamp," as is the case with most British colonies.

These war tax stamps may be used to pay the penny tax on checks and receipted bills, but they may not be used to prepay postage. You will no doubt be pleased to make these facts known to your readers.

PRECANCEL ITEMS.
By H. S. DICKEY.

Manhattan, Kansas, used the Victory precancelled.

Buffalo, N. Y., used the 24 aeroplane precancelled up.

The dropped C type of Rochester, N. Y., is a hard set to complete, the printer must have run out of C's and nowadays it's hard to substitute.

Its odd that we have "Bridgeport" precancels, from two states, Pennsylvania and Connecticut, though the latter often comes in bright colored ink as well as black.

Akron, Ohio, takes the cake for types, for it uses a figure 1 in "Ohio" occasionally instead of an I; the sets are very hard to complete, but are very pretty when completed.

The fellow who completes the cities of Wisconsin will have to hunt early and late. You have to slip up on them.

What does Maine use precancels on—do they ship logs by parcel post?

Kentucky precancels will be as scarce as Kentucky Colonels, now that the country has gone dry.

Donaldsville, Ga., is a new one on me, but it uses precancels just the same.

I take back all the things I've said about Indiana being slow. I've just seen an 11c precancel from Rushville, Indiana.

Moline, Ill., is the home of the tractor, it also has a precancel attracter in two types.

Pine Bluff, Arkansas, uses precancels. Can anybody tell me what kind of Bluff stuff they use them on?

Oskosh; yes, it's a 9c from Wisconsin. I'll say it's as rare as the 9c of Marinette, Wisconsin.

Chicopee, Mass., must have had an Indian village—there in the dim and distant past. Think of an Indian town using precancels.

Grafton, West Virginia, will never be popular with the fans because it's too hard to get on the Grafton precancel wagon.

They have Red Bluffs out in California, and California and Arkansas could have a bluff time together.

And last but not least, Pike, N. Y. I've often wondered where the pikers came from.

Paw Paw, Mich. You kids who holler for Paw Paw's know now where to find them.

YOURS FOR HEALTH.

TO THE EDITOR:—

Your editorial several months ago regarding your recovery from the "flu-monia," for which fact I am sure all your readers feel thankful and appreciative, recalls the many pleasant hours of convalescence which the writer has enjoyed with his stamps, but it is not that alone I am taking the liberty to write you about.

In the January issue of the Physical Culture magazine there is an interesting article, not only concerning health and the measures advocated and adopted by Health Commissioner of N. Y. City, Dr. Copeland, but another recognition of the true worth of philately, and its adaptability for all occasions and circumstances.

The article in question is under the title of "Ten Commandments for Health" as revealed by Dr. R. S. Copeland, Health Com. N. Y. City. With your permission I will quote direct from the article as pertaining to our fascinating hobby.

"Now about proper diversion; what is food for one man is poison for another, but one should have a diversion by all means; it renews the man by lifting him out of himself, so to speak. There are many such 'innocent diversions,' such as the theater, cards, athletic contests, boxing, stamp collections, coins, ferns, and scientific research, such as studying the life dwelling in a drop of water—a small inexpensive microscope will reveal wonders—or anything the fancy dictates that will please and interest.

One should make it a practise to spend a little time every day 'riding his hobby'."

With all best wishes for the success of the WEEKLY, which I consider gets better every issue, I beg to remain

Respect, yours,

NEW TURKISH ISSUES.

By CHAS. S. THOMPSON.

Due to depreciation of currency and consequent increase in postal rate, desire to economize—perhaps—and the accession of a new Sultan, the Turks have produced a number of new stamps which will give collectors considerable to think about. To date the writer has received 28 varieties, all that had appeared up to April 14, the date they were sent from Constantinople.

These consist of (1) surcharges on old issues, (2) surcharges on stamps prepared for use previously, but not placed in use, and (3) new values in old designs, with changed colors. The surcharges constitute a strange conglomeration which will exercise the ingenuity of the cataloger considerably, but collectors in general will probably take kindly to these issues, due to their large size and attractive appearance.

The following is an attempt to straighten out the tangle:—

Surcharged with new value,—5 paras on 4 paras brown, No. 255, type A25.

Surcharged on stamps not previously issued, "1919-1335" and various ornaments—20 paras, dull carmine, (well in the desert), oblong, 21.5x31.5 mm.; 1 piastre, blue, (infantryman and tomb of saint), rectangle, 24x36 mm.; 60 paras, green, (apparently mosque of Omar) oblong, 24x36 mm. Original value obliterated, but probably 10pi and 25 piastres, blue, caravan. Oblong, 24x36 mm.

These stamps are typographs, prepared at Vienna for the Turkish government when the "occupation" of Egypt was contemplated. The odoriferous gum proclaims their Austrian origin. They are surcharged with Turkish characters which mean "Anniversary of His Majesty, July 3, 1334-1918." Also the toughra (pronounced "toura") of the Sultan, obliterating the toughra of the previous ruler, and in some cases a new value:—

On 1913 issue, type A22, 10 paras on 2pa olive.

On 1916-18 issue, types A42 to A52:—2pa violet; 5pa orange; 10pa green (red schg.); 20pa rose; 1pi violet (toughra obliterates portrait of former Sultan.); 2pi brown and indigo; 10pi brown (schg. as in 1 pi); 25pi carmine on straw; 50pi green on straw; 5 piastres blue-green and black (pyramids); 10pi on 60pa ultramarine (map) and 20pi on 2pi brown and indigo (Dardanelles).

On unissued "Egyptian" set:—10 on 20 paras, dull carmine; 20 on 1 piastre, blue; 100pi on 10pi green (same stamp as surcharged 60 paras—mosque of Omar) and 250pi on 25pi blue.

Old types, new values and colors, (1913 pictorials):—A26 5 paras, orange; A32 3 piastres, blue; A34 5 piastres, gray; A36 10 piastres, violet and A37 25 piastres, dull red-violet.

Newspaper stamp, A21, No. 868, surcharged with date and toughra; 5 paras on 2 paras, olive.

SAU STAMP CO.

Massau St., New York City

UNITED STATES 12c 1857-60.

By ELLIOTT PERRY.

This stamp at once suggests the black ten cent which it replaced on July 1, 1851. The frame of the first United States 12c stamp is quite unlike that of the 10c of the 1847 series but here again we have a Washington portrait and the color is the same. The 12c of 1851-60 is very similar to the 3c stamp of the same series, the chief differences being in the arrangement of the inscriptions and the use of a three-quarter portrait facing left on the 12c instead of the profile of General Washington which occupies the central oval on the 3c stamp. These two are the only stamps of the series on which the design forms a perfect rectangle. The inscriptions are in colorless capitals
following the curve of the portrait oval—U. S. POSTAGE above and TWELVE CENTS below. Except that it is slightly smaller on the 12c, the portrait is practically identical with the portrait on the 10c green first issued four years later.

In his exhaustive treatise on the U.
S. stamps Luff mentions three plates of the 12c beside the reprint plate of 1875. He states that plate No. 1 is known to have been used for the imperforate stamps, that plate No. 3 is known to have been used for perforated stamps, and that "A plate of the twelve cents, which I suspect to be No.
2, exists both imperforate and perforated." Such information as the present writer has obtained agrees with Mr.
Luff's statement regarding plate No. 1 and plate No. 3, and agrees to some extent with what he states about plate
No. 2. When we find that the last plate used for the regular stamps was numbered "3" it is certainly reasonable to suspect the existence of an earlier plate numbered "2". There is nothing in the manner any of the plates of 1851-60 were numbered to suggest that the last plate would bear the number
"3" unless it actually was the third 12c
plate.

However, if we look into the quantities of 12c stamps issued in the ten years, 1851 to 1861, for confirmation of the use of three plates, instead of finding such confirmation it appears that one plate would have been amply sufficient to print all the 12c stamps issued during that period, for the total quantity issued evidently did not exceed eight million and more, probably was in the neighborhood of seven million stamps. Barring accidents, one plate would be good for say, 50,000 impressions, or ten million stamps—nearly 50% more than were probably issued or printed.

PLATE No. 1.

The first 12c plate was made in 1851
and greatly resembles the early 3c plates. The stamps on it are very close together and this is why the imperforates are so frequently cut into on one or more sides and at best have margins hardly one millimeter wide. Many of the stamps have a short vertical dash near or crossing the lower frame line about one millimeter to the left of the lower right corner. Similar position dots are found near the upper corners of the stamps in the top row. The writer has not been able to identify more than one relief and as most of the stamps have the position dot referred to it would seem that the plate was rocked in from a single relief transfer rocked 100 times on each of the two panes. If the writer is not mistaken these 12c plates are the only ones of the fifty plates of the 1851-60 series which were rocked in from single relief transfers. Perhaps 12c plate No.
1 was the first plate made for the series,
and so much time was required to make it by rocking in each subject separately
the advisability of using multiple relief transfer rolls for the other plates became at once apparent.

Stamps from this plate, thought to be early prints, are beautiful clear impressions, gray black in shade. Later printings, which may or may not come from this plate, are darker and smudgy.
On account of the very close spacing of the subjects on the plate from which the earlier perforates were printed, the perforations impinge on one, two, three or four sides, according to how well
the stamps were centered. Poorly centered specimens will have one or two

UNSOLICITED

Packet No. 124 entirely satisfactory. I added over 450 new varieties to a previous collection of 2000 stamps.—H. S. Lynn, Pittsburgh, Pa.
I was very much pleased with the War Stamps I received in your 3000 variety packet as I added about 100 varieties to my collection of 300 Wars. It is a splendid packet all through.—R. Speer, Long Beach, Calif.

I added 316 stamps to a collection of about 3200, not counting the envelope stamps—(given as a premium)—I also found many better specimens to substitute for not-so-good ones already in my album. Then I made up the balance of the stamps into smaller packets and sold them to collectors for $3.00. As I only paid $3.25 for packet No. 124 in the first place, my net expense was 25 cents on the deal. I got so much fun looking the pile over (worth a good deal in itself) that I am converted to packets from now on.—F. M. Gracey, Cambridge, Mass.

sides clear of the perforations, while on well centered copies the perforations touch on all four sides. The earlier perforates bring little joy to the collector who is satisfied only with perfect centering and margins clear of the stamp design all the way round.

PLATE No. 2.

At the present time the writer can give nothing but conjecture regarding this plate. From such material as he has seen and study of the data available to him he is inclined to believe that for some unknown reason plate No. 1 became unserviceable before June, 1855, and that plate No. 2 was made and placed in use at about the same time as the first 5c plate, which was the latter part of 1855. If this idea is correct, the later printings of imperforate 12c stamps and the perforated stamps with narrow horizontal spacing were from plate No. 2, and this second plate printed all the 12c stamps from sometime in 1855 up to the early part of 1860—about five years.

If made at any time before 1857, plate No. 2 would probably have the narrow spacing both vertically and horizontally which is characteristic of plate No. 1, and it is more than likely many of the stamps thought to have come from the first plate were, in fact, printed from the second. The S. H. Carpenter letter of April 2, 1863, referring to the new plates made during or after 1857, mentions only one new 12c plate, which may have been plate No. 2 or may have been No. 3. The last named plate was laid out in much the same manner as other plates of the 1857-60 period but in the writer's opinion was not made before 1860. If the new 12c plate referred to by Mr. Carpenter was No. 2 it would have the characteristics of plates made for perforated stamps and unless something happened to it there would have been no necessity for making a third plate, but if No. 3 was the new plate mentioned by Mr. Carpenter No. 2 must have been made before 1857 and would be like other plates made for imperforate stamps—that is, it would be like plate No. 1, and Mr. Luff's suspicion that it was used for both imperforate and perforated stamps would be correct. There was no need for a second plate of 12c before 1857 unless plate No. 1 had become unserviceable, and as it is doubtful if the quantity of 12c stamps issued up to June 30, 1857, exceeded 2,500,000—an unusually small production for one plate—if No. 1 was discarded before 1857, the only apparent reason is that something was the matter with it.

The only other way by which the writer can account for plate No. 2 is that this plate was defective and either was not used at all, or else was used very little. All, or nearly all the 12c stamps printed up to 1860 may possibly have come from plate No. 1 and those printed in 1860 and 1861 may have been mostly, if not all, from the third plate. The writer has been unable to identify with certainty any stamps that do not appear to belong either on plate No. 1 or on plate No. 3 and so it would appear that if plate No. 2 was used at all the stamps from it are either quite rare or else they are very much like those on the first plate or those on the third plate. Probably the plate No. 2 stamps are so much like the plate No. 1 stamps that the differences between them have heretofore escaped notice.

PLATE No. 3.

This plate presents an interesting though rather difficult study for the specialist and its characteristics should be familiar to the less advanced collector for the latter's own protection against fraud. The writer has found no indications of the use of stamps from this plate before 1860 and therefore assigns it to that year. At the earliest it could hardly have been made or placed in use before 1859. The imprint it bears would indicate it was made after the second 5c and 10c plates and after the 24c plate and at about the same time as the 30c and 90c plates. As on the 30c and 90c plates and on plate No. 12 of the 1c, this imprint consists of a rectangular panel of color bearing colorless capitals reading "Toppan, Carpenter & Co., Philadelphia" with the plate number just below. Like the other imprints of the series this imprint is found at the right side of the right pane and the left side of the left pane with the tops of the letters toward the stamps.

Plate No. 3 was probably made after the last of the six relief transfer plates and when the plates rocked in from four, three or two relief transfers were being made at the end of the 1857-60 series, and like other plates of that period it was laid out to fit the perforating machine then in use. The stamps are very close together vertically and the horizontal spacing varies from slightly more than one millimeter to nearly twice as much so that single copies have the perforations close to or impinging on the design at top and bottom and may or may not have substantial margins at the sides. On stamps where the horizontal spacing is wide it is quite possible to trim off the perforations and thereby obtain an "imperf" with good side margins. The cautious collector will beware of such.

Careful study of many specimens from this plate has convinced the writer that like plate No. 1, (and probably plate No. 2), the third plate was rocked from a single relief transfer. There are many variations in the individual stamps but they do not recur regularly and no method by which they could have come from a multiple relief transfer seems applicable. So far as can be determined there are no stamps on plate No. 3 exactly like any of the stamps on the first plate and all the third plate stamps have certain characteristics by which they can easily be identified.

On plate No. 1 the fine black frame line surrounding the body of the design less than ½ mm. outside is practically always intact both along the sides and where the side and top lines join to form the corners. The corners do not always exactly join but always appear to join and the slight imperfection sometimes found there can seldom be detected without a glass.

On plate No. 3 stamps the upper right corner is always intact and the top frame line tends to grow heavier as it approaches that corner but all the other corners are never intact, and the frame lines are frequently weak, broken, or entirely missing on one or more sides.
The character of the breaks in the frame lines varies greatly in both horizontal and vertical rows and the writer has no explanation to offer that might account for this extremely slipshod work.

Quite a number of the stamps from plate No. 3 also have a fine line of color
just outside the frame line at one side or the other and these vertical lines often extend along several stamps but not exactly parallel to them. Most of these "extra frame line" stamps occur in the left pane, although some of them
may also be found in the right pane.
On the latter the extra lines are fainter and might easily escape notice. The presence of these lines has never been explained and the writer hesitates to venture an opinion, but thinks they may come from a half-baked attempt to patch up the broken frame lines. If so, whoever did it tried to patch in some places where there were no breaks and left untouched many frame lines that were broken so that some stamps have two good frame lines where only one was needed and others have only one poor frame line that should have been patched but wasn't. Suppose a careless workman laid down a ruler and drew a fine line somewhat near the side frame lines of the stamps here and there on the plate, the result would be just about what we find on the stamps.

Strong indication that plate No. 3 was rocked in from bottom to top with a single relief transfer is found in the 8th vertical row of the right pane.
Stamp No. 98 has a noticeable shift at the bottom; stamps Nos. 88, 78 and 68
are normal; stamps Nos. 58, 48 and 38
have a blur in the S of U. S.; stamp No.
28 shows a very noticeable shift; stamp
No. 18 is the only stamp on the pane
which is much out of vertical alignment, being closer to No. 28 than are any other two stamps on the plate to each other. The spacing between No. 18 and No. 8 is normal and this brings No. 8 too low compared to the others in the top row. The obvious explanation is that after No. 68 was rocked in something got on the roller and was not noticed until it had produced the blur in the S found on No. 58, 48 and 38; that the workman then raised the roller and cleaned it but did not replace it in exactly the right position for No. 28, and a shift resulted, or else he commenced to rock in No. 28 and happening to notice the imperfection on the subjects below it which had just been rocked in,
he then lifted the roller to clean it and on replacing it did not get it in exactly the correct position—hence the shift.

Perhaps he got a bit rattled then and didn't space No. 18 far enough away from No. 28, and followed up that error by spacing No. 8 the correct distance from No. 18 instead of moving it farther upward to line horizontally with No. 7 and No. 9. The writer cannot conceive how the varieties in the 8th vertical row could have been produced from a roller on which there was more than one relief. There are a few other shifts on the right pane. Stamp

No. 92 shows considerable duplication of the design, but the other shifts, which are also in the bottom row, are trifling. These bottom row shifts all show the duplication of design at the bottom of the stamp and the writer regards this fact as further indication that the pane, and probably the plate,
was rocked in from bottom to top.
Nearly all the plate No. 3 stamps show
a position dot at the lower right corner.

Stamps from the third plate are seldom clear impressions, commonly being a rather deep black with a smudgy look. Used copies are about as scarce as unused due to the fact that most of the unused perforated 12c are remainders from this plate. Unused specimens from an earlier plate are less frequently seen. A student of the 12c states, "The various smudges found on many perforated 12c are not due, as is popularly supposed, to the printing, but are defects of the plate itself and are constant in their appearance on certain
stamps."

It is exceedingly unlikely there are any genuine imperforate stamps from the third plate. Perforation commenced sometime in 1857 and plate No. 3 was not placed in use until several years later. There are in existence, however,
a few ungummed imperforate pairs which were printed from this plate on regular stamp paper. In the writer's opinion these pairs, and any similar singles that may exist, are from a sheet, or perhaps several sheets, printed in June or July, 1860, and which got into collectors' hands in the same way as did most of the 24c, 30c and 90c from imperforate sheets.

The Toppan, Carpenter & Co. letter of July 2, 1860, reproduced in the Steinmetz Miscellany covers the point very nicely. We have the honor of submitting inclosed part of a proof sheet of the new Thirty Cents stamp. We inclose also an impression (half sheet) of the Twelve Cents plate that the Postmaster General may contrast the two and decide upon the propriety of printing the Thirty Cents in black. * * * Such an impression as Toppan, Carpenter & Co.
sent to the Third Asst. Postmaster General would be imperforate and ungummed and in order to show exactly what they wished, would be printed on the regular stamp paper they were using. They would not resurrect plate
No. 1 for this purpose but would use the 12c plate they were then using for the ordinary 12c stamps. Therefore this proof sheet was probably printed from plate No. 3, and as these imperforate "stamps" are like the issued stamps from the third plate it is evident the latter was the plate used.

Used specimens from plate No. 3 in unquestionably imperforate condition are not known to exist and there is no reason for believing any of these 12c proofs were ever issued. The reasons which may have prompted the issue of 24c, 30c, and 90c stamps from imperforate trial or proof sheets of those denominations do not apply to the 12c, and therefore, the imperforates from plate No. 3 of the 12c are proofs, very interesting proofs, but are not stamps.

A DEALING EXPERIENCE

By C. A. TOWNSEND.

The issue of May 22 is before me and on the last page I read the title "A Passionate Peeve". Very good, both your comments and Mr. Thompson's.

There is a limit to all things of course, and if Mr. Thompson does not care for customers who do not happen to want more than 50c worth of his advertised items that is his affair, but one can never tell in advance how much a customer may buy. After I get a customer I limit each purchase from an approval book to not less than 30c, as less than that is unprofitable. That is strictly business.

In years gone past I have very often used a half or one inch space in MEKEEL'S, Youth's Companion or American Boy, exploiting some special packet for 10c and postage, usually sending with the order a 25c sheet or book on approval, with return postage paid, the enclosed advertising matter designed to bring more business. All of these were prepared long in advance, 100 or more, and sometimes 200 or 250 if I had a particularly good 10c offer to make.

The best business puller I ever had printed was used in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY several years ago and was as follows:—

"The regular catalog value of the 1c, 2c, 3c and 6c War Dept. unused is about 25c but in order to try the pulling powers of this paper as an advertising medium I offer the above four stamps, together with six varieties of Mexico revenues (each one a different issue), for 10c silver and a 2c stamp for postage."

When I started I had 800 1c, 1000 each of 2c and 3c, and about 600 6c, cost not over 75c per hundred. Before the thing was over I bought 100 1c for $1 and about 300 6c at $1.50 per hundred. All told there were some 880 of those packets sold. Two other papers were used but MEKEEL'S brought in 75% of the answers. In several cases, after having seen the stamps, re-orders were made for five or ten packets. One school teacher bought 25 to give to her pupils.

The actual profit on each 10c packet was very small, and it is safe to say that fully 50% of the buyers bought stamps amounting to $1 or more. Without the first 10c offer I never would have reached them.

NEWFOUNDLAND "AEROS."

By M. P. HYNES.

I notice Mr. Fred. J. Melville in his article entitled "Aero Stamps," published in your issue of May 15th. lists under "Newfoundland" four values of the Caribou issue, viz.:—the 1c, 2c, 3c and 24c, as having been overprinted for use on trans-Atlantic air mails.

It is true Mr. Melville says "These stamps appear to have been issued in a somewhat irregular fashion" but, unless I am greatly mistaken, the true status of these stamps has been brought to his attention long ago and from a source that should have left no doubt in his mind that they were not entitled to a place in any list of Newfoundland aero stamps.

The stamps have no official standing whatever, being merely the offspring of the fertile brain of the representative of a London newspaper who was in St. John's "covering" the trans-Atlantic flights in 1918. They were overprinted for this "flight correspondent" by an obliging workman in one of the St. John's printing offices without the knowledge or authority of the Newfoundland Postal Department.

This being so, it is perhaps unnecessary to add they were not intended for use on the mail entrusted to Messrs. Raynham and Morgan. This mail bore the ordinary 3c Caribou stamp without overprint. Across the upper portion of the envelopes was written in manuscript "First trans-Atlantic Air Post"

The next discontinuance of subscriptions will concern all subscribers whose wrappers bear the numbers 1534 to 1537 inclusive. Just glance at your wrapper immediately in order to make sure your subscription is paid up. You have ample time in which to renew and save the inconvenience of a discontinuance. Moreover, under our new system we are making no plans for furnishing back numbers and subscribers must expect that we can supply back numbers when we have made every effort to notify them.

We are satisfied that the system we have inaugurated is the only one under which a newspaper can do business these days, and subscribers must understand that free copies of the WEEKLY will not be sent to those who are in arrears.

Last issued, March 14, 1883.
210 stamps per sheet, (14x15).
26,317,000 issued on silk, pink and watermarked paper.

Frederick P. Newton, brother-in-law of Frank E. Clarke, ran the Woodbridge factory about six years. He is listed in the Connecticut Business Directories for 1879 to 1882 as proprietor of the match factory there and in 1883 and 1884 appears as superintendent of the Diamond Match Co. at Woodbridge. The directory for 1884 also lists the Clarke Match Co. at Woodbridge. The Diamond Match Co.
bought Newton out at a price stated
to have been $50,000 cash and $60,000
stock and ran the factory about a year.
Surplus stock from other factories all over the country, except the Diamond factories at Westville and Wilmington, was sent to Woodbridge to be finished up.

Newton's stamp is the former Clark die with the firm name changed. The label below the portrait which is inscribed "Matches" on the other Woodbridge stamps is changed to read "F.
P. Newton." A colorless five pointed star has been placed in the triangular space below either end of that label and between these stars a narrow label inscribed "Successor To" has been inserted.
The label across the bottom which is inscribed "The Clark Match Co." has been made narrower.

All the Newton stamps occur with the Van Duzer overprint. The watermarked variety is also found with a similar overprint in smaller sans serif capitals. The stamps on silk and pink paper were printed by the National Bank Note Co. The watermarked paper was used by that company and also by the American Co. and by the Bureau.
Probably there were three plates. The Bureau is known to have used a plate which had been made by the National Co., as stamps showing the National imprint scratched by the Bureau engravers are in existence. Some of the Bureau stamps are in a rosy pink shade distinct from the dull lake previously used on the Newton and the other Woodbridge stamps.

None of the Newton stamps are scarce in the usual indifferent condition. The silk paper was in use about six months, the pink paper about the same length of time, and the watermarked paper for about five years.
The prices quoted on the Newton stamps
for the past 30 years make one wonder whether the standard catalog is issued for the dissemination of philatelic knowledge or for the concealment thereof:—

	Silk Paper	Pink Paper	Wmkd. Paper
1888	.15	.15	.05
1895	.15	.25	.03
1898	.15	.25	.05
1900	.15	.15	.10
1903	.20	.20	.25
1906	.20	.20	.50
1919	.20	.20	.50

The watermarked variety ought to be,
for over 30 years has been, and still is the commonest of the three stamps, and why it should be priced more than twice as much as the varieties which are at least twice as scarce is more than the present writer can comprehend.

POSTAGE STAMPS FOR REMITTANCES.

After July 1 we must decline to accept remittances in unused postage stamps, where the amount sent in is over 50c. If a remittance of 50c or under is sent us we have no hesitation as a matter of accommodation in accepting unused U. S. stamps. On all other remittances a check, money-order or currency should be used.

In the past we have accepted postage stamps from our advertisers at a discount of 5%, but we desire to transfer this business to a regular stamp broker. Nearly every large city has some dealer who makes a business of cashing stamps, like Mr. Cobe of the Studio Bldg., Boston, and Mr. Mozian in N. Y., whose advertising is found in the WEEKLY. We shall be very glad to make an announcement in the WEEKLY of the stamp brokers in various parts of the country who desire business of this character.

We feel that our advertisers will be justified in making a similar requirement upon the part of their patrons. It seems unbusiness-like for any person to bunch up a lot of postage stamps of various denominations, some without gum and some with perforated initials, with a few Canada thrown in to lend spice to the remittance. True, it takes a moment or two to take out a money-order, but the time will be well spent and the courtesy greatly appreciated by the one to whom the order is sent.

EDITORIAL.

Imperforate.—We shall relate the story of the first type of the surface printed two cent of the current issue as these stamps seem to be destined to be desirable, if signs are read aright. It is easy to believe that the imperforate two cent of the first type, surface printing, were sent out from Washington by mistake and at the present time of writing, most, if not all of the stamps in question were consigned to the Chicago post office, it appears. As all the surface printed stamps issued since March 25th, 1920, are said to have been of the retouched design, it is plausible to believe that the type one imperforates which were received in Chicago late in April were sent unintentionally. It must have been the expectation to have had the "type two" imperforates ready soon after the time the first type stamps were sent. At any rate, a big batch of type one sheets of four hundred were received at the Chicago office and we know that ten sheets reached the hands of collectors. It was thought by buyers that the supply would last and that there would be no difficulty in getting further sheets. However, almost over night, the Mail-O-Meter Sales Company bought all of these stamps in the regular course of business and furnished them to their customers in the well-known Schermack perforation. The Mail-O-Meter people had cut up all the sheets and furnished them in strips to the users of their machine and so none of the imperforates were available from that source. One establishment that sent out letters with the machine stamps on them was willing to dispose of a quantity of the stamps in roll and in that manner the machine-perforated specimens have come into the hands of collectors, the stamps in question having been sold at considerably over face value. It is possible to obtain a pair of the machine stamps showing type one on one side of the joint and the other type next to it.

Conventions.—We have been asked to mention that the conventions of the two leading societies, the American Philatelic Society and the Society of Philatelic Americans, will be held in the month of August, 1920, at Providence, R. I., and Pittsburgh, Pa., respectively. It is none too early to look forward to attending one or both of these conventions, and summer trips should be planned accordingly.

Asked.—"What has become of the old-fashioned dealer who used to advertise: 'No U. S. stamps sent on approval,'" asks a reader who coyly answers his own question. He says: "He has developed into the man who wants to keep them so much that he demands prices whose limit is the sky." It should be added that fine condition is the lever that raises prices on U. S.; and in this connection we quote from a letter received from another collector: "I was amused by your note on the collector who hesitated and lost the certain U. S. stamp at catalogue. Similar experiences are common and who can blame the dealer? The collectors by their competition for prime quality U. S. make the high prices; and at that the dealers' stocks of first-water gems of U. S. are inconsiderable and I believe that prices on this kind of stamps will advance further." We have always maintained that the dealers have not been responsible for the climbing prices of U. S. stamps, as they could have no object in "inflating" the quotations on stamps of which they possessed relatively few and which they could restock only by paying correspondingly high prices.

Printed.—Some printed cancellations used on soldiers' letters of the early civil war period have come to us, which we do not recall as having seen before. The letters "G. B. D." and month and day in black are die impressed in cancellation form on "paid" letters and on the three cent, 1861, on other of the soldier letters. From extraneous indications, we think that G. B. D. possibly may stand for General Bragg's Division, but this is hazarding a guess.

Again.—Repeating the example of a reporter on one of the dailies, we asked five adult collectors selected at random, none of whom was known to be a member of a philatelic society or reader of the stamp press, the question, "Why do you collect stamps?" and concisely, the answers substantially were as follows: 1.—"I have always collected something but I take to stamps best as they do not require much room and are easy to handle." 2.—"I have collected stamps on or off for about forty years. I just collect naturally." 3.—"It's better to collect stamps than to blow in my coin on something that does no good. I can always cash in on my stamps when I get hard up." 4.—"I find a fascination about stamps and the old ones are mighty good property or a good investment, I'll inform the universe." 5.—"Because the stamps of all the countries reflect the life of the world and I do not feel a total stranger to any of the countries whose stamps I have." The answer that we have given last is one of the best off-hand observations that we have ever heard and it could be elaborated upon to good effect.

Contrast.—From Mr. R. P. Brook, editor of the Maryland Journal, we have received an envelope containing exhibits No. 1 and No. 2 in a case that shows an American dealer to a disadvantage so far as his business methods are concerned, in comparison with a French dealer. The Parisian dealer sent $3's worth of stamps registered in an envelope of good heavy paper and securely sealed, while the American dealer forwarded $27's worth of stamps in a cheap, manila envelope, postpaid with two of the 2 cent stamps barely adhering to the envelope, which was with flap unsealed. Moreover, the stamps used by the sender as a return were almost off; and the whole thing eloquent of haste and carelessness. Brook says: "This arrived just as I see it, crumpled and open with stamps inside creased and fingered as if they had been much looked at in transit. For a wonder they were there." What profiteth it a dealer he spend much money for advertising only to alienate the regard of the customer attracted by the publicity of the shod methods of handling correspondence? Too, the chances for misunderstanding are grave indeed when ordinary precautions are not taken to prevent loss in the mails; and controversies have had their inception through carelessness in this important particular.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all
the news from the various philatelic centers.
Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for
services rendered.

—The Pacific Philatelic Society of San Francisco, Cal., held a prize competition on Wednesday, May 19. The exhibit consisted of stamps of Continental Europe and prizes were awarded as follows:—M. C. Dillingham, "Old German and Italian States," first prize;
H. C. Marcus, "Denmark," second prize;
H. Ruellan, "France," third prize. The judges were H. W. Doscher, Ross O'Shaughnessy and Joseph Birkenfeld.
Another competition will be held June 16.

—Our subscribers will be pleased to know that Mr. Poole has just completed a serial on "Nova Scotia" and is putting the finishing touches of a history of the stamps of Crete. These will probably be followed by a serial on Norway.

—On June 23 the Franklin Stamp Co.
will sell the collection of Dr. Alfred
P. Lee of Philadelphia, and the firm takes great pleasure in offering this information to the buying public. The collection is a superb one.

—L. F. Y.—We do not know where you can procure the Color Dictionary by B. W. Warhurst. If any dealer has a supply this office would be pleased to have the information.

—We always make it a practise to enclose a stamped and addressed envelope where we are writing for information and suggest this as a good plan for everybody to follow. Surely if a question is worth answering the postal expense may well be covered.

—It is reported from Berlin that forgeries of the Saare district stamps are now on the market. Erwin Strasser writes concerning these forgeries:—
"The printing ink which has been used on these forgeries is soft and does not cover well. The S is much taller and thinner than on the originals and can be easily distinguished." Mr. Strasser also informs us that in the Schleswig-Holstein plebiscite the same date of cancellation was used for three days in succession.

—Through the kindness of Fred. J.
Melville we have received a lengthy clipping from the London Daily Telegraph giving the particulars of the 21st anniversary celebration of the Junior Philatelic Society. The celebration came upon the 80th anniversary of the institution of the postage stamp, and also upon the 10th anniversary of King George's accession to the throne. The King sent a warm letter of congratula-tion from Buckingham Palace. Among the guests who were present were Viscount Burnham, Sir Henry Norman,
M. P., Sir Martin Conway, M. P., Sir
Anthony Hope-Hawkins and Mr. Harry Furniss. From the newspaper report
we should imagine that the occasion was a most illustrious one.

—Guest's new issue service heretofore confined to British Colonials only has added other foreign. On account of the varying exchange rates this section of the service will be conducted as an approval business, issues being sent out at small percentage over face.
Mr. Guest is now located at Wichita Falls, Texas.

—The latest in airmail novelties is a cover postmarked in three lines "First
L. A.—S. F." "Aerial Mail," "Avion
5-27-20". A specimen of the cover shows the 16c airmail stamp used on a special delivery letter and it also has the distinctive Los Angeles cancellation

"Help Prevent Forest Fires". We are indebted to Mr. Roessler for this information.

—The collectors of Poughkeepsie, N.
Y., have organized the Triangle Philatelic Club. Those interested please communicate with M. Schwartz, 32 N.
Hamilton St., Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

—Clippings are acknowledged with thanks from C. M. Breder, Fredk. S.
Wist, Maitland Milliken, W. T. Mc-Kay, Coleport Stamp Club, C. F. Richards, J. M. Wilson, V. P. Hofmann.

—Twenty-seven students of the West Philadelphia High School for Boys have organized the West Philotelean Society. Every member is an active collector. The officers elected are:— Fahy, President; Trimble, Vice-President; Starke, Secretary; Kratz, Treasurer; and King, Sales Manager. A stamp exhibition was held June 4. The meetings will be held every Friday, immediately after the school session.

—H. E. Day has resigned as Sec'y
of the M. P. A. H. R. Arnold, 508 Denersey P'kway, Chicago, has been appointed his successor.

THE RUPEE.

By J. E. GUEST.

Of all foreign coinage none has given me more trouble in the importation of British Colonials than the rupee. Many collectors seem to have overlooked the fact that the rupee will never again
equal 33c (its pre-war standard) and it occurs to me that perhaps a little information regarding its exact value might be of general interest if absorbed by your readers.

The rupee prior to the war was one fifteenth of a pound sterling, or about 33c. On account of the price of silver the rupee rose steadily and at one time
was worth nearly three shillings.

To meet this contingency the British Government decreed that hereafter
there should be 8½ rupees to a pound, which brought the rupee up to about 54c. Also on account of discounting of drafts sent in payment of stamps the rupee costs in many cases over 60c.

According to Stamp Collecting the rupee of East Africa Protectorate has been changed to the florin, which should in normal times have a par value of about 48c, or two shillings.

These eastern post offices, like the British West Indies, will not accept Sterling drafts at par, but always deduct
a few shillings for exchange, and thus the dealer's stamps cost him just about the same as when every coinage was on a pre-war par basis.

WATCH YOUR STEPS.

If you have any varieties of foreign stamps, new or otherwise, that you feel are deserving of mention in the WEEKLY, please forward the same to Mr. Smith, whose address may be found in the heading to our Chronicle.

If it be United States stamps please note that all such should be sent to Mr.
Ward, whose address is also to be found in the Chronicle heading.

It will be appreciated by Mr. Severn and Mr. Wylie both if subscribers will note the above disposition of correspondence. It is absolutely impossible for them to keep track of these matters with the many details of WEEKLY work that come in regular order.

of exorbitant prices on all kinds of goods everywhere there is a certain satisfaction in realizing that I have done and am doing my little bit to keep prices on the stamps I handle down to a reasonable basis.

New goods bought on the present price level must be charged for accordingly but I have not marked up the prices on goods bought at lower levels. I am satisfied to make the normal regular profit to which every fairly conducted business is entitled.

UNITED STATES.—I wish to thank Messrs. H. W. Porter, C. H. McBride and John E. Lord for news regarding the placing on sale of the latest in United States stamps. I mentioned sometime back that plates of four hundred subjects of the 1c and 2c stamps, for use on the rotary presses had been made and that when the new perforating machine arrived these stamps would be turned out by the Bureau. They have at last appeared, that is the 1c value, in both Washington and Chicago, and all seen are from plates Nos. 10151 and 10152. Those in Washington were placed on sale on May 26th.

These stamps are perforated 10x11, that is directly the opposite from the former compounds, which are 11x10. They are issued in post office sheets of one hundred with margins on all four sides so that we will not have the straight edges to contend with. The plate number appears on the outer side only, beside the sixth stamp, the "outer" side being on the right or left, depending upon the pane's location in the roll. These are turned out just the same as the coils in continuous rolls. The vertical 11 perforation is applied by the regular perforating wheels, while the horizontal 10 perforation is not of the wheel type but is of the guillotine type, the latter not running to the end of the sheet but stopping at one hole beyond the last stamp. This is a new departure in perforating United States stamps, for I do not recall, in late years, similar methods, with the exception of the experimental sheets of the 1c surface print on the Rossback machine. Those so far seen have been very poorly centered.

1920 (May 26) Rotary Print, Unwatermarked.

1c green, perforated 10x11.

Mr. G. G. Ryder has also shown me something odd in the way of a new variety. He has located in one of the New England Post Offices a vertical pair of the 50c violet, unwatermarked, perforated 11, imperforate between. This must not be confused with those varieties with blind perforations, for in this case not a single perforation or the slightest trace of a perforation shows. But one pair was located and consequently I am unable to state if the balance of the row was in the same condition.

1920, Unwatermarked, Perforated 11.
50c violet, vertical pair, imperf. between.

Regarding the 2c on 3c provisional envelopes, so many readers have expressed an interest in these and so many inquiries have been received regarding the types, dies, watermarks, etc., that I think a few words on the subject may not be amiss and will properly answer many questions now in the minds of those readers that do not have access to the published works on envelopes.

In the first place there are four dies of the 3c stamps which are now being overprinted—Dies A, E, F and H. Some write and ask where are the missing dies and if there are none why not call them A, B, C and D. We designate them as we do for they were made from the same dies as the 2c value bearing the same designation. The 2c dies were so named in the order in which they were located by the envelopes specialists and these letters were not assigned to them by the post office.

Die A has a large head, the "N" in "CENTS" is broad, the "E" in "POSTAGE" is close to the circle enclosing the figure "3" and the two numerals are upright.

Die E has a very small head, the "N" in "CENTS" is still broad, the "E" in "POSTAGE" is slightly spaced from the circle, the "TS" in "CENTS" are close to each other at the bottom and the right figure "3" slants slightly to the left.

Die F has a tall, large head but not so broad as Die "A", the "E" is some distance from the circle and the "N" in "CENTS" is narrow. The "TS" are widely spaced at the bottom and both of the figures in the circles slant slightly to the left.

Die H has a large, sharp head, a narrow "N" and the "E" is spaced from the circle. It can readily be told by the numerals "3", both of which slant to the right. This die comes on the high back envelopes only.

As for watermarks, there are two only in the case of these varieties; first, the monogram "U S" intertwined with "1915" horizontally across the top, and this is known as No. 19 and paper bearing this watermark was manufactured by Geo. R. Dickinson Paper Co. of Holyoke, Mass. The second type has a similar monogram but the date "1915" runs diagonally from the upper left to the lower right, through the "US". This is known as watermark 20 and the paper bearing this design was manufactured by the Aetna Paper Co. of Dayton, Ohio.

The knife designates the cut of the envelope and while there are too many to describe in this short article it may be well to mention the high back and the low back. All knives will fall into these two classifications. Low back envelopes have the side flaps cut V-shaped, with the right side flap overlapping the left. High backs have the side flaps cut high in back but the two side flaps do not meet.

As for sizes of envelopes, these are designations given to them by the Post Office and any reader interested in these may obtain a list giving all the sizes now made by applying to any post office.

Getting back to the provisionals, Mr. F. D. Collins sends us some new ones

Good Old Issues

U. S., B. N. A., EUROPE, S. I.

When you want a nice selection of early issues of any country try Cten has them. I do not handle the stamps for lack of time. Collectors have $25 or more to spend on early stamps, I want to get in to them, for I am sending out a fine line hard-to-get varieties.

If you are not too particular about condition, I have some real bargains in stamps, cat. from $5 to $75 ea.

Also bear in mind that I am interested for Den Curius, list 2c.

I wish to thank the following for notes of interest: Messrs. J. H. Houston, C. Grebasch, Paul P. Wentz, E. W. Murray, L. B. Coley, P. F. Robertson, Henry Freeman, Harry S. Cann and Malcolm H. Ganser.

AUSTRIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. has shown us the following values of the 1919 issue: 10h dull red, 15h bistre and 25h purple. The first value is the same type as Scott's A2, while the others are type A1. Also the 80h and 2k of a similar type to A2 but measuring 30x25 mm. The color of the 80h is rose, the 2k blue.

BAVARIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. has shown us the new set of Official stamps recently put in use. The values and colors are as follows, 5pf green, 10pf orange, 15pf red, 20pf violet, 30pf blue, 40pf brown and 1m dark brown. The first six values are all of one type, an oval of the color mentioned with "Dienstmarke" in a half circle, with "Bayern" in the balance of the oval. The usual lion is in the centre with the value directly below. The 1m is of a different type and is printed on the oblong shape of the stamp with the same inscriptions as above, only in a small curve.

BERMUDA.—The Bulletin Mensuel announces there will be issued shortly two stamps, viz.: 1d and 2½d, for the commemorating of the establishing of the parliament for Bermuda.

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA.—A new value of the current type has appeared. It is the 30h dark violet. The Economist Stamp Co. submits a copy.

ESTHONIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. has shown us a copy of a new 35p stamp. At the top to the right are the words "Eesti Post", while the bottom has "35" in large figures with "Penni" in smaller type. Just below the words at the top is a outline view of a city. The balance of the stamp is made of scrolls and wavy lines. The color is red on very thin paper and imperforate.

GERMANY.—We are indebted to the Economist Stamp Co. for sending to us for chronicle the new 1.25, 1.50 and 2.50m stamps of this country. The first two values are the same type as the current 1m stamp and are green and brown respectively. The 2.50m is of the 2m type and is red lilac in color.

JUGO-SLAVIA.—Mr. E. L. Guilford writes:—"Since writing you the letter which appears in Stamp Collecting of April 17th, I have found yet another variety in the Jugo-Slavia stamps. It occurs in the Laibach 'chain-breaker' type, and I have only found it on a 5 heller pale green stamp. The printing of this stamp is perfectly normal in everything except that the chain fastened to the right wrist reaches the bottom of the stamp. None, however, of the other peculiarities noticed on the fifteenth stamp occurs on this one."

In consequence of a printers' strike at Laibach, new printings of the Postage Dues have had to be done at Vienna, and they differ sensibly from the home products; the Vienna printings are not so well executed, while the figures of value and the inscriptions are somewhat smaller.—Stamp Collecting.

KUBAN REPUBLIC.—We are indebted to Mr. E. H. Roberts, of Exmouth, for showing us the following provisionals, surcharged in black on the Arms stamps of Russia:—3r on 4k red, 10r on 4k red, LATVIA.—Two more values of the commemorative stamps have been printed and the Economist Stamp Co. submits them to us for chronicle. They are same type and are the 50k and 1r. The former is green and rose red, while the latter is green and bistre.

POLAND.—The Economist Stamp Co. has shown us the following values of the 1919 general issues surcharged "S. O. 1920": 5f, 10f, 15f, 25f and 50f, these being overprinted in two lines. Also the 1k, 1k 50, 2k, 2k 50 and 5k surcharged in the same type but one line. All printing is in black.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

The Stamp Collectors' Annual for 1920 has just been received. It is published from the office of Stamp Collecting, 89 Farringdon St., London, and edited by Douglas B. Armstrong, with Percy C. Bishop as associate editor. Its price is 60c. It gives one such information as would naturally be found in a year book of this character and is an excellent production. Among other things we note an index of philatelic literature from 1914 to 1919. There is also a philatelic press guide and a list of the stamp societies of the English speaking world. Special articles round out a book that will prove valuable for reference purposes.

A MINOR VARIETY IN THE 2c STAMP.

By M. H. GANSER.

During the course of some philatelic correspondence with Montgomery Evans, 2d, of Yale University, he stated, "I thought I would call your attention to a U. S. minor variety. Look at the 2's on No. 93 of any plate used in the surface process and compare with the normal ones. The left 2 looks like one with secret marks." Naturally this was interesting, being the first intimation of the kind I had received, and without confirmation of the original statement I presume it originated among a coterie of active philatelists at Yale. I at once started in search for "No. 93 of any plate," but so far have not caught up with the "secret mark." At the offices I called at in Philadelphia and vicinity I could not locate this pane, so have not yet been able to verify the mark. Yet, pursuing the hunt, I did discover in a part of an upper left hand pane of surface two's in my possession that the second stamp in the fourth row showed a quite distinctive marking of the left hand "2". This consisted of the tail of the two to a width of one millimetre being cut away and showing clear white to the heavy base line of the stamp. Above the tail the white space ran a minute space to a point, giving the piece of white through the tail something of an irregular triangulated appearance. Unfortunately I do not know from what plate this pane came, as I originally bought it along with others to obtain the plate numbers and which I had removed before I discovered the marked two. I am inclined to think, on a guess, that it came from plate No. 10821, for the reason that I am also gathering shades of the two-cent surface issue and the plate number block approximates that of the block containing the marking in question. I would, therefore, suggest to anyone interested in the subject to look up the upper left hand pane of plate 10820, the second stamp in the fourth row, or considering the entire sheet of four panes, counting all the way across the two top panes to 20, this would then be No. 62 by that system of numeration.

Following up this study, in company with Mr. Eugene Klein, I went over with him about 20 upper left hand panes of plate No. 10820 and we discovered markings as follows:

3rd row, 4th stamp, break in right "2" and dash of color between "N" and "T" of cents.

4th row, 6th stamp, dot of color in "S" of cents.

5th row, 5th stamp, wedge in "C" at bottom frame.

7th row, 7th stamp, dot of color in "P" of postage.

9th row, 9th stamp, dot of color in "N" of cents.

For a while it began to look as though these markings were going to run in a regular order diagonally from stamp 1, row 1, to stamp 10, row 10. Even yet we are not certain that it will not work out this way, but at the time of writing this I have not had time to examine it more minutely.

The thought has occurred to me in this connection that owing to the Bureau of Engraving and Printing adopting the off-set process for the two-cent stamps they realized the possibility of the counterfeiting of the stamps by this much simpler process of production and are putting in secret marks to check up. Of course so far this is merely conjecture, but it at least offers an interesting phase of study of the off-set stamps, inasmuch as there is a rumor that the department is likely to continue the plan indefinitely. It must be admitted that the results with the two's are much better than those with the one's and three's.

Bavarian picture stamps have been overprinted "Deutsches Reich." Up to date I have all the lower values, 5pf to 1m, and so the Bavarian commercial spirit seems to survive the change in administration. The service stamps will most likely follow, and I should not wonder if some value of the arms type. Most likely Wurtemberg will not want to stay behind. It is claimed that the issue of its farewell series is only a very limited output and dealers have a hard time to fill orders.

Austria, after changing right along the colors of the last set starts now changing the paper. The 10 and 15h have already appeared on so-called pasteboard paper and it seems as though the whole set shall be issued on colored paper in the near future. A new value, 20kr, will be added.

Besides, plebiscite stamps are pouring in by the wholesale from North and East Old Germany. Wherever a couple of country towns are going to be swapped the sale of the current stamps is prohibited and a fancy set up to the 10 marks value is substituted.

Old maid Cleo will have quite a nice time to register all these facts.

PRECANCEL NOTES.

O. R. Bertram and Mr. Allen S. Davenport have called my attention to a new type from Boston, Mass. The new type is very similar to the old one except the letters are lighter and the length of the words are shorter. The bars are spaced slightly wider. I want to say that I surely overlooked this new plate, for on referring to my stock, find both types mixed together. I have the 2c, 5c, 7c, 8c, and 10c normal; 1c, 2c, 4c, 5c, 6c, 7c, 10c, 11c, 12c, 20c and 50c inverted. Mr. Davenport has the 1c and 6c normal; the 30c inverted.

S. J. Jones reports the 13c from San Francisco.

All the New York have been reported from 1c to $1.00 both normal and inverted.

J. H. D. Reynolds reports that Pittsburgh, Pa., has precancelled the 3c victory, reading down.

W. H. Field sends me a 3c victory from Huntington, W. Va., reading up. Many thanks. Mr. Field has the 3c double normal and the 30c double normal from New York City in the three line type.

Messrs. Cone and Harrington both report the 6c airplane from Hartford, Conn.

Have had several more of the new set from Philadelphia reported and will give list next issue. Also send me all values of the new Cleveland type you have.

Chas. Stebbins sends me two new ones from New York State. (Bible School-Park, N. Y.) in three lines between thin lines on the 1c normal, double reading down. (JOHNSON CITY-NEW YORK) in two lines, U-14 type—the one cent normal. The Bible School Park precancels were used on circulars sent out in the $100,000 drive for the school. Bible School Park is a regular postoffice.

Mr. Cone reports all values up to and including the dollar value from Hartford, Conn. He has the 3c double. He

SIX "DON'T'S" FOR ADVERTISERS.

Don't build up the catalog value of a packet with such trash as punched Philippines stamps or Ecuador revenues. A satisfied customer is better than a single sale.

Don't offer any premiums for a certain number of "first" replies to your advertisements. There is an element of chance there that the postal authorities dislike. If the premium goes to every patron, "chance" disappears.

Don't reflect in any way upon the advertising of your competitor. Every tub should stand upon its own bottom, and your prices will speak for themselves. Buyers are cautious of dealers who seek to rise by riding rough shod over their neighbors.

Don't advertise a stamp with fiscal cancellation and quote catalog price for a postally used copy. Let alone the moral aspect, from a business standpoint, honesty is the best policy.

Don't advertise a stamp at the catalog quotation when the revised prices mark it down to a fraction of the original amount.

Don't wait until Thursday to mail ad copy. Have it in our office Thursdays. These "don'ts" MUST be heeded.

OIL ISSUES OF MISSOURI.

By E. R. VANDERHOOF.

Emissions of modern state revenues have been almost legion. Fully one-third of the states have issued revenue stamps in some form or other during the past decade. The scope of duty, rate of tax, form of stamp and items assessed are varied. We find tax paid, inspection, documentary—in form of stickers, tags, stamps and certificates in every degree of size, splendor and squalor imaginable. To one who has strictly adhered to grand old classics, either postage or revenues, the multi-formed and multiple varieties of the last state fiscal issues may prove a source of some entertainment and wonderment.

There seems to have been a marked decadence in recent years in the collecting of even the old issues of California, Alabama, Louisiana, Nevada and Oregon. No doubt this is accounted for in major part by the former dearth of new issues which had not been added as fuel to the fire of enthusiasm. New issues will create sensations and interest, simultaneously reviving the dying flame of an otherwise abandoned pursuit. If this be true, the pioneer classification and listing of the happenings in state stampdom of the past dozen or more years should inaugurate a veritable revival. We feel that a fitting introduction to the early mention of new stamps in a special line is justly deserving of a passing mention of competitive issues. Hence we hark back to 1910 when the first serious attempt at the classification of the New York Tax stamps fell from the pen of the present writer. Since then the Empire state has flourished philatelically. The tax issues have forged on apace. The Investment and Secured Debt stamps have been added. Massachusetts and Pennsylvania have each issued stamps of Transfer Tax character, while the states issuing fiscals for the bookkeeping of funds range from apples to fertilizer, stocks to horse feed, liniment to gasoline.

We have chosen the Missouri Oil issues for the reason that some pioneer must blaze the trail. In addition it will be seen that these stamps require considerable more attention to detail and arrangement than the issues of most other sections. They do not, in fact, in themselves form any automatic-check-list affair.

We shall try and append as complete a check list, in order of emission, as the materials at our command will permit. We have endeavored to group the various sub varieties in such manner as to render the list one of ready reference and of accurate, valuable purport. For the system of arrangement entire credit is due to Mr. J. D. Bartlett. My list was the rough Ashlar, his the polished stone. Mr. Bartlett, whose shoulders must be as broad as his mind, to carry the bulk of the burden, plays the part of Pathfinder. I also thank W. D. Grout for information and loan of subjects.

In general make-up the stamps are uniform in style and design, with but minor differences in design to permit of grouping into the two main divisions of Coal Oil and Gasoline, and for the Certificate stamp under both main divisions. The stamps measure 100x50. The left third bears a shield with inscription of commodity, amount, and the word "stamp" or "certificate" as may be required. This shield supports the state arms in a circle. The balance of the stamp contains legendary matter, control numbers and the printed signatures of the state treasurer and of the inspector. The certificates carry the name of the treasurer alone. The treasurer's signature reads from bottom to top, while the signature of the inspector reads normally—lower—right. The whole is enclosed by a tasty border. The certificates are without value. The stamps come in denominations of 1, 5, 10, 25, 50 and 100 barrels with an unexpressed face value of 12 cents per barrel. The whole series of issues is under the "Act of June 1, 1909", which inscription appears on each stamp, first line—top. Stamps are lithographed. The certificates are on colors on white paper. The inspection stamps in black on colored paper.

There are three kinds of separation. The slot perf 7 or hyphen hole predominates. Others come rouletted 4. The last form of separation is the perforation. Printers' imprints are missing from all except where mentioned in the text of the list. Provisional surcharges are rampant throughout. They are all either rubber stamp surcharges or manuscript. The latter are mentioned under the proper group but not regularly listed. There is a distinct difference between the style of signature as indexed by the rubber stamp and the printer. Signatures of any individual are uniform either as printed or as surcharged with the exception of Omar D. Gray, whose printed signature takes the multiple form of vertical and slanting script.

The paper upon which these stamps are imprinted contains a watermark of the manufacturer in each sheet of 10 or 12 stamps. The watermark will show in only part of the stamps per sheet and only part of the watermark per stamp. We note the following watermarks:

1. AMERICAN BANK BOND in double lined letters. Used on the stamps of Rush C. Lake.
2. ORIENTAL BOND in double lined letters. Used on the stamps of W. A. Evans and Jno. A. Knott.
3. AEOLIAN BOND in single line letters with Roman Æ. Used on stamps of Jno. A. Knott and Omar D. Gray.
4. ENDURANCE BOND in double lined letters. Used on the stamps of Omar D. Gray.
5. INDUSTRIAL BOND in double lined letters with large four spoked wheel design. Used on stamps of Omar D. Gray.

I have been privileged to examine a few of these stamps in sheets. I observe that the principal arrangement is 10 stamps per sheet, 2 horizontal by 5 vertical subjects. The only other noted arrangement is 12 stamps per sheet, three horizontal by 4 vertical. Thus it will be seen that few stamps indeed come without straight edges.

The classification adopted is in accord with the rotation of office of the two officials whose signatures are affixed to the stamps. A recapitulation of these officials in the order of their tenures may be well. They are as follows:—

Treasurer, a. James Cowgill.
b. E. P. Deal.
c. G. H. Middelkamp.
Inspector, a. Rush C. Lake.
b. W. A. Evans.
c. Jno. A. Knott.
d. Omar D. Gray.

Control numbers are all in carmine or vermilion and shades. Different printings bring out various sizes and styles of control numbers. These have been noted so far as possible. The series letters are in black on the inspection stamps with I believe one exception, where it is printed in carmine with the control number. The series letter of the certificates of course is the color of the stamp. In many cases there is no series letter. Usually the type of series letter is the same per stamp, although a few striking cases of difference is noted and listed. Mention is made of cases where the series letter has been worked in on the plate thus forming ten varieties per sheet, making plating permissible.

Following is a cut of the inspection stamps and one of the certificate. The only changes in the many varieties from the cuts is the interchange of the words "Coal Oil" and "Gasolene" and the denomination.

DICTIONARY ADDENDA.

By THE MANAGING EDITOR.

H. P.—These letters are represented by characters found on certain Russian adhesives used in Armenia. They stand for "Hagagan Post", meaning Armenian Post.

HUKUMA SORIA ARABIA.—These words found on certain Turkish stamps were surcharged by the officials of the new Arab state and translated mean "Government of Syria and Arabia".

KERMANSIAH.—A town in Ardilan district in Persia where in 1917 certain hand-stamped provisionals were issued. They are two in number, a limited supply of each having been issued to meet war exigencies.

KIONGA.—A part of German East Africa occupied by the Portuguese Colonial Forces during the World War. In 1916 stamps of Lourenzo Marques were surcharged REPUBLICA KIONGA with new value.

Kolo.—A Polish city where in 1918 upon the declaration of Polish independence German stamps of the "Gen. Gouv. Warschau" type were surcharged by the Polish authorities with a conventional design of apparently two sprouting bulbs.

KRAN.—A monetary unit of Persia expressed on many of the high value stamps of that country. It is of silver and its normal value is about 16c. It is one-tenth of a toman.

LA CONCEPCION.—An inscription found on a stamp issued by Grenada in 1898. It is the name of the flagship of Columbus.

LANGEMARCK.—Found on one of the values of "Trail of the Caribou" set, and has reference to the World War engagement in which Newfoundland forces took part. See "Trail of the Caribou".

LAR.—The capital city of the province of Laristan, Persia, whose Kaluntur without authority in 1919 issued a square stamp made from a brass die. It is bogus.

LENCZYCA.—A Polish city where in 1918 upon the declaration of Polish independence German stamps of the "Gen. Gouv. Warschau" type were overprinted by the Polish authorities with the inscription "Polska Poczta Leczycza" for "Polish Post Lenczyca".

LIBAU.—A seaport town in the province of Courland, Russia. In 1919 when occupied by German forces, German stamps issued in 1906-1917 were overprinted "Libau" for use there.

LUBLIN.—A city in Austria where in 1918-19 Austrian stamps were overprinted by the Polish authorities as a result of the state of affairs following the conclusion of the World War and the establishing of new territorial boundaries.

MARIENWERDER.—A province of West Prussia, Germany, the name of which appears upon a special set of stamps issued in 1920 in connection with a plebiscite to determine whether the province should remain with Germany or become a part of Poland.

MONCHY.—See Langemarck.

MYSLINICE.—A city in Austria where in 1919, during the transitional period following the World War, certain Austrian postage stamps were overprinted "Polska Poczta" by the Polish authorities.

ORDER OF PHILATELIC MERIT.—This is the name of a philatelic organization formed in London, Eng., in July, 1919. Its purpose is to confer through a jury an honor called the "Order of Philatelic Merit" upon those who have performed "devoted and distinguished work for the advancement of philately". It covers the world.

O. S. G. R. I.—An overprint on official stamps of New Britain. It means "Official Service George Rex Imperator," the surcharge being applied to what were previously German colonial stamps of German New Guinea.

PALESTINE.—A tract of territory of some 11,000 square miles, called the Holy Land, at the eastern end of the Mediterranean. During the World War in 1918, stamps were issued under the British Occupation bearing the letters E. E. F. for "Egypt Expeditionary Force".

PESO.—A gold or silver coin used as a unit of value in various countries, including Mexico, Nicaragua, Paraguay, Uruguay, Argentine Republic, Chile and Honduras. Its value is as varied as the field it covers and the situation is more complicated by the fluctuations in the market prices on silver.

POCCIR.—This word with the letter R reversed is found on certain Russian stamps issued by the Bolsheviks. It means Russia.

POPULI VOLUNTAS.—"Will of the People", part of the inscription found on stamps issued in connection with a plebiscite in 1920 in Marienwerder, West Prussia.

POSNANIA.—The native name for Posen, a province in Polish Prussia. In 1919, due to the Polish occupation of this territory, German stamps were surcharged "Poczta Polska" with new values for use there.

PREKOMURJE.—(Transmura).—A surcharge on certain Hungarian stamps used by the Jugo-Slavs during the occupancy of a district on the left bank of the Mur River in the World War.

PRZEMYSL.—A city in Galicia, Austria, where in 1919 in the transition period following the World War, stamps of Austria were overprinted "Poczta Polska" by the Polish authorities.

RECIBOS.—Equivalent to "Receipts" and found on the fiscal stamps of Spain, etc.

R. H. M.—These letters form a pen cancellation used on the 5c 1845 New York postmaster stamp. They are the initials of Robert H. Morris, at that time postmaster of New York City.

RICHMOND, TEX.—Confederate postmaster provisionals of 5c and 10c values which performed postal service at the time of the Civil War:—

RUPEE.—The unit of value in British India. It is of silver and in normal times is worth about 32c in U. S. money. Its value necessarily varies with the price of silver.

R. W. H. E.—These letters are at the bottom of the U. S. 1847 5c and 10c in very small type. They represent the firm of Rawdon, Wright, Hatch and Edson of N. Y. which engraved and printed the stamps. On

POSTAGE STAMPS FOR REMITTANCES.

After July 1 we must decline to accept remittances in unused postage stamps, where the amount sent in is over 50c. If a remittance of 50c or under is sent us we have no hesitation as a matter of accommodation in accepting unused U. S. stamps. On all other remittances a check, money-order or currency should be used.

In the past we have accepted postage stamps from our advertisers at a discount of 5%, but we desire to transfer this business to a regular stamp broker. Nearly every large city has some dealer who makes a business of cashing stamps, like Mr. Cobe of the Studio Bldg., Boston, and Mr. Mozian in N. Y., whose advertising is found in the WEEKLY. We shall be very glad to make an announcement in the WEEKLY of the stamp brokers in various parts of the country who desire business of this character.

We feel that our advertisers will be justified in making a similar requirement upon the part of their patrons. It seems unbusiness-like for any person to bunch up a lot of postage stamps of various denominations, some without gum and some with perforated initials, with a few Canada thrown in to lend spice to the remittance. True, it takes a moment or two to take out a money-order, but the time will be well spent and the courtesy greatly appreciated by the one to whom the order is sent.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Off-Watch—National republican conventions have their uses; and they might even qualify as the great philatelic alleviator, since the gathering of the clans at Chicago is directly responsible for the absence of the verbal potage that is served here week in and week out under normal conditions. The conduct of a stamp paper is a duty that is not lightly regarded but it is subordinate to running the nation. The appearance of our managing editor, Willard O. Wylie, on the scene as an assistant sergeant-at-arms of the convention caused the metamorphosis of the WEEKLY editors from philatelists to politicians; and their headquarters for the week have been the convention hall. The fate of the nation may not depend on the sustaining force of their presence there but at any rate they are entering into the occasion with great zest. Mr. Wylie's demands for attention, not to mention those of other philatelic pilgrims, are such as to make it impossible for us to buckle down to ordinary tasks; and hence this brevity. Our readers have only a temporary respite, however, as next week we shall descend upon them in the customary wet blanket style, plus.

THE "FRANKLIN" MATCH STAMP.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

Although the 156th section of the Excise law declared that the private design of one proprietor "shall not be duplicated to any other person", it would appear that this restriction in the use of private dies was intended chiefly as a protection similar to that afforded by a trademark to each proprietor who went to the expense of having a private die, to prevent a competitor from "pirating" a design which had become established by the original owner. Obviously, therefore, if two or more proprietors agreed by mutual consent to the use of a similar, or even of the same design, the intent of the law would not be violated.

Herein lies the explanation for the peculiar and quite unique position held by the match stamp bearing Franklin's portrait, which for many years was used contemporaneously by three manufacturers in Philadelphia. On July 21, 1864, E. A. Rollins, Deputy Commissioner of Internal Revenue, wrote to Butler & Carpenter, "In reply to the question whether several persons engaged in the same manufacture shall be allowed to use a private die in common, I would say that I see no objection to such a course. It amounts, in fact, to a limited partnership for a specific purpose and is a matter with which the government has nothing to do. Nor is it deemed necessary that each person shall be confined to the use of stamps of a particular color, this being left to the choice of the purchaser."

Continuing, the Boston Book states, "Upon receipt of the above the engraving of the stamp was proceeded with, but, early in August next the Commissioner, Mr. J. R. Lewis, addressed a letter to Butler & Carpenter calling their attention to the fact that the die seemed to be intended for the joint use of three parties, and that such procedure could not be allowed. In reply Butler & Carpenter stated the facts in the case and quoted Mr. Rollins' letter as their authority for having engraved the stamp. This elicited the following letter from Mr. Lewis, dated Aug. 18, 1864:

"So far as permission has been given, under the letter of the Deputy Commissioner of the 21st ult. for different persons to use a private plate in common, that permission will not be withdrawn; but it is deemed, upon consideration, that this principle would open too wide a door for the use of private designs, and in no case in future will a similar privilege be granted. Every manufacturer or proprietor must have a separate and distinct design."

Subsequently the question came up again, in 1865, and still again in 1872 and the original decision of Deputy Commissioner Rollins was adhered to insofar as Messrs. Daily, Zaiss, and Smith—who had bought out Schick—were concerned, but similar permission for joint use of any die was not given to any other persons or firms using any private die stamps. In 1872 Acting Commissioner B. J. Sweet wrote regarding the "Franklin" die, "I have to request you to inform the gentlemen using stamps from such die that it will be necessary for them to cause their names to be placed upon it in such manner that they will appear on each stamp printed therefrom. * I will likewise thank you to observe and inform me, in case it should escape the notice of this office at the proper time, that no die which may hereafter be transferred from one proprietor to another shall be used by the party to whom it is transferred until after a suitable alteration of the die has been made by change of name or initials."

Neither of the two requirements specified by Commissioner Sweet was complied with during the remaining life of the Butler & Carpenter contract. There was no alteration in the "Franklin" die until November, 1875, and there were several transfers of private dies between 1872 and 1875 without corresponding changes in the names of the proprietors being placed on them.

PAYMENT OF RETURN POSTAGE.

It may seem to be a trifle, but in the course of a day's mail it means much to those who are engaged in a mail-order business. We speak not only for ourselves, but on general principles, believing that unintentionally many correspondents are neglecting what should be an ordinary courtesy. When writing, seeking information, which calls for a reply by mail, it is only right to expect that a stamped and addressed envelope should be enclosed. We do this in our own correspondence and feel that it is in accord with the ethics of business.

UNITED STATES 12c 1857-60.

By ELLIOTT PERRY.

QUANTITIES ISSUED.

The records regarding the quantities of the 12c stamps issued are incomplete but by taking the figures given by Luff and estimating the amounts used in other years from the quantities known to have been issued, we may come within perhaps a million of the correct total. In the tables given here the quantities for the years that are estimated are marked with an asterisk. In every case the year was not the calendar year but was the fiscal year which ended June 30th.

1852	237,042 Issued
1853	146,655 “
1854	225,103* “
1855	260,000* “

Total 868,800 Issued.

The number issued during the four years, 1851 to 1855, could not possibly have exceeded 868,800 because that was at least as great as the total amount received from the printers during that time. During the years stated the deliveries from the printers were as follows:—

1851	200,000
1852	480,000
1853	None
1854	60,000
1855	None
1855	120,800 (July 6)

Total 868,800 to July 6, 1855

The invoice of July 6, 1855, may have included the 12c stamps delivered during the year ending June 30, 1855, because it was the first invoice that included 10c stamps and the latter denomination is understood to have been issued in the previous May, but there were large quantities of 1c and 3c stamps delivered during the year ending June 30, 1855, and invoiced not later than that date, and further large quantities of those two low values were included on the invoice of July 6, so that possibly the 120,800 twelve cent stamps on the invoice of July 6th were not delivered until after June 30, in which case the total of 12c stamps issued up to June 30, 1855, could not have exceeded 748,000.

The figures for the issue during the years after 1855 may be estimated as follows:—

1856	600,000*
1857	1,000,000*
1858	1,200,000*
1859	1,429,700
1860	1,653,500
1861	1,053,900

Total	6,937,100
Before '56	868,800

Grand total 7,805,900

Supposing the stamps issued up to June 30, 1857 to have been all imperforates and those issued after that date to have been all perforated we would have:—

Imperforates	2,468,800
Perforates	5,337,100

These quantities agree fairly well with the relative scarcity of the stamps and if much in error, should be corrected by reducing the number of imperforates and increasing the number of perforates. The reader will note there were many more stamps issued after 1855 than before 1856, which was also true to about the same degree of the 1c and 3c values. The reason for the great increase after 1855 was that prepayment by stamps was made obligatory commencing January 1, 1856. The 12c stamp would be the value least affected by this order because the order was not effective on all foreign postage and as the 12c was the highest denomination and was the stamp most likely to be used on foreign mail because of the high foreign postage rates at that time, its use might not have increased so much as that of lower denominations. The quantities known to have been issued in 1859, 1860 and 1861, however, indicate that after 1855 much more of the foreign mail was prepaid by stamps than had been the case before that date.

For the nine years, from June, 1851, until June, 1860, the 12c stamp was the highest denomination issued by the U. S. post office and for four of those years—1851 to 1855—it was the only stamp of higher face value than 3c. Practically all the foreign mail originating in the United States from June, 1851, for the succeeding four years if prepaid by stamps was carried by the 12c and a large proportion of the foreign mail from 1855 to 1861 also bore this denomination, as the single rate to England and other parts of Great Britain was 24c—the equivalent of one shilling—and until June, 1860, there was no 24c U. S. stamp.

For this reason the 12c is frequently found used in pairs, usually horizontal, and sometimes in strips and blocks. Imperforate pairs do not seem to be very much scarcer than perforated pairs and are commoner than imperforate pairs of the 10c. Perforated pairs from plate No. 3 are less frequently seen than pairs from an earlier plate simply because the earlier plate had the field to itself, while stamps from the third plate were used in competition with the 24c stamp, and other high postage foreign mail on much of which the postage was paid by the 12c stamp before 1860 was frequently prepaid by the 30c and 90c stamps after plate No. 3 came into use.

REPRINTS.

The original stamps of the 1857-60 series were made by the Toppan, Carpenter firm in Philadelphia. The reprints were made by the Continental Bank Note Co. in New York from a new plate bearing 100 subjects and without imprint or plate number. The reprints are regularly spaced. The spacing between the stamps in the vertical rows is wider than on any of the original plates and the horizontal spacing is about as wide as the widest horizontal spacing on the original plate No. 3. This improved spacing permitted the reprints to be perforated with the gauge in use in 1875—12 holes in two millimeters—with better chance that the design of the stamps would not be injured. As the perforation on the original stamps always measures about 15, it is very easy to identify the reprints. The latter are also greenish in shade.

The reprint plate was rocked in from a single relief transfer and all the stamps on it were exactly alike. None of them are exactly like any of the original stamps and it is believed the plate could not have been made directly from any transfer used for any of the original plates. In the writer's opinion the 12c reprint plate must have been made in the same manner as was the 10c reprint plate; that is, by making a new die from an old transfer; touching up the new die; and making the plate from a new transfer from this new die. The common cardboard proofs are believed to have been printed from the reprint plate and on all of these proofs the outer frame lines fail to join at the upper and lower right corners. Rare U. S. = Fine Foreign = Unusual Offering

Here is a most UNUSUAL OPPORTUNITY! Right when every collector is clamoring for good old U. S. and the best class of Foreign, and the Dealer seeing the supply almost all but exhausted, and is almost distracted, wondering where the next good stock is to come from, comes this UNUSUAL OFFERING OF RARE Old U. S. and FOREIGN stamps! You are not so much concerned about the history of this deal as you are about the stamps and the prices, but I will say that a collector, a business man of means, deciding to specialize in a certain country, disposes of this fine collection, on which he has spent years of hard work, study and lots of money, through me, otherwise such an opportunity for you would simply be impossible. I am only enumerating some of the better items—have almost everything else between that is catalogued at a lower price. Of many items I have only one good copy of each, but of many I also have several. In regard to quality and condition—You will find no trash listed herewith—in fact I dote on fine stamps, the finer they are the better I like to sell them. This collector was very particular about condition and used great discrimination in getting together his collection—I know because I sold him stamps. There is nothing cheap about any item offered on this page, except the price—that is cheaper than it really need be—I could sell these stamps out in the regular course on approval and get better prices in every case, but I want to make new friends, clean up my stock in a hurry and test for myself just how quick a job I can make of it through the WEEKLY when the stock is just what you want and the prices are unquestionably right! I am not listing a single stamp herewith but what I consider a good, salable copy, so don't be afraid to order just because the price is cheap. Anything not up to your expectations or unsatisfactory for any reason is returnable for full cash refund. Every now and then you will see that I say "Fine"—these are so fine that I just can't help but say so—the others are also o. k. Unused stamps, unless indicated as o. g., may have some or none. Look at this array:

WAR.

Most any values you may want used or unused, at lowest prices according to condition.

Don't miss this opportunity to fill up those blank spaces in your collection of Departments, for I have almost everything just now, but they will go quickly at these prices and when they are gone, I don't know where the next are to come from. I might say I have never had such a fine and complete stock of these as I have right now, just when everybody is wanting good Old U. S., too.

DICTIONARY ADDENDA.

in 1907 and in 1913 a set appeared with "Protectorate" omitted.

S. P. A.—An abbreviation for a philatelic society known as the Sons of Philatelic America. While primarily a U. S. organization its membership is world-wide.

SPITZBERGEN.—A group of islands in the Arctic ocean 400 miles north of Norway. There is no native population, the employees of certain mining companies constituting the population. Deposits of coal have attracted American, British and Swedish capital. The islands belong to Norway. Some years ago a fake set of Spitzbergen "stamps" came into public condemnation, and the interest in them was shortlived.

STAMP BOURSE.—The name applied to a place where postage stamps are sold or exchanged by collectors. The Paris stamp bourse is a notable example and has acquired world-wide publicity from its unique open air merchandizing of postage stamps.

STAMPED PAPER.—A general name that is applicable to envelopes, newspaper bands, etc., that are impressed by a postal design, also to paper used for revenue purposes, bearing a revenue printing.

STATE REVENUES.—Issues of fiscal stamps which represent the tax imposed by state legislatures (Alabama, California, Louisiana, Oregon and Nevada, in particular) in addition to any government tax.

STIENBACK.—See Langemarck.

STOCK TRANSFER STAMPS.—Stamps first issued by the state of New York in 1905 to pay a tax levied by the New York legislature on stock transfers.

SULVA BAY.—See Langemarck.

TAILLE DOUCE.—Copper or steel-plate printing; that is printing from plates in which the design of the stamp is in recess or sunk in. The lines that are cut in are filled with ink and so produce their complement on the paper.

TALARI or TALLARI.—An Abyssinian monetary value represented upon the stamps of the country. Its normal value is about $1. U. S., but fluctuates with the rise and fall of silver.

THE IMPERFORATE U. S. COILS.

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

I have read the remarks of General Coolidge on page 307 of MEKEEL'S for June 5, and note that he brings to the attention of your readers the fact that I have omitted the unperforated coils and ignored them entirely. I desire to call the General's attention to the fact that I have by no means ignored these issues, and if he will just wait a few more installments of my article, he will find the unperforated coils covered most thoroughly.

My article now appearing is an enlargement of the article which I wrote for the Philatelic Gazette during 1918, and if the General will refer to page 350 for November, 1918, he will find several pages on the subject. I purposely, in this article, as was the case in my former article, omitted the unperforated coils from the perforated issues so that they could all be covered in the same paragraph.

I certainly believe that these stamps are of great importance, and should be collected by those interested. It is mentioned that six different varieties of these coils were purchased at the Detroit office, and readers will probably be interested in knowing that in all there were 18 of these unperforated varieties, 14 of which I have been able to obtain. The other 4 I have not seen, and do not know as to whether they are in existence to-day.

Scott does not list these varieties, with the exception of the 2c unperforated rotary coil No. 370i, in view of the fact that they claim that these coil stamps cannot be told from stamps cut from the unperforated sheet. All of the stamps that were issued in unperforated coil form were issued in unperforated sheets, also, with the exception of the rotary print just described.

Whether Scott is right or wrong is not for me to decide. The fact that I have varieties of all that I have seen in my collection certainly shows that I believe them well worthy of a place in any coil collection.

UNITED STATES.—Messrs. George Souleman and John E. Lord inform me that they have seen the 2c surface print, type II, unwatermarked in an imperforate condition. A few of the type I were issued in this condition in Chicago but it seems that they were mostly bought up by the Shermack people for coiling purposes before the collector was aware of their appearance, with the result that probably less than half a dozen sheets are now in existence. I have not seen the type II and consequently can give no information as to its shade.

1920 Surface Print, Unwatermarked.
2c red, imperforate, type II.

The perforated surface printed 2c stamps are now on sale in most of the offices and the stamp is running strongly to shades. While the work is vastly superior to the 1c and 3c printed by the same method, nevertheless the type II is running the 3c a close race insofar as shade varieties are concerned. Hardly a new lot arrives that is not different. This variation was not so pronounced in the type I and as far as I have observed less than half a dozen shades are to be found.

Mr. Oliver S. Picker, Jr., calls my attention to two very distinct shade varieties of the current $5 red War Saving Stamp. One is in a very light shade approaching a scarlet, while the other is nearly a lake. We see that Scott has omitted these stamps from their 1920 edition. I never could see why they listed them in the first place unless for patriotic reasons, with the hopes of increasing their sale. They certainly have no more place in a postage stamp catalogue than a Liberty Bond.

Through the courtesy of the Hon. James L. Wilmett I am able to bring our list of plate numbers up to May 25,

Pl. No.	Den.	Class.	Series.	Subj.
10682-10685	1c	Ord.	1911	400
10686-10695	1c	Ord. Cvd.	1911	170
10696-10703	1c	Ord.	1911	400
10704-10707	5c	Ord.	1908	400
10708-10713	1c	Ord.	1911	400
10714-10721	2c	Book	1911	360
10722-10729	2c	Ord. Cvd.	1911	170
10730-10817		Plates not made.
11261-11385	2c	Ord. Offset	1911	400
11386-	2c	Ord. Offset	1911	1600

From this list it will be seen that the Bureau has made a plate of 1600 subjects for printing the 2c surface print. It will be recalled that similar plates were made in the case of the other offset stamps. When these are finally cut up into post office sheet of one hundred they will not differ from the others. The plate number blocks will of course be of interest and we will await advice from collectors that they have been issued. We cannot account for the gap between 10703 to 10817 but imagine these numbers have been assigned to engraved plates which are now being laid down. There is also a break after 10817 but the Bureau makes no explanation.

And still they come, what, why, provisional 2c on 3c envelopes, of course. Messrs. H. W. Lindaman and George Souleman send more from Chicago, while Mr. E. W. Murray sends one from Shreveport. Mr. Otis C. Smith sends us one from Columbus which we chronicled before, and from this copy I now see that all of the large Columbus varieties do not have the surcharge in both upper corners as the first two or three that I saw led me to believe. Mr. E. J. Mauer sends one from Toledo which has the vertical lines as has the Shreveport. A personal call at the New York Post Office brought to light several new ones and the clerk at the window was so accommodating that he included a few doubles and albinos. Philadelphia had a few on blue and I bought a box, all they had left for use at the office. In this lot I found two dies and twelve of one of the dies had a different watermark. Some of these are surely going to be rare and I am afraid many are coming and going unnoticed. For this reason we especially appeal to our readers for copies of new varieties. I will gladly send a rejected die for your trouble in sending me unchronicled varieties. We want our list complete and must have your co-operation in order to have it so.

Mr. H. D. Watkins reports that Atlanta has started the good work but we have not seen any from that city as yet. San Francisco, Detroit, New Orleans and some of the other big cities have not been heard from. One little town issued a special overprint all its own in order to help them out of a tight place and sad to say there was no philatelist on the ground either. One, however, saw them passing through the mail, so we have been able to collar a couple. It turns out that the overprint is strictly official and I hope to give an official report next week.
